Leaders and members of the United Cemetery Workers local to which the strikers belong voted unanimously Tuesday to withdraw from the Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers of America — (C. I. O.).

Joseph Manning, the local's president, said the action "eliminates any suspicion" of Communism as an issue in the dispute which has resulted in accumulation of more than 1,000 bodies at the big Roman Catholic cemetery on Long Island in the last 8 weeks.

The local, which also represents workers at 16 other cemeteries, voted to affiliate with the Building Service Employes International Union (A. F. L.) Manning said.

The local has 1,500 members, of which 800 were present at the closed meeting Tuesday night.

Some 250, all Roman Catholics, are involved in the strike at Calvary Cemetery, where Cardinal Spellman for the fifth day Tuesday led seminary students and priests through picket lines to bury the dead.

There was no immediate comment on the union's realignment from Cardinal Spellman.

The striking grave-diggers, who previously had voted to recommend disaffiliation from the C. I. O. body, are seeking a five - day week at $59.40, the same pay they have been getting for six days.

Companion Injured Guarded by Police At Newmarket

Third Man May be Involved, Blood Tracks Found at Scene

Newmarket Cont., March 9 (CP) — Norman Edwards 18, of Newmarket was killed and his companion, Donald Douglas, 19, of Guelph, seriously injured today when their automobile crashed after an 80-mile-an-hour police chase through Newmarket streets and the surrounding district.

Douglas is in Newmarket under police guard. His condition is described as serious but his injuries were not made known.

A third man, also believed involved in the crash, was sought by police after they followed blood tracks for several hundred yards from the scene of the accident.

Police said the youths were seen trying to break into a telephone booth but when approached they turned into a car. Police pursued for some time but lost the car.

Car Ran Help From Ditch

Later, Robert Carson, Glenhill school master, heard cries for help and found the auto overturned in a ditch. The car was so badly wrecked police had to pry open the doors to remove the body.

The car failed to make a steep turn in the road and crashed down an embankment. Police say the youths spree began when an automobile was stolen Sunday.

Bubonic Plague Germs Kept Alive 25 Years

Washington, March 9. (AP)— A retired government scientist today claimed a longevity record for a colony of "plague" germs that have been kept alive in test tubes for 25 years, they are still able to kill guinea pigs.

Dr. Edward Francis said his collection consists of millions of bacteria called "pasteurella pestis". This is the organism that causes bubonic plague, the so-called "black death" of the Middle Ages.

But don't head for the hills, folks.

The bugs are kept safely in a "cold room" of the laboratory of infectious diseases of the National Dr. Francis, a retired medical director of the United States Public Health Service.

To his knowledge, he said, this is the longest time that germs of the "spore-forming" class, like anthrax, which builds capsule-like shells around themselves and may survive indefinitely. He pointed out, too, that germs have been kept alive by the "freeze-drying" process, but not offspring of the originally cultured germs.

Francis knows how long life (the culture) will live," he told a reporter, "by testing cultures every 7th birthday, so I've arranged for Dr. Carl L. Larson of the National Institutes of Health, who is only about 40, to keep it going as long as he lives."

Fights for Life After Attempt To Hack off Legs

Toronto, March 9 — (CP) — Pearl Pozlahchuk, 23, today fought for her life after an attempt yesterday to hack both her legs off with a saw-toothed breadknife.

Described as a religious fanatic, the pretty girl had her right leg amputated Tuesday night and doctors expressed hope of saving the other. They said her condition was "fair" early today and that she may survive. She still is unconscious.

A native of the Peace River country, Pearl was found by a fellow roomer Herbert Tandy in her central - Toronto rooming house yesterday afternoon.

"I saw her foot sticking out of the door," Tandy said. "I heard her moan and say 'I'm coming, God.' She was sitting on the floor with the knife in her right hand. Both her legs above the knee had been cut through to the bone and she was making another wound when Tandy entered.

A hospital spokesman said the girl, studying to be a preacher in the religious sect, told her that "God told me to do it." She was singing the Lord's Prayer when admitted to the hospital.

E. J. S. Russell, pastor and founder of the Onward Mission where the girl attended, said he knew very little about Pearl. "She was a fine girl. I can't believe she would do such a thing."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, March 9 (CP)—Synopsis: The weather is clear and very cold north of Lake Superior this morning where temperatures were reported 20-40 below zero. In contrast, cloud covers the southern half of the province and temperatures read 20-40 degrees above zero.

The leading edge of the colder air is expected to move east of Lakes Erie and Ontario tonight and the mild showery weather in advance of it will be replaced by lower temperatures and snowflurries.

Douglas Harry Top Contestant In Seed Judging

Douglas Harry, R. R. 8 Trenton, was the high contestant in the annual Hastings County Junior Farmer seed judging competition held in the Stirling Community Hall Saturday when thirty young men entered.

As top contestant Doug Harry won the championship trophy donated by the late F. W. Haggerty and the $15 special prize donated by the Hastings County Council.

Rod Heath, R. R. 3 Campbellford, was runner up winner of the book "Hungry Signs to Crops" donated by A. O. Dairympie, agricultural representative in the contest and with the highest total points in corn grains. The H. R. Tedgrinkins silver medal for the highest total points in small seeds and weeds was won by Doug Harry.

There were three coaches who entered teams to compete for the C. E. Bishop and Son coaches' special prize. Members of the winning team were Bob Mallory, Gerald and Frank Harry, all of No. 5 Trenton. The team was coached by Doug Harry.

Judges in each section were as follows:

Junior — Rod Heath, Campbellford; Frank Harry, Trenton; John Geen, Stirling; Gerald Harry, Trenton, and Allan Reid, Halloway.

Judges were Robert Phillips, agricultural teacher at Belleville Collegiate; John Mahon, agricultural teacher at Stirling; Donald Castle, Indian Agent, Deseronto; Don Dow, agricultural representative, Picton; and Newton Tuttle, agricultural representative, Napanee. The competition was in charge of A. O. Dairympie, agricultural representative, Stirling, and G. W. Montgomery, assistant agricultural representative, Stirling.

Supply of Farm Help Practically Nil in District

With spring's work gradually approaching the demand for farm help in the Belleville district is becoming acute as the supply is practically nil, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

At the Belleville employment office there are currently 30 applications for farm help with six applications having been filled with local help during the past few days.

One farmer already has an application in for a Western man to assist him with his harvest. Each season that Westerner has been brought East this farmer has applied for help.

In Prince Edward county it is stated in the weekly crop report that weanling pigs are in good demand. Fall wheat and clover seedings do not look as promising as the result of having been bare for a considerable part of the winter.

In Northumberland county more useless apple trees have been taken out this winter than for many years past. This will make productive land and will eliminate a source of trouble from productive orchards. Pruning has been general with excellent progress being made owing to good weather.

Fred C. Elgie President Of Builders' Exchange

Local building contractor Mr. Fred C. Elgie, was named president of the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange at their first annual meeting held at city hall Tuesday evening.

Mr. Elgie succeeds Edgar Rutherford who has headed the builders' exchange since its inception approximately one year ago, other officers are E. Rutherford, vice president, B. Quincey, treasurer and T. J. Mowery, secretary.

Directors include Jack Carter, Jack Howe, Harry Rollins, Sam McCrory and S. M. Connolly.

Mr. Rutherford presided over the meeting which was largely attended by representatives of the building trade in the city and district. He drew attention to the fact that the city was considering a new plan to cover the handling of building permits, while Jack Howe stated the master plumbers association have prepared a plumbers code by-law based on a proposed Ontario plumbing code which will be presented to council at their next meeting.

Considerable Discussion

Local plumbing and building inspector Jack Holley, cited existing building permit fees following which there was considerable discussion. It was suggested that a committee be appointed to bring in a recommendation regarding building permit fees and also on permits for street occupation.

The meeting went on record as being in favor of the proposed plumbing code being enforced in this city.

Following the election of officers Mr. Rutherford congratulated the new executive committee and called on president-elect Fred Elgie to take over the chair. Mr. Elgie congratulated the retiring executive for their accomplishments during the past year and moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Rutherford and Mr. Jack White and the executive.

Mr. Rutherford reported that at a recent meeting of the Ontario General Contractors Association a federation of Ontario builders exchanges had been formed. The meeting voted that the Belleville District Builders Exchange make application to join the federation.

Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Unger, were pleasantly surprised on Sunday when relatives gathered to mark the 45th anniversary of their wedding.

Returning from a visit to Florida, Mrs. Max Fuller and son Max are visiting relatives in New York City.

Mrs. Arnold Shannon returned this week after receiving treatment in Kingston General Hospital.

The importance of sewage system to a town in keeping up to health and progress was stressed by Dr. A. E. Berry, Provincial Department of Health, in an address at the Rotary Club, yesterday. He felt Picton would appreciate the new system being installed here and that it should prove advantageous to the town. He gave figures to show that the Picton installation was less costly per capita than in most Ontario centres.

Infant Feeding Subject of Talk To Optimists

The science of pediatrics, or infant feeding, has made rapid strides during the past few decades than any other branch of medicine, declared speaker Dr. Dermot Club, Mr. Ed. Bernstein, General Manager of the Meade Johnson Co., assisted to the infant mortality rate in Toronto in 1914, for infants under one year of age, 156 per thousand. By 1938 this mortality rate dropped to 65 per thousand, and since then has been still further reduced. The Meade Johnson Company was founded in 1911, at New Brunswick, New Jersey, by Edward Meade Johnson, a member of the Johnson and Johnson medical supply firm, who left that company to form his new enterprise.

The initial product of the firm had been developed by doctors seeking a formula for Mr. Johnson's own child. The formula which saved the life of his baby was based on a German product, which was almost unobtainable in America, and his doctors persuaded Mr. Johnson to attempt the manufacture of an improved form of it.

The product upon which the Meade Johnson Company was built is Dextre Maltose, the carbohydrate or sugar content of an infant formula. Added sugar is essential to a formula, since the dilution of cow's milk necessary to lower the protein content, also lowers the sugar content. Many products were developed at the company's Evansville laboratories at their Evansville, Indiana plant, one of the finest research laboratories on this continent, with outstanding scientists in the field of nutrition and enzymology producing scientists pioneered in the production and development of certain of the vitamins, notably in the development of protein therapy, a process which required twelve years to complete.

The Meade Johnson Company opened a plant in Canada in 1922, and in 1925 moved to Belleville. At the outset, the Belleville plant employed 23 people, and occupied a floor-space of 12,000 feet. In the ensuing twenty-four years, this staff has grown to 125 employees, and six additions have been made to the plant.

The company advertise solely to the medical profession and leave the dosage and other feeding directions to the doctor. This policy is based upon the belief that there is no such thing as a standard formula that no one can intelligently advise on the feeding of a child without seeing that child.

Mr. Bernstein was introduced by Optimist Paul Bradley, and the appreciation of the club for the most interesting address was expressed by Optimist Arthur Bankier.

Grant, Badgley and Albert Elliott were initiated into Optimist by Optimist Don. Boyce and membership chairman H. J. Braden. The Pot-of-Gold was won by Optimist Geo. Stewart Ribbard acted as sergeant-at-arms, and Stewart McDougall as critic.

FORESEES HIGHER TAX BILLS

Toronto, March 9 (CP)—Mayor Hiram E. McCallum said Tuesday that changes in the new provincial budget will result in higher municipal tax bills for Toronto citizens. He also objected to the plan whereby the province undertakes to pay 10 per cent of police and fire costs.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 9 — (CP) — Base metals dipped in light trading here today following news of a two-cent-a-pound cut in the price of lead by major United States producers. Golds weakened from recent advances and industrials and western oils mixed gains and losses on a slightly weaker tone.

Volume for the first three hours was 386,000 shares, about 120,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

The base metals list dipped sharply at the opening but then slowed down towards noon and began a slight recovery movement.

Golds flipped from recent advances that had pulled the group up to the best levels in two weeks. Seniors were down fractions and losses ranged up to 10 cents in junior producers. Specialatives were largely ignored.

HOGS

Toronto, March 9 (CP) — Hog prices at Stratford this morning were 25 cents higher. Grade A paid $31.19 to farmers and $31.25 to truckers. At Hull hogs were unchanged. Grade A were $30.25, delivered.

At Peterboro hogs were up 25 cents at $30.65 for grade A.

"Buck" Robin Voices Disappointment At Lack of Publicity on Arrival

"This," chirped Buck Robin, a well-developed specimen of the early spring bird species and known as "Mr. Spring" in robin circles, "is beyond me. Here I've been preening my feathers, re-arranging the furniture, doing a spot of landscaping on the family tree and in general preparing for the arrival of the little woman, and these dumb newspapermen don't give me a tumble."

"Buck," was talking from his comfortable home on the property of Mrs. M. Greatrix, Trent Road.

"I saw in the paper," he chirped, "that everything around here is all set for the grand opening of spring, with the exception of the robins. This is the third summer I have spent in this part of Canada, and as president of the Go-to-Canada for - Your - Spring - and - Summer-Vacation Association, I wish to go on record that we have been grossly neglected insofar as publicity is concerned. We are taking the matter up with our Public Relations Department."

Things are pretty tough down south for the robin fraternity, "Buck" declared, "Our natural insignia, the red breast, has caused our members no end of embarrassment. We have been dubbed short-billed communists, "Pinky" worm-killers and other vicious names. I want to go on record that while we favor both wings, we are strongly in sympathy with the right flipper."

He was glad to be back in Canada, he puff-pocketed robin carolled. "It's a great place to raise a family, although as yet we are not getting the government allowance."

The housing situation here is not too bad, although he might have to share his tree-top apartment with a pair of upstart woodpeckers. And food is a bit scarce just now, though. "Buck" arrived three days ago from his winter home in the Florida Everglades. He immediately took over his five-year leased apartment on the Greatrix property, and at present is making arrangements for his third honeymoon. He is the father of eighteen stout-billed youngsters while one of his many grandchildren holds the Canadian record for the longest non-stop flight and another, the worm-killing title.

Politically, "Buck" is on the fence. "We feather our own nests," was his terse comment on the subject.

Undercoating Protects Cars From Corrosion

Car owners who have been looking for an undercoating to protect cars from the calcium chloride on the roads may be interested to know that a material is available that will protect cars from this hazard.

"Al" Reynolds, proprietor of the Belleville Motor Car Co., is now using a product called Undercoat that is a comparatively new product in the city. It is a rubberized protective coating that is manufactured by the Canadian Durex Abrasives Limited of Brantford and is guaranteed for the life of the car.

Rubberized Material

It makes any car ride quieter and last longer. Undercoat is the rubberized material made specially for the job it does: it seals all cracks and crevices eliminating squeaks and rattles, dust and fumes, repels rocks that cause "ping-spotted" fenders, and it protects against rust and corrosion that eat away the fenders and floor panels making the car look old and shabby. It does not dry brittle but maintains its elasticity or rubbery quality and it will not flake or crack off. The material takes but a comparatively short time to apply.

CONDUCTOR DIES AT NEW TORONTO

New Toronto, March 9 (CP) — G. Roy Lee, 59, railway company conductor, died suddenly at his home here Tuesday. Born in Barrie, he joined the old Grand Trunk Railway 37 years ago.

SWEDEN

1,000 planes (mostly jets) since 1945, is Europe's strongest between Britain and Russia. Its fliers have short - service commissions not exceeding eight years, thus keeping the force at the peak "go."

While anti-aircraft defences are short of good radar, the country has a 20-millimetre gun which fires 76 rounds a minute and is almost automatic in finding its target. Sweden is experimenting with short-range guided missiles and its own jet fighter — the J-29 known as the Jakt — is nearing production.

Much of Sweden's armament and aircraft industry is in underground factories. Hangars also are underground.

The general staff holds that the northern wilderness, crossed by deep-gorged rivers, is suitable for delaying warfare only. It is prepared to write it off as valueless after serving that purpose. In forest country farther south, ambush warfare has been practised in countryside which the Russians are known to dislike.

The staff says an invader would not want Sweden for itself but because of all Scandinavia's utility as an air and naval base. Norway's airports, submarine pens and naval installations would be key objectives.

HUNDREDS

Other families fled their homes in Seward and the flood waters reached within two blocks of the business district of Crete, a college town of 3,000. Some roads were impassable because of mud and snow run-off and washed out bridges.

Threatened by backwaters of the Mississippi River's tributaries in eastern Louisiana, 245 families have been evacuated.

Generally there was no immediate flood threats by the Missouri in the Dakotas, Missourian Kansas and Illinois. There also appeared no immediate flood danger in other sections of the United States, although the critical period in many areas is not expected until later in March or early April.

Bell Telephone Co. to Erect Handsome Structure

The architect's sketch for the new Bell Telephone premises in the city is seen here. The handsome two-storey building comprises a large extension to the existing long distance equipment building at the corner of Bridge and Church streets. The architects are Ross, Patterson, Townsend and Heughan, of Montreal.

Tenders have been called for the construction of a large extension to the Bell Telephone Company's long distance equipment building at the corner of Bridge and Church streets, it was announced today by G. W. Trevelyer, Bell manager here.

The new structure will be built of reinforced concrete, with brick face and stone trim, and will consist of two storeys and a basement and will cover an area of approximately 6,785 square feet.

Besides a modern business office, provision will also be made in the new building for long distance switchboards, an airraid-type lounge for operators and the ultimate accommodation of dial switching apparatus.

Low-Cost Loans, Repayable in Instalments, Can Help Keep Your Home in Order

Remember the old expression, "A stitch in time saves nine"? This is particularly true when it comes to making repairs around your home. Often a small job done at once is inexpensive; if delayed, it frequently requires more time, money and material to make the necessary repairs.

A shortage of ready cash need not delay you in making small repairs. You can obtain money at 27 cents a month for each $100 borrowed through the Bank of Montreal's low-cost personal loan plan. Such loans are repayable in twelve monthly instalments. There are no deductions, no extras, no handling charges. Furthermore, when you get such a loan at the B. of M., you may be sure that you are not asking a favor.

When repairs are necessary in your home or when cash is required for any good reason, drop in and see the Bank of Montreal neighborhood manager, Mr. Becker, or his accountant, Mr. Stammers, who will be glad to review your plans with you.—(Advt.)

ODOM SCORES

Bill Odom, holder of the world-circling speed record, and formerly wartime ferry pilot, has lost none of his cunning for he has just added another honor to his laurels, the five-thousand-mile non-stop record for light planes. He has just flown approximately 5,000 miles in 36 hours and one minute.

The flier has found a way to prove his prowess as all men of initiative and energy will. What others have achieved does not daunt them, rather it incites them to do some more achieving themselves.

These record attempts mark the course of progress in aviation and the world awaits other champions in other phases of flying, or perhaps Odom will manage another championship flight himself.

These record attempts and successes carry great importance for they are inculcating in the minds of most people that complete familiarity with the airplane which will be part of the makeup of every individual in the very near future to a degree more than everyone in the past ever got used to driving a horse and buggy. For the motorcar and the airplane have conquered the world so that the future of both is intriguing to every mortal for the immense possibilities they possess.

PASTORS IN BULGARIA

Not the final scene has appeared in the Bulgarian persecutions of fifteen Protestant pastors. Stories of the court scenes and incidents still present that incomprehensible something to the democratic mind, the "confessions" of guilt of crimes charged against them as treason, espionage and black market currency operations. Though four of the pastors, their leaders, have been sentenced to shorter terms and two allowed to walk out of prison when they pleased, that is not in the slightest degree to the behaviour of the accused, in "thanking" the court for its mercy at the end.

There is a widespread belief that in Bulgaria there is an effort to purge these Christian leaders on the part of the Reds who find religion standing in their way. Many persons believe they see a relationship in spirit between the actions of Hungary in the persecution of Cardinal Mindszenty and in Bulgaria in the treatment accorded to the pastors. There is so great a similarity to make anyone believe that the attitude of the two states is that of Communism as against religion.

CHURCHILL AND HIS TIME

Winston Churchill will be one of the speakers at the convention of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology shortly. Mr. Churchill will talk on the subject of the past half century and its developments.

There is surely no man in public life who has had so great an opportunity to appraise truly this age and the past ages. His mind is a genius and his subject will cover that portion of the twentieth century which is almost ended. The task has fallen to the man who can speak from personal experience and observation of life on a wide plane of what he considers the matters of this century and what is rushing to its close. Mr. Churchill was a young man at the beginning of this century and was then already making his mark on the age. His life has been associated with great movements and events and no man should have a saner view of human existence than this great Englishman and world citizen. Like the tardy great he has helped to make events and history in no feeble way. He was a master even of human events for history would not have been the same without him. He has left his mark not only on Britain, his native land, but on the United States, his mother's country, and of course on the young nations of the British Empire or Commonwealth and on the rest of the world. The first half of the twentieth century the name of Winston Spencer Churchill has been written large, so large that no historian of the future will be able to match this man.

Few men of any time have had more to do with making the form and character of an age. Some men have made a great conquering host, has chosen the field of the modern democrat state and given service of such varied character that his will be one of the names that will live centuries hence for he has bequeathed something to the world which has given it new life.

In this he has had a noble cause, as especially in the last war, when he was the type of hero the freeman welcomes and honors serving as the leader of a coalition, directing the policy of the great democracy of Britain and the Commonwealth in the defence of freedom.

March 9th, 1919

Master Jack Deacon found an envelope on the street yesterday and took it to the police station where it remains for identification.

Mrs. Alfred Hunter has returned to her home here after visiting her son at Harrowsmith.

At a meeting of the city council J. R. Henderson was appointed Street Foreman at a salary of $125 per month, and the salary of Manager Gardner of the fire department was increased from $1,300 to $1,500 per year. Ex-V. Sinclair and F.F. Rowekel will attend a conference of the city general secretaries for Ontario and Quebec to be held onto this week.

The prospects are bright for building operations in the city during the coming season.

Mackenzie's Column:

Allies Preparing To Protect Sea Lanes in Wartime

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Among the major security tasks of the western allies is that of providing a fool-proof defence against any such submarine menace as that with which the Germans all but defeated them in two world wars.

One of Britain's foremost newspapers, the Manchester Guardian, calls attention to this in connection with the current debate on British naval estimates in the House of Commons, the Guardian points to two vital inspires them to problems:

1. To see that all reasonable steps are taken to ensure that the sea links between North America and western Europe, and the Mediterranean and the Near East, can't be cut.

2. To make sure that the Royal navy and the United States navy are working hand in glove, and that neither will find itself engaged in major sea warfare without the help of the other.

The value of any partnership between the United States and Europe, of course, depends largely on their control of the sea. The proposed alliance with Britain alone would be an empty gesture if an enemy controlled the ocean lanes between the two hemispheres.

Terrible Days

Those who date back to the First War will remember the terrible days of 1916 and 1917 when the Kaiser's unrestricted submarine campaign brought Germany close to victory. The mounting upstream of war and food supplies from North America was cut to the danger point. More than once on such short rations that the responsible authorities were alarmed.

Hitler for a time was able to duplicate the Kaiser's success. The scope of the German submarine war was greatly extended. Longer cruising ranges was secured by building bigger submarines.

Shifted Attack

Early in 1942, the Axis powers shifted their submarine warfare to the western Atlantic and in 10 months the loss of more than 500 ships was reported. More than 2,000,000 tons of allied shipping was lost.

By the end of the year the German U-boat campaign was the major threat to an allied victory. Silverwater, Manitoba were kind to the allies. The U-boat menace was checked by a combination of expedients.

So again the German submarine lost out, but it was a close thing. For war's end found the Germans in possession of an invention called the "Snorkel," which has revolutionized submarine warfare. The Snorkel enables the submarine to "breathe under water" thus enabling it to stay submerged indefinitely.

Naturally, this epochal invention no doubt will be kept secret.

As far as the American navy is concerned, our Republican friends in the United States is taking full precautions to protect sea lanes in event of war. It must be assumed that Britain is doing the same. For those lanes are lifelines.

Study Findings On Epidemic In Sub-Arctic

Winnipeg, March 8 (CP)—Findings of the investigation carried into which last week investigated the poliomyelitis epidemic sweeping the Eskimo settlements in the region of Canada's sub-Arctic will be studied by a staff of specialists of federal health officials at Ottawa.

Present at the conference to give a first-hand report of conditions at the inlet — where 13 Eskimos died during the height of the plague and 60 persons were affected in some degree — will be Dr. A. F. W. Farr, chief of the Dominion Health Department's epidemiological division, who was one of the five doctors who flew from Winnipeg to Winnipeg during the weekend in an R.C.A.F. Dakota which brought out 13 of the more seriously ill Eskimos.

Today's meeting is expected to consider the advisability of extending the quarantine which last week was placed on 40,000 square miles surrounding Chesterfield Inlet. D. M. P. officials in the northland meanwhile were told to warn the Eskimos against travelling toward the stricken district.

The epidemic was described as without precedent by medical men, who say there has been no previous record of a poliomyelitis outbreak so far north.

The Eskimos who were flown to isolation hospital at Winnipeg meanwhile, were reported to be resting comfortably.

Dr. J. L. Downey, superintendent of the hospital, said their condition was "fair," but added it would be some time before the full effect of the illness could be determined.

N.S. Legislature Lag of Houses To be Opened

(By The Canadian Press)

Amid talk of a provincial election in the offing, Nova Scotia's legislature opens today, last of the provincial parliaments to start the 1949 session.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald's Liberals hold 28 seats in the 30-seat house, P.C.'s have two and there are three vacancies. No contentious legislation is expected.

Meanwhile, the Quebec parliament is nearing the end of its session. The legislative assembly Tuesday night cleared the order paper of government legislation and Premier Duplessis announced that very soon governmental business will come before the House before the end of the session.

The legislature assembly earlier approved a bill to incorporate Montreal of a special one-per-cent sales tax to raise $10,000,000 a year. Debate began on a bill to tighten highway traffic regulations.

Budget debate is expected to end Thursday night in the Ontario legislature, which is likely to prorogue late this month. The session plodded through budget debate yesterday during afternoon and evening sittings.

Today is devoted to finishing departmental estimates, probably for the agricultural department.

Deals With Labor

Legislation dealing with labor, marshland reclamation, agriculture and public safety was forecast yesterday at the opening of the New Brunswick legislature. For the second time in seven years, Premier Hugh John Flemming broke on the address in reply to the Throne Speech, shortening today, with the spring lay-off, chilliness and favors irritation and infection of the respiratory passages and lungs. This is not to is not an invention of mine—I quote it from Dr. Flemming's effective Medicine and Hygiene. And in the same (6th) edition Rosenau, world old Harvard man, is pleased to know, cited authorities from Boston, New York and Washington on changes of temperature leading to the relaxation of animals to infection." So you see that if anybody's to take issue with Rosenau it should be Ol' Doc Brady, for I dissent from that "general relaxation."

It is hard for you old folks to believe, I know, but nevertheless it is a fact that evaporation of two gallons of water a day in each heated room not only permits maintenance of lower room temperatures but actually gives occupants of the house more comfort during cold weather with the consequent low fuel and household air temperature of 65 to 68 degrees F with a relative humidity approximately that of a perfect autumn day feels more comfortable and less "stuffy" than a temperature of 70 to 75 degrees F. approximating that of the driest desert climate.

After all, the best climate or environment for one with the rheumatiz is the climate or environment that makes him or her feel most comfortable or least uncomfortable. One need not travel to Arizona or the desert for such an environment. One can have it built in with the heating plant or perhaps install a humidifier in one's living room, bedroom or office. A humidifier that evaporates not less than two gallons of water a day.

Higher humidity, more water vapor in the air of the heated room or building, is as salubrious for one with any "catarrhal" condition of the nose and throat, with chronic bronchitis, winter cough, bronchiectasis or asthma as it is for one with rheumatiz.

I am aware of the futility of reciting these facts to many of you elders, because your minds long ago were made up. The Maine of Paris and are no longer capable of receiving new impressions. Even so, for the noble few there is damp you'll cling to your queer notions about humidity, I am contrary, for that is one of the prerogatives of the noble few.

Peddle often worry, I gather from the queries I receive, about the humidity of their living quarters when they notice that condensation occurs on cold walls, windows or other cold surfaces. As a matter of fact — which I know from personal experience on the cold surfaces like that it is useful, for a little salutative humidity of the air of the room is beneficial. And in such circumstances the condensation of moisture on the surfaces can be prevented by a short storm sash or windows having two panes of glass with a little air space between, or by lining the wall with plaster, wall board or other material with a thin air space between lining and wall.

FACTS OF LIFE FOR FOLKS WITH RHEUMATIZ

During the months of artificial heating, increasing the humidity of the air permits maintenance of lower temperatures, decreases dustiness, prevents deterioration of furniture, musical instruments, book bindings and house plants if any, and improves the atmosphere from the standpoint of health and comfort.

Ah, ah! Wait a moment, please. You said me to defy this lecture, didn't you? Well, never mind—somebody invited me to talk to you degenerates—so, no, you simply must not interrupt now—the time we'll have for the question period and then you can show your ignorance, if you like. But I realize that some of you are pretty childish about this, so I'll proceed. Briefly at this point that we all degenerate from the instinct to attain the peak of growth and development, only some of us degenerate (die as I should say) faster than others—and I am being paid to tell you the facts of life, which those I gave before you so rudely interrupted are disputable. I mean to say they are positive and authoritative facts, and not just old notions and theories. Mine is valuable—at least to me—and I do not propose to waste any of it arguing with any of you self-sufficient, opinionated old chuckleheads about facts or listening to your peculiar beliefs about "exercise."

The warmed and dried atmosphere of our overheated houses, offices, schools and other public buildings here in Yankeeland produces many ills, including excessive evaporation from the body, with consequent chilliness and favors irritation and infection of the respiratory passages and lungs. This is not to is not an invention of mine—I quote it from Dr. Flemming's Preventive Medicine and Hygiene. And in the same (6th) edition Rosenau, world old Harvard man, is pleased to know, cited authorities from Boston, New York and Washington on changes of temperature leading to the relaxation of animals to infection." THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A elderly friend of mine who is a pediatrician, or specialist in children's ailments, has got some very definite ideas on the question.

"There is a type of woman," he says, "who dramatizes herself. She is the bane of the medical profession. The new young ago, you encountered them mostly among the idle rich. Terrible bores, they are. But now a woman uses the illness of her child to dramatize herself, and you've got your hands full.

"When you come to this case, the important thing was not the illness of the child, but the drama of the mother. What a state she was in! Oh, what that servant in Sarl Boy, was she ever worked up into a dramatic pitch!

"You, the doctor, were her audience: you were expected to appreciate her performance. Often she dressed up for the show. I got a very bad name for my rudeness. For I usually told these dramatic ladies to get the heck out of the way.

"I regret to report that the number of women who dramatize themselves is increasing. Drama, a few years ago, was restricted to the few who could afford the time and money to attend the few theatres that were in existence. Now it is contained within the covers of a novel, had to be dug out by the reader. Now it is not necessary to read the rather literary tones of a great novelist to get drama.

"Today, cheap drama is being spewed out daily over the radio intersection of every city and town. Drama in fiction form is enormously stepped up, in slashingly illustrated magazines and in spicy novels printed at the floods.

"And to top it all, the teen agers are encouraged to dramatize themselves in a thousand ways, instead of being spanked and sent to bed.

"It's fair to be beginning in medicine nowadays!"

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ALL IS NOT GOLD

According to old Arabian legends, the Jinnis were haunted by strange and peculiarly dangerous spirits. These goblins appeared to lonely travellers and to strugglers separated from caravans. And they were always very lovely, their voices were sweet and enticing, and they beckoned the unfortunate victim on, promising him an oasis with pure water, abundant food, and delightful companions. But a traveller who followed the demons was utterly destroyed; for despite their attractive appearance, they were actually the most malignant evil spirits.

We need not be lost in the Arabian desert to encounter an evil reality clothed in an illusion of good. The man who destroys his health and fortunes and ruins the family by gambling saw only the thrill of the game and the prospects of huge winnings when he began. The drunkard who dies in the charity ward saw only delightful feeling the pleasant stimulation and the friendly fellowship of the bar in the days of his early dissipation. The thief who ends his life in the penitentiary started his career with the dream of an easy and effortless road to riches.

The Arabian goblins, so the legends, say, were powerless against a truly wise man — for such a man saw through their superficial beauty to the evil within. Wise men always look beneath the surface, behind the front, beyond the beginning. Appearances, like politicians, must be judged not by their promises, but by their fulfillment.

Amid talk of a provincial election in the offing, Nova Scotia's legislature opens today, last of the provincial parliaments to start the 1949 session.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald's Liberals hold 28 seats in the 30-seat house, P.C.'s have two and there are three vacancies. No contentious legislation is expected.

Meanwhile, the Quebec parliament is nearing the end of its session. The legislative assembly Tuesday night cleared the order paper of government legislation and Premier Duplessis announced that very soon governmental business will come before the House before the end of the session.

The legislature assembly earlier approved a bill to incorporate Montreal of a special one-per-cent sales tax to raise $10,000,000 a year. Debate began on a bill to tighten highway traffic regulations.

Budget debate is expected to end Thursday night in the Ontario legislature, which is likely to prorogue late this month. The session plodded through budget debate yesterday during afternoon and evening sittings.

Today is devoted to finishing departmental estimates, probably for the agricultural department.

Deals With Labor

Legislation dealing with labor, marshland reclamation, agriculture and public safety was forecast yesterday at the opening of the New Brunswick legislature. For the second time in seven years, Premier Hugh John Flemming broke on the address in reply to the Throne Speech, shortening today, with the spring lay-off, chilliness and favors irritation and infection of the respiratory passages and lungs. This is not to is not an invention of mine—I quote it from Dr. Flemming's Preventive Medicine and Hygiene. And in the same (6th) edition Rosenau, world old Harvard man, is pleased to know, cited authorities from Boston, New York and Washington on changes of temperature leading to the relaxation of animals to infection." So you see that if anybody's to take issue with Rosenau it should be Ol' Doc Brady, for I dissent from that "general relaxation."

It is hard for you old folks to believe, I know, but nevertheless it is a fact that evaporation of two gallons of water a day in each heated room not only permits maintenance of lower room temperatures but actually gives occupants of the house more comfort during cold weather with the consequent low fuel and household air temperature of 65 to 68 degrees F with a relative humidity approximately that of a perfect autumn day feels more comfortable and less "stuffy" than a temperature of 70 to 75 degrees F. approximating that of the driest desert climate.

After all, the best climate or environment for one with the rheumatiz is the climate or environment that makes him or her feel most comfortable or least uncomfortable. One need not travel to Arizona or the desert for such an environment. One can have it built in with the heating plant or perhaps install a humidifier in one's living room, bedroom or office. A humidifier that evaporates not less than two gallons of water a day.

Higher humidity, more water vapor in the air of the heated room or building, is as salubrious for one with any "catarrhal" condition of the nose and throat, with chronic bronchitis, winter cough, bronchiectasis or asthma as it is for one with rheumatiz.

I am aware of the futility of reciting these facts to many of you elders, because your minds long ago were made up. The Maine of Paris and are no longer capable of receiving new impressions. Even so, for the noble few there is damp you'll cling to your queer notions about humidity, I am contrary, for that is one of the prerogatives of the noble few.

Peddle often worry, I gather from the queries I receive, about the humidity of their living quarters when they notice that condensation occurs on cold walls, windows or other cold surfaces. As a matter of fact — which I know from personal experience on the cold surfaces like that it is useful, for a little salutative humidity of the air of the room is beneficial. And in such circumstances the condensation of moisture on the surfaces can be prevented by a short storm sash or windows having two panes of glass with a little air space between, or by lining the wall with plaster, wall board or other material with a thin air space between lining and wall.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

VALLEYS

Few scenes are more inspiring than a mist-filled valley at the lap of a valley. I have stored away in my mind many a valley glimpsed at most every season of this wonderful continent of ours. Many a one I have returned to, a few which I had left something behind.

I have noted that the poets and writers like to stress the beauty and serenity of valleys. John Buchan said: "It is the little valleys which are the glory of the Oxford countryside." And Bret Harte wrote further: "The flames of the streams are like harpstrings in melody, and the valleys wind in like the opening leaves." How tenderly that they combine upland austerity with lowland grace."

In the evening the valley is at its best, a song there, if there is a stream—and always birds and wild flowers. The fragrance that is unique. Then there are the hills that encompass the valley and protect they seem like — and with the encompassing hills robes of rich grays and purples. How often I have watched the sun creep into these valleys, to add added inspiration, and then silently steal away to the heights above.

In the framework of our minds are these valleys, and in our memories our spirits get low, and we get low. But, at that time, if we will but look up to the hills, from the hills all'about us — higher ground — that will help us. If, and we will be inspired to climb the hills of faith and hope, and spirit, if we count our blessings, as we count the innumerable beauties in nature, we will be confidently realize how lucky we are, and inspired to lift ourselves so that we will be scaling the heights!

Let us live in and among the valleys of our lives fertile and productive. In the valley are peace and serenity and content and hope, as the shadows of life lengthen. Let us live in those years ere end. David, the psalmist, realized it beautifully when he said: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me. Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me."

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

USE MICROSCOPE TO REVEAL FACTS

The other day, your J-M reporter found out why asbestos fibres last through Built-Up Roofing. With the aid of a microscope, a Johns-Manville roofing expert found that each asbestos fibree were not tubular, but solid. This explained why capillary action within the fibre makes it impossible for the fibre to act as a wick through which the sun can draw the oil from the asphalt in keeping a roof waterproof.

This is but one feature of Johns-Manville Asbestos Built-Up Roofing. In addition, it is fireproof, rotproof and will stand weather's worst. You can get the complete facts from an interesting booklet, "Things You Should Know About Your Roof." For your free copy, write your nearest J-M roofing contractor.

Mother Saves One of Twins From Icy Waters

Greenville, Ont., March 9 (CP) — A two-year-old boy was saved by his heroic mother from icy waters of Spencer's creek Tuesday when his twin sister drowned. Plunging into six feet of water, Mrs. R. J. Smith could save only one of her children.

Unable to break through the three-inch layer of ice on the creek six miles west of Hamilton, Mrs. Smith carried little Gladys Elizabeth drown. Seconds before she had pulled little George Henry from the following water.

Volunteers of the West Flamboro fire department used a boat to recover the girl's body but 20 minutes were spent with an inhalator by Hamilton firemen failed to revive her. The children had wandered out on the ice of the creek behind an old mill dam about 75 yards from their home.

Hearing yells of her son, Mrs. Russell rushed from her home and jumped into the creek. Neighbors ran to the scene to help her. Coroner Dr. J. Gordon Cline is investigating.

BUDGET DEBATE

Charges Concealment

Mr. Wismer charged that Mr. Frost's budget "concealed" a $20,000,000 surplus for 1948 to avoid the embarrassment of reporting a large surplus. The 1947 surplus was $25,000,000.

Mr. Wismer said that to the $1,-125,000 the government should have added such expenditures as $10,000,000 paid into the sinking fund, $1,500,000 advanced to operators engaged in salvage activities in the Miramichi fire area which will be paid back in full; and an $8,250,000 highways expenditure in excess of estimates.

"I cannot urge too strongly upon the government the serious error it is making in failing to get authority for expenditures from this house before they are made," he said.

Frost Accused of Inconsistency

Mr. Brown, a chartered accountant, declared the province's bookkeeping system "a throwback to the horse and buggy days, and he accused Mr. Frost of inconsistency. He said that when a $25,-000,000 surplus was reported a year ago, debt retirement, not shown, was $14,000,000 so that the surplus was actually $11,000,000. This year, however, the government had shown its debt retirement item by setting $10,000,000 into a sinking fund.

Mr. Brown said that Ontario's failure to sign a Dominion-provincial tax agreement cost the provinces $16,000,000 in 1948 and 1949.

It was to the "shame of the government that the people of the province had been deprived of this amount for the past two years through the Ontario government's stubbornness."

Defies Gov't to Act

"If, as and when" there was a federal election, he would "defy" any Progressive Conservative candidate to go to the country with the plank in his platform.

If elected he would wipe out these Dominion-Provincial agreements, he would never be elected.

He "pleaded" with the government to go now to Ottawa "with hat in hand and on bended knee" seeking a tax agreement. If they did not do this now, in a few years—perhaps a matter of months—the government would have to go "crawling on their stomachs."

Mr. Brown said the Ontario government demanded precise auditing of municipal accounts and did make its own accounts conform to the same standard.

No Audit Submitted

The Dominion Government's public accounts were audited by the auditor-general who was responsible only to the House of Commons. The Ontario auditor was responsible only to the provincial treasurer and did not submit an audit.

Mr. MacLeod dubbed Mr. Frost "the sorcerer's apprentice" and said the provincial treasurer reminded him of the rich relatives who in life appear poverty-stricken while having vast sums of money stored under mattresses, in the cookie jar and in other strange places. He claimed that Mr. Frost had underestimated the year's ordinary revenue by more than $23,000,000.

The Most in his budget I study the more impressed I become with the utter unreality of what purports to be a summary of the government's financial position," Mr. MacLeod added.

Education Minister Porter detailed that the work of his department had been harmed by delay of the Royal Commission on Education in submitting its report. The Commission was appointed in July, 1945, and has been announced that its report may be ready next June.

Schools Constructed

Construction of schools is proceeding and education is "being pushed forward," Mr. Porter said. School boards have more money and teachers' salaries have been raised.

"Yet opposition members insist on saying that three years is too long to prepare this report, implications of which are vast."

Mr. Porter said that in the last four years his department had set up a plan of community recreational program. Grants were made to 118 Ontario communities under the plan, and of these 18 employed full-time directors. The 118 communities represented some 1,700,000 persons. Taking an active part in the programs were some 480,000.

The federal government under its physical fitness act had offered a grant to Ontario of $75,-000 for support of a simmilar program. The federal government, however, had insisted on "one single rigid program."

The province had declined the offer because it believed that municipalities should have direction of the plan.

Further negotiations had been undertaken, however and the province believed it had reached terms which would allow it to accept the grant.

NON-CONFIDENCE

Govt. Not Decided

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government has not yet decided whether or not it will propose amendments to the Annalites Act at this session.

Mr. Jackman declared contributions should be tax-free but should be taxable when the contributor began drawing upon the savings as an annuity after retirement.

A Quebec Liberal — Leonard Tremblay of Dorchester — attacked the Progressive Conservatives and accused them of indulging in a "burlesque" in conflicting stands on the North Atlantic Pact.

Mr. Tremblay said it would be to Canada's "everlasting credit" that the idea was first broached by the man who now was the Liberal Prime Minister of Canada.

E. L. Bowerman (CCF-Prince Albert) charged the government with "disgraceful neglect" of Indians. He called for reparation of "deplorable conditions" among the Indians.

Objects to Forms

R. J. Henderson (PC-Lambton-Kent) objected to the new income tax forms for farmers, declaring the farmers were honest and willing to pay their taxes but the forms were beyond their comprehension.

Jean Lesage (L-Montmagny-L'Islet) said he feels margarine is a provincial responsibility and he is sure the federal government will respect the rights of the provinces in that direction.

The House heard an accusation from J. W. Burton (CCF-Humboldt) that the Liberal government had failed to introduce an adequate health program. He also repudiated Communist support for the CCF.

In the Senate, the government introduced a bill to change the name of New Brunswick National Park to Fundy National Park.

Another Senate bill would amend the Exchequer Court Act to simplify procedure for appeals from that court to the Supreme Court.

Heard No Leaders

C. W. Hodgson —(PC-Victoria, Ont.) said he had not heard leaders of Commons parties, except the Progressive Conservatives, take issue with Communism.

He accused the government of "political applesauce."

He declared Agriculture Minister Gardiner had come back from England with "a great deal of the appearance that makes the grass grow green in England."

Mr. Hodgson said the government's expenditures on public works were hidden behind an "iron curtain."

Discussing trade with Britain, he said, "if we have any gifts to give we should give them as gifts to Great Britain."

Talks on New Pact Of Britain, Italy

Rome, March 8 (AP)—The Italian foreign office said today talks will begin soon on a new pact of friendship, commerce and navigation with Great Britain. It will replace one outdated by war and terms of the Italian Peace Treaty.

SEEK TO ISOLATE GERM

St. Catharines, March 8 (CP)—Dr. D. V. Gurrey, director of the St. Catharines—Lincoln Health Unit, said yesterday that a concentrated effort will be made to isolate the germ which has caused an epidemic of respiratory influenza in this area. Four other health officials arrived yesterday to take part.

Communist Activities In Canada Due For Check

Ottawa, March 8 (CP)—Communist activities in Canada are due for a close check and there is a possibility of new and restrictive legislation.

This was disclosed in the Commons yesterday by Prime Minister St. Laurent in reply to a question from George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Drew asked for restrictive legislation in view of recent statements by National Communist leaders in many countries pledging support to Russia in event of war between their own and the Soviet.

This series of statements from Communist leaders abroad was described by Mr. Drew as "a world-wide pattern of treachery."

He said Communists, obviously on orders "issued from the Kremlin," had disclosed "their purpose in treason," and that they would "sabotage preparations for defence."

Significant Statements

Mr. Drew said these statements gave "a new meaning and entirely different significance" to statements reported to have been made by Tim Buck, Labor-Progressive party leader, in Vancouver, Nov. 19, 1946.

On that date, Mr. Drew said, Tim Buck was reported to have said he would not defend Canada if it were at war with the Soviet Union.

Most of this comment from Mr. Drew was in a letter—distributed among press gallery reporters — addressed to the Prime Minister and on which he based his question in the Commons.

Mr. St. Laurent referred to the letter and assured the House that the government had such matters under "constant surveillance."

Russians on U.S. Lend-Lease Cruiser

Lewes, Del., March 8 — (AP) —Russians steamed into United States coastal waters today aboard a lend-lease American cruiser but refused to come ashore. An estimated 800 officers and men are aboard the cruiser Milwaukee, renamed Murmansk by the Russians. They will return the7,050-ton warship to the United States Friday, then board the freighter Molotov and return to the Soviet Union.

TOWPATH WALKS RESULT

Teddington, Middlesex, England — (CP) — Pedestrians will be able to walk 130 miles along picturesque towpaths between Teddington and Cricklade when towpaths are restored.

About £50,000 ($200,000) is to be spent on restoration of towpaths out of funds provided by the insurance and local authorities, the London County Council and the government.

Kansas City — (AP)— The government weather bureau had no report Monday from its Ashland, Neb., river observer on the Platte River waters were in his bedroom and he was marooned.

The observer, Phillip Tupnio, reported — presumably by telephone — that he awoke to find a foot of water in his bedroom and that he couldn't reach his boat moored to a nearby tree.

Tegulo also explained that his reading of the swiftly rising stream wouldn't have been accurate anyway. An ice jam had diverted part of the river to an adjoining creek and by-passed the gauge.

Montgomery, Ala. — (AP) —A skunk gave the store the business, so business wasn't so hot at the Rhodes Furniture Company.

The unwelcome visitor got into the store over the weekend. The skunk's gone, said manager James Bailey, but its "memory" lingers on.

TEAM DROWNS

Kingston, Ont., March 8 (CP) —A team of horses drowned when they crashed through ice on Kingston harbor Sunday. They were drawing a passenger-stage. Orville McDermott and Gale White, owners of the team and stage, and Frank Daley jumped from the vehicle moments before it sank.

C.C.F. Social Security Program Discussed at Afternoon Tea

A delightful afternoon tea and informal meeting of the local women interested in the social security program as set forth by the CCF National Convention held in Winnipeg, during August of 1948, was held at the home of Mrs. Alfred Bowe, Rutherin Avenue, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. J. G. Williamson, as hostess received the guests at the door, Mrs. Bowe, in the chair, whose direction the meeting had been arranged, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Ida Katoel, CCF member of the Provincial Council.

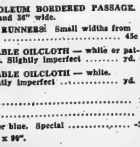
Prefacing her informal address with the remark that she was pleasantly surprised to see the co-operation of the ladies as demonstrated by their presence, Mrs. Katoel explained the CCF program as put forward to the endless series of inflations and high prices, followed by depressions, and the lack of social security. Basing her talk on two types of social security, the one which she was quite familiar, one being the bread-box, geen every day, which Mrs. Katoel, in describing as every home; and the other, the ballot-box, seen once every four years, typified the influences which led to do with the things within the home.

Three Questions

"Under the bread-box type," the speaker stated, "the questions confronting the average citizen today are: What have we? What do we need and what are we deciding to do about it? The standard of living depends on what we can have, rather than on what we would like. In different localities the standards are different. Today many people are trying to make up for what for some years they could not afford, and in this the standard is not as high as it could be.

"Many Canadians are unhoused; the houses that are obtainable are poor, and scarce as well. Materials for building are high. Families have to live in one or two rooms with children. Consequently there is no place for the young people to entertain their company, as a result the normal disintegrating as there is no complete family life. Birth rate is declining one or two children is not enough.

Security Wanted



"What we need is that suitable provision must be made for the aged, the sick, the disabled and all those who, through no fault of their own, are unable to provide for themselves. Canada's wealth and resources are sufficient to maintain a high standard of social security, a comprehensive health service to provide for all citizens, full hospital, medical, dental and allied care, preventive of their income and machinery to house our people adequately.

"Young people want homes that are reasonable to buy or rent, and a reasonable return for their labor which affords the opportunity to live in dignity without financial difficulties, and a complete cultural life embracing art, literature and music—people who could add to our cultural life. Often people who have not had some particular thing, usually make good at it, when given the opportunity to learn it.

"How are those requirements to be obtained," asked the speaker. "By the ballot box, by taxing what can be got by public enterprise, through a subsidized low-rental program on a large scale; in town and in the country. The security of old age can be had by increasing the pension, by amending the B.N.A. to extend legislation and ownership, and expanding in social planning."

The plan was adopted in Winnipeg by the CCF by means of the ballot-box. The broadcast can be full because with the CCF human values are first", were the closing words of the informal address.

After the business period, a social get-together was enjoyed by the serving of refreshments from a tea table lovely with its cloth of lace, its cutglass vase of yellow daffodils and golden tinted candles. Mrs. A. Archibald poured tea, while Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Williamson served; and to make a pleasant afternoon still more pleasant, games were taken for a lovely, white-iced layer cake topped with red maraschino cherries, donated by Mrs. Cole, which went to Mrs. Stan Keon, absent through the illness of her baby. Several queries were also voiced by listeners regarding the talk of the afternoon, which Mrs. Katoel explained.

To avoid soldier, sprinkle for tissing only as many articles as can be treated in a day. Shake out those not treated.

Talk on Guidance To School Teachers

The Grade 1 pupils of S.S. No. 5, Thurlow, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Palmer, gave a demonstration of primary reading, which was of particular interest to teachers of junior grades.

In compliance with a request, the teachers exchanged refreshers books which they had found helpful.

The guest of the evening, Mr. J. W. Musgrove, B.A., Guidance teacher at the Belleville Collegiate Institute, was introduced by the President, Miss H. Hodgen.

Mr. Musgrove explained why guidance records are com,,iled, and stated that their success depended largely on the co-operation of the teachers in elementary and secondary schools.

Mr. R. H. Macklem gave a resume of coming events, of interest to teachers.

After the business had been completed, everyone enjoyed a sing-song and game. Refreshments were served by the Tyendinaga teachers.

Rawdon Couple Entertain For House Guest

House Members Roar-to Defence Of Their Wives

Victoria, B.C., March 9 (CP) — Party lines were forgotten in the British Columbia Legislature today as members roared to the defence of their wives.

The uproar was touched in a motion passed unanimously, saying the legislature "affirms its belief in, and support of, the freedom of the press but does not condone any abuse of that great freedom of the press deteriorates to license of the press."

Drawing the ire of the members—and their better halves — were two stories carried Monday and Tuesday by the Vancouver News Herald.

The stories were concerned with the wife of the Lieutenant Governor, Mrs. Charles A. Banks, and the wives of legislature members.

Monday's story said the first lady was forced to reprimand the wives for failing to answer promptly invitations to a formal luncheon.

The story also alleged one lady had a cocktail or two "too many" before arriving.

What sent the legislative body, and-presumably the domestic life of the members, into an uproar however, was the Tuesday story.

It said the wives would try to make a mends for their breach of social etiquette by inviting Mrs. Banks to be their guests at a luncheon.

"There will be no drinking by the politics girls at this function," the-katpin luncheon as liquor is not served in the parliamentary dining room," the story said.

"Mrs. Banks has accepted and if everyone is nice and ladylike, it is hoped that Government House will forgive and forget and that the M.L.A.'s wives will be restored to grace and social standing."

No Wife Picked Out

Opposition leader Harold E. Winch started off by rising on a point of privilege and reading parts of the stories.

"No one particular wife was picked out; both articles cast a shadow over all our wives," said the C.C.F. member.

The House and members themselves were indirectly reflected on, he said.

"This House is entitled to respect."

Mrs. Banks took the matter in lighter vein than most of the members.

"The ladies were very sweet, very understanding and very kind," she said in commenting.

Some of the ladies were very late and I asked them if they would come earlier next year to avoid inconveniences to our staffs in the kitchen and dining rooms.

Pre-Birthday Party Enjoyed

Mt. View.—On Saturday evening, Miss Maureen Neal was hostess to about twenty of her friends at a pre-birthday party. The guests were from Toronto, Picton, Belleville and Mountain View. Contests, games and dancing were enjoyed until midnight. Mrs. Neal assisted in the kitchen including a lovely birthday cake and peppy lemon drinks. Guests left after thanking Maureen and her mother for a splendid evening.

Wooler. — A most enjoyable evening was spent in the Sunday School rooms of the United Church on Thursday evening, when the men of the congregation were realized the ladies' in a pancake supper. The sumptuous repast was prepared and served by the men.

After the 150 guests had done justice to the many good things, Mr. Ed. Nelson, the toast master, proposed a toast to the Queen. All responded by rising and singing the National Anthem.

Mr. Wes. Down, in a humorous speech, proposed a toast to the ladies, to which Mrs. Henry McColl replied.

Mr. Harry Ewing introduced the guest speaker, Mr. A. A. Martin, L.P.S., of Brighton. Mr. Martin, who is also chairman of the Cobourg Presbytery, gave an inspiring address on "The United Church". Several times throughout the program there was a sing-song led by Rev. W. G. Fletcher, accompanied by Mr. Claude Richards, of Trenton. Other musical selections were violin solos by Mr. Walter Wrightson, of Trenton, vocal also by Mr. Douglas Stebbings of Marmora and a reading and solo by Mr. Alex. Bell, of Wooler.

Mr. Huffman was the accompanist for all these selections. This happy occasion closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds".

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Letters and Answers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a fellow of 19, and have been going steady for a year and a half with a girl of 20. We were planning to be married, but recently I got a night job and she has been dating other fellows. She tells me she loves me, but will not show it in any way. I love this girl very much and had been seeing her seven nights a week.

Would you please tell me what I should do?

"Thank You"

Dear "Thank You":

If I were you, I would go a bit slow on marriage plans until you see just how sincere this girl's feelings are for you. I think you will have to face the fact that she may perhaps have become tired of seeing you six nights a week and jumped at the opportunity offered by a night job to get out with other people.

If you really are as much in love as you letter suggests, I think you would be foolish to make an issue of the point and have a showdown over it at this time, as it would probably end in your breaking up. If you can show the patience and devotion to see her through what may be just a phase, it may all straighten out. At any rate, I will tell you the chance to see your fellahship more clearly as time goes on.

Dear Fairfax:

I am 16, and was going steady with a fellow for a month and a half. He asked me if I loved him and I told him yes, but I really didn't. When we broke up, I found out that I was really in love with him.

Now he is going steady with another girl and seems to like her. I still like him very much and I want to get him back.

What shall I do?

"Janice"

Dear "Janice":

Don't you think it would be pretty mean to deliberately set about trying to break up a friendship that seems to be very satisfactory to the two people involved? I do.

Besides which, you're very much mistaken if you think you could bring the boy back to you that way. It certainly wouldn't make him feel kindly toward you. I want you to have you interfere with his friendships, nor would he be much interested in a girl who had so little pride that she couldn't stay away from him after he had shown clearly, by breaking up with her, that he had had enough of her.

Oddly enough, it doesn't make a boy like a girl any better to have her show him she can't live without him. What does intrigue him is to see her having a lot of dates with other men, so I advise you to get busy and forget about him by finding other friends.

Chic Turban

By ALICE ALDEN

IT TAKES a definitely deft hand to drape a silk jersey turban. And that is the happy possession of Baroness Radvanszky, newest addition to New York galaxy of bright millinery stars. This one is a hat that is always good when worn worn. It is a draped turban of white silk jersey, nice for resort wear now and for town later.

Fashion Flashes

EACH SEASON silk shantung gets a bigger play for suits, for dresses, for resort and town clothes. A charming frock is of beige silk shantung. On top a simple shirtwaist design, the full skirt marked by line after line of shell tucking that circles the skirt in a slightly slanting line from slim waist to full hem.

THIS SEASON marks the return of the two-piece jacket-to-frock in delightful prints and fabrics. Fine rayon crepe in a design of red hearts and white and green flowers on gray, makes a neat two-piecer, the double-breasted jacket top detailed with rounded collar and flap pockets. The skirt is moderately flared.

TWO SHADES are better than one in the opinion of many suit designers. Medium gray wool sharkskin is used for a good-looking suit, the jacket closing at and below the waistline with four double-breasted rows of self buttons. The collar—above the wide pointed lapels—is of the darker shade of the sharkskin, and the same detail is used for the pocket flaps.

STRAWS in the fashion wind include a beautiful silver colored straw in a smooth, shiny weave. Beautiful in a simple sailor, the crown softly draped with sapphire velvet ribbon. Another model has a pink velvet crown band and bow, and narrow pleating at the edge of the small brim.

SEPARATES rate high in the wardrobe and are well-represented in Summer clothes. In a neat number, a scoop-neck short-sleeved top, in blue chambray with rust cord trim, is teamed with a full cotton skirt in rust and blue India print. The skirt has an adjustable cummerbund waistline that ties in a big bow in back.

DRESSY white blouses are out in force. White batiste is used for a pretty blouse that has the entire front below the jewelry neckline done in diagonal rows of Mexican stitching and Val-type lace.

Author's Teacher Dies at Worthing

Of Wodehouse, Tresgold once said: "There never was anyone at the school like 'Plum' for quiet humor. He sat at dinner making jokes that came from him naturally and without effort. He never had to try to be funny."

Known as "Tresdie" to his scholars, Tresdgold was Britain's oldest public schoolmaster when he retired in 1923.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

I am the father of the bride-to-be, and I very much need your advice in regard to my daughter's wedding. She is planning to be married in about two months, and wants to have a big church wedding, the same as her older sister had. But my wife, her mother, has recently died very suddenly, and it seems to me that my daughter's wedding should be simplified. What do you consider the proper kind of wedding under these circumstances? (The engagement was announced before her mother died.)

H. C.

First I would wish that your daughter would have the gentle grace and daughterly understanding to be guided by your wishes in these days when you have so much need for her understanding and for her devoted co-operation. Your taste and judgment are completely right when you say "It seems to me that under the circumstances, my daughter's wedding should be simplified". Simplified the wedding plans should be, for your daughter must realize that she should not do anything that relatives and friends of either family (particularly, of course, her own family) might consider as showing a lack of affection for her mother, respect for her memory.

I am quite sure that it is that word "Big" that seems to you . . . as indeed it is . . . the feature that makes your daughter's wedding plans really inappropriate, unfitting-to-the-circumstances. It is proper, if it is your wish, for your daughter to have a church wedding, for even family mourning does not demand that the wedding be held at home. It is proper also that the wedding, although simply planned, be of some formality; that is, the bride may wear a white wedding dress and bridal veil, have one attendant, wearing a simple, long dress and hat; the groom and his best man (and perhaps two ushers) wearing formal or semi-formal attire. But it should be a small church wedding, the limited number or guests being relatives and a few very intimate friends. And properly, no large, formal reception, at the bride's house, and to this reception only the members of the immediate families should be invited.

In other words, if, as I judge, the wedding must for some reason take place as scheduled (such a recent death in the family generally means that the wedding is postponed), there may be a church wedding but every plan must suggest a very quiet wedding. The wedding procession should be simple: the ushers, if any, need not take part in the procession, and the maid of honor may walk alone, preceding the bride and her father. The bride may wear simple bridal attire, or she may wear informal dress and hat.

It's sensible to ask your hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one is uncertain as to what type of attire the guests are expected to wear at a party, is it considered permissible to take the phone to the hostess to find out? Or is this a "hick" thing to do?

E. J.

This is anything but "hick". Actually it's just the opposite. If you are in the slightest doubt as to the type of dress expected, it's the sensible thing to telephone your hostess to find out. As a matter of fact, a thoughtful hostess, an experienced hostess, makes a point of informing her guests about this question of the type of dress she expects the guests to wear . . . if she doesn't do this, naturally she shouldn't mind being asked.

BEAUTY

Every girl can be a bathing beauty

Do you know that you can rub your way to the good-looks goal? The young lady who would rather relax a cake with her best lather than skip the morning bath has a freshness of complexion and an appearance of good grooming that can be acquired by no other means. A rousing scrubbing starts the day right. It stimulates the mind and the spirit as well as the circulation.

Everyone knows the relaxation and comfort that comes to tired, overworked muscles from a prolonged soaking in warm water, that takes the kinks out of every fibre. There is nothing so conducive to clear thinking as lying in the tub. One reason there can be no interruptions. The bathroom door is locked. You can't get to the telephone to answer it. For the time being you are a lady Robinson Crusoe on your own little island and glad of it. You can wrestle with your problems to your heart's content.

Cold baths and showers have their place. Their effect is tonic and exhilarating, but they are not cleansing. To remove dust, dead skin scales and the exudations from sweat and sebaceous glands you need soap suds and a brush. The brush is important. Swishing around with a soaped washcloth is not a thorough method.

It is to dead skin scales—the human hide is ever doing a bail and farewell act—that chemicals deposited by perspiration cling. Unless they are removed the horror of borrors—perspiration odor is sure to get you. Girls and women who are afflicted with this trouble are side-stepped. Nobody wants to be near them. Many a job and many a beau have been lost because of it.

The ideal bath is one taken in water a little above body temperature. It is a sedative bath, one that relieves the tired feeling. Its length may be limited by nothing but the time at the individual's disposal. It relaxes, calms and soothes. To be most effective the water should come as far up to the neck as possible so that the entire body is immersed.

Before getting into the tub, wash your face, rinse with warm water and dry thoroughly. Then apply a cream; a heavy one is to be preferred at this time—a cold cream kind. The combination of oil and water in the cream do wonders for your complexion.

After the bath is the time to give your toe nails attention. Cut them straight across and, after the cutting, use an emery board so there will be no little jagged places to snare your nylons.

Remember That Night

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

"Brenda Bond isn't as young as I thought she was," Karen replied. "She's beautiful and blonde and gracious. Philip Ashley was probably bored and I looked stupid and constricted. I didn't ask him to do anything for me and he didn't offer. He thinks I'll get disgusted and go home. But I do not have a home. And I don't want his help."

Roxanne nodded. "That's the way to talk. I don't know him but I've seen him. I've heard a lot about him. He acts, too. Did you know that? He was in one of his plays last year with Brenda Bond. He was up on the roof a couple of weeks ago. He's good-looking. Very good-looking."

"Is he married?"

Then Roxanne knew! Quietly she said, "No, he isn't married. From what I gather, he's a pretty swell person. He's with Brenda Bond a lot but it isn't a romance. She's at least ten years older than he is. You'd better," Roxanne said steadily, "forget him."

"I will."

But Roxanne knew she would not.

Later, when Roxanne lay thinking of a tall young man in Richmond, Karen was staring in the darkness of the small room, remembering everything that Philip Ashley had said. At no other time in her life had she ever felt quite so small and alone. In Harriston it had seemed so perfectly simple to come to New York and go on the stage. Other girls had. She had read stories about them. But where did you begin. How did you get started? Then, remembering again Philip's bronzed head and smile, she thought, — "Some day you'll find me again and remember tonight. Some day . . ."

* * *

Driving back to Holme Ward's, Philip was thinking of the girl he loved, of Lilyan Kane. Lovely Lilyan, with her dark red hair and eyes that changed colors, and smiling red mouth. In late winter they had met and loved and planned to be married in the summer. But a month ago Lilyan's father, vacationing in London, had been taken gravely ill and she had hurried to him. Now, after a month, he was still critically ill and she had scarcely left his bedside.

Mrs. Ward's party was still in full swing when Philip got back. More people had arrived. Many were dancing. For the second time tonight, nodding and speaking to people as he crossed the wide, luxuriously furnished room, he came to Brenda.

"You — again!" she asked, laughing. "Please take me home, Philip. I came with Craig but he had a call. Famous surgeons shouldn't attempt a social life. I've been trying to think of an excuse to get away. I'm really too tired to enjoy a party tonight."

She went away and came back wearing a long black velvet cape trimmed with ermine. They said good night to Mrs. Ward and left.

Sliding toward her apartment Brenda asked: "Where did you find the beautiful, dark - haired girl, Philip? She was much too nice for Helene's crowd. She made most of us feel old and tired and used-up." She laughed quietly. "She can wear her hair parted in the center — something I can't do."

"Somebody made a brilliant crack about my having picked her up. She heard it and she was humiliated and angry. But as a matter of fact, I did." He told her about it and said, "You know, she didn't ask me to help her. Probably broke, but too proud to ask. I liked it in her."

"But suppose the poor child had lost her purse and all her money! She'd have been stranded and broke." She paused abruptly and her eyes were thoughtful. "Stranded and broke. I know a story about that. I think I know a little something about everything."

"That's what makes you a great actress and a great lady," Philip said.

Turning her head, she smiled at him. "Thank you, darling. Karen Mallare — I remember her name because it's only one of the thousands of girls in New York tonight who hoped to see their names in lights. I hope your life in friend is lucky." Then she asked, "How is Lilyan? Or rather, her father?"

"The same. Too ill to move and she won't leave him. He's awake and asked if I couldn't come. She said there was nothing I could do, and she couldn't leave him. Time. I shouldn't be impatient but I am. Impatience and boredom made me rescue Mallare from the rain. But I've been faithful to Lilyan — completely."

"It was a bad break for both of you — her father's illness," Brenda said kindly. "It came just at the climax of your love affair when you were both very happy. There have been girl and girls in your life, Philip . . ."

"But only one Lilyan Kane." He smiled at her. "Has Craig Sinclair hope asked you to marry him again?"

She nodded. "Yes. But I told him I couldn't."

"Why?"

He stopped the car before the apartment house and Brenda looked at him.

"Why— Because I'm not worthy of him, because there are things I can't tell him, and they'd stand between us. It's a long story." She laid her hand on his sleeve. "Philip, be very sure that Lilyan is the one love of your life."

Saying good night to him at her apartment door, she went in, thinking, "Lilyan went away at the very height of their love affair. If his hadn't, perhaps Philip would be tired of her by now."

Her apartment of many spacious rooms was beautifully and tastefully furnished. Fresh flowers gave color and fragrance. Each day red roses came from Dr. Craig Stanhope, her oldest friend and most faithful admirer. During Craig, she thought now, who had known her all her life, whom she had lost for a few years and then met again when she was a famous surgeon and she a famous actress.

People liked to say, "Oh, yes, I know Brenda Bond very well." It was true that her life had no secrets. But every one, including Philip, wondered why she consistently refused to marry Craig Stanhope, knowing that they loved each other.

Dawn broke over Manhattan, Brenda Bond lay awake in her wide white bed; Philip Ashley stood before the window in his apartment and smoked a cigarette and thought of a girl in London spending another sleepless night at the bedside of her father; Roxanne Dell slept peacefully, confident in her love; and Karen, seeing the first feeble light come through the small window, thought, "Some day he'll find me again."

* * *

For a week Karen's search for work on the stage availed nothing. Some of the people to whom she spoke were kind, others bored, still others rude. One man shook his head sadly when she said she had had no professional experience. The casting agencies she visited refused to sign her. She spoke to innumerable people, rode upon innumerable elevators, climbed thousands of steps, and walked miles each day. But she was not alone in her efforts, see- her blonde hair freshly waved. ing other young men and girls turned away, too.

When she reached the apartment house late day at twilight she saw, Roxanne getting out of a cab, her arms laden with boxes, "Had a telegram from Bill," she said as Karen relieved her of two of the boxes. "He's coming tonight. No luck today, Karen?"

"No luck. I could go back to selling dresses. I was rather good at that."

Kiwanians Hear Harold Seldon On Education Bd.

Continuing the talks on "Know Your City" which has been conducted by members of the Kiwanis Club, Harold Seldon, former chairman of the Board of Education and this year chairman of the Advisory Vocational Guidance committee addressed the weekly luncheon on Tuesday on the subject "The Board of Education." Mr. Seldon has taken a deep interest in education and since his election to the Board has served on various committees. He was introduced by Past President Jack White and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Bev. Quinney.

Past Lieutenant - Governor Bruce Latimer presented to past president Ted Schwab the Lieut. Governor's award for the district for the last quarter of last year. During the regime of Bruce Latimer the club under Mr. Schwab won three awards by the Lieut.-Governor and one Governor's award, which in itself is no mean accomplishment. In accepting the award Mr. Schwab paid tribute to his board of directors and the members at large.

Preparations were completed the two curling rinks that will play at Peterborough on Monday in the Kiwanis bonspiel at which cable will be presented from the entire district. Three competitions are down for decision with valuable prizes to the winners and all rinks will have the opportunity to play at least three games.

Following the introduction of the speaker he stated in part:

"I have been asked to tell you a few details of the Board of Education. Since this group does not attain the publicity (or the criticism) reached on some occasions by the City Council, you may assume that it is not active, or not important. This is far from the truth, and there are two major reasons why you should be vitally interested in the membership and decisions of your Board. In the first place, the Board is responsible, through the teachers it hires and supervises for that important period in your children's lives — the period when they break away from the influence of your wife and yourself and come under the influence for about six hours a day, five days a week, or a stranger, perhaps, who can teach your son or daughter far more than the old conception of the three R's.

Three R's No Longer Sufficient

"How many times in the last few years have you heard the blame for the current rash of teenage gangs and their escapades, blamed on either the home or the school, or both. Authorities on education, and I think most Board members, realize that the old fashioned 3 R's routine is no longer sufficient. Several times I have used the definition that John Ruskin the poet gave for education—and I still think it is worth repeating. Ruskin said "Education does not mean teaching people what they do not know, it means teaching them to behave as they do not behave. It is not teaching youth the shapes of letters and the tricks of numbers and then leaving them to turn their literature to lust and their arithmetic to roguery.

"It means, on the contrary, the training of them into the perfect exercise and kingly continence of their bodies and souls. It is a painful, continual and difficult work—to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning, by precept and by praise; but above all, by example. Doesn't that definition make you think of something vastly broader than the old-fashioned little red school house and the three R's, writing and arithmetic. Do you honestly think you, as a member of this generation, are setting a good example for the members of the generation that will take our place at the helm of world affairs.

37.5% For Education

"If you have no children attending school you may not be interested in the newer trends of education. In a few weeks when you get your tax bills from the City Hall and you consult the circle on the reverse side of same and find that 37.5% of your tax dollar is spent by the citizens you elected to the Board of Education. It is a big business we run—the appointed value of our four public schools and the collegiate is $2,-985,000.00. We carry $1,892,000.00 insurance (60/80), on which we pay $18,895 in premiums to local insurance dealers. In 1949 we paid our share of local taxes to the tune of $1,428,07; and believe it or not, we even pay garbage collection taxes, though we have almost no garbage and pay private truckers to haul away our ashes.

"In January 1949 we had 56 public school teachers instructing 1,883 of our children, and we had 20 collegiate and vocational teachers instructing 913 pupils in that building.

"In 1949 we expect to pay the public school teachers a total salary of $187,000.00, and the Collegiate Vocational teachers a total salary of $134,000.00. It is interesting to note also that the total of salaries paid to employees other than teachers is roughly 13½% of the total of teachers salaries. You may also be interested in knowing that while 89% of the public school pupils are local residents, only 61½ % of the Collegiate Vocational students are city residents.

Balance Will Change

"As the South Hastings high school area continues to attract more rural students to the Collegiate we may see this balance change still more, as school buses go farther afield to bring students to BCIVS. The cost of this is an important item in our city budget. The gross estimated operating cost of all the schools being $434,900.00, salaries, fuel, maintenance and debenture issues of which roughly $237,000 comes from our local city coffers, and the balance made up by various provincial and county grants. Now are you interested in the Board of Education? You may have noticed on your election ballots that candidates were listed as "public school trustees" so that the Board is actually a public school board, and all nine members are elected by public school supporters. And here is some history: On June 28th, 1871, the High School Board and the Public School Board of the City of Belleville united to form a union Board of Education. And so the nine elected members, plus an appointed representative of the Separate School Board (Mr. Frank Cushing, K.C.) are responsible for the Collegiate and Vocational School and the nine elected members are responsible for the four public schools.

Most Forms Straight Path

The Board must proceed along a straight and narrow path remembering they are simply trustees of public money. And as elected taxpayers the Board members are not of course immune to higher taxes. They do not even get paid for attending the average of three meetings a month (unlike our Aldermen and Mayor, their services are gratis). So while yet keep an eye open for ways to save the taxpayer's dollar, we must also accept the responsibility of providing the best possible teachers and equipment for your children. This can only be accomplished by paying salaries comparable with other cities of a similar size. There is considerable rivalry between various cities and boards in this salary set-up, and I have heard both teachers and board members say that some sort of Province-wide zoning system is the best solution to this problem.

Co-operation at High Point

At present the spirit of co-operation and mutual understanding existing between the Board and the teachers is at a very high point. Indeed, and this is, I believe, a very important "MUST" for any Board to achieve. If the teachers have suggestions, problems or requests, these are discussed by the teachers' council and finally submitted by a small committee to the board. These meetings are friendly, informal and conducive to clear-thinking and a splendid way to get a view of the other fellow's problem.

"Sometimes, however, the suggestions are a little confusing — for instance, in January the Board discussed a request from the teachers' council for equal pay for men and women for equal jobs. After careful consideration no action was taken but a few weeks later we read in the papers that the Toronto male public school teachers were on strike (no extra sports supervision, because the Toronto Board had for some years accepted a policy of equal pay for equal work for men and lady teachers.) What would you do? At present, the board is paying an annual increase of $100.00 to maximum, but many boards increased salaries by $200.00 per year. As long as other cities offer higher increases and higher maxima, we must be prepared to lose some teachers each year.

Good Replacements Easier

"At the same time, however, I feel that improved working conditions (a salary schedule, accumulated sick leave, co-operative approaches to mutual problems, etc.) are increasing our drawing power so that good replacements are easier to get. It is possible, I think, that when the Hope Commission reports (at last) in June, some suggestions may be made to adjust this salary scramble, especially for secondary school teachers.

"In the meantime, I am pleased and proud to report that the Belleville Board of Education is well up on the provincial list, both for public and high school salaries. We have an exceptionally fine staff and reports from the Department of Education Inspectors are most favorable.

"To relieve the serious overcrowding in the Public Schools, we plan a new school on the west hill. This will be a modern, one storey five-room and playroom structure on the Yeomans Street property we now own. This school we hope to have ready for September. We have also an option on a property on MacDonald Avenue to accommodate a proposed new school for the children from the new annexed areas, and the many new homes being built there."

Rocket Juniors Tack on 19-2 Defeat on Kingston Aces in First Game of 2-Game Series

A goal-scoring red-head who sparked his team with nine goals and two assists, paved the way to an easy victory over the opposition in Memorial Arena last night.

The hero of the scoring piece was Peter Jones. He was, as intimated, a member of the Belleville Junior "B" Rockets who rode roughshod over the Kingston Aces last night in a more or less goal-getting avalanche. The final score was 19-2.

Peter Jones (the old smoothie), was the most potent factor in the 19-2 avalanche that the Rockets handed out. He rammed home 3 hat-trick tallies, nine all told that sparked the rest of the Rockets to things beyond.

In short the Belleville Rockets, by virtue of that one-sided victory against the Kingston Aces, meet the same team in Kingston on Thursday night in a goals-to-count series.

It was not good hockey, to tell the truth, The Rockets were met by a stern opposition in the form of the gallant Kingston Aces. The kids from the Limestone City battled valiantly in a lost cause. But the smooth-working kids of Rockets were to be denied. They rammed home goal after goal until it reached the border of monotony.

That's that. The score was 19-2 and it is very doubtful if the Kingston squad want to go on.

The names:

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 9. (AP)—You can find many tears for the Professional Golfers' Association as long as its members make off with that $10,000 winner's "take" on the tournament circuit. Nevertheless, there are indications that the P.G.A. and the sponsors don't always see things the same way . . . First it was a slight rhubarb stirred up when a Texas Sports Writer reported dissatisfaction over the delayed appearance of some stars . . . Now from Miami comes word that some golf fans are unhappy because a couple of amateurs couldn't break into the international football tournament . . . Local golf sponsors wanted to invite Frank Stranahan and Willie Turnesa but P.G.A official said no . . . Then there's the matter of Bobby Locke's appearance in the P.G.A. championships at Richmond. . . Last year Bobby was refused an invitation. This year it's a foregone conclusion that he will be invited because the Richmond folks who are putting up most of the $300,000 prize money want him as a gate attraction since Ben Hogan is out.

We Think it Spinx

Wichita's Ray Dumont, who never overlooks an idea that might bring in a couple of customers for his national semi-pro tournament, plans to take advantage of the Arnold-Clark era if it lasts until August. . . He plans to subsidize starting Byrnsiders to meet at the ball park instead of at home on the opening night of the tournament. .

One-Minute Sports Page

When Ewell Blackwell showed up at Cincinnati Reds' Camp, his arms greeted him: "Boy, have we got a couple of slave drivers in those new coaches, Luke Sewell and Tony Cuccinello?" . . . baseball league's tub-thumper finally is finding a use for his High School Spanish. Questionnaires sent to Octavio Acosta of Hochester and Alfonzo Carrasquel of Montreal, came back filled out in the best Castilian language. . .

BARONS IMPROVE CHANCES

Philadelphia, March 9 — (CP) — Cleveland Barons improved their American Hockey League playoff chances Tuesday night by beating Philadelphia Rockets 6-4. The victory moved them into second place in the tightly-bunched western division race.

BRITISH CAR EXPORTS

London — (CP) — Britain was the largest exporter of motor-cars in the world for 1948. Her overseas sales of cars, commercial vehicles and agricultural tractors totalled $358,000,000 or $240,000,000 more than in 1947.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Out of the merry-go-round of playoff dates in both Junior "B" and Senior "B" groups hereabouts comes that final word (subject to change). Diesels will play second game of the "B" finals tonight in Kingston and the third game of the series is scheduled for Memorial Arena here on Saturday night starting at 8 o'clock. The fourth game, if necessary, will be played in Kingston next Wednesday night.

The Rockets Juniors will clash with Kingston Aces in the second game in Kingston in a home and home series, set goals to count on Thursday night. The Junior "B" finals has been whittled down to a best two-of-three affair. At first, the first game will be played in Kingston on Saturday night with the next two games scheduled here on Monday and Wednesday next.

Well, tonight a far-from-defeated Diesels team hop a sleigh-propelled train for Kingston accompanied by a red hot band of rooters. The Trainmen are rankling from that 7-6 setback handed them by the powerful Nylons on Monday night and tonight will be in no mood to be trifled with. But they face a tough assignment. Nylons have the moral advantage of playing in their own backyard in front of their own supporters, although they did not look for support here the other night. In fact some of the clearer thinking Kingston fans openly admitted that the disallowed goal bounded into the net, struck the lower bar in the corner and bounded out. That's what the men said. However that's water under the hockey bridge.

•

And it to be hoped that there will be no such exhibition of don't-give-a-damn refereeing tonight as occurred here the other night. Ab Grant may rank among the topnotch muskrat fliggers up there in Toronto, but as a hockey referee, in his performance on Monday in a criterion, he is still a good muskrat flagger. Which is another powerful argument for the two-referee system instead of this silly referee-linesman idea. If the OHA is to crack down on rough play that is their bounden duty, mayhemin, it should do away with the linesman altogether. Two referees with the rightful powers would go a long way in curbing the rough stuff. Two referees would see at least half of what is missed by the chief official with his present powers to wreck. It is not the referee's fault so much, as it is the officiating system.

•

However tonight is another night and the railroaders have a stern task ahead. Udy Udall, the starry goalkeeper had better retain that spectacular form he displayed here on Monday, or the Diesels sharpshooters, in their present mood will take stark revenge for that setback.

•

After last night's debacle when the Rockets Juniors went through the motions to swamp a hapless Kingston Aces, it seems, that the OHA proper should take charge of things hereabouts. Either that or let's get a league of our own, see the lady.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ERWIN FERICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, March 9 (CP)—To many people in Canada, the 40-odd brooms that are swishing and sweeping the Dominion curling championships in Hamilton this week just don't make sense.

Why do curlers need brooms? Broom-and-stone men have been plagued by skeptical non-curlers with this question for as long as the sport has been in existence in Canada.

Curlers occasionally argue that the sweeping helps clear the rock or that it is an adjunct of the game like a uniform is for baseball.

Usually they merely assume a pained expression and shrug off the query as an unintended insult.

But every year someone points out the apparent fallacy of the curlers' faith in their ability to get a few inches more out of a thrown stone by sweeping in front of it.

Sweeping Over-Rated

A professor at the University of Saskatchewan conducted an experiment to see what difference sweeping does.

His conclusion: "The overwhelming evidence shows sweeping is definitely over-rated."

Maybe a few years ago this would have prompted an hour's discussion. But Scotty (Regina Leader-Post) McMillan merely considers what would happen if curlers actually took the advice of the professor and quit sweeping.

Drastic Results

"Without brooms for balancers, most curlers would fall over and break their legs.

"That in turn would fill hospitals all over the country and gout the Saskatchewan government, for one, in the hands of receivers.

"Broom factories would have to close and this would threaten the economic stability of eastern Canada.

"On top of that the lead and second on every rink would freeze to death in the winter's first gusts . . .

"The professor should stick to research in nuclear fission . . . and leave curling to the sweepers."

All Six Teams In National To See Action

The throttle is wide - open, tonight as the big drive for National Hockey League playoff berths near theHtish line.

Montreal Canadiens, Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, are engaged in a stretch drive for second place.

Only two points separate the second - place Canadiens from the fourth - place Leafs. Bruins are bunched in the middle. .

All six teams will see action tonight.

Montreal Canadiens will tackle Chicago Black Hawks at the win-dy city; Leafs meet the Red Wings at the motor city; and New York Rangers clash with the Bruins at the bean city.

/A win by the Bruins, Leafs and Habs will definitely knock the Rangers out of the race while Hawks are a poor thousand to one bet to make the grade.

Detroit, and Chicago have only five games left in the regular route while the other four clubs have six.

Big Bill Durnan of Canadiens has big stakes in tar-night game at Chicago, too. The four – time winner of the Vezina Trophy, who holds the individual spotlight in the hockey world today, will be trying for his fifth consecutive and his 10th shutout of the season.

Railbirds have already given him the nod for the netminding spot on the all – star squad and are seriously considering him for the Hart Trophy, awarded annually to the player most valuable to his team. The Vezina Trophy, which goes to the goalie with the least number of goals against him, is practically in his hands now.

That award may mean a lot to veteran Bill, but not as much as the $1,000 check that accompanies each of them.

Robot Wizards May Aid Players To Play Chess

New York March 9 (CP) — Chess masters of the future may sharpen their playing wits against error-free robot wizards.

The possibility was raised today by Mr. Claude E. Shannon, Bell Telephone Company engineer. In a paper prepared for delivery before the Institute of Radio engineers, he told of techniques whereby a computing machine might be made to play a first rate game of chess.

A machine would have three advantages over a human player, said Dr. Shannon. These are: High speed operation, freedom from errors and freedom from laziness.

"It is all too easy for a human player to make instinctive moves without proper analysis of the position," he said.

Involved mathematics govern the techniques. The problem is to represent all phases of the game numerically; the strategy of play is then reduced to a numerical calculation.

Dr. Shannon, who was awarded the Alfred Nobel prize by the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in 1940, said the computer (chess board) would be set on programmed so that proper moves for defeating its human opponent could be calculated.

The strategy decided upon is "set" into the computer, which would then make individual decisions for each move based on a consideration of the various alternatives that were stored in advance. The final choice depends on positions that would result from adoption of any of these alternatives.

"Programed" would automatically change as the game progressed, in accordance with the machine's changing tactical aims.

In order to play chess of master calibre, Dr. Shannon said, the electronic computers now in use would have to be improved somewhat. But those now available could provide a game skillful enough to interest the average amateur player.

"By studying the theory of using an electronic computer to play chess, we expect to find solutions to some of our telephone engineering problems," said Dr. Shannon.

Inspects Air Stoways May Transmit Germs

Christchurch, N.Z. (CP) — An inspection of 30 military aircraft arriving in New Zealand from overseas revealed an average of 13.1 insect stowaways in each machine, said Flying Officer M. Laird, in an address to the Pacific Science Congress. The investigation amply showed the risk of accidental introductions of insects along the route of intercontinental air travel.

Among the insects found were cockroaches, earwigs, plant bugs, butterflies and moths, beetles, wasps and many sorts of flies and fleas. Three species of mosquitoes were found, including two females of a kind known to transmit filariasis. Only 11 of the 262 insects collected were still alive after the insecticide spraying to which the aircraft subjected, but with large numbers of aircraft arriving the effects could be very serious.

BIG FARM BUDGET

London — (CP) — The government will invest $1,800,000,000 in Britain's farms during the next four years. Half of this sum is to be spent on mechanical equipment. Agricultural machinery production in Britain is now valued at $280,000,000 a year.

Players Suing Baseball Want Swift Action

New York, March 9 — (AP) — A quick showdown in the courts was sought today by two former pitchers for St. Louis Cardinals. The hurlers are suing organized baseball for $2,000,000 damages as an outgrowth of their suspensions for jumping to the Mexican league.

Max Lanier and Fred Martin, two of many scores of major leaguers walking out five-year terms, filed papers in federal court Tuesday. At the same time, they sought reinstatement until their cases could be settled.

They obtained a federal court order directing baseball to show cause by Tuesday why it should not be temporarily restrained from enforcing both the suspensions and the reserve and termination clauses of its standard contracts.

It's the reserve clause, the legal backbone of the sport binding a player to one club until that club is ready to dispose of him, that is under fire in this and an earlier $300,000 suit by Danny Gardella, former outfielder for New York Giants.

Gardella Suit Pending

The Gardella suit is still pending in the courts. A United States Court of Appeals recently held the case should be heard.

John J. O'Flynn of New York, Cardinals' counsel, said Chandler said he expected the show-cause order to be the last step "and a definite" decision in baseball's running court battle with baseball players.

"I expect to get either an injunction which would restore the players to the good graces of baseball or a court directive for an early trial," Flynn said.

Commissioner A. B. Chandler and other officials of baseball involved in the suits had no comment.

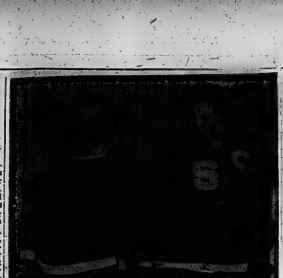
Named as defendants were Chandler; Ford Frick, president of the National League; Will Harridge, president of the American League; George W. Trautman, president of the National Association (Minors) and the 16 Major Clubs.

Bob Masterson Will Continue As Varsity Coach

(By The Canadian Press)

Bob Masterson said Tuesday night at Toronto he will continue to coach the University of Toronto football team because his job here gives him "more security."

Masterson, 28, said he had declined an offer of $8,500 for two seasons or $9,000 for three seasons to coach Winnipeg Blue Bombers. He has been given a new appointment as coach of the Varsity team and an increase in salary.



His new pay rate could not be ascertained, since University of Toronto policy forbids disclosing salaries of its employees. However, Warren Stevens, athletic director at Varsity said the salary Masterson is receiving here "doesn't approach the Winnipeg offer."

Smith crashed into a goalpost in Saturday night's game at Pittsburgh with Buffalo. He underwent X-rays after the game to determine the extent of his injuries. They were held to be minor.

At West Palm Beach, Fla., Connie Mack, 86-year-old owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, was shaken up in an automobile accident Tuesday. A car in which Mack was riding was hit from the side by another car, police reported. Connie's car was driven by his chauffeur.

At Louisville, Ky., Churchill Downs race officials announced Tuesday that approximately $40,000 worth of diamonds will be mounted on the Gold Cup which goes to this year's winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Diamond Jubilee, will be held at the track May 7.

CANADA'S HEAVIEST—The folk of Sutton, Ont., (population 937) on the shores of Lake Simcoe, claim that Bud Gilbey and Ellis Pringle, whose combined weight is 500 (without pads), make up the heaviest ever defence combination in the history of organized hockey in Canada. That's Bud on the left, a 225-pounder, and Ellis on the right, a mere 245 pounds. They handle the regular blue-line duties with Sutton's intermediate "B" club in the Ontario Hockey Association. Training Camp Notes

(By The Associated Press)

Bob Muncrief, a right-handed pitcher who couldn't hang onto a starting assignment with the world champion Cleveland Indians, may be just what the doctor ordered for Pittsburgh Pirates.

He's getting a lot of attention from Manager Billy Meyer these days. He's deserved, for Muncrief, a 10-year veteran in the majors, is working as hard as the young rookie.

"I'm going to win 15 games," Muncrief said quietly after another hard session Tuesday. "My elbow's okay and I'm in good shape."

Young Johnny Groth, the whiz from Buffalo, has the centre-field job in three outfield combinations being tested by Detroit Tigers. A .342 hitter in the International League last year, the fast youngster is ticketed for a starting berth with Detroit.

In a game yesterday, outfielder Richie Ashburn was struck over the right eye with a thrown ball and pitcher Russ Meyer caught a wild pitch on the wrist. Neither was hurt badly.

Pitty Cal Abrams, rookie outfielder of Brooklyn Dodgers, Dodger President Branch Rickey was lauding Abrams' ability when the youngster let a third strike go by in an intra-camp game. A little earlier Abrams popped up and stood at the plate only to have catcher Roy Campanella muff the fly in fair ground. Abrams was tossed out easily.

Even Manager Joe McCarthy of Boston Red Sox, usually cautious about estimating ball players in the Spring, is beginning to enthuse slightly about Pitcher Tex Hughson.

The big right-hander, a total loss last season because of arm ailments, was breaking off well-controlled curves Tuesday in batting drill.

McCarthy said after practice "I'll make no announcement about when I plan to use Hughson, but I've watched his every move. He hasn't the slightest hitch. He's been using curves and speed."

CHALLENGER WINS

Bolanos, of Mexico City, weighed 133 and the California Negro, 132.

The decision of the referees and the two judges was unanimous.

Athletics Have Pitching Staff Second to None

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 9 (AP)— Philadelphia A's pitching coach Earle Brucker knocked on wood and then told manager Connie Mack pitchers are going so well with us that I'm uneasy."

"Our pitching wasn't bad last year," he said, "but most of the boys are young and strong and barring injuries should be better than ever this year."

Brucker pointed to Joe Coleman, the big right hander who won 14 and lost 10 last year.

"Joe has two seasons under his belt now," Brucker said, "and is about ready to take his place with the best in the American League. He has the 'savvy' and needs only confidence."

"Brissie has the ability to make Connie Mack forget Rube Waddell. He won 14 last year and is a cinch to beat that in 1949.

"He's still a kid in the majors" says Brucker, "but he's the bright boy of my pitching class. He's physically equipped for greatness and determined to make the grade."

Marchildon is a fellow that nobody likes to hit against because he's got the stuff when he's good enough to make batters uncomfortable, Brucker claims. Hailing from Fenestangubene, Ont., has thrown off the effects of a long siege in the wartime German prison camp.

Then comes Dick Fowler, the Toronto gent who won 15 games last year with a sore arm. Brucker says Fowler is a pitcher, not a thrower, and will be tougher to beat in 1949.

Bill McCahan, the no-hit star of two years ago, had arm misery last year. His arm, reported back to normal and Brucker rates him a big cog in the A's pennant plans.

Cadieux Given Suspension of Five Years

Toronto, March 9 — (CP) — Joseph Pierre Gascon Cadieux today started on his five-year suspension from organized hockey.

The big, wiry haired, stocky winger of Stratford Kroehlers Junior A club yesterday was suspended for five years by Ontario Hockey Association officials for playing junior hockey while two years over age.

Officials said that Cadieux used a birth-certificate belonging to a cousin in his hometown of Valleyfield, Que., also called Pierre. The player was allowed 30 days in which to appeal the suspension.

The investigation into Cadieux's eligibility started when Toronto junior Marlboros officials charged the Stratford club with using Cadieux, whom they said was over-age.

Marlboros made the charge when the two clubs met in the league's quarter - final playoff series but withdrew it before the series ended. Toronto won the series in two straight games.

O. H. A. officials investigated and the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association produced a birth certificate proving Cadieux was 22. Both Hamilton clubs, also in the O. H. A. — actually his cousin's — gave his age as 20.

It further proof that Cadieux was over - age came to light when the latter date on a "C" form signed with Montreal Canadiens conflicted with the O. H. A. certificate. Cadieux played with Montreal junior Royals in the 1944 - 45 season. Hamilton Tabor, a non-defunct junior club the next year and performed for Stratford the last two seasons.

The Stratford club was absolved of any participation in the infraction by Cadieux.

Brown Bomber Makes Debut as Fight Promoter

New York, March 9 — (AP) — "At least I don't have to take any punches any more," sighed Joe Louis Tuesday after a hectic fourway press and radio conference.

The retired heavyweight boxing champion of the world had just made his New York debut as a fight promoter, and it was an experience that would have tried anyone.

Question after question was fired at the brown bomber. He was caught with his gloves down on occasion, but he was always in there trying.

Louis, who leaves today for a Caribbean tour, explained his position with the new - formed International Boxing Club, and described his interview with Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Louis saw Eagan Tuesday morning and asked recognition in New York for the winner of the proposed bout between Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott in June to be called "world champion." Louis already had gained the title of the National Boxing Association.

Louis said Eagan rejected his request because he (Eagan) didn't believe the winner of any one title claiming the leading heavyweights should be named champion.

The Bomber, now a director of boxing and a partner with Arthur Wirtz and James D. Norris in the I. B. C., said the fight therefore would be held outside New York, probably in Chicago.

Asked whether he would fight again, Louis replied "Definitely not. But if I should — and I really — it would have to be as a challenger and not as a champion."

Sentences Include Lashes, Prison Term

Hamilton March 9 (CP)—Michael Hourd, 36-year-old Toronto tailor, was sentenced to six years in Portsmouth Penitentiary with 12 strokes of the lash and his accomplice, Anne Davenport, 19, received a sentence of two years in the penitentiary when they appeared before Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins today.

They were convicted of assaulting and robbing Ing Koo in his Chinese laundry on the night of Feb. 23. Koo was hit over the head with a whisky bottle and seriously injured.

TURNING THE PAGES OF
"CANADA UNLIMITED"

In 1611, Nicholas Vignau joined the Algonkin tribe to learn their language, their ways of life and win their friendship. He found that sometimes they ate venison and fish raw. Mostly, however, it was the staple diet. For many years all food was imported from France. Hardy fur traders sometimes spent winter-time. In 1670, a dinner might consist of salt pork, peas soup and hardtack.

According to Mrs. Simcoe, wife of the Governor of Upper Canada, pigeons ate much smoked and salted meat. The women canned wild fruits and vegetables at home. Canadian cooking began to produce grain for flour . . . and bowls of cattle for fresh meat—a welcome change!

To-day, Canadian apples, wheat, beef and other products supply our needs — and those of many other countries. And in the development and manufacture of food, there lies great opportunity for Canadians—because there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 9 (AP) — James Stewart, the movie maker's idea of a newspaper man, has his pad and pencil out again. He is playing a reporter of sorts in "Operation Malaya" and he admits he is "sticking his lengthy neck out."

Jimmy says he doesn't know why he is so often chosen to play reporters, but he doesn't mind it at all. "Newspaper men are such complex characters, they're a challenge to play," he remarked.

Risk Wrath

The only hazard is risking the wrath of newspaper men by movie boners. His last news job, "Call Northside 777," had a whopper. Reporter Stewart slipped some paper into the typewriter and put a headline on the story before he wrote it. (Reporters don't write heads on Mot-roped)an papers.)

Jimmy said many newspaper men commented sourly on that inaccuracy. (The typewritten copy was single-spaced, too!) There were also jeers about the luxury of the reporter's apartment.

Long-Time Reporter

The actor started his flint career in 1935 as a reporter in "Murder Man." He has also legged it in the "Philadelphia Story," for which he snagged an Academy award.

He's not so sure Malaya will be as good for him.

"In the first script, I was killed in the last reel. It has gradually been shoved forward so now he gets bumped off in the third or fourth reel.

The scene may not salve his actor's pride, but at least it demonstrates good qualities for a reporter: Listen well, ask questions and keep moving.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The man who works like a horse no longer wants to hit the hay. He goes looking for a bridge game. What keeps him at it are deals like the one you see here:

NORTH
♠X 7 6 4 3
♥A Q 8
♦J A 9 7
♣9 6

WEST EAST
♠Q 9 6 2 ♠J 10 8
♥2 ♥5 3 2 4 2
♦J 10 9 6 5 ♦4 2
♣5 4 3 ♣Q J 10

SOUTH
♥K J 10 7
♦K 8 3
♣A K 8 7 2

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 C	3 S
3 H	4 H
4 NT	6 D
7 H	Pass

By bidding clubs before hearts, south admitted having one card more in the suit mentioned first. Why? With equal length suits bid the higher rank first; with different length suits, first bid the longer.

An immediate one-jump take-out guarantees two more tricks in a hand with enough tricks to help make a game. Therefore, the two spade response by north promised six tricks.

The four heart bid by north on the second round was simply an admission of heart support. He had no more talents to show. Hence his assist in that spot.

With six tricks promised by north, south sees a count of 13 in their pair. Because south has seven tricks. They are his five high cards and the two short cards in spades.

Four no-trump is the ace and king asking signal. Six diamonds is Kibitzer convention reply for showing two aces and one king. It told south they had all four aces and all four kings.

So south lucky declarer that west did not lead his singleton trump. It would have defeated grand slam. Instead, the lead was the diamond jack and 13 tricks cante in. Round up the plays that make it possible.

Star Reporter Is Acquitted

The wages strike was called Jan. 18.

"In my opinion this was simply a case of a reporter being a little over-zealous in his duties," said Magistrate R. J. Gillan.

Crown evidence indicated that arrested the street of striker William Stewart of the United Textile Workers (A. of L.), Hunt pushed through the police line to get a closer look at the prisoner in the police car.

Constable Guy Nernardo and Cpl McClure, who made the arrest said they did not know Hunt was rested and what the police were a reporter. They thought he was rushing to Stewart's rescue.

Hunt said he only tried to reach the police car to see who was arraigned by the police.

IN LONDON, ENG., AND MISSOURI U.S.A.

There isn't much traffic moving in London, England or in Missouri Valley, Iowa, on Monday. A 70-mile-an-hour gale caused the banks of the Thames to overflow, stalling London's dock traffic, top. In Missouri Valley, where the Boyer river overflowed, boats were the only means of transportation down the main street. — Central Press Canadian.

WORK IS THE SAME...BUT THE DAT ! ! !

Mary Ugtiantza, 23 (left), the U.S. girl who swapped jobs with a British girl for a month, finds that five o'clock means punching-out time in England as well as the U.S. for factory workers. Mary may not look so cheerful when payday rolls around for she'll receive about $15 per week from the British company in comparison with her $50 per week salary with her American employer who arranged for the two girls to shift places. Meanwhile, Ada Fisher, 24, Mary's counterpart, has arrived in the U.S. to take over her new temporary job. The modern version of Cinderella had never before been able to find a few miles from her native village of Pagebank, Eng.—Central Press Canadian.

Cleveland — (AP)—Emil Ratzel claims he's teaching a dog to talk. The dog is a wire-haired terrier named Butch.

Ratzel says Butch can howl a high "Hello" when urged. Now he's trying to teach Butch the alphabet.

Ratzel admits he's only got to the point of working on the letter A.

The youngster became trapped in the barrel in such a way that only pressure applied to two sides of it would release him.

Firemen Ronald Cavallo, once known in the ring as Kid Ryan, came along on his day off. Two policemen were huffing and puffing in efforts to get the youngster out.

He made observations — then swung into action.

It spread two sides of the barrel — and Charles came out uninjured.

Tokyo — (AP) — Tired of haggling with his employees, Tuneljiro Shirahata, manufacturer of ersatz cork materials, today turned the company over to his 30 workers.

"I give you the company—can age it as you please," the Rokkaido manufacturer said.

Says Extra Work Would Mean Hiring Of 40 Extra Hands

Toronto, March 9 (CP)— Assessment Commissioner A. J. B. Gray isn't happy about an agreement to the Assessment Act introduced in the Ontario legislature calling for a census of all residents in a municipality according to age groups. He said that to prepare such a report annually would require hiring 40 extra men seven months a year.

FIREMEN TO WORK 56 HOUR WEEK AT WELLAND

Welland, March 9 (CP)—Firemen here will work a 56-hour week instead of a 48-hour week according to an agreement between the municipality and the Welland Firefighters' Association. The wage increases asked by the Association will be granted if the city finds it possible to award a general boost to all civic employees, officials said.

AT THE CAPITOL — Anne Baxter plays the love feminine role in 20th Century-Fox's "Yellow Sky," a drama of outlaws, gold and romance in the Arizona badlands, which costars her with Gregory Peck and Richard Widmark, now showing at the Capitol. It is the first time in Belleville. Capacity audiences are acclaiming this great outdoor classic, which will remain until Saturday with matinees daily at 2.00 p.m.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop wouldn't buy himself a new suit, so just to fetch him a lesson ma went shopping for a new suit for herself and after supper she said to pop, William, I saw some lovely suits downtown today, but before doing any actual selecting I thawt I'd talk it over with you for suggestions.

You've come to the rite party, pop said. I suggest that you only buy one, he said, and ma said, well naturelly, silly. That's why it's so important to choose the rite one. The main choice is between a garbardine and a tweed, so what do you think, William? she said.

Well, tweeds last longer, dont they, and garbardines are at the cleeners half the time, aren't they? pop said, and ma said, Well, that's true enough, but then when a suit lasts too long it's apt to rutrety its welcome, and as for garbardine being easily spotted, well, every time a suit comes back from the cleeners almost have the sensation of a new-one fit being delivered. But which did you recommend, the tweed or the garbardine, William? she said.

The garbardine, by all means, pop said, and ma said, Oh good, I was hoping that was what you meant, because garbardine is so smart. Do you think I awt to select a naturel tan or a green, and do you think I awt to take a form fitting model or the loose boxy stile? Of course a naturel shade is always in perfect taste, but then I haven't worn a vivid color for so long, and naturelly a form fitting suit would end to make me look slimmer, but the loose hanging suits are so fashionable just now, and I hope and trust that my proportions are still conservative enough for a boxy mode. So what do you think, William? she said.

I think a sparkling green boxy garbardine would be just the thing, but suit yourself, my dear, pop said, and ma said, I'll do nuthing of the kind, I'll take your word for it and I think you have excellent taste.

ARTHUR COLE

With Canada's tremendous natural resources Mrs. Katool stated Canadians were in "getting themselves down" if they accepted anything less than the highest standard of living.

Man's inherent desire to add new grace to his living was an insurance for high employment for a long time. To add new grace it was necessary to buy things. These things had to be made and in turn, meant high employment.

Claims Capitalism Exploits

This, however, could not be if manufacturers were permitted to pile up tremendous profits through being permitted to constantly fight against higher wages, which would give the worker purchasing power. Capitalism exploited the people while a planned economy could be created under socialism.

Mrs. Katool warned that a program of socialized economy might take many years but she urged there be no doubt that such a program could be put into effect. The C.C.F. party had research men constantly working on the program first introduced by the Saskatchewan manifesto.

In closing the speaker assured the over-all picture for the C.C.F. party in the forthcoming federal election was good and that its votes could be just as high as that of the two old line parties.

She stressed the importance of having a candidate in the field as early as possible as the C.C.F. program was largely one of education.

Expresses Gratification

President of the Association Mr. David Elliott presided over the meeting and expressed his gratification of the large turnout which he stated was sign of a healthy interest.

The guest speaker was introduced by Arthur Cole, who in doing so explained why it was not policy for C.C.F. associations to have members of parliament address nomination meetings.

"The reason that no C.C.F member of parliament is here is that the party will not allow its members to travel about the country during the time when the House is in session," he said. "They get paid to be present at Ottawa."

In accepting the candidacy, Mr. Cole expressed his appreciation to members of the Association and promised that he would do everything possible for the C.C.F. party. He assured that if he was elected as member he would never be bribed by money interests.

"My life has been dedicated to the interests of labor and I intend that my interest shall continue," he said. My motto is Justice to all and special privileges to none."

Appealed For Help

In closing Mr. Cole appealed to stand by nomination and a lot of help from members of the local association. In the future, as in the past, he would be prepared to fight any social injustice in city council, at the Board commission or at the Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking briefly as he indicated he would permit his name to stand for nomination, Mr. Moxam stated the policy of the C. C. F. had always appealed to him. "The two old line parties had given but very little to the common people," he said.

Mr. Ed Schliever stated the C. C. F. gave him the ability of the application of Christianity to every day life. "People," he said, "must learn to love each other a little bit more. If elected this would be one of the attributes, along with the C.C.F. policy, that he would endeavor to put forth."

Mr. Cole stated he had not intended to offer himself as candidate but felt it his duty as a C. C. F. member to act when called upon. "It was the democratic privilege of the C.C.F. to choose as candidate the man of their choice," he said.

Miss Violet Moore, 39 Grove Street, Belleville, was the winner of the tailor made suit which was drawn for to raise funds for the local party association.

Foxboro Ousts West Huntington In Frankford Series

Frankford — Foxboro eliminated West Huntingdon in the Frankford District League semi-finals Monday night, as they whitewashed the latter 6-0. Orley Gliss had a field day for Foxboro, with four goals and an assist. Priest and Datoe got the other two goals. Bates tended a good game in goal, and earned a well-deserved shutout. West Huntingdon fought gallantly in the last period to avoid being blanked, but Bates just couldn't be beaten. Foxboro now advance into the finals, and will meet Belth – Zion Combines in a best-of-three series for the league championship.

Ink Slingers Grab Four-Point Win Over Blacks

The Ink Slingers from the Ontario Intelligencer grabbed off four points last night at the Recreation Alleys when they downed Blacks in a Major "B" league match. The paper boys rolled a fat 3,430 to the losers 3,276.

In the other matches Just Us took the measure of Sisco 3,241 to 3,001 and the Bowl Gang collected four points by downing ANAF Vets 3,128 to 2,906.

Art Whalen rolled the high triple of the night with 806 and also the high single of 363. Other three strings over the 700 mark were Joe Legault 731, Bert Hardwick 743, I. Morcau 724, R. Kaveney 711 and L. Cooke 707.

Saturday winners at the Recreation were Mark Storms with a high three string of 864 and Miss A. Harris with a high three string of 603.

Coe Hill Wins North Hastings Bantam Hockey Championship

The North Hastings Hockey League bantam championship was decided last night when the Coe Hill bantams battled to a 2-2 tie with the Bancroft Junior Trotters" at Bancroft.

The total goals scored was the way this series was decided and Coe Hill had previously defeated Bancroft 1-0 to give them a one-goal lead. Coe Hill won the round 3-2.

It was a clean hard-fought game that saw the visitors first take a 2-1 lead in the first period on two goal markers by Herman Griggs. Coe Hill's first goal was scored by Parry Whitman and before the first period was over Barry Landon slammed home the second tally to tie the score and win the championship for Coe Hill. Bob Rollins of Coe Hill made many nice plays showing good stick handling ability and speed. Lyman Landon did a grand job in the Coe Hill nets when Bancroft threatened to score.

Air Bubbles Enter Severed Varicose Vein Causes Worker's Death

Toronto, March 9 — (CP) — Dr. E. C. Fielden said Tuesday that the death Feb. 12 of Thomas Gordon, 55, coal yard worker, resulted when air bubbles entered a severed varicose vein and travelled to his heart.

Thomas fell into a coal bin and died en route to hospital. He suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

"It was a very unusual cause of death," Dr. Fielden told a coroner's jury. "The vein was so enlarged that when it was cut it did not collapse, and the pumping of the heart drew the air in."

Coroner Dr. F. W. Tickett said that "anybody that didn't have a varicose vein could fail in there and not die." Thomas did die.

Labor Congress Ready to Open War With A.F.L.

Ottawa, March 9 (CP)—In rough language, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has unveiled notice on the American Federation of Labor to keep hands off its internal affairs.

Allied for 50 years with the powerful U.S. Labor body, the Congress executive nevertheless warned bluntly Tuesday that it is fed up with attempts of A. F. L. "domination" and will open jurisdictional war if the A. F. L. goes through with an implied threat to take some unions out of the Congress.

Its challenge came in a letter from the T.L.C. executive to its 400,000 membership—the culmination of a battle over Communism and other issues that found the A.F.L. executive siding with a T.L.C. faction opposed to the executive on these points.

The A. F. L. issued a demand that the Congress expell its Communists and also change the voting system at its convention in a way that would—to the A. F. L. view—react against Communist sympathizers.

Interpreted as Ultimatum

Interpreting this as an "ultimatum" whose refusal would be followed by a threat of withdrawal of some A.F.L.-affiliated international unions, the Congress yesterday decided to be prepared to fight that move.

At the same time, the executive called on all its affiliated bodies for support in "resisting this unwarranted attempt of the A.F.L. to dominate the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada."

A.F.L.-affiliated unions in the Congress have a membership of about 300,000 of the T.L.C.'s total of 400,000.

In Washington yesterday, President William Green of the A. F. L. said he did not know of any of these notices of withdrawal from the T.L.C.

President Green also said he did not know of any "serious situation" having developed in A.F.L.-T.L.C. relations.

Uses Harsh Terms

However, the T.L.C. executive used some of the harshest terms of the half-century of relations with the A.F.L. in denouncing the attempted "domination" by its big ally below the border.

It accused the A.F.L. of a long string of "interferences" from 1910 on. These A.F.L. moves, the T.L.C. letter said, reached a peak at the Congress' October convention in Victoria, when the A.F.L. had been given instructions some of the delegates to fight the T.L.C. executive.

At that convention, the big issue was that of the set-up of Frank Hall, Canadian head of an A.F.L.-T.L.C. union, to throw out reputedly red-dominated union out of the T.L.C. by unorthodox methods.

Hall had been suspended from the Congress earlier with his union, the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks. The convention endorsed the suspension and then lifted it. Hall was censured personally.

His move had been aimed at the Canadian Seamen's Union, which he hoped to force out of the Congress through pressure from the A.F.L. after he had brought an A.F.L. union into the same field. Later, the A.F.L. executive upheld Hall in a hearing at Miami described in the T.L.C. letter as a "kangaroo court."

Malan Govt. Under Test in S.A. Election

Johannesburg, March 9 — (AP) — South Africa voted today for provincial elections which may affect the power of Premier Daniel Malan's Nationalist government.

The fourth party strength in the national legislature is not at stake, the elections represent the first popular test of Nationalist stewardship since Malan beat Jan Christian Smuts' United party last May.

Transvaal, Cape Province, Natal and Orange Free State will choose provincial councillors. Voting in the Cape, with 53 councillors, and the Transvaal with 60, will be the same registration rolls and in the same districts as in an election of parliament.

The other two provinces choose 30 more councillors than they would parliament members. The latest number of campaigning with the results of the parliamentary elections of last May therefore, will be in the total popular vote cast for each party.

It is not likely that a trend will be apparent until Thursday, when results from the rural districts, strongest of Malan's anti-Smuts, begin to come in.

Malan heads a coalition of Nationalists and the Afrikaner party which, if it manages to continue its majority in the National Assembly, the governor-general is in a minority by one vote in the senate.

Last December, Havenga placed the government's hopes for by balking at Malan's color program. Malan had proposed to abolish the right of Africans native to vote and have representation in parliament. He proposed to do this by a simple majority, instead of a two-thirds vote.

Malan declined to resign, despite the split in his coalition and said he would go on the provincial elections to get support from the country on the issue. Herbert his party lose today, it seems probable he would have to call a new general election. The Afrikaners are standing aside in toto to help him.

and intends to move into it in the near future.

Mrs. Pat Hunt is ill at her home here having suffered a stroke last Thursday.

Mrs. Joe Bennett is progressing favorably but is still at the Hotel Dieu. She expects to be able to return home this week.

Miss Margaret Enright of Belleville spent the weekend at her home here.

New Boys' Club Depletes Gangs

Vancouver — (CP) — Three of Vancouver's most notorious juvenile gangs have been nearly wiped out by the gesture by an elderly business man.

When Bob Gibson donated $35,000 to put finishing touches to a boys' club here not even the most optimistic observers anticipated such quick results. Hundreds of gang members flocked into the new meeting-place.

The Cadet gang, the Watts gang and the Bow gang together had a membership of about 300 youngsters. Their membership has dwindled to a few die-hards while the others have given up their old meetings in cafes and pool halls for the comfort of the new and progressive club.

Manitoba or B.C. Likely Winner Of Curling Title

Hamilton, March 9 —(CP)— There's so little doubt about it, your race passport mortgages the homestead that the main fight will be between Manitoba and British Columbia for the 1949 Canadian curling championship.

While the top calibre Winnipeg rink is chosen by spectator skips as the 1949 victor, there is better than an even odds chance that Reg Stone's British Columbia rink could upset the dope and bring it back again to Trail B.C. That's where the silverware rests as result of Theo (Frenchy) D'Amour's victory last year.

The writing was on the wall Tuesday for the other eight rinks in the Dominion final when Ken Watson's Winnipeg quartet and Reg Stone's west coast foursome racked up third and fourth round decisions.

They are the only rinks with a clean sheet in the "won" column although British Columbians had a big scare from Alberta and the experts figure they'll continue their winning ways until the ninth and final round Thursday night.

It is then that the two giants of the competition meet and anything can happen.

Both are aiming at any style of game but Watson's experience gives him a slim edge.

Should Not Have Trouble

If Watson makes it, he will be the first skip in the 20-year history of the championships to win the honors three times.

It doesn't look as if either Manitoba or British Columbia should have too much trouble in their games today. Manitoba plays Nova Scotia who have split two games in four and Prince Edward Island with a similar won-lost record.

British Columbia meets P.E.I. in the fifth round and Quebec which has yet to win a game—in the sixth.

The "Cinderalla" rink of the competition, Alberta's Stuart Lang, continued its stylish skidding the biggest upset of the 'spiel to date Tuesday against British Columbia. Losers in three successive games, the Blackie rink took the highly lauded British Columbians to the 12th end before losing a heartbreaking 11-10 decision.

Leading 10-9 going into the last end, but with last rock against them, the Albertans blew a fine chance to register their first victory.

Two dead-ends featured yesterday's play—a rarity in eastern Canada where the draw game is stressed. They occurred in the 12th end of the Manitoba-Northern Ontario match and the seventh end in the British Columbia-Alberta game.

Manitoba's play Tuesday was of big-time calibre. The Watson rink polished up with a decisive 16-5 victory over Quebec in the morning game and made it 15-9 over Northern Ontario in the afternoon.

Saskatchewan Splits

Saskatchewan split even on the day. The western club lost 14-9 to Prince Edward Island in the third round and bounced back with a 14-4 decision over Nova Scotia.

Ontario's quartet, skipped by 66-year-old Pete Gilbert of Chatham who plays third was dumped 14-6 by British Columbia but bounced back for an 18-10 decision over P.E.I.

New Brunswick also split on the day's play. The rink lost 13-7 to Nova Scotia and in the fourth round whipped Quebec 13-5.

Ontario's rink from Chatham with a won lost 3-1 record, is considered the only quartet that might upset the "dope" and beat either the B.C. or Manitoba outfits.

The Ontario rink ran into a perfect draw shot by Reg Stone in the fourth end in its game against B.C. in the third round.

The shot was one of the best seen in the 'spiel. Ontario was lying three in the house, well guarded by two rocks midway between the hog line and house, when Stone sent his shot away.

It threaded a needle between the guards, eased and curled into the house to the button and stopped dead for a point. It "robbed" Ontario of three points but it was such a masterful toss the Chatham curlers complimented and shook hands with the light-haired cigar-smoking skip.

The dead-ends occurred in knockout style games with each rink alternately banging rocks out of the house until the finish of the end with the house clear.

Manitoba's victory over Northern Ontario's hard-rock miner outfit wasn't too surprising to spectators crowding the Thistle Club rink because Watson, past master of the draw style of play dictated the style of game and it was strictly draw with the odd running shot thrown in.

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE

Indianapolis, March 8 — (AP) — L. (Silm) Corum, co-winner of the 1926 Indianapolis motor speedway race, was found hanged at noday night in a garage at the rear of his home. Police said the 50-year-old retired racing driver committed suicide. He had been in ill health for several years.

London, March 9 (CP)—Boxing timekeepers might do well to cultivate an additional occupation—just in case.

The other day a robot had a tryout in fight impresario Jack Solomons' gymnasium. It is an automatic timekeeper that tells the allotted round of 10 for horizontal boxers.

The novelty hasn't been officially considered. A long, glass-fronted box, the robot contains a series of electric bulbs and an electric motor. The idea is to display it in a prominent position with possibly a relay system in large halls.

When a boxer hits the canvas the official presses a button. The robot then lights up numbered bulbs. If the boxer beats the count the machine is switched off; if he doesn't, the knockout is signalled on the 10th second.

The machine also allows a full second to pass when a boxer hits the canvas before count begins. Some referees are said to count "one" at the moment of fallin[g].

Even the referee won't have much hand in things if the inventor has his own way. He proposes to attach a phonograph with a recorded count, synchronized with the light signals, which would be heard around the hall through a loudspeaker system.

In April horse-race followers will be able to return, after a seven-year layoff, to the Newbury, Berkshire, course. Its 1171 cost the owners about £200,000 ($800,000).

In September, 1941, the Army moved in and converted the well-known course into one of the biggest supply depots in Britain. It was almost entirely buried underneath layers of shinle and ballast. More than 20 miles of railroad track was laid down. A gravel road covered the famous straight mile.

Last March derequisition was completed. Since then a mass of debris has been removed. Renovated stands and parimutuel, miles of wire, and tons of concrete have transferred a dump into a smart setup.

More than 500,000 sods were laid to restore the lawns and turf, but not all of the straight mile can yet be used.

What should a snooker player do when he's hooked so tightly there is no way out?

John Bisset, Billiards Control Council chairman, says:

If a player is snookered so completely that he cannot hit the ball 'on' with a feasible stroke, he is entitled to snuff up the position to give his opponent a fair shot at the ball 'on' at his next stroke.

London Letter: Six Main Arteries Debouch Into Elephant and Castle

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 9 (CP)—What Piccadilly Circus is to the heart of London's pleasure - seeking West End, the Elephant and Castle is to South London's more workaday community: the cap-on-head, vowel-torturing Cockneys whose cheerfulness under any circumstances is world-famous.

Into the Elephant debouch six main arteries— St. George's Road, London Road-Newington Causeway, New Kent Road, Walworth Road and Newington Butts—and its swirling central traffic is a medhouse of trams, hand-carts, trucks and horse-drawn carts.

Along the side-streets lies one of London's most thriving street markets where dealers in hot eel pies, second - hand clothing, toys, cheap magazines, questionable candy and household goods of every sort try to outshout one another.

Inside the big public house topped by the iron elephant bearing a castle on its back, the "wide boys" — sharp operators on the criminal fringe — hang out. Pocket-picking is commonplace and black market deals are not unknown.

It's a sucker play to walk into the bar wearing a wide-brimmed Canadian hat and a Canadian-cut overcoat. A fat old woman of at least 70 sidles up and beerily introduces herself as "an out-of-work actress — and they tell me I'm too old at 50!"

But the whole population isn't "wide." Most denizens of the Elephant are just hard-working Londoners who wish they earned a bit more money and had some place in which to live. Meanwhile they're happy with the grey, shabby streets around them if they can have a bit of fun Saturday night and be reasonably sure of keeping their jobs.

How did the Elephant get its name? There are several versions of the story. The most often told is that, when Edward I announced his engagement to El Infante Da Castile, Londoners wanted to honor their new queen by naming the intersection after her — but "Elephant and Castle" was the closest the Cockney could come to pronouncing the foreign syllables.

SALARY INCREASE TO MINISTERS IS CRITICIZED

Educational Policy of Govt. Will be Discussed by Hon. Dana Porter

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—Education Minister Porter leads off today as the Ontario legislature resumes the budget debate adjourned Tuesday night.

Mr. Porter continues the address he started Tuesday night, dealing with sections of the budget affecting his department. There will be another sitting tonight.

Opposition members Wednesday criticized the government for restoring to $10,000 the cabinet ministers' salaries voluntarily reduced in 1937 to $8,000 a year by the administration of Liberal Premier Mitchell Hepburn. The salary discussion, across as the House considered the $113,800,000 estimate of the agriculture department.

Premier Kennedy said the salaries had been set at $10,000 by statute and that no premier had the authority to reduce them.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver said any ministers voluntarily reducing their salaries would have been done last year when the legislature approved an additional $1,000 expenses for all members. The restoration of salaries was being introduced at a time when social services were being limited to persons with "means test" levels only". The government had recently declined to raise the basic old age pension from $30 to $40 monthly.

Prime Minister Ready to Give Orders-in-Council

Ottawa, March 10 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday told the Commons the government has no desire to prevent anybody from seeing council.

He made a lengthy statement on this form of government administration and form of legislative enactment on the authority of either statutes or government prerogative — which is exercised annually a subject of protest in opposition circles.

The prime minister was specifically answering questions asked by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) about the number of orders-in-council passed in certain periods.

They are so numerous that the prime minister suggested it would help the work of the House document room if all were put in.

"Between Sept. 1, 1939, and last March 4," there were 15,382 orders-in-council but more than half of them were routine minutes of the treasury board having to do with personnel and expenditures already authorized by parliament.

A great many of the regulatory orders-in-council are passed by authority of statutes. The great majority have no general public interest, the prime minister said.

He tabled two groups of 100 successive orders each passed during periods mentioned in Mr. Diefenbaker's questions, as descriptive cross-sections of the matters dealt with in this way.

The prime minister also offered to submit monthly lists of orders-in-council for the information of the opposition leaving it open for members to ask for production of any in which they were interested.

Govt. Will Not Produce Polymer Agreements

Ottawa, March 10 (CP)— The government was upheld 174 to 39 in a confidence vote in the Commons Wednesday, but there were indications that the division only paved the way for a new non-confidence motion.

The vote was on a motion sponsored by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, during the debate on the Throne Speech. Its defeat—it was opposed by Liberal and Progressive Conservative members —opened the way for a similar motion by the Social Credit party.

Solon Low, Social Credit, will have the floor when the debate on the Throne Speech is resumed today.

The CCF motion asked the House to vote non-confidence in the government because of its failure to provide an over-all national health insurance program. It also called for the elimination of speculation in foodstuffs and other necessities, the orderly marketing of farm products and for the exchange of goods needed abroad.

It was in the form of an amendment to the motion of George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, which asked the chamber to declare that the government no longer enjoys its confidence. The vote on Mr. Drew's motion may be taken before the weekend.

Toronto, March 10. (CP)—A light snow throughout Ontario has left all roads snow-surfaced, but in "fair" driving condition the highways department reported.

Sanding and salting operations are continuing. The weather office reported a storm, moving north from Kentucky, may hit Ontario later today.

ANNUAL GRANT APPROVED

London, Ont., March 10 (CP)— A $15,000 annual grant towards the building fund of Victoria Public Hospital was approved by Middlesex county council Wednesday night. Tentatively the county will contribute $150,000 over a 10-year period.

Officials hope that a start on construction of the hospital, including a cancer clinic building may be made this year. Cost of the entire project is estimated close to $2,000,000 of which a portion will be in government grants

NAPANEE WINS FIRST ONE

Netherlands Says Country Will Not Comply With U.N. Order

Lake Success, March 10 —(CP) —An official Netherlands spokesman declared today the country finds it "impossible" to comply with orders from the United Nations Security Council to restore Indonesian republican leaders to power.

The spokesman, J. H. Van Roijen, Dutch U. N. representative, said he would state this view in an address to the Security Council this afternoon. "We believe," he said in an interview, "that if the republicans went back, they would immediately set themselves of the opportunity to start subversive activity and instead of the guerrilla warfare."

His country wants to make all Indonesia independent, but does not want "independence to mean the upset and trouble that it has meant for Burma." That Asian country has been plagued by almost constant civil war since it quit the British Commonwealth a year ago.

He said he had talked Wednesday night to Foreign Minister D. U. Stikker by telephone and confirmed that the government's stand is not changed.

The Indonesian leaders were seized by Dutch authorities in December after Dutch troops seized the areas of Java, Sumatra and Madoera which had been proclaimed a sovereign republic, independent of Netherland rule.

The Security Council on Jan. 28 ordered the Netherlands to restore the leaders in power, and grant independence to all of Indonesia including areas outside the republic — by July 1, 1950.

The Netherlands government has refused with force to attempt to create a sovereign United States of Indonesia by July 1, 1949, without first restoring the republic. It has been made clear in the council today that its plan is not practicable, while the Netherlands method would work.

"It is our view," he said, "that the council and the Netherlands government have exactly the same aim — liberty, entire freedom and self-government for Indonesia. We differ only on the means by which to arrive at that objective."

Johannesburg, March 10 (CP) — Jan Christian Smuts' United party, ousted from power following the government last May, was making a strong comeback today in the early returns from the South African provincial elections.

The voting held Wednesday, was heavy. Election officials predicted it would exceed the polling in the 1938 election, when Dr. Daniel Malan looked for a heavy popular vote in support of its policy of complete "white supremacy" — a key issue in the elections.

Although party strength in the national legislature was not at stake, the elections represented the first popular test of Nationalist support since Malan defeated Smuts in the May general election.

Early returns showed that the United party piled up bigger margins of victory in the cities than it did in the general election. It also was rolling up its own size-able majorities in the Transvaal.

Smuts' party elected 53 councillors—two of them by acclamation — while the Nationalist party seated 20, including nine who were unopposed. The voting was in four provinces — Transvaal, vote than the Nationalists.

the Cape, Natal and the Orange Free State. Registered voters — those who paid $2.50 each — totalled 171 councillors.

A definite trend, however, could not be established until results from the rural areas, particularly in the Orange Free State which is the Malan stronghold, were known. Most of the early returns came from the cities in the provinces of Natal and Cape Province.

The question of racial segregation was injected into the election by Malan who hoped by going to the country to increase support for his policy of "apartheid," which is the government says alone can save South Africa's 2,250,000 European race from submersion by its 9,000,000 non-Europeans.

The Europeans, or "whites," live among 8,000,000 natives (members of original African tribes), some 900,000 colored mixed racial groups and 286,000 Indians.

If the Nationalists are beaten in the council voting, there is a probability that Malan will call for a general election.

The United party has 74 seats in the Assembly. In the general elections it had a greater popular

CANNOT ACCOUNT FOR DISCREPANCY OF 2,000 VOTES

Returning Officer For Riding Gives Evidence

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—Dan McCabe, Returning Officer in the election last June in Toronto St. George, said he was unable to account for the discrepancy of some 2,000 votes in the plurality of Education Minister Porter, in his report and an official recount.

"I can't account for it," Mr. McCabe told Ian Ontario Legislature Committee on privileges and elections, "if I could, I would have cleared this up long ago."

The committee, set up to investigate C.C.F. charges of irregularities in the election, examined reports of voting in polling division 10 of the riding.

Forms submitted by Mr. McCabe by the Deputy Returning Officer gave Mrs. Porter 105 votes, 27 for Mr. Porter and MacVicar 78. Mr. McCabe's report was the same except that Mr. Porter got 107 votes.

Provincial Treasurer Frost, chairman of the committee, asked Mr. McCabe, who has an obvious cast to his right eye, whether his vision was good.

"It's not very good," Mr. McCabe said. "I can't see out of it."

He said he was able to read figures on the election documents.

Discrepancies in 28 Polls

An investigation conducted by Major Lewis last Jan. 17 showed there were discrepancies in 28 polls between figures submitted by Deputy Returning Officers to Mr. McCabe and figures submitted by Mr. McCabe to Major Lewis.

In all cases the discrepancies were in votes cast for Mr. Porter and Mr. Frier, not in those cast for Mr. MacVicar.

C.C.F. leader F. R. Joliffe asked Mr. McCabe could suggest any explanation of the fact which seemed "more than coincidence."

"No, I cannot suggest any explanation at all. I don't know how it happened. I can't explain how it happened."

Mr. McCabe agreed these polls would be among the first to be received. Mr. Joliffe said in all these polls but one Mr. Frier was in the lead.

Forms Unchanged

Mr. McCabe told Mr. Frost he had not changed any of the forms submitted to him by Deputy Returning Officers. He agreed that any changes would be obvious if was by someone else.

Mr. Solicitor-General Joliffe he recalled that during the first 15 minutes after polls closed, Mr. MacVicar led.

Mr. Frost suggested two theories. The first tip that the train robber suspects had backtracked to Washington came from Martinsburg, W. Va., police were informed that two suspicious looking men had been questioned by a Lesburg, Va., policeman. The latter, warden of the train robbery, let the pair go after they explained they had been in an automobile accident.

References to the days of Jesse James were many and frequent as officers (shook together an), account of how the Baltimore and Ohio's westbound Ambassador was stopped and the passengers terrified Wednesday night.

One of the worst train robberies of the century caused a loss of more than $1,000 to passengers go the Ambassador.

Two bandits were set up. Bloodhounds came in from Virginia on the chance the daring bandits were hiding somewhere in the hills. They picked up no trail.

For several hours after the express was held up there was some confusion as to how many robbers there were.

Passengers and others were certain there were only two.

The B. and O. could only find a report of two.

But a tavern robbery which occurred not far away after the holdup caused police to spend some time looking for four. They abandoned the search later.

Trapped by Police In Pawnshop At Washington

Train Passengers Slugged And Over $1,000 Taken

Washington, March 10 (AP)— Police reported a confession today from two suspects seized in the Martinsburg, W. Va., train robbery.

The two were trapped by police today in a Washington pawnshop. One was shot when he drew a pistol.

Police Lieut. John E. Winters, who slid the pair confessed, named them as Luman Ramadell, 23, and George Llewelyn Ashton, 21, both of Youngstown, Ohio.

The two were captured 15 hours after two young gunmen haled the Baltimore and Ohio's westbound Ambassador Wednesday night near Martinsburg, terrorized passengers and escaped with more than $1,000.

Ramadell and his partner were found in the pawnshop by officers searching the area on a tip that two young men answering the train robbers got off a bus from the train robbery area.

Answered Description

The men, police said, were talking about purchase of a suitcase in the pawnbrokers when Lomax and Constable James D. Kennedy entered.

The officers said that the pair answered the descriptions given for the train robbers, and they approached to ask for identification.

Lomax said Ramadell made a gesture toward his hip pocket as if to produce a wallet. Instead, the police said, he came out with a pistol.

Ramsell, standing alongside his partner, shoved the newspaper into the man with the pistol, at the same time yelling to Lomax:

"Leg him have it."

Lomax did. The second man gave up.

Detectives who reached the scene soon after the shooting said they found several hundred dollars in the men's pockets, in bills ranging from $1 to $20 denominations. They expressed belief it was part of the train robbers' loot.

Both Admit Robbery

The detectives said they asked both men directly:

"Did you help rob the train in West Virginia Wednesday night," "Yes," was the answer from both men, the officers said.

The first tip that the train robber suspects had backtracked to Washington came from Martinsburg police. Police were informed that two suspicious looking men had been questioned by a Leesburg, Va., policeman. The latter, warden of the train robbery, let the pair go after they explained they had been in an automobile accident.

References to the days of Jesse James were many and frequent as officers (shook together an), account of how the Baltimore and Ohio's westbound Ambassador was stopped and the passengers terrified Wednesday night.

One of the worst train robberies of the century caused a loss of more than $1,000 to passengers go the Ambassador.

Two bandits were set up. Bloodhounds came in from Virginia on the chance the daring bandits were hiding somewhere in the hills. They picked up no trail.

For several hours after the express was held up there was some confusion as to how many robbers there were.

Passengers and others were certain there were only two.

The B. and O. could only find a report of two.

But a tavern robbery which occurred not far away after the holdup caused police to spend some time looking for four. They abandoned the search later.

Parents Call Story 'Grossly Untrue'

Brampton, March 10 (CP)—Reports that their son, James, eight, had run away from school because of severe strappings by a teacher were "grossly untrue," Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Richards said today.

The boy left his home late Tuesday night and was not found until Wednesday when he was found sitting under a tree near his home.

The parents said the boy was strapped last November and the punishment had nothing to do with his running away from home.

"I admit he was strapped, but severe," said the father, "I complained to the Board about the punishment and it was given a different teacher."

Prime Minister Ready to Give Orders-in-Council

Ottawa, March 10 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday told the Commons the government has no desire to prevent anybody from seeing council.

He made a lengthy statement on this form of government administration and form of legislative enactment on the authority of either statutes or government prerogative — which is exercised annually a subject of protest in opposition circles.

The prime minister was specifically answering questions asked by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) about the number of orders-in-council passed in certain periods.

They are so numerous that the prime minister suggested it would help the work of the House document room if all were put in.

"Between Sept. 1, 1939, and last March 4," there were 15,382 orders-in-council but more than half of them were routine minutes of the treasury board having to do with personnel and expenditures already authorized by parliament.

A great many of the regulatory orders-in-council are passed by authority of statutes. The great majority have no general public interest, the prime minister said.

He tabled two groups of 100 successive orders each passed during periods mentioned in Mr. Diefenbaker's questions, as descriptive cross-sections of the matters dealt with in this way.

The prime minister also offered to submit monthly lists of orders-in-council for the information of the opposition leaving it open for members to ask for production of any in which they were interested.

Australian Floods Drown Land Where Five Million Sheep Perished

Sydney, Australia, March 10 (CP)— Planes today began dropping food parcels to more than 60 ranches isolated by flood waters sweeping through "the Dry Corner" in northwestern New South Wales.

Police and medical department officials accompanied the aircraft 12-pound parcels soon after dawn this morning. Other light aircraft left broken hill to fly a shuttle service to the small township of Tibooburra, short of food for a week.

The flooded districts in some parts are 60 miles wide and cover ground that until last Christmas was gripped by the most disastrous drought in history. No rain had fallen for three to six years and in the sheep-grazing belt extending from Broken Hill through Tibooburra to Cunnery in the northwest Queensland an estimated 5,000,000 Merino sheep perished.

About 1,300 people are isolated by the floods but police fear for the safety of only two men and one woman.

The family of six, including 3 young children, camped on open ground on a sand hill which they reached after water entered their homestead. They took a wireless set and messaged the "Flying Doctor." Base for food, blankets and tents which were dropped to them today.

The "Flying Doctor" base at Broken Hill is taking orders for food from isolated ranches by wireless and relaying them to police stations.

Husband Held On Murder Count After Wife Shot

Rock Island, Ill., March 10 — (AP) — Joseph Matusik, 44, who claimed an elaborate wire tapping system in his home in an attempt to trap the killer of his unfaithfulness, Wednesday was charged with the murder.

There was no indication uncovered that Mrs. Matusik was unfaithful, police said.

Mrs. Eva Matusik, 40, was shot to death in the bedroom of their home Monday night. A coroner's jury alleged that Matusik shot his wife and then slashed his own wrists. The wire recording system, police said, picked up Matusik's own cries of remorse.

The coroner's jury verdict recommended a murder warrant, which was served on Matusik today in his hospital bed. His condition is described as "fairly good" and he is expected to recover.

H.J.SwetmanDies Managed Beaver Club Two Years

Toronto, March 10. (CP)—Herbert James Swetman, 60, executive secretary of the Canadian Save the Children Fund and for two years manager of the Beaver Club in London during the Second World War, died Wednesday.

During the First World War, he was director of Y.M.C.A. activities in England and France.

Born at Bloomfield, Ont., Mr. Swetman was educated at Picton and for some years held executive positions with Y.M.C.A. branches at Toronto, Winnipeg and Montreal.

In 1940 he went to England and was named manager of the Beaver Club and later took over the Y.M.C.A. in London.

Irate Residents of Australian Town Pelt Communists With Rotten Eggs

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, March 10.— (CP) — Residents of the small town of Bourke in New South Wales pelted eggs to take the law into their own hands and "run every damned Communist out of town."

It was understood that about 30 Communists and Communist sympathizers are among the town's population of 2,000.

The decision by the Residents' Group followed a Communist-convened meeting Wednesday night when some 1,500 townsfolk turned it into a minor riot.

The meeting was held in support of Dr. H. J. P. McKechnie, Communist nominee in the Coloar by-election for New South Wales' State legislature the townsfolk attacked four Communists and pelted them with rotten eggs and stink bombs.

When McKeechin tried to shout above the singing, the crowd surged forward and smashed his campaign table to pieces. They tore the coat and shirt from his back and pursued him to the police station where he and his supporters ran for protection.

The crowd remained outside the station for four hours demanding that police surrender McKeekin and his followers.

Wednesday night's meeting came only a few days after a statement by L. L. Sharkey, general secretary of the Australian Communist Party, that Australian Workers would welcome Soviet troops to Australia "if in pursuit of aggressor". This followed the line of other Communist leaders throughout the world.

The feeling at Bourke today is said to be typical of that all over Australia.

SMELT FISHERMEN PREPARING FOR RUN

Smelt fishermen of the district predict an early run of the tasty piscatorial delicia this year. Continued mild weather, they say, may force the fishlets to conduct their annual forays on creek and river mouths, nearly a month ahead of the ordinary schedule.

Smelt may be caught without the ordinary $1 Ontario license between April 1 and May. Nets must not measure more by six inches by nine inches and seines 30 feet by six feet deep. Mesh must not be smaller than one-and-quarter inches.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL WILL NOT ATTEND LEGION MOTOR SHOW

His Excellency Viscount Alexander of Tunis, Governor - General of Canada has forwarded his regrets to officials of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Legion at his inability to open the Motor Show being sponsored by that organization on the 17th.

In a communication from his secretary, Maj. General H. P. G. Letson, the Governor-General thanks Legion president Max Matthews and expressed his best wishes for every success in the venture.

WAGE RATE SET FOR BRICKLAYERS AND PLASTERERS

Wage rates for bricklayers and plasterers in the Belleville district for 1940 will remain at $1.25 per hour, it was decided at a meeting of the local bricklayers and plasterers union held recently at the Hotel Quinte. It was decided that wages were to remain at the prevailing rate until further notice.

The meeting also assured that the local union would be in a position to supply all the labor needed by local contractors. President of the local, Mr. Arthur Ellis, presided over the meeting.

Three Accidents Due to Slippery Road Conditions

A warning to local motorists to drive with caution on city streets which have been turned into an extremely slippery condition as result of last night's snowstorm, was given today by Police Chief Walter Probert.

During last night three motor accidents resulting in considerable property damage resulted, although fortunately no personal injuries were suffered. All three accidents were stated to have occurred as result of slippery street conditions.

Two of the accidents occurred this morning at the intersection of Coleman and Water Streets as vehicles clashed as they went out of control on the curve.

The R.C.A.F. school bus from Mountain, Mel. Gerrow, driven by Keith Fox, city, collided on the same corner. Damage to the two vehicles amounted to about $200.

The other accident occurred on Dundas Street East, last evening, when a car sideswiped a parked transport. The entire right side of the car was damaged as the vehicle went into a skid as the driver turned out to pass the transport.

Human Polar Bear to Take Dip Next Sunday

The reason is that on Sunday afternoon Krikor will give an exhibition of "polar bear" swimming by cavorting in the icy water just off the government dock in an open space left by ice cutters.

Hekimian, 34-years-old and of Armenian descent, is no stranger here, having worked in this city at the Stewart-Warner-Alemite plant back in 1935. Around that time he staged a winter swimming exhibition in the Bay of Quinte which drew a large crowd of interested spectators to see the human seal perform.

"My only fear is," the burly Armenian confided here yesterday, "is that the water on Sunday will be too warm."

He claims he has swum in water with the air temperature 30-to 40 below zero and never got as much as a goose pimple.

Krikor started his winter swimming exhibitions about 20 years ago when he fell into the water while skating on a river. Finding the water was comfortable to me so he took to the government dock, and clad only in his bathing trunks will splash about in the ice-bound waters of the bay.

Krikor says he always likes company and will welcome anyone and all comers with a yen for cold showers to take a swim with him in the bay—using 16 inches of bay ice as a spring board. Br-r-r.

29 Cases Listed But Court of Brief Duration

Although a total of 29 cases were listed on the docket of the weekly magistrate's court here, the court proceedings were but brief this morning after almost all cases were either settled out of court or laid over to a later court.

Seven L.C.A. charges were listed on the docket, all of them either charges of intoxication or of consuming. Three were settled out of court with fines and costs being paid.

The balance of the court was composed of traffic charges, the majority of which were settled out of court.

The nature of many of the charges laid provided that local police officers are making a close check of vehicles operating on the highway without the proper lights and brakes and other equipment.

Royal Commission Hearing Delayed Until March 21

Scheduled to re-convene on March 14th., following a three weeks adjournment, the Royal Commission investigating charges of maladministration of justice, interference and perjury on the part of the crown attorney and seven provincial police officers, has been further adjourned until March 21st.

Word to this effect was received in the city today from C. F. Hope, royal commission counsel and solicitor for the attorney general's department.

The royal commission hearing concerned conditions here during February 7th. before Commissioner Mr. Justice Wesley Gray and after evidence being taken for two weeks was adjourned to enable Mr. Justice McGarry to take a Supreme Court sitting.

Courtroom Filled Daily

The county court room was jammed to the fullest capacity almost every day of hearing as interested residents of the city and district listened to Provincial Constable J. E. Keays level charges against Crown Attorney R.C. Donnan and seven provincial police officers.

Keays charged Crown Attorney Donnan with complicity in a fraud against the public and with interfering with his investigations into the Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer, and Inspectors A. W. Page of Belleville, and T. W. Cousens of Peterboro were charged with failing to take disciplinary action against officers of the force who he claimed had perjured themselves in making police reports.

(In addition to the above officers Sgt. A. A. Stringer of Ottawa and Cpl. Sam Ervine of Belleville and Constables J. B. Driscoll and C. B. Purdy were named.

On Stand Five Days

For five straight days after the royal commission investigation commenced, Constable Keays gave evidence from the witness stand relative to the various charges against Crown Attorney Donnan and provincial police officers. Later he was cross-examined by Malcolm Robb, solicitor acting for the provincial police officers and by Crown Attorney Donnan.

Witnesses called during the first two weeks of the hearing included Judge W. C. A. Marion, county judge for Dundas and Russell counties, who testified with respect to the double killing at Navan Ontario, in 1940.

Constable Keays had charged that Sgt. A. A. Stringer, who had shot and killed one John Mikulec the latter had been drinking. Provincial Constable Harold Dent, had turned in a false report of the shooting.

Keays said Stringer reported Mikl had been killed in a gun duel in which several shots were fired and said he would prove that only one shot had been fired. He said that a witness, George Smith of Navan could substantiate this but stated this witness had not been called at the Dent inquest.

Sgt. Stringer was also called to testify. Provincial Inspector Cousens testified that Smith had been called at the Dent inquest.

The royal commission hearing is expected to last at least another ten days to two weeks as upwards of 30 witnesses remain to be called.

One Missing Youth Back in Kingston

Kingston, March 10 (CP)—One of two Kingston youths missing since March 2, William Prior, has returned home Wednesday night. His companion, Peter Marson, 16, still is missing.

Prior said after being refused entry into the United States, the pair had split up at Woodstock. They had agreed to meet at Brantford, but when Marson did not show up, Prior returned home. They had been trying to locate jobs.

BANCROFT

Logger Killed When Struck by Log Jammer

Bancroft, March 10 (Special)—Struck by a log jammer which toppled over onto him as he was moving it with a bulldozer, Henry Edwards of Apsley, employee of the Standard Chemical Company at Harcourt, was almost instantly killed Wednesday evening.

The log jammer, mounted on a stone boat, was being moved by Edwards to another position, when the accident occurred. Nearby workmen saw the jammer start to topple and called a warning, but the noise of the bulldozer drowned out their voices. Edwards died about fifteen minutes after the accident.

Edwards leaves a wife and two daughters in Apsley.

New Hotel Will Feature Large Banquet Room

The new hotel to be constructed by Floyd E. Martin of this city on Dundas Street, East, will contain a basement banquet hall capable of seating 250 persons, it was learned today from Mr. Martin.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 10 — (CP) — Prices moved narrowly in dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Industrials were easier in the early dealings but tended stronger as the session progressed and action increased. Base metals slipped slightly and western oils were weaker. Golds were steady in slow action.

Volume for the first three hours was 432,000 shares, about 46,000 shares more than yesterday's similar period.

Papers were down fractions in the industrial groupings but several early losses were completely recovered as the board slowly forged upwards. Steels brightened and a few refining oils were mixed. Liquors weakened.

Base metals continued yesterday's decline in early trading.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto March 10 (CP)—Prices on the livestock market here up to noon were steady at Wednesday's decline. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 41; calves none; hogs 100; sheep and lambs none. Left from yesterday's trading were 100 head.

Some weighty steers sold at $19.50-$20.50 and light steers and heifers were $18-$19.50. A few bulls sold at $16.50-$19.50. Vel yearlings were $18.50-$22.

Hogs were steady at $31.25 for grade A and $30.85 for grade B1.

PRODUCE MARKET

Butter prints, down one cent. First grade 67; second grade 59.

The egg market continues steady at unchanged prices. Grade A large are in good supply but other grades are short. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: grade A large 55; grade A medium 42; grade A pullet 40; grade B 40; grade C 34. Wholesale to retail: grade A large 46-47; grade A medium 43-46; grade A pullet 43-44; grade B 44; grade C 37.

Butter solids are being offered at 60-61, but buyers are not interested, and no sales were reported.

$22.50 Per Ton For Canning Corn

Hamilton, March 10. (CP)—Ontario Canning Companies Wednesday night agreed to pay farmers $22.50 a ton—an increase of 50 cents a ton—for the 1949 canning corn crop.

The corn price was fixed after 12 hours of negotiations between the Ontario Vegetable Growers Marketing Board and the Canned Goods Association of Ontario, Growers had asked $25 a ton for corn.

The two groups agreed to discuss the price of beans next week and left the price of peas for arbitration.

E. G. Stokely, a Canners' representative, said canned goods prices have been falling and canners could not meet the 1948 price for peas this year. R. E. Anderson told the meeting growing costs still were increasing.

Ease Restrictions On Use of Butter

Ottawa, March 10 — (CP) — With the butter supply problem apparently relieved, the Prices Board today called several restrictions imposed last fall when possibilities of a shortage loomed.

The restrictions, lifted as of tomorrow, required permits for the industrial use of butter, the packaging of butter in metal containers, and for the movement of butter from the prairie provinces. All were designed to give the board power to control allocation of butter in case of a shortage.

BRIGHTON & MURRAY DISTRICT

Brighton and Murray—Quite a number were present at the World's Day of Prayer service held in Smithfield United Church on Friday evening.

Miss Elva Locklin gave a splendid address on the significance of the World Day of Prayer and the projects to which the offering are given.

Members E. Lauder, A. Hayes, C. Ireland, R. Breeze, E Bedal, H Rouse and H Miller took part in the service

After this service many children joined for fun and contesting pictures on scenes in "The Canadian Rockies" and "Skiing in Quebec" were enjoyed.

Once in two weeks pictures are shown more especially for the children and young people, but adults enjoy them also.

Captain Says Reports of 'Mutiny' Exaggerated, Event Like Family Upset

Balboa, Canal Zone, March 10 (CP)—Cmdr. M. A. Mediand, captain of the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan, today described as "grossly exaggerated" reports that there had been a "mutiny" aboard his ship.

An investigation is under way of the incident which Cmdr. Mediand likened to a "family upset." The incident, which gave rise to the mutiny report occurred Feb. 28 while the ship was oiling at Mazanillo Bay, Mexico.

"The man asked some questions and I answered them," the captain said.

He added that an anonymous letter had been printed in a newspaper in Vancouver wherein the "vicious word 'mutiny'" was used. He said this explained the sensation which has been caused.

Cmdr. Mediand said the questions the men asked involved "routine" matters of work schedules. He said the ship had not been delayed in any way by the incident.

Asked whether any disciplinary action results, the captain said the investigation still is under way and that no final decision has been made.

Answering a question whether any officers participated, he said the incident involved "only junior men and no senior men." He said there had been no further occurrence since.

Spectroscope Determines Value And Depth of Ores in Ground

Ottawa, March 10 (CP)— Possibilities of a new scientific method of prospecting —by spectroscope— held the attention of some 200 scientists here today at the first annual regional conference of the Chemical Institute of Canada.

The spectroscope, with its companion, spectrograph, will tell the prospector in a flash whether there are minerals under his feet, what kind, how deep, and whether there is enough to be worthwhile digging for.

The machine works by electrical rays or ignitions which probe the substance under examination, determine its composition and record the findings on the spectrograph for later study.

The meeting will wind up its entire opening session with technical discussions on the machine.

A detailed discussion of the actual uses of the spectroscope was given by Dr. M. H. Haycock of the Bureau of Mines, Ottawa. Dr. Haycock told how the extreme sensitivity of the instrument made it particularly useful for the determination of elements present in minute quantities. He also said that the use of specific chemical methods had proved inadequate in many cases where chemical analysis had proven very difficult and inaccurate.

The spectrograph as a "detective tool" was the subject of a paper read by Dr. J. Convey, also of the Bureau of Mines. He described the instrument as "an unrivalled aid to science."

Scientists from the United States and various parts of Canada are attending the two day conference.

SHANNONVILLE
Mrs. B. Hinchey Entertains Family On 92nd Birthday

Shannonville — One of the oldest ladies of Shannonville district, Mrs. Baptiste Hinchey, celebrated her 92nd birthday at her home last Monday. Despite her advanced years, Mrs. Hinchey is still an active woman and keeps house for her son, Hugh. She is a gracious hostess and has a keen memory for a lady of her years.

Mrs. Hinchey was born on March 7th in the year 1857 at Camden East, near the town of Napanee. She married Baptiste Hinchey when 23 years of age, making her new home in the Shannonville district.

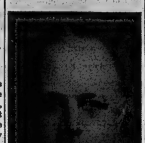
Mr. and Mrs. Hinchey were blessed with a family of seven boys and two girls, two sons passing on before reaching manhood and Mr. Hinchey in 1926.

Mrs. Hinchey is a fine example of a good Christian mother. Pioneers of this district relate of her regular attendance at Sunday School and church, with all her family, in the days of transportation by horse-drawn vehicles.

Mrs. Hinchey received many cards and letters from friends near and far, congratulating her on her advanced years, and with best wishes for many more similar occasions.

All Mrs. Hinchey's family were home for her birthday party with the exception of her son, Rockwell, who is a United Church minister in Edmonton, Alberta. Rockwell was home on the occasion of his mother's 90th birthday.

Members of the family present were: Laura, Mrs. Baldwin, of Toronto; Mabel, Mrs. Pearsall, of Belleville; and the four sons,—Frank of Belleville, who is in the insurance business; Damon, who resides near his old home, who farms and also is a drover; Hugh, who resides at home and farms, and Elroy, who also farms in the vicinity.



Three of Mrs. Hinchey's four grandchildren were present on this occasion: James and Tommy, sons of Damon; and Mrs. Annie Cruickshanks, of Toronto, daughter of Mrs. Baldwin.

Mrs. Hinchey has two great-grandchildren, the son of her granddaughter, Mrs. Cruickshanks of Toronto, and the daughter of her grandson, Mr. Leslie Pearsall, who resided in Fairlawn, New York State. Great-grandson was present on this special occasion.

During the day Mrs. Hinchey received telephone calls from her son Rockwell, in Edmonton, Alberta, and from grandson Leslie Pearsall, of Fairlawn, New York.

The many friends in the community extend their best wishes to Mrs. Hinchey and hope she will continue to enjoy good health.

Basic Lighting In Portraiture Explained to Club

At the meeting of the Belleville Camera Club held this week at the Thompson and Riley studios, Mr. John Zufelt gave an instructive and interesting demonstration on the basic lighting in portraiture.

Mr. Zufelt, a former Belleville resident, runs a successful studio in Port Hope and is a charter member of the Camera Club.

The print competitions, with "Snow Scenes" the subject, were held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. W. Howard. In spite of the scarcity of snow this winter, an interesting number of prints were submitted. The winners in the senior section were: first, N. F. Tonkin, second, Hedley James, third, Dorothy Howard. Joy Howard won the intermediate section and Mr. George Drummond the snapshot section. Miss Frances Jem Pinkie posed for several lighting effects.

FROM MOLOTOFF TO VISHINSKY

The change from Molotoff as Russia's foreign minister to Vishinsky has had the world guessing for days. For especially diplomats who would be most interested, analysts and newspaper correspondents this is still the talk of the world. Naturally Russia is not revealing anything that the outside world would like to know if it is to the advantage of Russia to keep it under cover for the time being. As one editor comments, if the change as a result of the switching of the official holding the office of foreign minister is of great importance to Russia the course of Russian action in the future will show it in the tactics of the Soviets.

There have been guesses as to the significance and the underlying cause but they are not proven. One view is that the answer to Russian expansion of interest made by the Western democracies in the formation of the Western Union of the five democratic states in West Europe and of the Northern Atlantic Alliance with the aim of security was more than Russia expected from the democracies and that she is disappointed with the conduct of her foreign policy. But that is mere conjecture. Another opinion is that there are wide differences among the Communist leaders in Russia and that one group wants to concentrate on Russia and another that communism must go on, with its proclaimed plan of strengthening itself throughout the world. There is reported another view that there are Russians who do not believe that the nations at large will accept communism rather than democracy and that Russia must strengthen her arm in the expansion of Communist tenets. There are suggestions offered that Stalin is feeling the growing weight of years and would retire but no one can point to any sign he will retire. Others refer to the possibility of a modification of Russia's cold war attitude.

But these are all guesses. However Russian reaction will no doubt be the better guide for it will in future probably reflect in some way whatever changes there are which have been behind the recent scene changing. The future will have something to reveal, no doubt as to what is now going on in the Red world.

One fact does stand on the democratic side, the Marshall plan is showing the proof of its value in improving conditions abroad. The democracies of Western Europe and the North Atlantic Nations also are showing that they are possessed of a vitality which cannot fail to be noted by the Russians.

THE ROBIN'S RETURN

"Spring the sweet spring, the year's pleasant king, when birds do sing hey ding-a-ding" is very near at hand. A little robin says so. He appeared here on Tuesday and made no effort to hide himself. Robins never do.

Most people will trust the robin for a weather prophet for he belongs to that part of creation that has many problems to solve and their solution through ages has become a part of his nature. The bird has to fly north when spring's heralds begin to toot their glad horns, telling that time has been marching on. Of course there are robins that have been known to stay in a warmer land in the north but the story of a returned robin—well, the people will believe it every time. For man is even more optimistic than the birds which have some subtle mechanism in their makeup of which man has none but depends on the records of calendars and almanacs and historians that spring never fails to put in an appearance about this time of the year.

The robin is the most merry herald of good weather and spring that man knows. The northern clime welcomes back many birds but the robin has an appeal all of his own, through his familiarity with man and man's habitation. Some of these birds are said to have known to stay in the north in the winter but robins for all that are migrants, they leave in the early autumn and come back when the traffic ways of the atmosphere are clear. His cheery note from the housetop, his familiarity with men and his inquisitiveness exposed, especially when he takes more than usual interest in man, as he watches the human digging with a fork for worms, are well known. All his manners make him a popular bird even though he may be noisy at times especially when birdland's enemy, the cat, is prowling about.

Without him the year would lose much of its charm, from the air would disappear those wild notes of his that are of assumed appeal, especially those lovely notes as he on a roof top sings his evening song.

Great souls are not those which have less passion and more virtue than common souls, but only those which have greater designs.—Rochefoucauld.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
(Copyright, 1940, Edgar A. Guest)

SUPPRESSION

Behind the curtain should they jest,
Both pen and voice would be suppressed.
Tyrants are sensitive and proud
To laugh at them is not allowed.

And should some thinker dare to say:
"Perhaps there is a better way
To rule and serve," 'tis likely he
Would not rejoin his company.

Then should his wife and children seek
His whereabouts from week to week,
They'd learn, if safely they would live,
They mustn't be inquisitive.

How love a land where all are cowed
And laughter cannot be allowed,
And those who utter thoughts sincere
Mysteriously disappear?

Fearless Abbe Tries to Promote Understanding Between French And English-Speaking Canadians

By PIERRE DUBOIS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, March 10 — (CP)— A lean, scholarly Roman Catholic priest whose campaign for national unity has brought anonymous threats of violence to his door, is carrying on a cause which he cannot end in complete victory.

Although the tempests his outspoken views have raised throughout Canada now have abated, Abbe Arthur Maheux today remains one of the most controversial figures on the national scene in Quebec. But even his enemies have deep respect for the Laval University professor.

Monsieur L'Abbe tackled the most explosive topics in bilingual Canada during the hectic war years when he stumped the Dominion from Halifax to Vancouver trying to promote a greater understanding between French and English-speaking Canadians.

Like a fond parent trying to local sons, and his stubborn children, he administered verbal spankings to both sides, sparing neither.

His public addresses and the books he wrote on the subject contained simple, homely illustrations of his good friends, between French and English-speaking people. He still contributes articles regularly, in both languages, to the Montreal Star on various problems as he sees them in Canada today.

With the philosophical outlook that comes with experience and profound study, Abbe Maheux today looks back on his campaign as something contentious which inevitably would bring him bitter criticisms, but he believes that the movement gained ground.

"I even received anonymous letters in the early days threatening me," he said in an interview.

In Quebec, his bitterest critics were people with strong nationalistic leanings. So far as they concerned, he could have done little worse had he sold himself to the devil rather than to say the English were not always at fault in their past dealings with the French.

"Any time the Nationalists want to battle it out I am ready," said the 64-year-old priest, a direct descendant of pioneering stock, who was born in the Gaspe-Peninsula village of Port-de-Megantic. Because of his modest contribution to the war effort he was invested with the Order of the British Empire, civilian branch.

Racial differences in a country such as Canada never will be completely solved, he said. But greater understanding and more amicable relations can be fostered by the people themselves seeking the facts of problems rather than relying on hearsay evidence about each other's good or bad points.

Mackenzie's Column: N. Atlantic Pact Seen Instrument To Preserve Peace

(Editor's note: This column is presented as an indication of American reaction to major world events)

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

The North Atlantic Alliance, which finally has been approved in draft form by all parties, is generally described as a defensive pact — a powerful instrument for the preservation of peace.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada, whose country is one of the subscribers to the alliance, emphasized this point in a speech in Montreal the other day. He said:

"For my part, I am convinced that this agreement must practical way of assuring maintenance of peace is to bring about as soon as possible the union of nations friendly to peace.

"There is no doubt that war is avoidable — and I am sure that if we adopt a firm and united policy we can avoid war. But one point we have to be lacking most elementary realism to consider war an impossibility."

Peace Insurance

So the Atlantic Alliance is calculated to be peace insurance. Apropos of this, State Secretary Acheson Wednesday told a press conference that he considered that the treaty as now drawn provides means for eliminating a sense of insecurity thereby aiding recovery among the signatory nations.

The countries which thus far have participated in drafting the pact include the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Norway and Luxembourg. Others who may join are Denmark, Iceland, Portugal and Italy. And the word burning midnight oil in debating the question whether Spain, Greece or she should desert her traditional neutrality and follow the lead of the other Mediterranean leaguer, Norway and Denmark.

Obviously such an alliance, no matter how peacefully designed, must be expected to cause heartburnings in eastern Europe. Thus it isn't surprising there should be a report from the powerful communistic (international information bureau) might be prepared to launch a counter-alliance to match the North Atlantic Pact.

Recently all the cominform countries formed a Council for Mutual Aid as a parallel to the Marshall plan.

Parallel Group

At that time some observers predicted that a parallel military organization also would be formed. The cominform countries already have mutual - assistance pacts with Moscow. However these pacts don't have the character of a general alliance. They pledge only mutual action in case of war with Germany or a power joined directly or indirectly with Germany.

The question now is whether the cominform meeting reported to be scheduled for mid - March will form a military bloc to counter the Atlantic Alliance. Still, such a development wouldn't greatly alter the relative positions of the eastern and western groups.

A Tribute

Monday evening the 'phone rang—Belleville calling—and in a few moments I knew that our old and true friend Tom Wims had passed away in his 87th. year. Tom, as he was affectionately known to many, bore the unique and kindly personality which was one of his outstanding characteristics; he had that quality of sympathetic understanding that won for him the love, respect and affection of all his neighbors around Elmer Street.

Tom's life was truly doing something for someone in the neighborhood. Many a time vegetables from his well kept garden would be shyly handed over to his friends for them to take home. I doubt if any garden in Belleville or district produced more succulent "Irish cobblers" as cane from Tom Wims' garden—he was, or perhaps was an entirely new denture ultimately. Across the table at dinner one evening sat a man who declared he had lost several front teeth that day; he was having his new denture, enjoying his dinner and looking his best. He had worn one for later that his teeth had been extracted.

The Chicago there was a peculiar reaction to advocacy of immediate denture service by the authorized spokesman for the dental profession in that neighborhood. Newspapers got busy to inform the public that there was no such thing as immediate denture service and implied that the crazy notion was just another of my "nine days' wonders."

Elsewhere in the United States and Canada good dentists routinely give this service. For all I know it may be available even in Chicago now.

Flood-Control Dam Approved

Ottawa, March 10 — (CP) — The South Nation River Conservation Authority yesterday approved final plans for a $234,000 flood-control dam and reservoir at Spencerville, Ont., about 30 miles south of here.

Specifications for the dam — first step in a $2,213,000 program of flood-control and reforestation in the South Nation valley—will be submitted to a general meeting of the authority shortly.

Representatives of some 30 municipalities concerned in the project will be given the chance to stamp their approval of the plan before construction gets under way. Completion of the dam is expected this year.

Edmonton — (CP) — A thief recently left his coat in exchange for one stolen from an automobile but didn't replace a 12-ounce bottle of liquor which was in the pocket of the stolen article.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Periodically, it the big cities, with an eye for business? Is it the police raid the Chinese section and drag into court a number of gentle Celestials on charges of keeping and being found in gambling houses. Time off when person were found in these raids, and sometimes the action would be better understood by thousands of Canadians who have a pretty soft spot in their hearts for the Chinese.

But to keep pestering these industrious and very admirable citizens on the grounds of their one little hobby, kept so rigorously under cover of the tribe, seems a bit of a shame.

Is it to protect them from sharks within their own segregation? The Chinese require little protection. They are amongst the most valiant people on the earth, and full of a prudent wisdom. Here is something to remember about them. When prospectors or migrants open up a new community in a far and unknown part of the country, who is the first arrival there is a Scotchman or a Jew? No, it is generally a Chinese, merrily busily bringing with him the tools and equipment with which to open an eating house, the essential of the new community. And if he stays long until, over his shack, he has lodgings to let. That is the cosmopolitan nature of this country's frontier. We are prone to think of the Chinese as mild and inoffensive people. Since the California gold rush exactly one century ago, when they were first brought over as mine laborers, Chinese have, in the number of hundreds and hundreds of thousands, been among the most gallant pioneers of this continent.

Perhaps their only defect is that they have such fine, such cultivated manners. Not their manners but their gentility forbids them to protest against our rudeness to them. Like gentlemen everywhere, they do not expect others to live up to their standards.

BOOKS AND LIFE

If you were compelled to spend ten years on a desert island and could take only a few books with you, which ones would you choose?

Personally, I should want the Bible, several of Shakespeare's plays, the Imitation of Christ by Thomas a Kempis, Wordsworth's Poems, and some of the writings of John Bunyan.

Looking back over the past fifty years, certain books and pamphlets stand out in my experience as having been especially influential. The Bible, of course, is chief among these. The other book which influenced me most was Sartor Resartus by Thomas Carlyle. The whole course of my thought-life was changed by reading that book. An incomplete but religious tract, most of the contents of which I have forgotten, is the pamphlet by Drummond which was to turn my thoughts in a new direction. The between 1905 and 1920 thousands of us were influenced by the editorials and articles of Lyman Abbott, which appeared in the weekly magazine "The Outlook."

Every educated person has felt the impact of good books on his mind and life. What were the books which influenced you most?

THAT TOOTH IS DEAD THE CARPENTER SAID

One reason why the dentists organized was to protect themselves members of the profession and particularly the editors of the Journal of the American Dental Association hate my, my, my different ways is my belief that something about brushing the teeth. On several occasions in the past ten years I have told here the story of Dr. Leban and his business and professional people, of what he thinks about brushing the teeth. This means that when extraction is necessary that is necessary the dentist prepares in advance the plate, bridge or other appliance so that it can immediately after the extraction. The patient goes to the dentist's home and continues wearing it indefinitely — of course with such adjustments as the dentist may deem necessary from time to time, or perhaps even an entirely new denture ultimately. WEDDINGS

THOMAS—STEPHENSON

St. Michael's rectory was recently the scene of the marriage of Mrs. Dorothy Stephenson, daughter of Mrs. Mary Margaret Boyer, and the late Mr. Boyer, and John Albert Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas of Cannifton. The Rev. Father Carley officiated.

The bride, who wore a grey wool suit with brown accessories, and corsage of red roses, was attended by her sister, Miss Evelyn Boyer, wearing a green wool suit with brown accessories and corsage of red roses.

Mr. Delphus Boyer was groomsman.

The reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Allan Lott and Mr. Lott, where the bride's mother, in a navy blue wool-knit dress with black accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, assisted by the bridegroom's mother in a powder blue with black accessories and corsage of pink carnations received the many guests.

The tea table, with its lace cloth, pink and white streamers, centred by the three-tiered wedding cake, with silver services, was very charming and appropriately reflected the happy note of the occasion.

The tea was poured by Mrs. Bert Bleakney, Mrs. Ivan Bedell, while the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Ted Burling, Mrs. George Shorey, Mrs. Elmer Shorey, Mrs. Carl Wares, Mrs. Ernest Hagerman, Mrs. Charlie Hodgson, Mrs. George Thomas.

Club Activities

KINNETTE CLUB

An enjoyable dinner meeting of the Kinnette Club was held on Monday evening last at 7 p.m., at 231 William Street. Mrs. Hazel Wilbur presided, breakfast and luncheon dishes were sold as well as two guests of honor, Mrs. Gwen McDougall, Mrs. Dorothy Smith.

Mrs. Maude Rollins of the Kinnette Club, reported on the details of their coming free T.B. X-ray clinic, which opens on April 4. Each Kinnette member is backing this project 100 per cent and each one is pledged to go to canvass, from door to door.

After the business part of the meeting had been attended to, a social time was much enjoyed.

ENERGETIC CLUB

On Monday evening the Young Married Couples of Stirling, sponsored by the Energetic Club, presented a play by A. Small "Town Romeo" in Holloway Street Church.

A large crowd enjoyed the comedy which was threaded with a love interest.

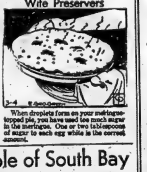
The members of the cast gave a splendid rendition of bringing the play the splendid success that it is.

BETHESDA Y.P.U.

A very enjoyable time was had by all on Friday evening when the members of the Bethesda Y.P.U. were the guests of Bridge Street Y.P.U. for Uncle Charlie's initiative evening, under the leadership of Miss Margaret Martell.

The evening opened with a sing-song led by Miss Lorelle McDougall. The guests were welcomed by the president of Bridge Street Y.P.U., Mr. John Reader, who then conducted the business period. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Miss Peggie Martell, president of Bethesda Y.P.U., then called on the annual Fellowship Supper on Easter Monday at 6.30 p.m. afternoon and evening services.



The service of worship was led by Mrs. T. Clarke and assisted by Misses Margaret Martell and Lorelle McDougall, their theme being "Jesus Calling People to Discipleship". The solo hands Rickard favored with a solo "My Task".

A period of music appreciation was presented by Mr. S. Alec Gordon, organist of Bridge Street United Church, who played compositions ranging from those by old masters to modern selections, including one of his own compositions.

After this most enjoyable program the group adjourned to the church school hall for recreation, led by Miss Loretta McDougall. Appreciation for the evening of entertainment, and fellowship was expressed by Mr. A. Pearsall, president of Bethesda Y.P.U.

Dainty refreshments were served by the Bridge Street Union and the evening came to end with a friendship circle and "Taps".

Grand Old Couple of South Bay To Celebrate 60th Anniversary Of Their Wedding on Sunday

Point Traverse — South Bay's grand old couple, Mr. and Mrs. Burgess S. Jenkins, will celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary this coming Sunday, March 13th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins were married at Milford on March 13, 1889, by Rev. Faul. It was just a quiet ceremony, for it was a rainy morning. Mrs. Jenkins told the Intelligencer "At the time we weren't able to get away for our honeymoon and we returned to stay for there's been where I cared for the household duties." Mr. Jenkins couldn't recall who the best man was, but Mrs. Jenkins said that one of the witnesses at the wedding was Agnes Bond, (Mrs. Wm. McKenna) now of Black Creek, who stood up for them.

Mrs. Jenkins who is 79 years of age, was the daughter of Leonard Albert Stark and Calperina Rorke of South Marysburg. Mr. Jenkins, who recently passed the four score mark of 80 years, was born at Hill Top, son of Richard Jenkins and Sarah Dainard.

53 Years at South Bay

For 53 years they have resided at South Bay. A few years ago the street boasted a record of four married couples, all of whom had celebrated over fifty years of wedded life. They were Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Burgess Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins are the only surviving couple whose union has not been broken by death.

They had three sons and one daughter, Stanley, who is employed to be with his parents on Sunday, is a flight sgt. in the R.C.A.F. and now stationed at Trenton, Ont.; Clarence, who served in both World Wars I and II, passed away at Brockville a few months ago; Earl, who was a guard at Portsmouth Penitentiary, met an untimely death at the hands of an inmate at that institution in 1925. Sadie, Mrs. Alfred Brewer, resides in Montreal. They have ten grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Both enjoy an active life and health.

Hazel Scott Displays Amazing Versatility at Piano Recital

By EUGENE LANG

One of the finest exceptionally interesting musical events of the season was successfully presented to Belleville concert goers in Collegiate auditorium last evening when the sensational talented and modern style of the keyboard, Miss Hazel Scott, demonstrated to the more than one thousand persons in attendance her amazing skill and fine interpretative qualities, as an artist of envious talents.

Born in Trinidad, Miss Scott came to the U.S.A. with her mother at the age of four. She started taking piano lessons from her mother at a very early age and won a scholarship at eight years of age. She started her radio career and that of a night club entertainer in 1936 and in 1939 she became such a rage in New York that her salary jumped from $40 to $4,000 per week. She has starred in numerous motion pictures and is now making her third sold-out concert tour throughout the U. S. and Canada. She has performed as assisting soloist with many of the leading orchestras in both countries.

The program selected by Miss Scott for her debut here was one of great interest, and one that embraced compositions from the days of Scarlatti and Bach to that of the most modern of American composers. Two Sonatas, in C Minor and D Major were first heard, both of these being from the pen of Scarlatti, and were given with a decided affection, even though a trifle too much stress was noticeable on the latter named work. Bach was represented by three compositions, two transcriptions and one original piano work. The Choral "Sheep May Safely Graze" arranged by Myra Hess was beautifully played, the name of the composer the same being true of the Sainte-Saens transcription, "Elegie" and from the Thirteith Church Cantata, a song very familiar and the most welcome to those who like Bach. The Prelude and Fugue in C Sharp Major (from the Well-Tempered Clavier) was expertly played, while the lovely interweaving of the jolly little fugue subject.

Three Chopin Works

For her second group, Miss Scott selected three Chopin works, the Impromptu in A Flat, Op. 29; the Prelude in G Minor, Op. 28, No. 22; and the Nocturne in F Minor, Op. 55, No. 1. All three were given with the utmost of clarity, the artist imparting to each one a personalized treatment all her own, but one that showed her to be thoroughly schooled in the classics from an early age. The Nocturne in F Minor in particular was given an unusually serene rendition, on the hands laid with devoted care and insight. Ernst von Dohnanyi, the modern Hungarian composer had his Rhapsody in C Major, Op. 11 No. 1 played with a gusto and bravura attack that gave those present their first glimpse of the wonderful technical assets endowed to Miss Scott, and in this work she played with the power equal to the best of male pianists. A short Prelude in G Major of Chopin was tossed off as an encore—but how smoothly.

The featured classical work of the first half of the program was the tremendous Sonata in B Flat Minor, Op. 35 of Chopin, known as the "Funeral March" Sonata because of the inclusion in it of the world famous Funeral March. Miss Scott played the entire work with that sincere knowledge of the intricate mastery that this Sonata is imbued with, and her reading of the Funeral March in particular was one of a heart-rendering soulfulness, mixed with a deep contemplative thought.

The Ritual Fire Dance of De Falla was given as an encore, but not as convincingly as could have been done, the code being hurried to an excessive speed.

Chance Style

Following the intermission, Miss Scott left the master composers behind and became now not the interpreter, but the improviser and extemporizer, the composer, and the individualist; in these fields her fame had been won, and here she is supreme in her genre. A medley of popular tunes of Rodgers and Hart, Irving Berlin and Cole Porter was given in such a manner to acquaint the audience with the amazing art of improvisation which is only one of the attributes of the gifted Miss Scott. The various popular ditties stretching back over a period of twenty years were blended together with such ease, yet were handled with the peak of pianistic perfection.

Miss Scott's next group was entirely "swing" in classic style and included two famous master works, Chopin's "Minute Waltz" and Grainger's "Country Gardens". Her distinctive styling was here shown to the delight of all and her improvisatory impersonations was a revel in rhythm and jazz alike. Her phenomenal left-hand technique so awe - struck those watching her that to many it seemed like a machine in perpetual motion, an automaton, shall we say. Never pianist in any field could equal this young girl when it comes to a harmonic verticiency of such high virtuosity, especially the left hand.

Popular Music Demonstrated

The closing group consisted of Miss Scott's own distinctive treatment of the three main types of popular music that has taken the country by storm in the last few years, Blues, Boogie - Woogie and Bop.

For each type of these three forms she gave a full measure of their meanings and their importance in the evolution of present-day jazz. Two original numbers in illustrations of Miss Scott's were used to show these forms off to their best advantage. The "Blues" was exemplified by "What Happened to the City?" and "Boogie - Woogie" had as its example another composition by Miss Scott, "Boogie Bop" and for the latest in modern innovations the "Bop" or "Be-Bop" (progressive jazz, according to the intellectuals, is the definition given by Miss Scott) was the old favorite of the late twenties, "My Blue Heaven". In all three instances, it had the audience swaying to the pulsating rhythms, and the steady beat of her foot had those out front doing likewise, the jean-agers present in particular. One must admit that to master any one of these three styles of piano playing is a feat in itself, but to have the power to trol over all three is actually miraculous. Therefore, it is safe to say that Hazel Scott's performance is an experience not soon to be forgotten by those present last night.

Two encores were graciously rendered, firstly a most attractive and smooth playing of "The Man I Love", and in this number only Miss Scott gave in to requests from the audience for singing this number with the subtle "Porchy" intonation in her voice. Finally a very distinctive version of "Body and Soul" was played, this bringing the concert to its close.

It might be remarked that Miss Scott's stage personality was one of simplicity and congeniality, a trait that is not always easy for a concert artist to acquire, but one that she has in full measure, and it makes for a much more receptive audience in regards their attitude to the performer.

COMPOSER LORES SUIT

Los Angeles, March 10 (AP)—Composer Igor Stravinsky Wednesday lost his suit for $250,000 damages over the publishing of one of his famed "firebird suite" themes. The composer sued the Leeds Music Corporation, claiming that the firm had improperly published him while writing a popular song, "Summer Moon," which was based on the Stravinsky suite.

HUMAN EYES SHIPPED

Newark, N. J., March 10 (AP)—A plane bearing the first international shipment of human eyes arrived here Wednesday night from Houston, Tex. The plane carried a thermos bottle with a pair of eyes taken from a man who died in Juarez City Tuesday. They will be used for corneal transplanting.

Kiwanis Ladies Enjoy Impromptu Program

The March meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary was held in the Centre on a good attendance. The meeting opened in the usual way and the president, Mrs. Barnard, welcomed the new members.

After the reading of the minutes and correspondence, reports were given by the various committee chairman and a lengthy discussion took place on ways of raising money. A Bob Hatch-ance meeting closed the entertainment convenors, Ruth Harbach and Gertrude Button, took over. The members were divided into three groups. Group 1 was the public speaking group and each one was given a slip of paper on which was written the subject for her talk. Some of them were: "If I suddenly inherited $1,000,000", by Edna Robb; "If I only had ten more days to live", by Kathleen Forhan; "If I had nine lives" by Grace Vanner; "If I could travel anywhere, where would I go?" by Colombe Booth; "If I could become an animal, which would I choose and why?" by Lela Fox; "If I had my life to live over", by Jean Kuntze; "If my husband were to become Prime Minister of Canada", by Harriett Edwards; "If I should lose all my worldly possessions", by Vera Fairman.

Group 2 was given a splendid two-minute talk on her subject, some being most amusing.

Group 3 was asked to do stunts and these were whole-heartedly entered into by the participants and were thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. There were such things as—"A Proposal in Marriage by the shy young swain", by Laura Hyde; "The Fussy lady" by Jane Axon; "The Housewife", by Mrs. Bert Barnard, "Selling a stove to the junk dealer" by Gertrude Cross; "An imitation of Mae West" by Gertrude Hall and Clara Smith, who talked about everything and everyone in general and ended by playing bridge although there was much shuffling and changing of cards.

Group 3 included all the remaining members and they presented a quiz contest, all the questions having to do with Old Ireland, in honor of March 17th.

Nursing Assistants Course Offers Fine Vocation to Young Women

"The time will soon come when untrained persons will not be able to do nursing in hospitals," stated Mrs. Lenore J. Stubbs, Registered Nursing Assistant Course Supervisor registration division of the Ontario Department of Health, in a recent interview.

Due to the number of new hospitals which have been built in the province in recent years, and to the rapid growth in number of established hospitals, the number of girls graduating from the regular nursing schools is not sufficient to fill the demand. Qualified nursing assistants can do a great deal to relieve the shortage, declared the recruiting officer.

There is a vast difference between the graduates of the nursing assistants course, which has been conducted at Toronto and Kingston for the past two years it has been in operation, and the practical nurses and ward assistants or nurses' aides, who have no training. An act, which has already passed one reading in the legislature, will, when in force, prohibit untrained persons from nursing for pay," continued Mrs. Stubbs.

74 Graduates

To date, 74 young women have graduated from the Kingston centre which was set up by Miss E. R. Aitcheson, chief instructress and are serving in various hospitals, private homes and Red Cross outposts throughout Ontario, including Kingston General, Hotel Dieu, Ontario Hospital and St. Mary's on the Lake.

The course of nine months duration, three of which are spent in theoretical, and six in practical training in general hospitals, and chronic hospitals. Financial assistance is available to students in the form of an allowance of $20 per month while attending training centre, Toronto or Kingston, and continues during the six months practical training at the hospital. If living accommodation is provided at the hospital, certain deductions are made amounting to about $30 to $35 per month. In addition to the allowance, the cost of railway or bus fare to the training centre is refunded to students who proved at the time of enrolment.

Three-Months Study Course

The three-months course of study at the training centre includes structure and function of the human body, personal hygiene, hospital housekeeping, nursing procedures, simple cookery, care of the baby and mother, simple treatments. The fourth month and for the remaining six months of the course the student obtains further practical experience in the wards of the various hospitals.

The requirements for entrance are: 1. The applicant must possess a minimum educational of grade 8, as well as the aptitudes necessary for successful completion of the course. 2. The applicant must be over 18 years of age and under 35 years. 3. These applicants will be expected to attend the Training Centre Hospital selected by the Department of Health.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

Do you know this most important details for your signature

When you sign your name to a letter of any kind or to a greeting card, you should never write a title in your signature. That is, it is entirely incorrect to sign your name to a letter or card "Mrs. John Smith" (or, worse, "Mrs. Mary Smith") or "Miss Jane Brown", or "Mr. Arthur Jones", or "Dr. George Thompson." A married woman, or a widow, or a divorcee should sign a letter or card either with her given name only (to relatives and intimate friends), or with her professional name: Mary Clark Smith, or Mary C. Smith, or Mary Smith; then, if necessary for information or identification, she writes her formal name, in parentheses underneath and to the left of her signature. An unmarried woman should sign her name Jane Brown, with, if she thinks necessary, the "Miss" in parentheses before her name. A man signs his name Arthur Jones, no "Mr." before the name. A doctor should not sign his name with the title "Dr." . . . but may, when necessary, add "M.D." to his name: "George Thompson, M.D."

Thank-you note for Shower Gift

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

I am to be married in June, I have "heard tell" that several showers are to be given for me. I must confess that, until I read your suggestion the other day, I never even considered writing thank-you notes a day or so after a shower. But your enthusiastic words about this courtesy convinced me that this is an excellent way for me to "make my manners", as my mother used to say. However, since I am unfamiliar with this idea, would you please do me a further favor and give me a suggestion as to the wording of such a thank-you note? Thank you.

Frances M. J.

A deep bow to you, dear bride-to-be, for your fine resolve to follow the path-of-courtesy in writing the thank-you notes that you should write. An engaged girl is starting forth on a bright new life, and when her friends really round to give parties and presents to make her happy, she should make all the gestures that show them that she is an appreciative person, says and writes words of gratitude. Thank-you notes come under this heading . . . thank-you notes for shower presents, for wedding presents.

A thank-you note for a shower present might read something like this:

You dear Betty:

What a dear friend you are to make me so happy . . . I must thank you again for the charming breakfast set. Joan's shower for me yesterday was such a complete surprise to me and I was so excited that I'm sure I didn't say adequate thank-you words! The breakfast set is a beauty, such an attractive textured linen, and such a radiant yellow that I'm sure we'll begin the day with a song! Bob loves it too, and sends his thanks and his devoted greetings. And we'll be seeing you, on The Day, dear Betty.

Affectionately,

Frances

(Remember too that you should write a very special note of appreciation to the hostess, or to each of the group of hostesses, who planned the shower.)

Silk Taffeta For Spring

By ALICE ALDEN

TAFFETA RUSTLES merrily through the Spring sartorial scene, and comes to town in beautiful woven and printed designs, in crinkled weaves, as well as in the usual plain monotone version. Flecked gray silk taffeta is the choice of designer Joseph Halpert for a handsome afternoon dress that is very wearable. The pocket-ed overlap below a nipped-in waist-line, and the bodice is fastened with braided twists and rhinestone buttons. The waistline is sashed in back . . .

Remove Surface Dust on The Hair With Thorough Brushing

To keep well-groomed during the day, take a small brush and comb with you. For easy carrying, these two come in a faille drawstring bag

By HELEN FOLLETT

Fastidious housekeepers dust their furniture every day, but they should also "dust" their hair by using a brush vigorously. It should be brushed away from the scalp, never against it. The lovely gloss that results is well worth the trouble and the glory crown will behave in a more amiable manner when it is being arranged. It loves to be petted and coddled, respond quickly.

How often you will notice a head of hair that looks dull and lifeless through lack of care. No matter how chic the coiffure, it does not qualify. No matter if it is long or short, straight or curly, it must be kept free of dust and the scalp must be in a healthy state. To keep hair well-groomed during the day, a faille drawstring bag equipped with a small brush and comb is a smart accessory to take to business, sports or social events, or just for the day.

Friction of the scalp is important, more important than many women realize. Spread out fingers and thumbs, keep the fingers stationary, do circles with the thumbs. Work diligently along the hair line at the sides; it is there that the growth first thins.

On the night before the shampoo apply hot mineral oil. You can put it on with a small brush, a pledget of cotton or a large medicine dropper. Part the hair in various places, apply the oil along the partings. Then give your scalp a rousing mauling. Let the oil remain on over night.

With oil present, the shampoo must be extra thorough. Begin with a spraying, using water fairly hot. If you have hard water, there should be three applications.

A vinegar rinse will leave the shafts soft and silky. Add three tablespoonfuls of cider vinegar to a washbowl of warm water, pour over the head with a cup.

Spring Emphasis in London Shows Now Turns to Skirts

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — "Exit appeal" is the main theme of dresses in London's spring fashion shows.

The natural feminine figure has triumphed again. Gone are eccentric over-elaborate lines so evident when the "new look" stormed its way in—no more ugly protrusions, no more padded hips and bustles; waists are not so pinched, shoulders are slightly more pronounced and the "bottle neck" has almost disappeared.

Accent is on skirts. You can have a softly flowing flared skirt, a bobbin-like skirt or a pleated, gathered or draped one.

But the most charmingly elegant dresses have "exit appeal"—especially the distinctive cocktail ones. Hartnell's "Snail's Tails," a dark "snail" grey tie silk with front horizontal tucking on the straight tight skirt is drawn round the hips to a back cascade of heaped tucks of unpressed pleating.

A black tie silk with straight slimming lines has slight skirt fullness from back knee-length. The "exit appeal" comes from a swathe of white slipper satin fastened to the front waist, draped over the hip and finishing in an enormous bow at back knee height.

Arthur Creed favors the "mermaid" skirt — very smooth and slinky to the knees then flaring out to the hem.

A graceful fashion is the straight pencil skirt with detachable over apron in a soft full flare or very full pleating.

Park sunbathers are the inspiration for one idea. Decorous little town wife in silk or cotton reveal a "will-power" top with bare shoulders and back, or a matching bralette with a bare midriff.

For the first time since the war silk suits are back on the home market. Not generally popular because of Britain's short summer, they will be the answer to many big social occasions this summer.

Made in printed silks, tie silks, grosgrain, slipper satin and taffeta, they follow the same line as the tailored suits — with one exception — occasional very full flares. These come from hip length but still leave the clean silhine. Otherwise skirts are pencil, flare or pleated and jackets are of classic length flaring out behind to compliment the back trend of the skirts.

A slim pencil-tailored suit in black grosgrain by Worth had the jacket lined with green silk. A fine black lace blouse finished the ensemble. Worth also matches tailored silk jackets to summer dresses.

Many designers have re-introduced silk coats for combination with summer dresses. They are generally of stiffer silks and satins.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Manicuring tools and cosmetics

Since household help seems to have disappeared from Uncle Sam's domain, many women have found it difficult to spare precious hours for sessions at the beauty shop. They can manage the shampoo all right, and some are right clever with the finger wave. Thousands are giving themselves pantdresses which they say, serve very well. But home manicuring is a problem, not simple and, with heavy work to be done in the home, fingernails are in a bad way.

The trouble is that not all women have the proper tools for nail grooming. You can't shape the eaves with a dull file, nor remove hangnails with ordinary scissors. Two tools are essential — long flexible file of high grade steel with fine grooves that cut quickly, and a pair of curved needle-point scissors. Do not economize when purchasing these items; only the best will do, and they will last a lifetime.

Besides polish and polish remover one will need orangewood sticks, emery boards, a nail white pencil, a jar of cuticle cream.

Do not start the operation with a hand washing that will make the nails soft. Remove the polish and begin by shaping the ends with the steel file, working from sides to centre, forming a pleasing oval, being careful not to cut into the flesh.

Pass the orangewood stick under the eaves. You will flush up some little shags that must be removed with the emery board. Then you are ready to give your hands a thorough scrubbing with fairly hot water, soap and nail brush. Take your time with this part of the treatment as the cuticle will be softened. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

On the nails of the left hand put a little dab of cuticle cream. If you happen to be out of this cosmetic, mineral oil will serve. Send the orangewood stick in little circular movements: pass it from one side of the nail to the base, then up the other side, detaching the flesh. No pressure at the base. Rough treatment there can result in a grooved, even a deformed, nail because of injury to the matrix where new cells are forming.

Unless the cuticle is in first class condition, you may find some budding hangnails, pests of the first water. Snip them away with the scissors, ends pointing downward. Avoid even the slightest wound, as the flesh around the nails is especially susceptible to infection.

Another hand washing is in order. Every bit of cream must be removed. Before putting on the polish, let the brush drain in the bottle neck. Put on a thin coat, let it dry, then put an another. This process means that your polish will not go patchy.

Not all women have the proper tools for nail grooming

A Thatched Hat is Hat News

SOMERSET MAUGHAM never played a story under a roof more thatched than the one this hat sports, a fashionable brim indeed for all its bahia architecture.

Straw, of course, and appropriately earth color, as if it had been yanked from the garden by the roots and woven sloth by skillful native fingers.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Only time can solve some problems

A reader who signs herself "A. B." condenses a very large problem on a small postcard:

She wants to know if a mother should leave her children and go out to work to earn money when her husband "doesn't think his wife needs anything except what she eats, and not a thing to wear because she isn't going any place, but will just sit at home with the kids while he goes out."

There are really two questions here; the one about whether a wife should go out to earn money, and one that has to do with the bitterness of a wife whose husband continually leaves her without companionship and allows her no recreation.

On the first question, I would say that for a wife to go out and earn is a fine idea if it's practical. That is, if the children are old enough so they do get need their mother, or if some satisfactory provision can be made for their care while she is away from home.

If this woman can make an arrangement, then I am afraid all she can do is to wait till the children are older before going out to earn.

As for her second problem—the lack of any social life or recreation—I would say that the discussion of the children was the decisive factor here, too. If her husband is so unfair and unreasonable that he is unwilling to take his turn staying with the children in the evening while his wife goes to visit friends, or to the movies, or some other place where she can get a change from home responsibilities, the first thing is to see if any one can be found who is willing to do a little baby sitting and leave the mother free at least one night a week. Failing that, I then again become a matter of having to wait till the children are old enough to leave alone.

It is a hard thing for a woman to have to live with a man who is completely inconsiderate, and who refuses to accept his share of responsibility for the children he has helped bring into the world. But if he cannot be reasoned with, or otherwise persuaded, the only thing that can be done is to bide one's time temporarily until the children are grown.

SALARY INCREASE

Labor Member Criticized

A. A. MacLeod (Lab-Prog — Toronto Bellwoods) said the government has "the callous, unmitigated gall" to accept higher salaries 24 hours after refusing the pensions increase. This was "one of the most disgraceful acts ever performed by government members in the history of this province."

Provincial Treasurer Frost asked if Mr. MacLeod had refused the $1,000 voted members last year.

Mr. MacLeod said he had not been in the House when the measure was approved. There had been no division. The other Labor-Progressive member, J. B. Salsberg (Toronto St. Andrew) had been in the House, however, and had spoken against the motion.

Agnes Macphail (CCF—York East) said restoration of the $10,000 salary was "a psychological blunder." Cabinet ministers could "struggle along" on $8,000 salary, $2,000 session indemnity, and $1,000 expenses. Salaries of private members were still "ridiculously low."

Against Listing Bonuses

Mr. Salsberg said cost-of-living bonuses of civil servants should not be listed in the estimates separate from their salaries so as to imply that the bonus would be removed "as soon as the cost-of-living index dropped a couple of points." Many were underpaid.

C. C. Ferguson, Opposition Leader (C. D. Jolliffe asked that regulations affecting bills be published more promptly after they pass. bill is proclaimed. Mr. Kennedy agreed this should be done.

William Temple (CCF-Toronto High Park) asked the government to consider adding a consumers' representative to the three-man Ontario Milk Board which now includes representatives of producers, distributors and one judge. The Premier said the judge's duty was to represent consumers.

Mr. Jolliffe suggested that estimates for the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph, which was known throughout the Western Hemisphere, should be increased to allow the college to accommodate students from the United States and other countries who could not be admitted at present because of limited facilities.

No Provisions For Subsidies

Mr. Jolliffe said there was no provision in the estimates for subsidies on either cheese or hogs.

Mr. Kennedy said the subsidy on hogs was made while the Dominion government was requisitioning hogs for the British market. When the federal requisition ended the Ontario bonus ended too.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver said the Premier was apparently of the opinion that the hog subsidy had not increased production. Farmers produced hogs only when it so paid them. By removing $1.50 a hundredweight from hog prices the government discouraged farmers from producing.

District Farmers Entertained by Casc Company

Stirling—About four hundred were in attendance at Stirling Theatre on Tuesday night for the case "Farm Powr" meeting sponsored by Elliott's Farm Equipment Limited, local Case dealers.

Mr. W. T. Elliott welcomed those present and introduced Mr. S. Paquette, District Representative, who showed a number of films showing modern farm machinery being used in advanced farm practices.

Cattle raising in the northwest was another interesting film, while the main picture showed 50 centuries of progress in farm machinery and practices. A film on the new Chevrolet also attracted much interest.

The films were interspersed with banjo selections by Maurice Bell, accompanied by Mrs. Harold West on the piano, and vocal solos by Miss M. McKee with Mrs. West as accompanist.

At the conclusion, a draw was made for door prizes, with Messrs Leavens and Davidson winning a five gallon can of castrol oil.

SUMMER THEATRE

Peterborough, Ont. — (CP) — A summer theatre the most extensive of its kind ever to operate in Canada is to be conducted here through for 11 weeks this summer. The plays will be presented in the Queen Mary School auditorium.

Labor Splits Threaten Unity Of Working Class

Vancouver, March 10 (CP) — Labor splits—differences of opinion—threaten the unity of the working people of Canada, A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said here Wednesday.

He spoke at the district convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C. I. O. - C. C. L.), dealing with the jurisdictional battle between leaders of the C. C. L. and the Mine and Mill Union.

"Problems of labor must be dealt with intelligently and firmly", he told the delegates. "Failure will mean that organized labor will become a rabble rather than a force for good for the working people."

The I. U. M. M. S. W. has been ordered to withdraw from organizing at Port Colborne and Timmins, Ont. The order was ignored.

Mr. Mosher denied a charge of union raiding, especially by C. C. L. interference.

"All the jurisdiction of associations of the C. C. L. belong to the C. C. L." he said.

During an hour - long speech there were many exchanges.

"I will see you all in hell with your hands broken before you can raid this union," said a delegate from the convention floor.

Urged to Accept Majority

Mr. Mosher urged the convention "to submerge your prejudices and individual ideologies and accept the will of the majority of your associates so that we can build one organized body to represent all of Canada. Divided we are easy to the opposition."

Referring to union troubles in Port Colborne and Timmins, Ont., he said the I. U. M. M. S. W. had "failed to retain the support and loyalty of the majority of the workers," in those centres.

"We (the C.C.L.) went to Port Colborne only when the vast majority of workers decided they weren't going to remain in the international union. We have no apologies to make."

He hoped that as a result of the district convention the C. C. L. "could have assurance that as far as possible you will undertake to assist the Congress in building a better organization . . . whether you agree to disagree with our policy, you will follow the democratic policies chosen.

Love of Forest Life Keeps Ranger on Job

For 15 years Pete C. Comeau has patrolled the virgin forests from Grande Prairie, Alta., to the British Columbia border. His job is watching for forest fires, protecting game and keeping an eye on registered trap lines.

"It's a hard life and Pete thinks it is about time he gave it up. "Only I can't; it's in my blood. I would like some comforts but I can't seem to stay out of the bush for long."

Pete spent 10 years lumberjacking when he first came to Alberta from Nova Scotia. Then he became a forest ranger.

With two pack horses and saddle mount he patrols lonely bushland trails. Bears sometimes steal his packs at night and attack him at times.

During the months when fires are infrequent, Pete cuts trails, using a dog team in winter and a horse in the summer.

Expect Govt. To Hold London Constituency

London, March 10 — (Reuters) — Both Labor and Conservative quarters expect the government to hold the London constituency of St. Pancras North in today's by-election for the House of Commons seat.

Three candidates, Labor, Conservative and Communist, are in the running for the seat, vacated by the death of George House, Labor.

The government already has retained two constituencies, Batley in Yorkshire and Hammersmith South in London, in the current series of four by-elections. The last of the series will be held at an unannounced date in Sowerby, Yorkshire.

Playwright Bernard Shaw, who is 92, in a letter Wednesday to Mahon said he is too old to speak for the communist candidate.

"I am a communist and always call myself so, and when I do I know what I am talking about, which is more than can be said for some of our friends," the playwright wrote.

He added: "The communist party knows no more about electioneering than a pig knows of a holiday.

"It has allowed the Tory party to force on you as an election issue the alternatives of private versus public enterprise, instead of rubbing in the hard fact that in Russia private enterprise flourishes more than ever, while in England our communistic factory acts were followed by unprecedented extensions of private enterprise.

"It has committed you to oppose the Marshall plan, which is for the moment absolutely necessary . . .

"In the face of such political ineptitudes how can I take sides in the election?"

MONTREALERS, ONCE BITTERLY OPPOSED TO ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY, NOW WELCOME IT

When the St. Lawrence seaway is completed ocean liners will be sailing past Montreal about the level of the steeple of old Bonsecours church, shown here. According to proposed plans, a dam 80 feet high will be built across the St. Lawrence river at the foot of McGill St. This will raise the level of the river west of Montreal 40 feet.—Central Press Canadian.

Montreal harbor is shown in this air view which reveals the hustling activity that helped make the city a great port. Montreal will have one of the biggest hydro-electric plants in Canada, set within city limits, when the seaway project is completed. This gives the city an advantage over any other city in Canada and Montrealers are quick to realize the advantage of this.—Central Press Canadian.

PICTON

Newfoundland Seen as Market For Canned Goods

Picton.—Newfoundland as a market for Canadian canned goods is seen by E. A. Pearce, vice president of Canadian Canners Ltd., who returned this week from a visit to the tenth province.

Any such market will be very welcome since there is a large surplus of canned goods, and this threatens to affect the 1949 pack, prices for which are being negotiated in Hamilton this week.

Mr. Pearce stated that as soon as navigation opens, a cargo of 100,000 and 150,000 cases canned goods will be sent to Newfoundland. The freighter will leave Windsor, calling at Hamilton, Port Hope and Picton to take on goods.

Previously, most of Newfoundland's canned goods were imported from the United States.

Mr. Pearce reported butter selling at 85c a pound and eggs 70c a dozen in Newfoundland.

Albert College Girls Win Senior Basketball Title

In a sudden death game played at the B.C.I. gym, Albert College senior girls defeated Picton C.I. by a score of 20-7 for the Bay of Quinte basketball championship. This is the first time the Albert lassies have won the title in some six years.

Dentenelle play on the part of both teams was predominant and the score at half time showed Albert in the lead 7-3, on two baskets by Peggy Dyer and one by Rachael Freeman, with Madelyn Webster adding a foul shot.

In the second half play speeded up, but the Albert girls were too fast, and Rachael Freeman was too tall—playing centre for Albert, Freeman potted three quick baskets in the third quarter which pretty well put the game on ice. Dyer added two more baskets and Webster two foul shots.

The Picton girls playew well together but could not seem to find the baskets, Morris, Mason and King with a basket each, and Morris adding a foul shot were the Picton scorers.

Factors Affecting Farmers' Welfare, Income Discussed

The Foxboro Farm Forum met on Monday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carnduff's home. There were twenty-two members present. Mr. Earl Bird was discussion leader. The Farm Forum broadcast deals with the question:

What factors affecting income are peculiar to farming?

Which of these require special consideration in income tax law?

Do you think income tax is a fair method of taxation? What are the reasons for your answer?

Two groups were formed to discuss the questions. The conclusions formed were:

Factors affecting income which are peculiar to farming are dependence on weather conditions, losses in cattle, longer hours of work than most other groups. Farmers' prices are determined by factors which in most cases cannot be directly influenced by the farmer. Many farmers' wives do their own work and also that of a hired man. No allowance is made for the extra work done by the wife, but if a man is hired allowance is made for his wages and board.

Special consideration should be given the fact that a farm is as a rule a family business and the present law does not take into consideration the earnings of all members of the family. There is no relation between farm product prices and the exemption bracket.

The group considered income tax a fair method of taxation in that the people making more pay more, but the exemption bracket should be raised. Assessment of floors should take more trouble to explain to the rural people their rights. They should not see their job one-sidedly.

The CJBQ forum broadcast was enjoyed by everyone. The hostess served delicious refreshments. Mr. E. Priddle moved a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Campbell for their hospitality and for their continuous interest in the Foxboro Farm Forum.

The next meeting will be on March 14, at Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coulter's home.

Six-Storey Building Fire Loss May Exceed Million Dollars

Edmonton, March 10 — (CP) — Weary fire-fighters today continued to pour streams of water on the upper floors of a six-storey warehouse office building on the edge of Edmonton's downtown business district.

Fire Chief James Macgregor said that the fire, which broke out early yesterday is definitely "under control" and that it might be completely out this afternoon.

Late Wednesday night, flames continued to eat stubbornly through the upper stories, and could be seen shooting through the roof although officials say there is little danger to adjoining buildings. So far, damage has been estimated, unofficially, at $1,000,000 but some sources say final loss may exceed $5,000,000.

COMES SPRING AND BLOSSOMS . . . AND SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS

In spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. The poet neglected mention to what chancels a young lady's thoughts turn, but for this miss apple blossom time is school examination time. And thoughts of dancing, earthy hops, sports and other entertainment must take second place to the final spurt of concentration on school work.—Central Press Canadian.

Tourist Courts Common Sight On Countryside at Mount Vernon

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

It's hard to guess his reaction to the spaghetti hall, the filling stations and the tourists courts on U. S. highway No. 1, which runs through the farms he owned.

But it's certain he would be interested in the experiences of the Mount Vernon farm staff and in life on the few small farms that now exist on what was the plantation. Washington's will indicated he owned 8,000 acres surrounding Mount Vernon at the time of his death 150 years ago.

He divided the properties among relatives. Since then they have been divided many times, until today there are some home sites with a frontage of only 25 feet. The restored Mount Vernon estate contains about 500 acres.

George Washington loved the place and said so many times in his diaries and in letters.

"No estate in United America is more pleasantly situated than this," he wrote to an Englishman. "It lyes in a high, dry and healthy country 300 miles by water from the sea on one of the finest rivers in the world . . . it is situated in a latitude between the extremes of heat and cold . . ."

The Mount Vernon Mansion House farm is still well kept by the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association and its staff of 73 people, headed by Charles C. Wall, superintendent.

But George Washington knew that his lands were far from being the most productive in America. It was a struggle to make them pay.

A Good Farmer

Joseph E. Beard, Fairfax County agent, says Washington probably was "the best farmer who ever farmed the 8,000 acres."

"You have to qualify that, of course, by saying Washington was the best farmer of them all considering the handicaps under which he worked," Beard said.

"The handicaps consisted of the meagre scientific agricultural information available in the general's time, the crude tools with which people worked and the fact he had to be away from Mount Vernon a great deal on military and government affairs."

Washington experimented with crop rotation and with other methods of preventing the deep gullies common on Virginia farms even 150 years ago. He knew that tobacco and corn depleted the soil. He tried to work out a plan to minimize that.

There is conflicting evidence concerning Washington's farm profits. The Encyclopedia Britannica says he realized $15,000 to $15,000 a year from all his estates. (He owned other lands besides those in Virginia). The handbook of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association says:

"The farm ledger for the year 1798 credits the four outlying farms and related activities with a profit, but most of this was cancelled by the expense of maintaining the Mansion House farm. The favorable balance for the year was less than $2,700 . . . and 1798 was not a bad year."

1898 Popular Song 1948 Best Seller

London — (CP) — Revivals of old songs make up at least 50 per cent of Britain's sheet music sales at the present time, say leading London song publishers.

Most popular song of all at present is: "When You Were Sixteen," which first appeared in 1898. Last year 200,000 copies of it were sold.

Other current successes are "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" the 1909 hit tune which sold 250,000 copies last year; "When Day is Done," published in 1924, "Teddy Bear's Picnic" (1933) and "Who Stole My Heart Away?" (1936).

"I can't think of a single catchy song written since the war that will live," said John Firman, former band leader, now a song publisher.

Another publisher said there seemed to be a "dearth" of good tunes apart from the compositions of famous song writers like Irving Berlin and Ivor Novello.

Don't Slaughter "Auld Lang Syne"

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Perth, Scotland — (CP) — After the ball is over sing "Auld Lang Syne," but remember the advice of Sir Alan Gemmell-Dundas, Conservative member of parliament for Perth.

The colonel, who served in the Black Watch in two wars and used to be inspector of prisons for Scotland, describes present-day singing of the farewell song thus:

He says it should be as follows: Opening verse and chorus should be sung by all without joining hands. That comes at the last verse.

The intervening verses should be sung by a soloist or several soloists, the chorus repeated after each verse.

"Here" is Better

At the fourth verse the singer says, "And here's a hand, my trusty fiere," — not "friend" — and gives his right hand to the person second from him on the right.

When the singer says "And gies a hand o' thine," he gives his left hand to the person second on his left. This forms the chain of friendship.

After the last chorus, the party gives three cheers.

"He'll bring the R.S.M. along
To keep us all in line,
But this reminds me far too much
O' the days o' war, lang syne."

Tank Corps Technique For Robbery of Store

London, March 9 (AP)—Bandits used tank corps technique complete with crash helmet, to smash and loot a jewelry store window, today.

Witnesses said three men in a car drove over the sidewalk and into the jewelry store window in south London. A fourth man rode on the roof, his head protected from flying glass by a helmet.

The "turret" burglar grabbed trays of valuable jewelry. The car swerved back into the street and sped away.

Proprietors could not estimate the loss but said it was considerable.

THOMASBURG

Thomasburg— The three act comedy "Don't Darken My Door" presented by the Anglican Young People of St. James' Church, Tweed in the Oddfellows Hall here on Thursday evening drew a large crowd.

Mrs. J. L. Luffman directed the play while the Rev. F. F. Downing, rector of St. James' introduced the characters. The Rev. F. F. Downing also favored with numbers between acts in his usual capable humorous manner.

At the conclusion the cast were served refreshments by the ladies of the Anglican Church.

Over thirty members of Thomasburg Oddfellows Lodge journeyed to Brighton by Emerson Coach Lines on Monday night recently where they put on the first degree.

The Woman's Association of Thomasburg United Church held an all day meeting on Thursday. During the afternoon a quilt was completed at the home of Mrs. Wm. Reid. At noon a hot dinner was served in the public school by pupils and teachers in the Sunday School rooms, and during the afternoon the regular monthly devotional and business meeting was held. The service for the interdenominational World Day of Prayer was followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Yateman, of Stirling spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morton, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morton.

Friends of Mr. John Geen will be sorry to learn that he is ill with the flu.

ALLISONVILLE

Allisonville—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Chase have purchased a new Plymouth car.

Bowerman's W. A. were entertained last meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Lane Wallington. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Morden, Christian Street.

TWO ESCAPEES OF FIVE CAUGHT

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—Two of the five youths who escaped from the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph have been recaptured at Mount Forest, near Guelph, Provincial police headquarters here reported.

Still at large are Walter Johnston, 18, Mount Brydges; Robert Morris, 17, Sturgeon Falls, and Gerald Deduc, 19, of Timmins.

IVANHOE

Church Units For Day of Prayer

Ivanhoe—On Friday afternoon the women of West Huntingdon United Church, St. Andrew's Presbyterian, St. James' Anglican, Harold met in Beulah United Church to join the women of other countries, unified by prayer to the same God, to commemorate the World's Day of Prayer.

The service whose theme was "The Lord is Thy Keeper" (Psalm 121:5) consisted of the "Call to Worship" in responsive form; adoration, penitence, general confession, prayer for China; assurance, thanksgiving, offering of self, offering of gifts and prayers of intercession. This service was opened by Mrs. George Wood assisted by the representatives from other churches.

Mrs. George Wood, president of Beulah United W.M.S. gave a splendid address on the theme of the day "The Lord is Thy Keeper."

Mrs. J. C. Sills, of St. Andrew's W.M.S., gave a brief but comprehensive address on the significance of the World's Day of Prayer, including the projects in which the offerings are given.

Mrs. Milton Shaw gave an appropriate solo "Have You Been in the Garden With Jesus?"

A committee consisting of the W.M.S. presidents with Mrs. W. F. V. Walker as key woman, was appointed for the 1960 service. This service will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church West Huntingdon.

The three act comedy "Cousin Jill from Junction Hill" was presented in Ivanhoe town hall Friday by the Foxboro-Carmel Y.P.U. This play was sponsored by West Huntingdon United Church choir, Rev. Harold Burgess chairman for the evening, welcomed the capacity audience on behalf of the choir.

The players were capably introduced by Mrs. Geo. Priest of Foxboro. Mrs. Prelat who is the director of this comedy is to be congratulated on this splendid performance of the players.

Although the third presentation of this play on Ivanhoe circuit the Friday evening entertainment was given to a large audience.

CAMERA CATCHES ANTELOPE CAUGHT IN FENCE

Two civil air patrol pilots, Jay Brinker and his pal Jones of Craig, Colo., were making a routine patrol flight north of Craig when they noticed a bunch of coyotes around some animal. They thought it might be trapped, dropped down a little and found antelope caught in fence. They flew back to Craig, notified district warden William H. Roland, shown in picture holding the leg of the animal. He took the car and pilots with him and rode for 12 miles, then put on snowshoes and walked to the spot. Put rope around neck of animal (which Brinker is holding) and freed it. The animal was weak but not injured. They took it back to Craig, fed it for several days, then turned it loose in the sand hills.

Many coming a second time. Proceeds amounted to $42.00.

During the intermission, Mrs. Wal. Brant sang in fine voice "Garden of Happiness" and Miss Jean Sheffield gave a piano solo.

Whew; Marble Bar in Australia Thinks It's Cool at 104 in Shade

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Perth, Australia —(CP)—Residents of Marble Bar, a tiny ghost town on the west coast of Australia, cannot use their showers-baths during the day — the water flowing through the pipes gets too hot to use.

Marble Bar is the hottest town in Australia. This summer, however, the town's 'e white inhabitants claim they are having a mild summer. The temperature has been over 100 degrees in the shade only 111 days, and the averages has been at the comparatively low figure of 104.5 degrees.

During the summer of 1923-24 (from September to April at Marble Bar) the temperature rose over 100 degrees on 160 consecutive days and 183 for the summer.

All work begins at "Little Hell" as early as possible to allow a break during the afternoon /when the heat reaches its maximum. School for the town's 50 school-children begins at 7:30 a.m. and closes at 1 p.m. Work starts at dawn.

Isolated Spot

Marble Bar is one of the most out of the way places in Australia. Most food supplies come by ship to Port Hedland and then on a small railway. Some canned goods are trucked up from the railhead at Meekatharra, 600 miles south of the town. Fresh vegetables and perishable goods, are flown in by air from Perth. A government subsidy makes it possible to air-freight perishables at eight cents a pound to the 'consumer.

There is no entertainment except a weekly film show and an occasional dance put on at the local hall.

The hospital is staffed by a flying doctor from the Inland Mission, who flies in once a week to treat his patients.

At the turn of the century Marble Bar had a population of 1,500 making their fortune from unlike most of the old gold-rush towns of Australia, it has always been on the verge of a revival.

In the Pilbarra hills at the back of the town prospectors have found traces of tin, copper, tantalite, columbite, dolomite, antimony, asbestos, beryllium and a number of other minerals. Because most of these minerals have not been properly prospected the people live on optimistically expecting a boom.

DIAMOND WORKERS AT WORK

Antwerp, March 9 — (Reuters) — Diamond workers in this Belgian diamond centre, who came out on strike last week in protest against proposed salary reductions, returned to work Tuesday. Further wage negotiations will be held.

MAN KILLS WIFE, SUSPECTED LOVER THEN SHOOTS SELF

Mother 3,000 Miles Away, Hears Screams

New York, March 10 (AP) — Two men and a woman died in a blast of gun-fire Wednesday night while a mother 3,000 miles away listened by telephone to her daughter's dying screams for mercy.

Police said Emory Holt, 33, apparently suspicious of a love triangle, called his wife's mother in Hollywood, and said:

"I am sorry for what I am going to do."

With the telephone circuit still open, police said, he shot his attractive, brunette wife, Norma, 34, and David Whittaker, 32, an executive in the firm where she worked, then killed himself.

It was a call from the panic-stricken mother, Mrs. Flair Thomas, that led police to the scene of the triple-shooting in Whittaker's 16th-floor apartment in Gladden Terrace, a huge apartment development in downtown Manhattan.

Police said Mrs. Thomas heard her daughter crying and pleading with Holt for mercy, then screams and the sound of shots which followed.

Mrs. Holt's body was found on a couch. She was shot in the chest and behind the left ear.

Holt's body was collapsed over a chair, a bullet hole through his head. A .38 calibre revolver still was grasped in his left hand, police said, and a box of cartridges was found in his pocket.

Police said Whittaker was an assistant to the president of the Universal Pictures Corporation here. Mrs. Holt, they said, was secretary to the firm's president, Milton Gordon.

Holt was described as a former chief engineer in the merchant marine. He was said to have been an acquaintance of Whittaker.

Police said Whittaker had been taken his wife to Whittaker's apartment Wednesday night "for a showdown". An elevator operator said Holt and Mrs. Holt had visited Whittaker's apartment on one previous occasion.

Steps to Halt Further Toronto Liquor Outlets

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—Toronto's city government yesterday took the first steps in its announced intention to halt any further liquor outlets in the city.

The city property committee upheld a restrictive by-law forbidding a public house in a residential district and then a public hall held over for discussion a Board of Control request for a restrictive by-law in a north-end business section which would stop erection of a tavern there. The Board of Control went on record as opposed to the tavern.

Mayor Hiram McCallum noted that the provincial government intended to commit the city before granting any further Toronto licences. Declared the Mayor: "If it is left to us I will rule all applications out of order when they come before Board of Control."

Two Youths Are Recaptured

Toronto, March 10 (CP)— Two more of the five youths who escaped Tuesday night from the Ontario reformatory at Guelph were recaptured here early today, leaving only one man still at large, provincial police reported.

Found hiding in a Toronto garage after a brief chase by police were Gerald Leduc, 19, of Timmins and Walter Johnston, 18. The third youth, Robert Morris, 17, of Sturgeon Falls, made his getaway.

Says Reds Use Club To Get Steel Supplies

New York, March 10 (AP) — The Iron Age, metalworking trade weekly, said today that Russians are trying to use their management-supply as a club to get United States machine tools and steel.

About a third of the vital manganese ore used by American steelmakers last year came from Russia.

The Russians now think they can use this situation to "black-jack the United States into lifting its embargo on machine tools and steel shipments to the Soviet Union," the publication said.

Students Veterans' Brief to be Presented

Toronto, March 10 (CP) — A brief stating that student veterans at university are finding their basic living grants insufficient to match high living costs will be presented Saturday to Veterans Affairs Minister Gregg by the National Council of Student Veterans, headed by J. Peter Kohl of McGill University. The brief asks an increase in the grant to match the rise in the cost of living index since 1944 when the grant was established.

Charged With Sale Of Liquor to Minors

Toronto, March 10 (CP) — Bright's Wines Ltd., and three employees charged jointly with selling liquor to minors Feb. 26 were remanded till March 17 today.

Also charged with selling wine to minors were Danforth Wines Ltd., and one employee, Fred Reesby. Both the company and the employee pleaded innocent of selling liquor to John Masar, 17-year-old Toronto Telegram office boy whose story appeared on the front page Feb. 26.

Two-House Parliament Of Russia in Session Considers 1949 Budget

Moscow March 10 (CP)— Russia's two-house parliament, convened for what may be a revealing session, voted today to consider the Soviet Union's budget for 1949 in joint session.

The council of the union and then the council of the nationalities, equal houses in the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., took the action soon after they opened a meeting closely watched by the western countries for clues to Russia's intentions.

A. I. Mikoyan was present as a member of the council of nationalities. He recently stepped aside as Minister of Foreign Trade at the same time V. M. Molotov relinquished his post as Foreign Minister to A. Y. Vishinsky. Both Molotov and Mikoyan still are Deputy Prime Ministers.

More than 1,000 deputies, including about 300 women, from all parts of the Soviet Union were expected to attend the session.

Dozens of different nationalities make up this Soviet State parliament—Latvians, Lithuanians and Estonians, middle Asiatic and far eastern people, dwellers in the treeless plains of the far north and some whose homes are girdled by ice for eight or nine months of the year.

Some came from as far afield as Tuvan Uda, capital of the Buryat Mongolian Republic, nine days' train journey away from Moscow.

Expected to last several days, this is the fifth regular session of the Supreme Soviet since . It was elected in February, 1946.

The Supreme Soviet has the right to pass all laws which are binding in all constituent republics, and to amend the constitution of the U.S.S.R.

According to the constitution, the Supreme Soviet also "decides the most important questions regarding relations with foreign states and questions of war and peace, ratifies treaties with foreign states, organizes the defence of the country and directs the armed forces of the Soviet Union."

When the session ends, a verbatim report is published in the languages of all 16 Soviet republics.

Hunt Driver of Ill-Fated Car Believed Holed up in Bog Land

Newmarket, March 10 (CP)— Police today continued their search for 28-year-old Harold Bain of nearby Holland Landing believed to be the driver of the stolen automobile in which a teenager was killed and another severely injured Wednesday after a wild chase.

The car went out of control and crashed into a tree, fatally injuring 18-year-old Norman Edwards of Newmarket and injuring 19-year-old Donald Dorsett, also of Guelph. Douglas is in hospital suffering a broken leg and internal injuries.

Police believe that Bain is holed up in a shack in the nearby swampland. Wednesday night they were informed of Bain, who knows every inch of the treacherous bogs, had fled there.

The trio conducted a weekend raid on pay telephones in centres from Beverton to Newmarket, about 30 miles north of Toronto, police said.

When the police car approached the youths they jumped into the car and took off, police officers trailing them at 60-miles-an-hour speeds. Shots were fired but they escaped.

Shortly afterwards, A. Robert of Canada, a public school teacher found the overturned car in a ditch. Edwards dead and Douglas screaming for help.

The youths stole a car at Newmarket and drove to Aurora, then north to the Sutton area, and then stole a newer model belonging to a minister.

Canadian Writers' Output 'Amazing' Novelist Says

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—Will R. Bird, Halifax novelist and short story writer, said yesterday that the literary output of Canadian writers is amazing to those on a cross-Canada tour, amazed him.

"Canadian writers are producing twice as much as I expected," Will Bird, Province of Canada Writers Association, told an interviewer. "I found 11 persons who had just finished books while there was constant evidence of steady sales to American periodicals.

"Edmonton amazed me. They are active in the workshop groups that have already produced 12 books.

"Everywhere I was met at stations by where groups of writers I discovered one-more-lance who is making $5,000-$6,000 a year, though in Canada-we don't talk about it."

Asked if this was a common situation, Mr. Bird said he thought it was. He said one western woman had written telling poems got $25 and $30 each to the New York Times and added: "I forget what I said when she offered one to her hometown newspaper, which paid other people $1.50-$2 an item, the editor told her to paste her poems in a scrapbook and forget money as she had no talent ; r it.

Mr. Bird said tha.. n his opinion, Canadian writers are not well advertised or promoted.

Says Farmers Victims Of 'Unfair Propaganda'

London Ont., March 10 (CP)— Farmers are the victims of "unfair propaganda" that they are taking too high a price for their produce, John Broderick of St. Catharines, First Vice-President of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said here Wednesday night.

"Cheap food will lead to a depression," he claimed. "It is a fact that the dollar will buy more foodstuff today than at any time since early in the century except during the depression years."

Mr. Broderick said the Federation is concentrating on 'better public relations" in the cause of the farmer, ...

Defence Officers Praise Work of Canada's Cadets

Selgnoy Club Quiz, Mar. 10 —(CP) — Viscount Alexander yesterday night lauded the defence officers from three countries he has met on a tour of Canada, the United States and Sweden — to appraise the cadet training establishing in the light of international developments.

He appeared, along with Defence Minister Claxton, General A. G. L. McNaughton, chief of the U. S. Air Force; Lt.-General Nordenskjold, commander of the Swedish air force at the annual dinner of the Air Cadet League.

"No one can possibly disagree with the high praise that I know we are doing is of supreme importance not only to Canada but to the whole world," the Governor-General said.

He made a remark while presenting a painting to league director Lt.-Col. Gerald Bloomfield of Port Colborne on behalf of the artist, Flight-Lieutenant Lee in appreciation of Capt. Misener's contributions in entertaining British and Canadian cadets in Canada last summer.

Mr. Claxton said the Air Cadet League provided an international service "even in the simple valuable than anything written in the press. It had achieved a great measure of success from the first service and from Canadian citizens than any other cadet movement he had ever seen.

Gen. McNaughton said: "Cadet programs such as those we are studying are of the utmost value to all of us. By this and other means our countries will be so strong that we will not have to worry about fighting the next war."

Gen. Nordenskiold, completing a visit to Canadian air training establishments, said: "I have a tribute to the R.C.A.F., referred to it as 'our dear friends of the north.'"

He gave the greatest admiration for their contributions in two world wars.

Mr. Ross said interest in air cadets across Canada is higher than ever before, "I see a bright future indeed for the Air Cadet League.

TORONTO GIRL JUST WANTED TO LEAVE HOME

Mary Walsh Found After 9-Day Search

Winnipeg March 10 (CP) — Mary Elizabeth Walsh, 15-year-old Toronto girl who disappeared since 10 days ago touched off a wide search and raised the possibility she might have been kidnapped, today waited to board a plane to take her back to her home from where she started on a 1,200-mile hitchhiking trip.

Her whereabouts became known Wednesday when she walked into a police station here and told officers she understood her parents were worried about her. She explained to reporters that she might have been kidnapped and said she "just got some idea she wanted to leave home."

Police, meanwhile, were seeking two men whom the attractive girl said had given her rides from Ontario to Manitoba, a 100 miles west of the Manitoba border.

Detective Inspector Peter Cafferty and Mrs. E. J. Laidlaw superintendent of the Manitoba Home for Girls where Mary was given overnight accommodation —said she was in "fine physical and mental condition."

The girl's disappearance began after breakfast March 1, when she left her home with word to her parents that she was going to visit a friend. She took with her a suitcase containing a few personal belongings.

Received Several Calls

During the subsequent search, conducted by Toronto police, the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walsh, received several anonymous phone calls, once being asked how much money they had. Police like those of a sobbing girl could be heard in the background.

The last phone call, with the same sobbing sounds, came Wednesday night after the Walsh family had been informed their daughter was safe.

"This time, he didn't worry us," said Mr. Walsh.

At an early hour today the parents still were waiting a chance to hear their daughter's voice on the telephone. Pending authorization from Manitoba's Attorney-General, D. L. McLenaghan, nobody outside of officials was permitted to interview or speak to the girl, but reporters who had made several phone calls from Toronto during the evening

When Mary walked into the police station Wednesday afternoon, she told officers she was running away from Wadena, she astonished officers with the remark that she understood the police were looking for her and that her parents were worried about her whereabouts.

Check With Police

With the search having been restricted to Canada, belief was growing here she might have gone to some other country. Police were contacting her picture have been received in Manitoba, and officers had set up road blocks on highways in other key cities until they were able to check on every passenger.

In her story to police, Mary was reported to have said that she had left Toronto by bus and gone to Amherst, Ont., then hitchhiked part thorugh Northern Ontario and Manitoba into central Saskatchewan.

One of the two men who had given her lifts then was reported to have met a newspaper reporter concerning her disappearance. Before leaving Winnipeg for here by train to Winnipeg, left her on a city street with a curt "go to the police" and disappeared.

Police said that no charge had been laid against the two men, whom they described as being fairly young, but that their movements were being sought.

The girl, who will be 16 years old next July, was described as looking three or four years older than her actual age, and apparently well able to take care of herself.

Danish Minister To Inquire Into N. Atlantic Pact

Twelve Countries May be Included in The Treaty

Washington March 10 (AP) — Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen of Denmark was expected here today for first-hand information on the North Atlantic security treaty.

He is expected to confer with State Secretary Acheson and other American officials in the course of their visit. Aides said diplomatic authorities believe Denmark will formally align itself with the Atlantic-pact powers.

Danish membership in the alliance is considered highly important. This is not only because of Denmark's location in western Europe, but also because that country holds the island of Greenland with its strategic bases guarding North Atlantic sea and air routes.

The United States still has in Greenland air stations established during the war and has been anxious to retain the bases which military strategists consider essential to the defense of the western hemisphere. Under the new treaty-if joint defense of North America and western Europe, the bases gain additional importance because of the need to keep open oceane transportation routes between the two continents.

There is true of several other island positions also. The Republic of Iceland and the Azores, which belong to Portugal, have by similar strategic importance.

Authorities here hope that Iceland and Portugal also will become members of the North Atlantic security pact.

American officials said Rasmussen will inform Washington about the treaty, which now is completely drafted, but that no pressure will be put upon him.

Acheson told a press conference Wednesday that the treaty will make clear the determination of the United States and other members to exercise their inherent rights of individual and collective self-defence against aggression from any quarter.

He said the text will be made public in the immediate future — other informants expect it will be early next week—and probably will be signed the first week in April.

Ferry Service Seen as Boon To Tourists

Kitchener, March 10 (CP)— Grand River Valley communities are realizing the possible boon to American motorcars crossing Lake Erie by ferry, Kitchener-Waterloo Board of Trade was told today.

At a meeting here Wednesday 25 Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce representatives from communities attended to form the Grand River Tourist Association, with its prime purpose that of starting the ferry service. Sponsors of the plan hope to channel tourists via the Grand River route to Ontario's northland.

The crossing would take 1 1-2 hours and cut 125 miles off the trip to Canada for Americans along the south shore of Lake Erie. The proposed ferry would make three trips a day and would carry some 500 passengers.

MANITOBA MOVES TO OUTLAW DAYLIGHT TIME

Bill Provides That Only Central Standard Time be Used in Province

By The Canadian Press

Manitoba may be the second Canadian province to make daylight time illegal.

A bill given first reading at Winnipeg Wednesday is said to be similar in many respects to one enacted in Alberta, where Mountain Standard Time is statutory the year 'round. The Manitoba bill proposes that only Central Standard Time be used in Manitoba.

In other years, cities, Winnipeg and other large urban centres, like many other Canadian cities, have put clocks ahead one hour from April 30 to about the last week in September.

Details of the bill, introduced by W. G. Morelli (CC—Winnipeg), were not explained.

The Manitoba House also gave second reading to a bill to raise from $20 to $35 a month the amount of old age and blind pensioners having no other income. The plan will cost an extra $750,000.

A bill setting minimum standards for Seventh Day Adventist nurses received second reading in the legislature at Charlottetown. Sponsors said the legislation is similar to that in effect in other provinces.

The Nova Scotia Throne Speech, read Wednesday at Halifax, forecast removal of the three-cents-a-gallon tax on gasoline used in farming, fishing and lumbering operations. It also pledged an additional $2,000,000 for the fund used to assist new industries to establish in the province and to expand existing ones.

Quebec Session Near End

Quebec's legislative assembly today starts discussion of what are believed the last two government bills of the session. One concerns development of rights on the Kanlaxpiskau River in the Ungava district.

The second night sitting this week may be held tonight, but Ontario legislators made an effort to complete budget debate. But the remaining indications that the House might not succeed in winding up the debate tonight as a number of members who have indicated desire to speak is larger than usual.

Government action in restoring Ontario municipalities' annual salaries to the $10,000 provided by statute came in for opposition criticism yesterday. Ministers have received $6,000 since 1937, when the government of that day took a voluntary pay cut.

Saskatchewan's government-operated liquor stores plan to sell some of its unmarketable surplus fish to the federal fisheries prices support board. Comenting on an Ottawa announcement, that the board would buy 8,000,000 pounds of frozen fish from Prairie lakes, Saskatoon Minister, J. H. Brockelbank said in the legislature at Regina Wednesday that Saskatchewan is negotiating with the federal board.

At a half-hour sitting, the New Brunswick legislature received 16 private bills and 4 public bills, and four notices of inquiry. The budget may be brought down late next week.

BOX CARS JUMP TRACKS

Windsor, March 10 (CP) — Two box cars jumped the tracks and toppled on their sides in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards Wednesday night when they ran into a split switch during the shunting operations. Slight damage resulted but the area was tied up for several hours while wrecking cranes righted the cars.

Woman Sought on Murder Count Held in Toronto

Will be Charged With Death of Young Woman at Deschenes, Que.

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—A 43-year-old Hull woman, Roma Bisaillon, (alias Gibson), sought by Quebec Provincial Police since Monday on a charge of murder, was arrested here early today.

Her arrest was in connection with the death in a Hull hospital of 20-year-old Jacqueline Lambert, of the Hull suburb of Deschenes. Quebec police said the Lambert girl died as the result of an abortion and illegal operation.

Taken into custody with the woman was a 46-year-old man identified as William Fitzell Gibson, said by police to be her common-law husband. He was held as a material witness.

The couple was found by police in the back room of a flat in a fashionable west-end Toronto residential district.

Provincial police said that the couple came to the flat Sunday.

Miss Lambert, victim of the alleged abortion, died in Hull Monday after three weeks in hospital here. An autopsy by Dr. Jean Mousseau, medico-legal expert of the Quebec Attorney-General's Department, disclosed that an illegal operation had been performed on the girl in mid-January.

Detective Normendeau said both Gibson and Roma Anderson would be charged with murder.

Police said they believed the two had driven to Hull Monday and in the cellar of a house at Deschenes where abortions were performed on girls living in Ottawa and Deschenes.

They said five men in Hull had been arrested but police did not say what charges had been laid.

Det. Smith said he learned from an anonymous telephone call on Tuesday night that the pair was hiding in Toronto. Toronto police learned the couple were staying at the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coolidge.

Police said they sent the pair a telegram—saying money was being sent to the woman and Gibson to keep them in Toronto.

Coolidge said he met Roma Anderson in Ottawa during the war. He said Gibson and Roma Anderson told him they were expecting money from Ottawa.

"We fed them and gave them car tickets," Coolidge said. "Last night they gave me an Ottawa address to wire for money, but we have not received an answer.

New Maori Cult Fosters Virtues

Whangarei, N.Z. —(CP)— A strange new Maori cult is thriving in a remote corner of the Bay of Islands in the far north of New Zealand.

In an unproductive, scrub-covered wilderness 10 miles from the nearest township, 300 Maoris have set up a communal religious settlement which aims at eliminating vice and encouraging the virtues.

Maoris who become members of the settlement must pledge themselves to refrain from gambling, swearing, drinking, fighting, playing football or going to cinemas. Smoking and dancing are allowed, but the pursuits banned represent a truly remarkable list for the Maori people, including as they do several of the modern Maori's favorite pastimes.

The sect, formally known as the Absolute Maori Ratshiland Church of Aotearoa, Waipounamu and Wharekauri, was established only two years ago, but already it has made remarkable progress. It was started by a religious leader, Rapana, who broke away from a Maori sect, the Ratana Church, and attracted adherents from many parts of New Zealand as well as the far north.

Already a large area has been laid down in crops which are worked on a communal basis. At first the people lived in ramshackle palm leaf huts, but these are being replaced with cottages. A central block housing the church, a recreation hall, dining-rooms and kitchens has been built by the community and a park laid out around it.

The sect has established branch churches in four other settlements in the north and seems likely to spread further. After two years of voluntary living according to the rules, the Maoris seem happy and enthusiastic about their new way of life. They are convinced that the movement will grow to embrace a large proportion of the race.

Insect Plague Damages Logs

Vancouver — (CP) — A boring "shipworm" known as the teredo has done more damage to logs this season than ever before in history.

Sawmills have rejected numerous booms of logs because of damage by the pests.

Logs are ruined by the burrowing of the teredo, which sometimes grow as long as 12 inches. "They never take a holiday," said a scientist. "Many methods of impregnating wood with poisonous substances have been tried but this is not practical for log booms."

Some logs arriving here were little but spongy masses. When the burrow in the wood is laid open a long, worm-like body is exposed. The interior of the burrow is lined with a shelly material. The teredo's fine tools chip away the wood to a fine dust.

High Wage-Earners Few in Australia

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Only three per cent of wage-earners in Australia earned more than $3,200 during the financial year 1945-46.

Figures just released show that these 161,313 higher income earners were paid 18 per cent of all incomes paid during the year. On top of that they paid out 37.5 per cent of all income tax.

Biggest number of taxpayers were in the low income group who earned between $640 and $1,000 a year. This group numbered 1,258,121 or 24.85 per cent of Australia's 2,052,928 taxpayers. Three were 494,353 persons earning less than $640 a year.

Ex-Regulars Will Be Provided For After Duty Over

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 10 — (CP) — The old soldier with his small pension won't be an object of pity in Ottawa if Bill be a civil servant, a full trade-union member or, perhaps, an executive.

Britain's newest attraction for regular recruits to the services will be the promise that when their period of duty has finished they will be in line for a good job.

A scheme is being worked out to provide openings for ex-regulars, and it may include special training for civil employment either within industry or in establishments set up, by the Labor ministry.

A recent government White Paper on defence added:

"In government service a proportion of vacancies for the clerical and executive classes will, in future, be reserved for competition among ex-regulars.

"The trade unions already have agreed that men trained in a wide range of service trades should be recognized as qualified for membership as skilled men.

"There will also be schemes of training to assist selected candidates who wish to enter business. These comprehensive arrangements will, it is hoped, greatly enhance the attractiveness of the services to the right type of regular recruit."

In 1948, 19,700 regular other ranks were accepted for the navy, 34,200 for the army and 13,600 for the air force. But many more are needed to maintain the services at top efficiency with 750,000, including young men called for compulsory service, on duty at March 31, 1950.

"The services all suffer from lack of men with long experience or a high degree of service skill, although in the event of an emergency large reserves are at present available from among the trained men and women who served in the recent war," said the White Paper.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Mountain View — Rev. D. C. Amos spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barber.

Mr. J. G. Sprague has returned to his home much improved in health after undergoing an operation in Kingston General Hospital.

Miss Lillian Sprague and Mr. Chas. Sprague had supper on Friday evening with Miss Elizabeth Jordon and Mr. J. G. Sprague.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Hall of Ruff's Island were entertained on Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Sprung. Mr. and Mrs. Hall have just returned from a two months' holiday in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Harns and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harns of Burrs spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Burkitt and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Minaker.

Miss Lillian Anderson was a patient in Belleville General Hospital for a few days. She has now returned to her home and is feeling much better.

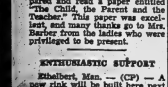
Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson and children of Belleville were supper guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. J. G. Sprague.

Mrs. Wessels is spending a week with relatives in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickey of Belleville spent Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jones were guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Howe and family of Picton on Sunday.

Miss Mary Keeble of Belleville spent the weekend at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Keeble.



Mr. and Mrs. Grant Minaker called on Mrs. Eddy Lott who is a patient in Prince Edward County Hospital, on Saturday evening.

Mr. Ben Anderson attended an official meeting of the Bay of Quinte Mutual Fire Insurance, on Tuesday.

In preparing the account of the March meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute the name of Mrs. James Barber was accidentally omitted. Mrs. Barber prepared and read a paper entitled "The Call of the Parent and the Teacher." This paper was excellent, and many thanks go to Mrs. Barber from the ladies who were privileged to be present.

ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORT

Ethelbert, Man. — (CP) — A new rink will be built here next winter. A donation of 10,000 feet of lumber was made by William and Mike Rybchuck, and a crew of volunteers will go to the mills to cut the balance of the lumber required for the job.

Thanks have been overjoyed at the results they are getting with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Here's a medicine often needed by men and women who feel old and whose bodies are lacking in certain essentials vital to energy and vigor. Start on your way to feeling younger and livelier with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this very day. All over druggists.

FOXBORO

Foxboro — Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mrs. Robt. Peacock, whose funeral services were largely attended on Friday afternoon in the Presbyterian Church.

Day of Prayer

The World's Day of Prayer services were observed when Presbyterians and United Church ladies assembled in the Presbyterian Church. The leaders were Miss Nellie Hall, Mrs. Beattie, Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. W. Scott with Mrs. R. Skinner as pianist.

Rev. L. Shorten gave the special address and stressed the value of each sincere prayer, when we are assured of God's presence. We must seek His way through prayer as this is the channel through which He speaks in so many different ways. He also spoke of the privilege of being part of such a great number all over the world who were engaging in a prayer service.

Special prayers were offered by Mrs. J. G. Sills, Mrs. E. Tummon, Mrs. A. Shorten, Mrs. G. Priest and Mrs. M. Reynolds. Mrs. C. Beattie was chosen as key woman for the next year.

Mr. Everette Yorke was a ten hour guest on Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hodgen.

Mrs. C. Shorey left during the week to spend some time with relatives in Florida.

Reg. R. Tink of Michigan, spent the weekend with Mrs. J. G. Sills.

W. A. Group Meetings

W. A. group meetings were held during the week on Tuesday at Mrs. J. W. Daniels', Wednesday at Mrs. Leonard's, and on Thursday at Mrs. E. Tummon's home.

Mrs. Frank Tummon conducted the Worship Service and told the missionary story to the pupils on Sunday morning. Services are being conducted during Lent on Sunday morning and also in the evening and a Study Group each Thursday evening.

The choir music on Sunday evening was rendered by the men assisted by the pastor who also gave an inspiring address on "Having a Good Time" in which he pointed out that we can only have a good time as our hearts are right with God. The offering was taken up by Master Jimmie Reid and Norris Empey.

Mr. and Mrs. Chappelle and Sharon were Sunday guests of Mr. Chappelle's parents.

Mr. W. Rombough and son were dinner hour guests on Wednesday at Mrs. W. Hodgen's home.

Tass Correspondent Warned by Iran Govt.

Tehran, March 10 — (CP) — The Iranian government has warned M. Novochainy, correspondent here for Tass, the official Russian news agency, to "cease transmitting tendentious news threatening the country's security" on pain of expulsion.

The government would order his expulsion under a clause in the International Telegraph Convention, invoked last year when Alfred Holland, correspondent of the London Times, was expelled, an announcement said.

Deputy Premier Mohamad Tabatabaie told all foreign newspaper men is to avoid sending out "news contrary to Iran's security" and warned that offenders would be punished.

Duplessis Helps His Old Friend Camillien Houde

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, March 10 — (CP) — The stars were aglearn again today for Camillien Houde.

From all the signs, the paunchy, skullduggery of Montreal is about to get off the "glad hand" circuit and once more become the power in this town that he was nine years ago.

In October, the Montreal bill, which would restore to the 52-year-old Houde much of the power stripped from the mayor's office when the Quebec municipal commission stepped in in 1940, needs only tag-end formalities to become law.

For Houde this is what he has been after since he came out of wartime internment in 1944 and got elected mayor for a fifth term.

There wasn't much for him to do but tour the banquet circuits what with the committee running Montreal and the mayor having no voice in it. But lquidly, under the Houde charm, people of Montreal ceased to care much that he was interned because he advised against national registration. Just as rapidly the banquet circuit inflated the mayor.

"He must weigh 300 pounds—he looks like an elephant," said one of his French-speaking friends the day.

And today, while he beamed broadly at the news from Quebec he held his excitement and noted only that the legislation "has yet to pass completely."

There was another angle to this ending of his days as a mere figurehead in the biggest city in Canada: This was the pay-off from Premier Maurice Duplessis for Houde's work in the interests of the Union Nationale in the provincial election last July.

To show how he felt about Montreal's mayor being little more than a "greeter," Premier Duplessis declared it an "illogical situation" to have a mayor of Montreal with "less power than the mayor of the smallest municipality in the province."

Fire Causes Loss Of $1,000,000 In Edmonton

Edmonton, March 10 (CP) — Fire of undetermined origin broke out early Wednesday in the Revillon building in Edmonton's downtown industrial section.

Damage was estimated unofficially at more than $1,000,000.

The building houses a wholesale dry goods firm and other smaller wholesale offices.

The stubborn blaze started on the fourth floor. It was still out of control at 9.30 a. m. MST — (11:30 a. m. EST) but firemen reported they were gaining control.

Despite use of all Edmonton's fire-fighting equipment, flames spread to the fifth and sixth floors.

Chief sufferer from the flames was the wholesale dry goods firm, Gault's Alberta Ltd. Assistant manager Dal Delaney said the entire stock valued at $500,000 was a total loss. He said 8,000 articles including furniture, linoleums and textiles were destroyed.

Water was poured into the building at the rate of 2,000 gallons a minute by four booster pumps and 12 lines of hose caused extensive damage to lower floors.

The Edmonton branch of Dunn and Bradstreet is expected to suffer the heaviest water damage.

Other goods threatened included oil paintings including two oil paintings which Walt Brown, auctioneer, said were valued at $15,000 each.

About 50 firms had offices or equipment in the six-story brick structure.

BABY'S CRY IS NOT ALWAYS TEMPER

DISTINGUISH between your baby's cry of pain and cry of temper. Both "pain cry" and temper have instant attention. For the feverish distress due to gas on stomach or bowels, or those restless, crying spells, give Baby's Own Tablets a chance to work. Concerning them, Mrs. Alex Gray sends from Toronto, Ont.:

"I am the mother of nine children, three of my own, eight, and Baby's Own Tablets have been my only medicine in raising them to be healthy children they are now. As soon as my children become a little feverish I at once give them Baby's Own Tablets and in a short time the fever disappears and the children were normal again."

Baedeker Guide Books Make Reappearance

Hamburg — (Reuters) — The famous red guide books published by Karl Baedeker, great-grandson of the founder of the firm, has been granted a license in Hamburg to re-start the world famous business which was disrupted first by the war, then by the destruction of all archives and stores in the air raids and finally by the fact that its seat was in Leipzig in East German zone, where it was found impossible to make a fresh start.

Although the firm published a small guide to Leipzig last year, the first real new post-war Baedeker will be a volume on Schleswig-Holstein where Karl Baedeker has been living since the war.

A relatively modest beginning, the volume of Schelswig-Holstein will contain 200 drawings of the arms and other characteristics of the province. It is due to appear in the spring. The edition will be limited to 10,000 copies.

Next on the list are guide books on Westphalia, Lower Saxony and in turn, all the other states in the western zones.

Finer Volumes on Britain

Herr Baedeker said that he was working in conjunction with Sir Stanley Unwin, British publisher, to produce a volume on Great Britain in English, while he had arranged with a Norwegian publisher to produce a guide book on Norway in English.

The rebirth of this famous firm is thus limited at present to a comparatively few volumes. Herr Baedeker does not wish to commit himself to produce volumes on other countries until he has had time to study the public taste and investigate publishing possibilities.

The difficulties of producing foreign guide books are still numerous with foreign currency, travel permits, editorial assistance and financial resources all constituting formidable problems —not to mention the masses of red tape to be unravelled.

Herr Baedeker said that he did not think that it would be possible to produce guide books on foreign countries for another five years at least owing to these difficulties of production.

Erring Youths Need A Measure of Trust

Saskatoon — (CP) — A Saskatoon educationalist claims a correctional institution for juveniles is not functioning properly if no attempts to escape are made.

Dr. S. R. Laycock, dean of the college of education at the University of Saskatchewan, says occasional escapes are a healthy sign.

Dr. Laycock, discussing a number of recent escapes from the Boys' Industrial School in Regina, said the public is apt in place too much emphasis on the number of escapes made from an institution in judging its efficiency.

"I would feel very suspicious of a boys' training institution where there are no escapes now and then," he said.

"It is an easy matter to lock boys up and keep them under such repressive discipline that they won't escape," he continued. "Anybody can do that."

Training activities in normal living habits could not be achieved by merely "locking them up behind brick and mortar." Boys need to be trained gradually in self-control and self-direction.

The only way to develop good citizenship was to allow erring youths some measure of responsibility and trust.

In allowing boys the freedom that went with responsibility "every head of a boys' training school must take the chance that boys will occasionally have relapses from the level of responsibility they seem to have attained."

TWO GIRLS DROWNED

Montreal, March 10 (CP)— A hunt for duck eggs on the grounds of Villa Maria Convent ended in death for two five-year-old girls whose bodies were found Tuesday night in the Convent's duck pond.

PLAYING POST-OFFICE IN BERLIN

Berlin teen-agers took advantage of Mardi Gras week in Berlin to fill the "Neighborhood House" they helped build with strange costumes and the cheering sound of merrymaking. Authorities were surprised to find that the costumes were pretty close to what the average Canadian teen-ager would've worn. There were cowboys, Indians, pirates and clowns. There was dancing and the correct quota of kissing. Cowboys, above, could kiss princesses and who could say whether it was Mardi Gras or love.—Central Press Canadian.

Bohemian Waxing, Invade Ash Trees Seeking Berry Seeds

Edmonton — (CP)— A large-scale ash invasion of Edmonton has reported this month — but nothing as serious as the invasion of Dogpatch by the "farnip termites."

Undercarriages colored red-dish-brown and tails rimmed with yellow, the invaders launched their attack on the city's mountain ash trees. The invaders are Bohemian waxwings.

Too numerous to count, the attackers lit in the city and started stripping the trees of their berries. It takes but a matter of seconds for a flock of the berry-loving birds to strip a tree clean, observers say.

Dr. William Rowan, professor of zoology at the University of Alberta and an expert ornithologist, said that the waxwings are not migratory birds but are native to Alberta. With cunning reasoning, they plan their attack with precision. They gather and food north, south, east and west descend on different berry centres in turn.

After cleaning up one area, they move to the next. One of the main objections to the berry snatchers is the fact that they are not properly versed in table manners and leave berry skins all over the place.

Matters might be worse, however, Dr. Rowan says. Other mountain ash invaders, the evening grosbeaks, are overdue. Usually scheduled to appear upon the scene in January, they won't find much left if and when they do arrive.

Methodical methods of attack were described by one man who reported that the waxwings, with military precision, congregated in taller trees waiting for reports from small "scouting parties." Then the birds broke up into small flocks, one flock to a tree, and went to work.

Quits Manhunts, Retires to Farm

Montreal —(CP)— Two-fisted, dead-shot, Det. Sgt. Euclide Jette, known as "The Terror of the Main" is going to turn in his gun for a plow.

The Montreal policeman, who a few years ago captured a murderer 30 minutes after the slaying, says he's through with manhunts. All he wants now is to be with his wife and five-year-old son, Andre, on their farm.

The 43-year-old detective, with 20 years' service, got his unofficial title from the fact that he, along with Det. Sgt. Ferdinand Vachon, now retired, fought through dozens of scraps on St. Lawrence Boulevard — and always came out on top.

Jette joined the force in 1928. For four years he served as a constable. Then he spent seven years with the radio branch.

In March, 1940, Jette, a radio patrolman, answered a holdup call at a drug store. A police sergeant had been shot. Witnesses said the bandits had fled into the cellar. Jette surprised them as they attempted to escape, disarmed them and took them in tow. Three days later Jette was made a detective.

Series of Parks Recreation Grounds Along Humber River

Toronto, March 10 (CP) —The Humber Valley Conservation authority will seek aid from the Ontario Government to combat pollution in the Humber River and restore what members termed "a natural playground."

At a meeting Tuesday, B. Lewis, Etobicoke member, said a series of parks and recreation grounds would be established on both sides of the Humber when the river is cleaned.

He said more than 1,500,000 people would benefit by the development but Toronto would pay the largest share of the cost.

Tern Threatened With Extinction If Not Secluded

The reason: Too many people. They tramp all over the islands where the tern likes to live. And if there's one thing the tern likes, it's a nice quiet home-life.

Pretty soon, unless something is done about it, the tern will be as extinct as the dodo. That's why the American Museum of Natural History is trying to get its hands on 77-acre Great Gull Island, off Long Island Sound.

Dr. Richard H. Pough, the museum's curator of conservation, says the idea would be to make the island an exclusive happy breeding ground. Abandoned gun emplacements of the old army fort there would be a vantage point to study the tern's habits.

"Terns must nest on bare ground and in a place protected from foxes, skunks, dogs and men," says Dr. Pough. "Above all, they must not be disturbed.

"The tern is dying out because its home-life has been disturbed. Picnic crowds scare terns from their eggs and hot summer sun kills the embryos."

Exclude Man

If the museum has its way, a man will be stationed on Great Gull Island to warn picnic parties off. Even official visitors will be shushed.

Tern-watching is a fascinating job, says Dr. Pough. They're pretty birds that look something like small gulls, but they're much more fascinating in what they eat, and much more attentive to personal tidiness. And what about sex?

Well, says Dr. Pough, a tern can't tell just by looking, any more than you or I can.

They just watch each other closely until one or the other reveals male or female characteristics. If a tern acts like a female, they seem to accept that verdict. If a male tern pecks another tern, it he gets pecked back, he figures he has pecked a male. He looks for a female to mate.

But once that confusion has been cleared up, the tern family gets on beautifully, Dr. Pough says. The male never returns to the nest without some little present for the female. And she always seems pleased and surprised.

Bereaved Lion Breaks Out, Goes on Rampage

San Salvador, El Salvador, March 10 (AP)—Terry, a lion in the San Salvador zoo, desolate over the death of his mate, broke out of his cage and terrorized hundreds before being shot by an army detachment. In the confusion, an officer and a soldier were wounded by stray bullets.

HAPPY LITTLE LAD . . . A PRINCE, IN FACT

This may look like just another healthy youngster playing his dump truck in the snow, but he's really a prince of a fellow. Volcano Erupts for Scientists

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

Auckland N.Z. (CP)—A "command performance" eruption staged by the Mount Ngauruhoe volcano for overseas scientists visiting New Zealand for the Pacific Science Congress has proved one of the most violent and certainly the most interesting since observations of the mountain began.

The eruption started on the day parties of scientists from the United States, Canada, Britain, and numerous Pacific countries arrived in the area on a visit of inspection and its most violent phase continued throughout their stay.

Ngauruhoe 7,300 feet, is one of a group of three volcanoes in the centre of the North Island, Surrounded by a large area of unoccupied tussock country, their eruptions never cause any damage. The other volcanoes are Mount Tongariro, 6,458 feet, which is frequently in a state of minor eruption from several small craters, and Mount Ruapehu, 9,175 feet, which has a hot lake surrounded by ice cliffs at its summit and erupts only very occasionally.

Ngauruhoe is by far the most active and spectacular. It is in eruption several times a year, but usually only to the extent of emitting smoke and ash. A major eruption occurs only about once in five years.

Spectacular Display

In the present eruption, enormous boulders, some of them as large as houses, have been ejected.

The display was most spectacular in the night as most of the boulders were white hot. When the burst of fire and lava was obscured by clouds the sight of white hot boulders descending out of the clouds was an unforgettable one.

Even more interesting to scientists was the fact that the first observed lava flow in New Zealand occurred during the eruption. The country is dotted with extinct volcanoes from which there have been lava flows but all eruptions since scientific observation began have been confined to the ejection of fumes, ashes and boulders. The present flow was a substantial one, 900 feet wide at the summit of the mountain and 700 feet where it fanned out on a plateau 2,000 feet below, and about 15 feet thick.

One group of scientists was only 800 feet from the summit when it was bombarded with a barrage of white hot rocks. The party escaped injury.

The eruption has been accompanied by strange phenomena in other parts of New Zealand. An earthquake accompanied the opening phases, but scientists state this was an entirely separate occurrence. In Hawke's Bay, 100 miles from the Volcano, weird underground rumblings were heard.

To See Aurora Don't Visit Alaska Stay in Ontario

Toronto, March 9 (CP)—Dr. Carl W. Gartlein of Cornell University at Ithaca, N.Y., Tuesday night told the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada "if you want to see northern lights, don't go to Alaska—stay in Toronto or Ontario."

Northern lights, he said, would be best seen when farther north in eastern Canada, preferably around Churchill or Hudson Bay. They would not be seen at all at the North Pole.

Observations by scientists, amateur astronomers and voluntary observers in Canada and the northern United States indicated a brilliant aurora display on night "is likely to be followed by a lesser show either on the following night or 27 days later when the sun has completed one rotation of its axis," Dr. Gartlein said.

Sets up Scholarship For Sons, Daughters Of War Dead

Kingston, March 9 (CP)— The students veterans council at Queen's University today announced a scholarship for sons and daughters o' war dead. Officials said the scholarship is in line with resolutions passed at recent national conference of student veterans. Necessary arrangements have been made with the university.

The award is to be on the basis of academic merit and financial need, is tenable at Queen's and is open to persons from any part of Canada. Assumnt is subject to modification but is to be not less than $100 a year to each student qualifying. Money not used for the awards goes into a fund from which loans may be made as a supplement to the scholarship. Funds will be raised among war veterans graduates and undergraduates of Queen's.

San Francisco Bay Area Shaken By Earthquake

San Francisco, March 9 (AP)—An earthquake shook the San Francisco Bay area early today, causing no serious damage.

But burglar alarms went off, electrical fixtures swayed, and rocks rolled off Telegraph Hill, and with considerable concern some San Franciscans recalled the great quake of 1906.

There were two shocks felt between 4:29 and 4:30 a. m., from the Santa Clara Valley, 60 miles south of San Francisco, to Sacramento, 90 miles northeast.

One house in the San Francisco Mission district, reported a water pipe broken as the house wall swayed.

One woman, living beside precipitous Telegraph Hill, reported to police that prowlers were on her roof. Investigation showed the prowlers were rocks shaken loose from the hill.

Mill Valley, in Marin county north of the Golden Gate felt the shocks strongly, as did the East Bay cities of Richmond, Berkeley, Oakland and Alameda.

South San Francisco police reported that scores of burglar alarms were set off by the tremor in that industrial community.

Czechs to Close Border Points to U.S. Occupied Bavaria Say Germans

Hof, Germany, March 9 (AP) — German border police said today they had been informed Czechoslovakia will close all border points to American - occupied Bavaria March 30.

The Germans said the regulation probably will affect only foot and road traffic.

American military government officials said they had no explanation either.

TWO BOYS HELD

Paris, Ont., March 10 (CP) — Caught in the act of loading loot valued at $200, from Douglas Foote's sporting goods store early today Don Houman, 17, Paris, and his 18-year-old companion were arrested by constable Ken Stephenson.

Brantford police said that the two youths also admitted to theft of candy and chocolates from a freight car at the Weston company warehouse, Elgin Street, Brantford, which was entered 3 weeks ago.

PROTESTANT CLERICS ON TRIAL FOR TREASON IN BULGARIA

Listening to testimony, some of the fifteen Bulgarian Protestant church leaders charged with treason, black-marketing and espionage, are shown at their trial in Sofia. Armed guards were stationed around the court. Although all defendants faced the death penalty, the verdict was: four ministers sentenced to life imprisonment, others to terms up to 15 years, two were freed on parole. The proceedings followed the same pattern as that of the recent Cardinal Mindszenty trial in Communist-dominated Hungary.—Central Press Canadian.

Biz Chromite Discovery Would Add Much To Canada's Wealth

BY FORREST RHODE

Don't throw away any dark, heavy mineral without another look—it might be chromite, said Leonard G. Smith, an enthusiast on the subject, addressing the Prospectors and Developers Association in Toronto today.

To date, Canada has developed only small tonnages of chromite of the required grade and quality. But, says Mr. Smith, many deposits in Canada and the United States have conditions favorable to its occurrence.

Apparently almost anything may be found in the broad Canadian mineral belts to add to the wealth uncovered.

Chrome is big business. In 1948 the United States imported more than 1,500,000 tons, mostly in a crude state, valued at about $50,000,000. It is used for alloys in the steel industry.

It was first discovered in Canada in the vicinity of Lake Memphremagog, near Sherbrooke, Que., by Sir William Logan, whom Mr. Smith describes as the father of pre-Cambrian geology, and more simply, as one of the early Canadian "Klitnyx." Mr. Smith is a resident engineer with N. A. Timmins Exploration (Onl.) Ltd., and so gets around too.

3RD HILLIER

The entertainment at Hillier Town Hall on Wednesday, consisting of pictures on the screen put on by Mr. Burton Baxter of Picton and songs by local talent drew a good crowd. $20 was taken at the door. The Hillier Institute were in charge.

Mrs. Melbourne McIntosh, Mrs. Ross Benway and children, spent Tuesday afternoon with Miss Wilson Tusk, of Belleville.

The sale of farm stock and implements at Chas. Pritchard's on Friday was well attended.

The farmers are very sorry to hear of Dr. Shipside V.S., going to the U.S.A., settling in Ohio to continue his practice.

Mrs. Chas. Benway spent Tuesday evening at Wellington with Mrs. Will Benway and Gordon.

Mr. Gordon Dainard spent a couple of days with his sister, Mrs. Miller and Mr. Miller, Lake Shore.

AMBASSADOR DEMANDS SUSPECT'S RELEASE

Alexander Panyushkin, Soviet ambassador to the P.S. is shown leaving state department in Washington after a conference with Under-Secretary of State James E. Wedd. Subject of the call was to demand that the U.S. release Valentina A. Gubitchev, Russian member of the United Nations secretariat who was arrested by the F.B.I. on spy charges in New York. There seems to be a question as to whether or not Grubitchev has diplomatic immunity. He is held in $100,000 bond. Arrested with Grubitchev was Miss Judith Coplon, justice department employee, who, agents said, had summaries of confidential documents in her possession. She is held in $70,000 bond.—Central Press Canadian.

No Wonder Paris Folk Thought It Was Nightmare

Paris, March 10 (AP)— Some Parisians going to work this morning thought they were still having a nightmare.

Gen. De Gaulle's partly Rassemblement du Peuple Francais, had plastered billboards during the night with phony announcements of a Red occupation of Paris.

Rubbing their eyes, the early morning crowds saw imitation of the newspaper Le Matin which had collaborated with the Germans. Now it bore headlines such as these;

"We will collaborate in honor and dignity, Premier Thorez says in radio message."

"London suffers unprecedented bombardment."

"Britain at the end of her rope."

Remember That Night

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

Roxanne saw how dishcouraged she was. On the elevator she said, "Cheer up. You're going out to dinner with Bill and me and then you're going up on the roof to dance with Bill. He's a swell dancer. Who says I'm jealous? And you can hear me sing. That ought to be a treat."

At the door of Karen's room she took the boxes. "Put on an evening dress and make yourself beautiful. That shouldn't be hard for you."

• • •

Karen had two evening dresses, bought at a twenty per cent discount at the little shop in Harriston. One was a dark red taffeta, the other a gray chiffon made entirely of tiny pleats with a cluster of violets at the belt.

Selecting the gray dress and silver sandals, she took a quick bath, brushed her dark hair until it shone, then dressed. With a three-quarter length white satin coat over the dress, she went to Roxanne's apartment and knocked.

"Bill just called and said he'd be here in a few minutes," Roxanne said, her white satin dress gleaming. "I can't wait to see him! One of those days you're going to meet a man you won't be able to live without."

Roxanne had been honest. Her red mouth curving, Karen said, "I have but I'll have to learn to live without him."

"Philip Ashley?" Roxanne shook her head. "You're just making it tough for yourself. I enquired around and found out he's in love with a girl in England. Crazy about her. They're going to get married when she comes back."

They are going to get married when she came back . . .

"Bill! Darling, come up! Hurry!"

• • •

In a few minutes Bill McGrath came in and Karen liked him at once. He was tall and strong with steadfast dark eyes and smooth dark hair. He was handsome, she thought, but not as handsome as Philip Ashley.

Roxanne went to him and put her arms around him. Karen saw how much they loved each other.

Then Roxanne said, looking at Karen, "Forgive us for putting on a love scene but I hope we always will and not care who is looking."

Smiling, she looked up at Bill. "Why did you call me to get dressed up? What are we celebrating?"

"My return." Then he laughed. "You haven't introduced me to Karen!"

They dined at a small exclusive place and Karen knew that Roxanne was wonderful to Bill was being lavish tonight. But she did not ask him again, thinking that because he had been away he wished to be festive on his return. They talked and laughed a great deal and Karen almost forgot her worries at not having found work on the stage.

While Bill and Roxanne were talking, she looked around at the beautifully coiffured heads of the women and the well groomed heads of the men. How silly to hope that Philip would be here! How silly to hope anything of a man who was waiting for a girl in England to come back!

After dinner they took a taxi to the hotel. Roxanne left them and Karen and Bill sat at a table by the window. The music was playing and people were dancing.

"Funny that you and Roxanne should bump into each other," he said. His eyes were intense and serious. "She's never had a really good friend before."

Karen smiled. "But I won't have her after Christmas. I think she's wonderful, too. Sometimes hard knocks make you bitter and sometimes they make you mellow. They've made Roxanne mellow. I don't know what I'd have done without her, and I don't think I'm going to get anybody to take her place."

"Karen," Philip said. "We meet again. I'm unaccompanied as usual and I'd like to dance with you."

She introduced him to Bill and the men shook hands. "And stop getting up, she laid her hand on Philip's shoulder. Oh, let me dance with she thought. And by the time they had circled the floor once, she couldn't deny it any longer. Did he know she was trembling? "Philip is the man I love more than any other even like! Philip is the man I think I could die for."

Looking at Karen's graceful dress, Brenda said' 'That beautiful fall is in love with Philip, Craig. Madly."—She'd like this dance with you so last forever."

• • •

Dancing with Philip . . . Karen had danced with a hundred boys in Harriston but it had never been like this.

"Is New York being kind to you?" Philip asked, looking down on her shining dark head.

New York had closed doors rudely in her face. There was no place for her. But she could not let him know how discouraged she was.

"Yes, very kind. I've made two friends. Roxanne Bell and Bill Mcgrath. Roxanne sings here. They're engaged."

"Oh, I see." Then the young man at the table was not her interest. "Come and speak to Brenda and meet Dr. Stanlope. Brenda hasn't forgotten you."

The dance over, they paused briefly at the table to speak to Brenda and Craig. Then Philip took her back to Bill.

He said, "I've bad news for you. I've got to go to Florida on Monday by boat." And added in an undertone, "Business."

"Again! But you just got back!" Her fingers tried to erase the deep furrow between his dark eyes. "You're worried about something. You can't fool me. I know. What good am I if I can't share things with you — good things and bad? I don't care if you don't get that promotion, Bill . . ."

"It's not that. But I've got to go to Florida."

"Tell me everything is okay. Bill. And everything is okay if you still love me and want me."

"I do."

Softly against his shoulder she laughed. "Then everything is okay. I'm happy, Bill. I only want — us. That's not so much to want — and yet it's everything. And after Christmas you won't be you and me but — us."

Tenderly he put a stray blonde curl in place. "I'll be thinking of you every minute, Roxana. I'll . . ."

• • •

She kissed him. "Let's go into the kitchen and get coffee. Singing makes me hungry. It makes me feel like a poet when you won't tell me what's bothering you. Girls don't know anything about business — is that it? Especially me. I just sing songs to you. Isn't Karen beautiful!"

Later, outside her apartment door, he kissed her again.

"I'm coming down to see you off Monday," Roxanne said. "Do not tell me I can't! And I'll be waiting for you, Bill. I won't be waiting until I won't have to wait any more. Call me tomorrow!" As he walked to the elevator, he turned. She smiled and threw him a kiss and closed the door.

Before the elevator came, Bill stared at the closed door and the furrow between his brows became deeper.

• • •

"Karen?" a familiar voice asked. "Ashley? Then wake up because I've only got the day here. I nearly went crazy thinking about you in New York since on Sunday. Big cities can be pretty lonely on Sunday."

"Jerry! Where are you?"

"In a hotel about two blocks away. I drove nearly all night. How about some breakfast?"

"As an old friend, don't I rate a kiss, Karen?"

"As somebody who drove all night to meet me, you do."

At breakfast he leaned forward and asked, "Well, how's it going?" Slowly he shook his head. "Not so good, eh?"

Came a long wrong time. Nobody told me that the theatre is dead in the winter. I've covered miles looking for work." Philip . . . Why think of Philip who had danced with her and then went out of her life again?

"I know about home, Jerry. But Harriston really isn't my home any more. New York is, whether it likes it or not. I don't think I likes very much."

Who was your "dating" now, she wondered. And with all the girls in Harriston trying to attract him, he had driven all night to see her.

He touched her hand. "Karen, come back with me. A home and a husband are better than this. You're licked before you've started. You don't know any one to help you and there are thousands like you."

She knew Philip Ashley but he would not help her. She had met Brenda Bond.

"I won't give up, Jerry." Philip's indifference was a challenge. She would make him proud of her some day. She would! "I'm going to keep trying for as long as my money lasts. When that goes, I'll get another kind of job. But I won't come back."

"It means so much to you?"

"It means everything." Philip meant everything.

They were together all day. Like that afternoon Karen watched the dusty yellow roadster move slowly down the crowded street. Hooks, lines, security or this agony of uncertainty and fear? Jerry with a man who loved a girl in England . . . Jerry knew it was useless now. He probably would not come again. And so every contact with her old life was finished.

• • •

The next day at five o'clock Roxanne, a colorful figure in a new blue suit and beige hat, stood on the pier with her hands on Bill McGrath's broad shoulders.

"Why didn't you want me to see you off, Bill?"

"I hate good-byes," he said.

A whistle blew shrilly. He kissed her again, a hungry sort of kiss, and went up the gangplank. Her hair beneath the small hat shining in the sunlight, Roxanne stood and smiled. He was too far away to know that she was crying, too.

• • •

After another week of walking, Karen's black slippers began to show signs of wear but the search to find work on the stage was futile. Moreover, in two weeks she had spent much of the money she had hoped to keep as a reserve. Hold on until late summer when rehearsals for shows appeared in the list would begin, she told herself repeatedly.

Hold on! Roxanne was sympathetic but helpless. "Didn't I tell you it was a tough racket?" she asked one night when they were having dinner in a small inexpensive Italian restaurant.

RAILWAYS TRY OUT DOUBLE-DECK COACH

London — (CP) — An experimental double-decker passenger coach is to be tried out by British railways in the London area.

It has a single deck section at each end and the double-deck portion occupies the centre section. The double-deck portion has a lower clearance than usual, headroom for passengers being reduced to about the height of the present baggage rack.

HALLOWAY

Halloway—A large number of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Faulkner and family gathered at their home to spend a social evening with them before they leave for their new home in Prince Edward County. The evening was spent with a program and a social time. Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner were presented with a pressure cooker. All enjoyed a pleasant evening and the ladies served refreshments.

A number of W. I. women spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Wm. Frederick and quilted a quilt for her, after which the hostess served refreshments.

Mr. Geo. Ryan spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ryan, of Frankford.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. Claude McGinnis all wish him a speedy recovery from his illness.

Mrs. Lorne Reid spent a few days in Tweed where her mother has been confined to bed with the flu.

Miss Dorothy Reid spent Saturday evening with Miss Lugo Prest.

Mrs. Clayton Phillips, of Belleville, spent Tuesday evening with her mother, Mrs. Wm. Frederick.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross and Raymond spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Prest.

Mrs. Donnell, of Frankford is spending a few days with Mrs. Walter Abrams, who is confined to bed with her — a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Faulkner of Belleville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faulkner.

TWO PENSIONERS BURNED

Timmins, March 10 (CP)—Two old age pensioners died Tuesday night when fire trapped them inside their cabin in the roomed shack at Connaught on the shores of the Frederickhouse River 35 miles east of Timmins.

Twisted metal and charred timbers were all that remained in mute evidence of the blaze that trapped the two old men before they could break out of the tiny wooden dwelling.

Mutt-Jeff Bandits Make Three Hauls

Toronto, March 9 (CP)—Toronto's Mutt and Jeff bandits struck three times Tuesday night.

*stead pal stole a $60 wristwatch from the Toronto Watch Hospital, $150 fro storekeeper Abraham Wallinsky and $50 from Roland Nicholls' drug store. All the stores are in the downtown area.

Police blame the two men for holding up five other small business establishments in the last week.

At the Welch Hospital, a small jewelry and repair shop, the thieves identified themselves to clerk Reg Bontwood. The tall man tried on a watch, then pointed a nickel-plated revolver through his coat pocket and said:

"We're the Mutt and Jeff boys, in case ya don't know."

KINGSTON RD. CHURCH W.A.

The Kingston Road Church held their March meeting of the W.A. in the home of Mrs. E. Gaslow. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Walkom. The minutes of last meeting were read and roll call was answered by an Irish joke and general brightness then followed.

On behalf of Mrs. Glazie, Mrs. Walkom thanked the ladies for their donation of a box to Japan.

A letter of thanks was read by Mrs. Gasley for card and candy sent to Mr. Parrott.

The enjoyable concert held recently at the church was a decided success both educationally and financially.

Reading was given by Mrs. Ryan and Mrs. Garbutt gave an interesting paper on "Homemaking," which was highly enjoyed.

In contest by Mrs. Walkom was won by Mrs. Dilkey and which an enjoyable sing-song followed, when refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Dulmage and Mrs. Ryan.

EVENING BRANCH OF W.A.

The Evening Branch of Christ Church, met on Monday evening, in the Parish Hall, for the World Day of Prayer service, with Mrs. Sparling in charge. Special prayers were offered by Mrs. J. G. Sparling, Miss France Reid, Mrs. R. Ingram, Mrs. F. Clare, Mrs. M. Northeigh, and Mrs. E. Smith and very inspiring message was given by Miss Lillian Hart. Mrs. H. Hill played the accompaniment for the hymns.

Plans were discussed for a St. Patrick's party, a rummage sale, and a Rainbow tea to be held early in May.

Mrs. Sparling closed with prayer and refreshments were served by Mrs. La Watson and Mrs. R. Godden.

CHRIST CHURCH GUILD

Christ Church Parish Guild held their regular monthly meeting yesterday, which was the form of a pot-luck luncheon under the capable management of Mrs. A. W. Jordan and her group.

A short business session followed the luncheon, with Mrs. Georges Rhodes presiding. Mrs. J. Grant Sparling took charge of the program which consisted of the showing of three reels of fishing films.

During the afternoon a small presentation was made to Mrs. E. Lemoine in appreciation for her untiring service for several years as secretary of the Guild.

Sang the National Anthem.

Mrs. Roy Sills opened her home to the women of Zion and Bethel Auxiliaries on Friday last, for the World Day of Prayer program.

The program opened with quiet music, followed by all singing "Saviour, Like A Shepherd Lead Us." A short business period followed after which Bessie Sills sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer".

Mrs. Lloyd Ray very effectively rendered a solo "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling" and Mrs. Robson closed the service.

Mrs. Dahling and Jean, who are newcomers from Holland to the Sills' home, were welcomed by the society members after which dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Sills and daughters, Bessie and Lois.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The Tabernacle W.M.S. held their regular meeting in the church parlors on Tuesday afternoon. The President, Mrs. L. Robinson, presided for the opening with a poem "We Thank You".

During the business period, the reports of the Secretary, Mrs. G. Brickman and Treasurer, Mrs. F. Paul, were read and adopted. Mrs. F. Hallock reported the Affiliation Service of the C.G.I.T. at 7.30 p.m., on March 15, and invited everyone to attend.

Delegates for the Presbyterial at King Street United Church in Trenton, on April 8, were appointed as follows, Mrs. J. W. Harrison, Miss M. Johns, Mrs. Fred B. Jarrell, Mrs. G. Brickman.

Mrs. Ann Townsend and Mrs. F. McClelland were added to the Social conveners to help Mrs. Harrison. Mrs. A. D. Archibald read a letter regarding the allocation and gave out the Easter Thank-offering envelopes. Mrs. W. Fisher gave a Temperance reading, "Cocktail Bars and Rum Soaking Ontario".

Seventy-five answered the roll call and all visitors were welcomed. Two new members, Mrs. Smyth and Mrs. A. Wood paid their fees and 42 calls were reported made since the February meeting.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. A. Charlton and Mrs. Jarrell. The theme "Thy Kingdom Come." Through the United Witness of the Christians of the World". Mrs. F. Lent at the piano played quiet music. Mrs. Jarrell read "We thank Thee that They Church unsleeping through all the World her Watch is Keeping", Mrs. Charlton and Mrs. Derbyshire sang "Watchman tells us we are Christians," must either give or go". She said in part, "God so loved the world that He gave His Only Begotten Son for us, and nowhere in the Bible have we ever found that the Lord received without He give His followers, that the world should be redeemed. In every creature in the whole creation." It is the world that every Christian should have a part in the preaching of the gospel. Then there's little to be gained unless we can say in all sincerity, "Lo, we first gave ourselves to the Lord, they we will either 'give or go'."

Mrs. Charlton read a poem, "Pray, Give and Go", and followed with a lovely reading "The Last Hymn".

Mrs. S. Woodward, Mrs. F. Isaard, Mrs. Wm. Baird and Miss M. Johns gave the Scripture Letter of the study book "West of the Gorges" on "Christian citizens in Training" telling of Dr. Grenfell Cheng and her work. The worship service concluded with Mrs. J. Jeffrey singing a Chinese song to Child Yee to Advance." Miss Moira River from the early years", which was very interesting to all present.

Mrs. J. Parrott favored with a piano solo and Mrs. Jeffrey sang by Mrs. E. Denyes on "Minerals of Hastings County". Mrs. Ryan and Mrs. Parrott played a piano duet.

APPLY FOR FM RADIO TRANSMITTER

Toronto, March 10 — (CP) — An application for a frequency modulation radio transmitter has been made by Dr. Ryerson Institute of Technology. The station would occupy an area between Bowmanville and Kitchener and from the United States border to Barrie, E. L. Paulin, director of the institute's School of Electronics, said programs to be broadcast would be entirely educational.

QUINTE W.I.

The March meeting of the Quinte W.I. was held on Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. K. Vivian, of Shannonville. There was a large attendance of members and some visitors. The president, Mrs. G. Bradshaw, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Douglas Atkins read the minutes of the last meeting. Roll Call was well responded to with items of local events. The motto, "The ornaments of a house are the friends that frequent it", was given by Mrs. H. Crawford and brought out many good thoughts.

Mrs. A. Mitchell then in her very capable manner gave presentations of Institute pins to Mrs. F. Parrot, Mrs. M. Ryan, Mrs. H. Hill and Mrs. D. Atkins for their services in the Institute. Each made suitable replies.

The program was opened with a song-sing of three Irish songs.

Mrs. W. Tufts gave a splendid paper on "Activities along the

See How Much Better You Feel After Using Syntona

Sufferers of Stomach Trouble, Weak Kidneys, Lazy Liver, Nervousness, Backache and General Rundown Condition.

Here is a medicine that has helped hundreds of thousands of women to find relief from common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Syntona Herbal Compound acts within 10 minutes to clear gas, indigestion, heartburn and sour acidity. Corrects many associated symptoms such as constipation, headaches, backache, and rheumatic pains. At the same time Syntona helps build up the entire system. Promotes normal digestion of food and relieves nervousness, poor appetite and fatigued, rundown feeling.

Mr. Francis Edwards, 147 Clarence Street, London, Ont., said in a recent report:

"I was rundown and suffered from headache, backache and rheumatic pains in all my limbs, joints and muscles. Many days I could scarcely drag myself to work. I was nervous and sour acid pains after my meals. My sleep was very restless and I would awaken every morn ing feeling almost as tired as I did the night before.

"But since I've been taking Syntona it is just wonderful how different I feel. First thing I noticed was that my food began to digest with the result that all sour acid stomach misery disappeared. My appetite and pains began to go and my sleep became more sound and restful and that tired, worried feeling disappeared. Now I feel fine and I am glad to recommend this medicine to other sufferers."

Kingston Nylons Secure Big Edge in Group Playoffs Beating Diesels in Second Straight Game

A powerful Kingston Nylons team, inspired by their first-game victory over the Belleville C.N.R. Diesels romped along in their playoff stride to tack a decisive 11-3 victory over the Belleville team last night in the Jock Harty Arena.

The potent Nylons, flashing championship form before the biggest crowd they ever saw in their lives, turned back the hard-fighting Diesels in a sterling display of hockey.

The victory marked the second straight win for the high-flying Nylons in the best three-of-five series with the C. N. R. Diesels in the district Senior "B" group finals.

The teams clash again in Memorial Arena here on Saturday night, the game starting at nine o'clock. A win for the Kingston team marks the elimination of the Diesels.

Played Superb Hockey

Before a crowd - packed Jock Harty Arena, the Nylons, playing superb hockey and the Diesels' offence with a like style of play, the game from time slashed and carried through with powerful offensives that caught a floundering Diesels' defence off balance for most of the time.

They rammed home two goals in the first seven minutes of the first period with Kenny Parks and Joe Catlin hitting the rigging. Diesels however in the wide-open style both teams favored, raced back into the picture when Doug. Bastedo rammed home Jackie Mowatt's pass to score the Diesels' goal. Gerry Mober on a concerted drive with Leo Goyer and Johnny Semark fired home the tying goal with but seconds to spare.

Fast and Furious

It was fast and furious hockey in the hectic second period with both goalies standing out with a few sparkling saves.

Led by Harrison, the Nylons sweeping down with some perfect combination plays sunk home three goals while the battle-joined desperate Diesels were all out in an effort to check the opposition. Harrison flung home a pair of goals in this session with the potent Parks getting the odd one aided in no small measure by canny Catlin.

The Nylons playing hard-hitting consistent hockey with the Diesels dumbfounded - falling apart along home another pair of goals in the third period from McKeown and Blake. Diesels got a temporary lease of life when Doug Bastedo fired the biscuit past the almost invincible Glenn Udall in the Nylons net, but the Nylons, victory-hungry, roared back to the offensive with four goals in a row from McKeown, Parks, Harrison and Catlin to definitely decide who won the pastime.

Heavy Checking Game

It was fast, furious hockey all the way through and the 11-3 score does not by any means indicate the difference between the squads. Nylons played a heavy checking game, in fact so did Diesels, but the Nylons defence with smart back-checking from lines and the outstanding work of Uddy Udall in the Nylons net spelled doom for the Diesels.

Ken Parks led the Nylon snipers with another hat trick with Harrison doing likewise. McKeown got himself a pair with Blake and Catlin making up the remainder. On the other side of the ledger Doug Bastedo hit the rigging for a pair of Diesels goals with Gerry Mober accounting for the other.

The fair-haired Toronto netminder Wednesday night turned aside 49 shots as his Toronto Marlboros defeated Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen to take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association senior A final series.

To the former Toronto St. Michael's College Majors goalie, it was double victory. It's any consolation, he now has the drop on the Dutchmen's Muscat Pellelier, who grasped the best-veteran trophy from Harvey at the end of the regular schedule.

But Harvey will have to give a lot of credit to his Marlies, who managed to get only 20 shots at Pelletier, and made two good.

Only four penalties were meted out as the Marlboros garnered 2 goals in the first period, were outscored 1-0 in the second and then fought through a scoreless third period. Chuck Blair and Johnny McLellan tallied for Toronto while Art Hurst counted for the losers.

The Dutchmen failed to look impressive, however. In the last period they had a one - man advantage when Ray Hannigan got a major for fighting, but couldn't get the tying marker.

With 40 seconds remaining in the game, Pelletier was taken from his chores but Toronto was wide with two shots on goal. Just before skating to the bench, Pelletier trapped the puck at centre ice and stick handled long enough to get a shot into the Toronto end.

The flareup occurred midway through the last period when Hannigan hit defenceman Jack Shewchuck on the head with his stick. While Shewchuck held his head and skated from the ice his defence mate Bill Dinning rushed at Hannigan.

The two clubs meet in what could mean the final game Friday night at Toronto.

Grim Outlook For Washington In Coming Year

Orlando, Fla., March 10 (AP) — Lack of long - range hitting power and a thin pitching staff behind Ace Scarborough and Mickey Masterson give the Washington Senators a grim outlook for the 1946 baseball season.

Naturally manager Joe Kuhel is optimistic. He deserves a better fate than another year like 1945 when, in his first try as a big league pilot, his team lost 18 straight in September en route to a seventh-place finish.

"The return of Buddy Lewis, a 360 lifetime hitter, will help us," Kuhel said, "He's in good shape despite his one-year retirement. We're also going to be better at shortstop with Sam Dente to work with Al Kozar; Ed Wilkeman and Paul Calvert should give us better relief pitching.

"I honestly think Ed Robinson, our new first baseman, will help us more than Mickey Vernon, whom we traded to Cleveland. Eddie is happy to be with us, knowing he'll get a chance to play every day.

"Joe Haynes is taking it easy, throwing sort after that operation but he thinks he's going to be all right. If he can pitch like he used to our staff will be pretty fair."

Robinson was acquired from Cleveland with Killeman and Haynes in a series of deals by which Vernon and pitcher Early Wynn went to the Indians. On the surface, it would appear the Big Tribe had the better of it. They got Wynn, a regular starter and Vernon, 1945 batting king, for a sore-arm pitcher, a reliefer and a part-time first sacker. However, Kuhel thinks he did all right in the swap.

The club appears stronger in reserves than last year but does not pack enough power to be a permanent fixture in the race.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit's top marksmen, Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay, moved up in the scoring race Wednesday night while the leaders were going scoreless. Abel collected 2 goals and one assist to consolidate his hold on third place with 51 points, while Lindsay garnered one goal and three assists to up his total to 46 and now shares fourth spot with Chicago's Jim Conacher who added an assist last night. Roy Conacher still leads the pack with 66 points, two more than Chicago teammate Doug Bentley.

Cleveland Barons In First Place Of West Section

(By The Canadian Press)

The idle Indianapolis Capitals sat on the sidelines Wednesday night and watched first place in the American Hockey League's Western Division pass out of their grasp into the hands of the Cleveland Barons.

The Barons downed the Philadelphia Rockets 6-3 to take over the top spot.

Pete Lewicki and Johnny Holota each scored twice and Conacher Russell and Bob Solinger once for the Barons. Rudy Brodeur, Eric Prentice and Bill Hartsburg scored the Rocket goals.

Providence, the league champions, knocked over the last place Buffalo Bisons of the western loop 4-1. Jack Stoddard, Roger Bedard, Ray Laplante and Chuck Scherza were the Providence marksmen while Calum Mackay scored the lone Buffalo tally.

St. Louis Flyers moved into a second-place tie in the western division race by defeating Washington Lions 9-2. The victory left the Flyers deadlocked with Indianapolis.

By BERT ALLEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Detroit Red Wings, who have topped the league since Dec. 11, made it official Wednesday night by clinching their first National Hockey League championship in six years with a convincing 8-0 victory over last-place Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto Maple Leafs.

Although the Wings appeared to have the pennant in the bag as long as a month ago, their triumph Wednesday night shared the spotlight with Bill Durnan's feat of surpassing the modern record of shutout play set by the late Chuck Gardiner of Chicago in 1932.

The Montreal netminder ran his scoreless string to 309 minutes and 21 seconds before a Black Hawk sniper could dent his armor, Gaye Stewart booting the villain of the piece with his goal at 3:36 of the second period. After this Canadiens managed to hold the Hawks to a 3-3 tie.

It the other game on the night's bill, Boston plastered an 8-1 defeat on New York in to end any mathematical chance the Rangers had of making the playoffs.

Detroit's victory gave them an 11-point lead over the second-place dwellers, Montreal and Boston, who each have only five games remaining on the regular schedule.

Hopes Not Brightened

Chicago's tie didn't brighten their waning playoff hopes. The Black Hawks now trail Toronto by seven points and have four games left. A Toronto victory or Canadiens defeat will assure the Hawks to the sidelines.

"Terrible Ted" Lindsay was a thorn in the side of the Leafs Wednesday night, scoring one goal and assisting on three others.

The shutout was the sixth of the campaign for Harry Lumley.

Veteran pivotman Sid Abel scored the first two Red Wing markers, while Jimmy McFadden, Gordie Howe and Lindsay beat the others.

Toronto held the Wings off the scoring sheet until 12.45 of the middle frame, but Detroit showed their championship class by busting through with a four-goal spree in the finale.

At Chicago before 13,511 stadium fans, Durnan held the Hawks scoreless in the first period to run his total of consecutive shutout periods to 15. But Big Bill couldn't perform miracles forever, and Stewart hit the target at 3:36 of the second period for Durnan's 309 minutes and 21 seconds compared with Gardiner's scoreless run of 230 minutes, 13 seconds. Durnan, who's teams generally concentrated on defensive tactics, Alex Connell had a record of more than 300 scoreless minutes, which still stands as the all-time mark.

Hamill Scores

Hamill's tying goal, at 16:44 of the third period, came on a play set up by his linemates, Metro Prystai and Carveth. Hamill, standing directly in front of Durnan, tipped in Prystai's drive to get the equalizer.

The Bruins had an easy time thumping a dispirited New York Rangers 8-1 before 13,211 at the Boston Garden. It was the greatest widest victory margin of the year, and the eight goals equalled their previous high.

Boston ran up a 4-0 lead in the initial period and made it 6-0 before Buddy O'Connor retaliated for New York's lone goal.

Jimmy Peters was a two-goal man for the Bruins, while single tallies went to Eddie Sandford, Milt Schmidt, Paul Ronty, Murray Henderson, Johnny Peirson and Ed Harrison.

Bruins moved into a second-place tie with Montreal by virtue of the triumph, and lengthened Chargin over fourth-place Toronto to three points.

Title May Not Be Decided Until The Last Match

Hamilton, March 10 (CP)—The curling grandstand skips are saying today—and it's safe bet they're right—that the 30th annual Dominion final hospital will be decided in the ninth and final round tonight. And they'll name the match: The Manitoba-British Columbia set-to.

Ken Watson, workmanlike skip of the Winnipeg Strathcona Club entered the fourth day of the round-robin tournament with the one object in mind of taking the silverware for the third time—something no other rink has accomplished in the big 'spiel. And skip Reg Stone has his sights set on returning with the Brier trophy to his home-town of Trail, B.C., its resting place after the 1946 tournament.

There isn't a whisker separating the two western clubs as they enter the last day of the competition. Each has a won-lost 6-0 record for a top-slot tie in the standings.

Manitoba meets the "hungry" Alberta rink from Blackie in this morning's seventh round and follows with an eighth round draw against the Chatham rink of Pete Gilbert. At 62 the oldest broom-and-stone artist in the eighth, Stuart Beagle and his rink have put the town of Blackie on the map since their first arrival, but their curling prowess has been anything but good—six losses in as many starts.

At the same gathering, one columnist explained: "I was on my way to the autograph show when I stopped in here. It's the same thing: Joe is the champ and a Pittsburgh visitor, commenting that Jake Mintz, Kenny Charles' manager, had dropped into a nice spot, added: "Like says, 'My wife has been wanting a sable stole and coat. Now maybe I can get her one'."

Winnipeg, March 10 (AP)—There is always something unpredictable about sports. Perhaps that's one reason why athletic events have such a large following.

But this very unpredictability is not always good, says Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan. He cited boxing as an example. Allan recently disregarded his arbitrate an argument in which a boxer won nine rounds, then stepped into a lucrative punch thrown by his opponent in the 10th round only to be saved by the bell.

A fight between Stanley Ketchel and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, which followed a somewhat similar pattern, was mentioned, with Allan saying the official verdict was a draw.

No Decision

In a later column, showed that the Ketchel-O'Brien bout was a no-decision affair, with no verdict given.

In another fight, however, the unpredictability of boxing was amply proved. This fight happened in 1921 between a promising young light-heavyweight named Jack O'Hara and a rough, tough boy with the monicker of Capt. Bob Rogers.

"Young Mr. O'Hara had a big lead, but was belted to the canvas from a wild left to the jaw, and a pile driving right," Allan recounts. "The final bell saved him from a K.O. He was still out cold when the winner was announced.—Eddie O'Hara."

Concludes Allan: "It's difficult to say who would feel the biggest fool, the winning fighter who was saved by the bell or the announcer who had to revive him with smelling salts to break the

Training Camp Notes

(By The Associated Press)

Eddie Miller, a Major League shortstop for 10 years, may take over Philadelphia Phillies' second-base assignment, thanks to a winter of barefoot running on the beaches of Florida.

When the Phillies opened their training drills here, Miller showed up 30 pounds lighter than last year and dashed around the infield like a rookie.

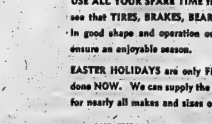
Sam Jethroe, Negro outfielder on Montreal Royals' roster, may be ready to make the move to the parent Brooklyn Dodgers this season. In camp he has shown plenty of speed and yesterday belted a 375-foot home run.

New York Giants' pitching is still their biggest problem. The eight pitchers who probably will be the only ones on the final roster worked in an intra-squad game Wednesday and yielded 19 hits. The pitchers are Larry Jansen, Sheldon Jones, Monte Kennedy, Clint Hartung, Sam Webb, Dave Koslo, Ray Poat and Andy Hansen.



There'll be no more golf playing for Washington Senators after today, new manager Joe Kuhel. He says ball players can get too golf-minded during spring training.

In yesterday's intra-squad game, Carl Scheib allowed two hits in three innings and Dick Fowler only one in the same number of frames as Jimmy Dykes' newcomers defeated the regulars 5-0. The regulars' hurlers, Joe Coleman and Phil Marchildon, permitted only two singles.

Leafs Will be Team to Beat Says Smythe

(By The Canadian Press)

The boss man of hockey's professional world champions — Conny Smythe—has a young team Montreal Canadiens to his own Toronto Maple Leafs as the team to beat in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

"If the Leafs get in the second they'll take it all," said manager-coach-president Conny Smythe recently told coach Dick Irvin that he thought Montreal Canadiens would have the edge because they had been playing playoff-type hockey . . . longer than any other club in the National League.

Bobby Berry, lefthanded pitcher for St. Catharines Teepees of the Niagara district junior baseball league, has been signed by Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League, it was announced Wednesday night at St. Catharines. He was assigned to the Class "D" Sheboygan, Wis., club. Last year Berry won 16 games and lost four while playing with the Teepees.

At Lausanne, Sudbury Wolves, which represented Canada in the world hockey championships, lost their first stick to Switzerland Wednesday night 2-1. Jim Russell scored for the Canadians.

Ottawa Senators Wednesday night clinched their first-place standing in the Quebec Senior Hockey League by defeating Phil Watson's last-place New York Rovers 9-3 in a rough contest at Ottawa. A crowd of 8,066 saw seven penalties handed out in each of the second and third periods for fighting. Seven minor penalties were also issued in the hard-hitting game.

At Sarasota, Fla., St. Louis Cardinals and Browns failed to settle their sizzling park rental feud today in a one-hour hearing before Commissioner A. B. Chandler. Although Chandler expressed the fervent hope that the teams would settle their differences "then and there" by concessions from both sides, it didn't happen. Nobody said so but there was every indication that Chandler will step into the picture at a later date—before the April 1 deadline—if the clubs fail to get together.

St. Paul Saints In Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

St. Paul Saints have one of the United States Hockey League's playoff berths sewed up.

Minneapolis Millers are working on another.

The Saints clinched the northern division championship last night by defeating Kansas city 5-2. The Millers jumped from fourth to second place with a 5-3 victory over Dallas.

The Minneapolis victory was the fifth in the Millers' last six games. A tie is the only mar in their late rally.

In Fraser put Minneapolis in the lead midway through the first period last night at Dallas and the Millers never trailed. Fraser scored again in the second period to make it 4-2, and Pinky Mahyre ended the scoring with a third-period goal.

Hollywood, March 10 — (AP)— Edgar Bergen is going to hunt for gag writers within the fried walls of universities.

The ventriloquist, enjoying his short-term retirement, is heading for a vacation jaunt to Florida and Cuba. When he returns, he says he'll tour colleges in search of bright young men to help write his air show.

Bergen hopes the fresh writing talent will bring his program a new slant. He realizes he will be in tough company next fall on CBS, since he will follow Jack Benny and Amos 'N' Andy and precede Bud Abbott. Bergen has indicated he'll aim toward the realm of fantasy.

Victor Mature, who is a great press agent for Vic Mature, was showing a letter he received from Paramount boss Henry Ginsberg. The bigwigs said early comments about Samson and Delilah have only been equalled by those about "Come With the Wind" and "Best Years of Our Lives."

Vic may still do "Paradise Lost, 1949" in Italy, now that Dena Andrews has been put into another role. But the muscle man isn't eager to work. He has three unreleased pictures and feels the public can get too much of a good thing.

One of the hottest races in Hollywood history is going on today between film columnists hurrying pictures on Negro themes. The contenders: 20th-Fox's "Pinkie," MGM's "Intruder in the Dust", Louis Deroche's "Lost Boundaries" and Screen Play's "Home of the Brave."

Capsule Review

"Take Me Out to the Ball Game" (M.G.M.) is a must picture for anybody's blues. Seldom has there been a film loaded with such fine entertainment. Bright young people like Frank Sinatra, Gene Kelly, Esther Williams, Betty Garrett and Jules Munshin makes even the contrived plot likable.

The Kibitzer

A player of bridge knows a lot. The nature of people compels him. For, whether he wants it or not, his partner unsparingly tells him.

Suppose you were south and bid a heart grand slam in this deal:

	NORTH
	♠K 7 5 4 3
	♥A Q 8
	♦A Q J
	♣9 6
WEST		EAST
♠Q 9 6 3		♠J 10 8
♥3		♥9 5 2 4 3
♦10 9 6 5		♦8 4 3 2
♣4 3		♣Q J 10
	♥K J 10 7
	♣A K 8 7 5

If west led a trump, partner could tell you that a bid of six would have been enough. He might even put up a good line of talk to prove that it does not pay to bid grand slams.

If west led anything else and you went down, partner could give you a rough passage. He could show you how 13 tricks can be taken. He might even convince you that you did not know much.

It happened that west led the diamond jack. A study of what he saw told declarer an interesting fact. If clubs could set up, all 13 tricks will come in if opponent trumps can be pulled.

But they let me be thought west would have led a trump if he had one. This made him figure that east had five of the unseen trumps. And he planned his campaign accordingly.

If east has all six unseen trumps, the contract can still make. So, it can also make if east has five trumps. Main thing is to find out with at least two diamonds and at least three clubs!

Diamond ace, spade ace, club king, club ace took four tricks. A club was ruffed in dummy. Spading was cashed, south ruffing a diamond. Ace of diamonds was cashed and diamond queen led.

Whether or not east ruffed south did. Two more clubs and two spades were cross ruffed. The south last trump took the final trick. Yes, whether east had five or six trumps made no difference.

And a kibitzer remarked: "If east had six trumps I would have been safer. West could not have led a trump if he wanted to." Leave it to kibitzer to know all the answers afterward.

Albert College Upsets B.C.I. By 34-31 Count

By J. Francis

B.C.I. Juniors tasted defeat for the first time this season, when Albert College edged them 34-31 in the Collegiate gymnasium on Wednesday.

The game was a see-saw affair as both teams were evenly matched. Albert College used the same five players for the entire fill, and the Albert quintet kept the Collegians well in check, and always seemed to have one or two players ready for quick break-aways. B.C.I. on the other hand, were erratic in their shooting and missed many glorious scoring opportunities in the final quarter, when they were fighting desperately to pull the game out of the fire.

B.C.I. Ahead at Half

B.C.I. led 14-13 at the half but were behind 22-21 at three-quarter time. With two and a half minutes left to play, Albert surged into a seven point lead. Despite the great work of Lloyd Faulkner, the B.C.I. rally fell short of its mark and the Red Shirts ended up on the short end of a 34-31 score.

Lloyd Faulkner was the outstanding player on the floor, although his team failed to win. The defender centre scored six field goals and one foul shot for 13 points. Utting led the attack for Albert with 11 points.

The Lineups

BCI—Faulkner 13; Morris 2; Muirhead 4; Dowsett, Scrymgeour, Lott, Rvald 4; Cameron 4; Bews, McCloy 4; Batchelor, Lazenby. Total 31.

Albert College: Yates 3; Harris 8; Utting 11; Williamson 4; Palmer 9; Austin, Speers, Burk, Shepperdson, Bunt, Stokes, Black. Total 34.

Cobourg Girls Nip Belleville Lassies 28-27

Staging a terrific second half drive the Cobourg Ladies Intermediate basketball team nipped Jerry Ryde's Belleville "Y" squad by a 28-27 score in the Collegiate on the local YMCA floor Wednesday evening.

The Belleville Girls started strongly and took a first half lead of 15-9 as they played a very heady defensive game and swaltled opportunities for offensive efforts upon which they were ably to capitalize. Following the half time interval the Cobourg girls stormed to the attack and by the five quarter time mark had reduced the margin against them to a single basket. In a hotly contested final ten minutes the lead changed hands repeatedly with the issue not being decided until the last 10 seconds of the game when the locals leading by 1 point, Dufton of the winners broke in the clear with the ball and went on to register a 3-point basket. Even then a Belleville player subsequently awarded a free shot as a result of a Cobourg foul on the very next play and if this shot had been made the score and overtime would have resulted.

Dufton with 10 and Allen with 8 were the top scorers for the victorious Cobourg squad while Shirley Marinoff and Mary Tomasso shared the top scoring efforts for the Belleville squad with 8 points each. Defensively Shirley Bunnett stood out as she played her best game of the season thus far, ably supported by running mates Jane Mathews and Betty Holway.

Arrangements were made following the game for a rematch with the Cobourg squad next Wednesday in Cobourg.

London (CP)— Hugh Fraser, Conservative Member of Parliament for Stone, recently gave a parliamentary standing committee this description of a licensing system in Soviet Labor Government's steel bill:

"We believe it to be restrictive contrictive, restrictive, strophying, rapidifying, stiff-necked, inflexible, cramping and confining. It is a bunkum filled bill which is a challenge to the freedom of every British subject."

James Franklin Trycher called the fire fighters to his farm, believing he was burning a brush pile. A rabbit scurried out, its fur afire. In full flight, the flaming bunny ran through Taylor's orchard, setting fire to the tall, dry grass.

The firemen worked threequarters of an hour getting the blaze out. It burned across an acre and a half. No one was hurt — except, possibly, the hare — and Taylor said there was no damage.

AT THE McCARTHY — Dick Powell featured in "Rogues' Regiment", the story of a woman's adventures in one of the world's most dangerous men, opening today at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Gregory Peck makes his first screen appearance since Hitchcock's "Spellbound" in 20th. Century-Fox's "Yellow Sky," now showing at the Capitol Today, Friday and Saturday. Richard Widmark and Anne Baxter co-star in this mighty outdoor drama. Matinee daily at 2.00 p.m.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking the 2nd half his first cigar, and ma said, Wm. William, I took your advice this afternoon and went back to Hookbinders suit department to order a loose boxy model in a gardenline, and low and behold, what do you think?

I wont start thinking yet, pop said, and ma said, Of all people who did I find there but Bertha Cornhouse ordering the exact same model. Naturally I informed her in a nice way that I had stopped in yesterday and had a suit in that same lodenical model put aside for me, and the saleswoman bore me out. Well, any woman with a grain of sporting instinct and a shred of fair play would of retired gracefully to another model. Dont you think so, William? ma said.

Well, it's true that when a miner staked out a claim in the old days, he was considered in have prior rites, pop said. But then of course he had legal backing, he said, and ma said, That's precisely what I mean, Bertha Cornhouse doesn't have the faintest distinction between a legal and a moral rite, and that will give you an inside into the low depths of her caracter. She insisted on buying and wearing that model, let the heavens fall, because she figured she would make a better impression in it to my disadvantage, owing to her angular figure and misplaced bones giving a hasty impression that she has straighter lines. But I put a spoke in her wheel, William. I outwitted her and I dont feel the slightest compunckton, ma said.

What did yoh do for Peet sake! pop said, and ma said, I deliberately bawt a tweed form fitting model instead, and I dont care if Bertha Cornhouse never forgives me to her dying day.

The result being pop claimed it's a woman's werld, which may-

ERECTION AND MAINTENANCE OF SIGNS
THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE
By-law Number 3734
A By-law prescribing the terms and conditions upon which owners of land adjacent to a highway will be permitted to erect signs, billboards and other advertising devices which project over such highway.
Passed the 23rd day of March, A.D. 1948.
Whereas Section 507 (2) of the Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1937, Chapter 266 and amendments thereto provides that the Council may by regulate the erection of signs, billboards and other advertising devices which project over highways;
And whereas it is deemed desirable pursuant to the powers contained in the said section to regulate the erection of signs, billboards and other advertising devices in the City of Belleville;
1. That the provisions contained hereinafter shall apply to all signs lighted or unlighted, painted, printed, posted, or affixed on boards, poles, or other supports, or on the face of any building, post, structure, fence, billboard, wall, roof, or any part thereof shall any street or highway within the City of Belleville, and which project over or are fitting used in illuminating such signs, billboards, boards, or devices.
2. No person shall attach to any lamp post, telephone pole, telephone, electric light or other pole, or to any erection or structure on any street or highway any sign without having obtained permission therefor from the Chief Building Official of the City of Belleville and upon payment of the fee hereinafter fixed to cover the cost of inspection, supervision and enforcement of the bond indemnifying the Corporation hereinafter provided for, except that this section shall not apply to claims and demands arising from the erection, use or construction of awnings, blinds, electric signs, and further undertaking to remove such sign when notified to do so for such removal by the inspector of the City of Belleville appointed for the purpose.
3. No such sign shall be permitted to project over the street line of any street or highway, nor shall any such sign extend more than four feet over the face of any building, post, structure, fence, billboard, wall, roof, or any part thereof shall any street or highway within the City of Belleville, and which project over or are fitting used in illuminating such signs, billboards, boards, or devices.
4. No person shall attach to any lamp post, telephone pole, telephone, electric light or other pole, or to any erection or structure on any street or highway any sign without having obtained permission therefor from the Chief Building Official of the City of Belleville and upon payment of the fee hereinafter fixed to cover the cost of inspection, supervision and enforcement of the bond indemnifying the Corporation hereinafter provided for, except that this section shall not apply to claims and demands arising from the erection, use or construction of awnings, blinds, electric signs, and further undertaking to remove such sign when notified to do so for such removal by the inspector of the City of Belleville appointed for the purpose.
5. No such sign shall be permitted to project over the street line of any street or highway, nor shall any such sign extend more than four feet over the face of any building, post, structure, fence, billboard, wall, roof, or any part thereof shall any street or highway within the City of Belleville, and which project over or are fitting used in illuminating such signs, billboards, boards, or devices.
6. No person shall attach to any lamp post, telephone pole, telephone, electric light or other pole, or to any erection or structure on any street or highway any sign without having obtained permission therefor from the Chief Building Official of the City of Belleville and upon payment of the fee hereinafter fixed to cover the cost of inspection, supervision and enforcement of the bond indemnifying the Corporation hereinafter provided for, except that this section shall not apply to claims and demands arising from the erection, use or construction of awnings, blinds, electric signs, and further undertaking to remove such sign when notified to do so for such removal by the inspector of the City of Belleville appointed for the purpose.
7. Every such sign shall have a minimum clearance of ten feet above the level of the sidewalk or street.
8. No person shall erect any sign on the roof of any such sign shall project above the roof of any building.
9. If the owner of any such sign shall fail to keep the same in a safe condition, the inspector may remove the sign at the expense of the owner of the sign or of the person having the use or control of such sign from the payment thereof.
10. If the owner of any such sign shall fail to keep the same in a safe condition, the inspector may remove the sign at the expense of the owner of the sign or of the person having the use or control of such sign from the payment thereof.
11. If the owner of any such sign shall fail to keep the same in a safe condition, the inspector may remove the sign at the expense of the owner of the sign or of the person having the use or control of such sign from the payment thereof.
12. If the owner of any such sign shall fail to keep the same in a safe condition, the inspector may remove the sign at the expense of the owner of the sign or of the person having the use or control of such sign from the payment thereof.
13. If the owner of any such sign shall fail to keep the same in a safe condition, the inspector may remove the sign at the expense of the owner of the sign or of the person having the use or control of such sign from the payment thereof.
14. If the owner of any such sign shall fail to keep the same in a safe condition, the inspector may remove the sign at the expense of the owner of the sign or of the person having the use or control of such sign from the payment thereof.

CCF AMENDMENT

The break in the month-long, slow moving debate came after four more Progressive Conservatives added their criticism to that which has already been directed at the government. The speakers were Frank Stanfield (PC-Colchester-Hants); T. A. Kidd (PC-Kingston City); R. E. Dropo (PC-Northumberland) and E. R. Daniel (PC-Oxford).

Vote Against Motion

In the opening minutes, members voted 146 to 74 against a motion of J. W. Murphy (PC-Samia) calling for the production of certain agreements entered into by the government-owned Polymer Corporation of Sarnia.

In the question period, Prime Minister St. Laurent said no consideration is being given to calling a Dominion-Provincial conference to discuss a contributory over all security plan.

Fisheries Minister Mayhew announced the fisheries prices support board is ready to buy almost 5,000,000 pounds of frozen fish taken this winter from Prairie lakes to relieve the plight of 2,500 inland fishermen who have been unable to market their catch.

In the debate Mr. Stanfield urged the building of a bridge across the Strait of Canso between the Nova Scotia mainland and Cape Breton Island.

Complains About Mail Service

R. E. Dropo (PC-Northumberland) complained about the mail service in his Ontario constituency and criticized the operations of the National Film Board.

Mr. Dropo said a large quantity of cheese is made in Canada, but not so much is being sold as formerly.

He criticized the government's tax policies and said "we are being taxed to death."

He urged efforts be made to solve the problem of distributing the world's food supply. Canada was one of the main surplus food producers.

Canadians did not know hunger as it was known in many parts of the world. He said all hearing how trucks were going about China picking up children who were dying in large numbers from starvation.

But Canada in helping to supply the world's food should be careful to conserve the soil. Only a few inches of top soil separate the human race from plenty and oblivion.

Wants Tax Removed

Mr. Daniel said the government had done nothing to solve the problem of the high cost of living. Last session it had established a prices committee and had thus shirked any discussion on living costs in the Commons.

Mr. Daniel said the Revenue Department had been unsuccessful in efforts to simplify the income tax forms.

He called for abolition of the $2.50 tax on radio receiving sets and the 25 per cent tax on jewelry.

He criticized Robert McCubbin (L-Middlesex West), parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, for stating that the United Kingdom was well on the way to economic recovery.

He believed Mr. McCubbin had seen the situation in Britain through "rose-colored" glasses. Britain was receiving U.N.R.R.A. and other assistance and he wondered what would happen in the United Kingdom when that assistance ended.

Greater Compensation Asked.

Mr. Daniel said farmers should be paid greater compensation for animals slaughtered because they have been found to have tuberculosis. The low compensation was causing concern among Western Ontario farmers. Any increase should be made retroactive.

T. A. Kidd (PC-Kingston) protested against seizures of United States currency from Canadians living on the border who are innocently unaware of exchange control regulations.

While individuals were prevented from taking a few dollars across the border, scores of useless articles were allowed to come into the country through normal trade channels.

He thanked Finance Minister Abbott for failing to see that sufficient publicity was given to the restrictions. The controls were aimed "no rigidly enforced that they have become ridiculous."

He dealt with veterans affairs and suggested the allowances paid to student veterans attending university be increased and extended to help students taking lengthy medical courses. The veterans committee should be established to deal with this and other problems facing veterans.

POLICE HUNTING

Because the train's fireman was "shanghaied" and taken to the tavern, police said it seemed likely certain the train bandits also looted the roadhouse.

Negro Chef Wounded

Walter Epps, 30, of Baltimore, Negro chef, suffered a minor leg injury when a bullet was fired through the glass of a train door.

Rebecca Davis of Detroit received head injuries when she was struck by one of the bandits with a gun. Others also were treated by a physician on the train.

The robbery occurred two miles west of Martinsburg shortly before 9 p.m. The signal cord on the train was pulled and the train stopped. All witnesses agreed that the robbers forced it to back up a considerable distance to what is known as Warm Springs Crossing.

The R. and O. had reports of $767 taken from coach passengers, along with a $100 gift watch and $63 watch. The crew lost $136. Ten pullman passengers are so were robbed but there was no estimate of their losses.

For weeks thefts and injuring some of the people, two men left the train and communicated with automobile which had been halted at the crossing by the train.

Charles H. O'Hoke and his wife were in the car. He told police he was beaten painfully when he protested against the men pulling his wife from the automobile.

The O'Hoke automobile was driven away but soon after was found abandoned.

Still later police discovered an automobile taken from in front of the tavern lotted near after the man robbery.

Dr. John J. Prendergast of Detroit, medical director for the Chrysler Corporation, ducked gunfire to help the injured.

Toronto Boy Victim Of Hoodlum Attack

Toronto, March 10 — (CP) — Douglas Connolly, 15-year-old Boy Scout, was the victim of a hoodlum attack Tuesday night, it was reported today.

The boy's mother said he was "roughed up" by more than a dozen teen-agers on a dark section of the Concord St. bridge while returning from a scout meeting.

Companions of young Connolly said four teen-agers waited for them on the bridge. A fight broke out and the attackers were joined by at least a dozen more, some said to be 17 or 18 years old.

BARED BEAR

Carrot River, Sask. — (CP) — Ernie Parchen, northern Saskatchewan farmer, found more than a nigger in the woodpile. It was a 300-pound black bear, sound asleep. He shot it.

Urges Prospecting On Wide Scale For Base Metals

Toronto, March 10 — (CP) — An intensive program of prospecting and exploration in Canada for base metals was advocated Wednesday by G. G. Montgomery, chief of the mineral resources division of the Federal Department of Mines and Resources, in an address to the annual convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association.

Production today, he said, still is from nearly the same mines as in 1939, with the exception of the addition of new Quebec mines and Quebec Manitou in Northern Quebec.

"We have had no outstanding discoveries with the exception of Lynn Lake in Manitoba and some promising indications at Pine Point, south of Great Slave Lake in the North West Territories.

"The new operations at Mayo in the Yukon may also be added and there are some indications that the Sheep and other areas of British Columbia may again make a substantial production.

"Our production has decreased from our 1939 peak and also from our wartime peak — even in the face of prices that are substantially higher."

World Wide Situation

The chapter of discovery of base metal ores almost closed in 1923, said Mr. Montgomery. "The other mines than those I have mentioned were staked and developed, but for the most part they are adjacent to already-known deposits."

Mr. Montgomery found a similar situation in the rest of the world, and he considered Canada fortunate because of its large areas of still-unprospected territories.

He believed the demand for base metals will continue at a reasonably high level for some years to come.

At current rates of production, the United States is on balance and will probably continue to be an importer of all base metals, he said.

Residents Slowly Work up Grudge Against Railway

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Hainault, Essex, England, March 10 — (CP) — Every day at 5 a.m. the voice, polite but sleep-shattering, booms out over the little town of Hainault, waking hundreds of families, making babies cry and dogs bark, and even causing city commuters to catch a train an hour earlier than necessary.

For weeks this has been going on. The voice is heard over a loudspeaker at Hainault station, handing out instructions to locomotive engineers, such as "Come on there Number 61, get a move on, yer blocking the — — — line."

Occasionally the voice as far forgets itself as to bewil out the lines of a scenic song, or indulge in a friendly slanging match with station colleagues.

This is all very well for people who start work before daybreak, but the more leisurely residents of Hainault have been slowly working up a grudge against the voice. Through the Hainault Ratepayers Association they have suggested to British Railways that the voice should be fitted with a silencer.

Hainault townscouncil takes a similar view.

The council thereupon decided to send a deputation to Minister of Transport Alfred Barnes about the voice. But Mrs. Mabel Ridealgh, 52, (the North Ilford) got in first.

"I saw the minister," Mrs. Ridealgh said, "and told him the station loudspeaker was having an adverse effect on people's health by cutting their sleep short.

"He promised to look into the matter."

Another blow at the voice has been struck through the editorial columns of the Ilford Recorder, which said:

"There are quite enough people shouting orders at us from Whitehall without having the railway joining in."

Father Admits Killing Child As She Slept

Sand Springs, Okla., March 10 — (AP) — A 29-year-old father who was arrested Wednesday after an all-night hunt and Sheriff George T. Blaine said he admitted slashing his six-year-old daughter's throat as she slept.

Blaine said the father, Melburn Joseph Mott, blamed the slaying of his daughter, Mary Francis, onto "family troubles." Blaine quoted him as saying he stabbed the little girl's throat as she lay asleep with her brother, Charles, 10.

Mott was quoted by the sheriff as saying:

"I started to kill Charles, but when he started crying and said, daddy, don't do it,' I just couldn't kill him, too."

"I wouldn't let him in and locked the door," she said. "Then he started kicking the door in, and I grabbed as many of the children as I could and ran out the back door."

She took with her Ila and Anna, eight-year-old twins, and Melburn Dale, five.

Police said Mott told them "the in-laws cause the whole trouble and I went to the house to kill the little girl's throat as she lay there."

Whitehall Notebook:

Battleships at Sea Again Pleases People of Britain

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 10 — (CP) — Maybe future wars will be fought only by jet aircraft, juggernaut tanks and lightning fast little ships, but the conservative British are happy to hear their battleships are at sea again.

A year ago parliament was shaken by the announcement that the Home Fleet consisted of no more than one cruiser and four destroyers actually in service.

Winston Churchill, as opposition leader and former First Lord of the Admiralty, protested this announcement as injurious to the country and added the actual potential strength of the navy was far greater as it included battleships that might be put to service quickly.

Modernization Planned

Defence Minister Alexander, also a First Lord, said he agreed with Churchill. Although in a period of change and reorganization the ships at sea might be reduced, Britain was ready to put a task forge into service within a week or 10 days. And within a few months the navy would be modernized and refurbished.

"The silent service" has made no boast of its achievements since, but defence authorities agree reorganization is far advanced. The Home Fleet now has an operational strength including one battleship, the 35,000-ton Duke of York, the 23,000-ton fleet carrier Illustrious, two 14,000-ton light carriers, at least three cruisers and about 30 destroyers plus other fighting craft.

Still Formidable

Britain's operational battleship fleet ready for duty is probably the most formidable in the world. The United States has one operational battleship, with 14 in reserve, France two and Russia will have two, counting the Italian battleship being given her.

British authorities agree that the battleship has lost its old stature as "queen of battle" and the fleet carrier, with its flock of fire-flying planes, may be the most important individual navy unit.

But they insist the "battle wagon" is capable of giving and taking more punishment than any other warship. Until it has been eliminated from all naval programs, the battleship will be retained by Britain and have a place in a balanced fleet, ready for protection or bombardment duty.

Fight Epidemics By Air-Spraying

London — (CP) — Present standards are so low that almost any attempt at air disinfection would be an improvement says an experts' report entitled "Studies in Air Hygiene."

"In large offices good ventilation, good lighting and dust control are worth while as permanent measures," the report concludes. "Air disinfection by chemicals or ultra-violet radiation is worth adding when an epidemic is prevalent."

Sodium hypochlorite is suggested as an efficient liquid spray. Dr. D. B. Bourdillon, who directed the survey, says a large typing office should have one spray for every 10 workers, and it should be used every half hour.

He notes that hand-sprays are frequently used with unsuitable liquids, including formaldehyde which "is useless or dangerous, since it is only effective in concentrations which are highly irritant to the human respiratory tract."

The experts noted "alarming outbreaks" of pulmonary tuberculosis in the Royal Navy due to over-crowding. One recommendation was that vacuum cleaners be used instead of brooms which raise big clouds of dust.

The microbic content of hospital air was closely studied and it was urged that windows in wards be opened as a regular practice after bed-makings and dressings to permit escape of infected air.

FAMILIES ALL REMOVED

Washington, March 10 (AP) — The United States army said Tuesday night that all families of American service men have been removed from areas threatened by communist invaders in China. About 1,000 dependents and their household goods were moved to "safer areas."

Two Escapees Are Recaptured

Guelph, Ont., March 10 (CP) — Two of the five youths who escaped Tuesday night from the Ontario reformatory were recaptured at Rockwood, seven miles northeast of here, provincial police reported.

Recaptured were Charles Clubine, 18, of Milton, and 17-year-old James Albert of Barrie. Still at large are Walter Johnston, 18, Mount Brydges; Robert Morris, 19, Sturgeon Falls; and Gerald Leduc, 19, of Timmins.

Johnson had only one month to serve of his sentence imposed at Chatham for auto theft. Leduc had about seven months still to serve on his Timmins sentence for house breaking and auto theft. Morris would have been due for release in three months on charges of auto theft and receiving stolen goods imposed at Sudbury.

Stone Industry Lacks Workers

London — (CP) — Britain's abbeys, palaces and country homes may fall in decay, with no new stone buildings built to replace them, unless more masons can be trained.

Unless the rate of recruitment of masons can be raised, the stone industry will cease to exist in many areas. Quarries will be forced to close due to lack of demand for stone and the ancient British craft of stone-working may disappear.

The report said that if the craft does not attract enough apprentices, new building will be impossible and repairs to church, public and other stone buildings will be delayed.

Then "maintenance of the country's architectural treasures will be in jeopardy."

The Building Apprenticeship and Training Council, which prepared the report for the ministry, said 850 masons should be recruited annually. At the present the rate was only 128. It recommended that the government should consider measures to encourage stone building and preservation of the craft.

Main causes for the decline were said to be increased use of alternative materials, greater simplicity in architectural design, importation of worked stone from other countries and the extended use of machinery.

Passenger Train Hits Car, Two Men Seriously Injured

Accident Occurs at West Toronto Level-Crossing

Toronto, March 11 (CP)— Two men were taken from a smashed automobile today after rescue crews worked for half an hour with crow bars and axes to free them.

They were: Jack Wilson, 52, and Guy Walton, 35. Both were in hospital with fractured skulls. Wilson was pronounced in serious condition and Walton, with two broken arms, was in critical condition.

Wilson was the driver of the car that was struck broadside by a fast-moving passenger train and jammed up against a railroad car.

Will Lay Charges

Police said charges would be laid against Joe Jenkins, Canadian National Railways gateman. They said he failed to lower the gate at the West Toronto level-crossing where the accident occurred.

Wilson is president and Walton secretary-treasurer of the Canada Transportation Company. Both men were given first aid while in the car by Dr. Ian Bruce, coroner for Veterans Affairs nurse.

The car was carried approximately 800 feet down the tracks and jammed against a coal car in the railway yard.

OLEO-COLORING BILL READY FOR PRESENTATION

Toronto, March 11 (CP) — The Ontario legislature budget debate, still going strong, will be taken up again next Tuesday but its resumption may be overshadowed by the introduction of the government's long-awaited bill on margarine.

Legislation to make the butter substitute clearly distinguishable from butter was forecast Feb. 10 in the throne speech at the opening of the new session. It has since been indications that the government will limit the amount of yellow coloring in margarine to about five cents, just sufficient to overcome the dead-white natural color of the substitute.

Hopes that the budget debate would be completed by Thursday night were dimmed as the House plodded through six hours of discussion Wednesday on the changes over the Agassahon power development in northwestern Ontario. Toronto jail farms and Ontario teachers' salaries.

Tabling next is the afternoon debate were Education Minister Porter, K. Leavens (CCF-Toronto Woodbine), Ramon Park (CCF-Hamilton Downtown), W. A. Gemmell (PC-Sudbury). Speakers at the night sitting were W. E. Temple (CCF-Toronto Bloor Park), C. H. Cox (Lib-Fort William), G. McGibbon (Lib-Kent East) and H. L. Walker (CCF-Toronto Bracondale).

Winnipeg Man Biggest Buyer

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 11— (CP) — A Canadian, Kasimir Bilski, of Winnipeg, emerged as the main figure among United States and British buyers at the auction today as the Bermuda prize court's auction of more than a billion contraband cigarettes continued.

Bilski, a mail order stamp operator, was bidding for the group with American buyers, said his method of operation permitted him to pay higher prices than other bidders.

The stamps which are expected to bring $60,000 to the Bermuda government came mostly from Asia and Canada, destined for North Africa during the early years of the war.

They were seized by government authorities when smugglers attempted to slip them past Canada and United States for disposal there. Some arrangement designed to escape immigration suspicion while others landed in jail.

Bilski himself said $4,464 for numerous bundles of stamps.

Two months were spent in sorting the stamps which weigh about two tons. Some stamps are unused.

Toronto, March 11 — (CP) — Dr. Gordon Earl Richards, well-known radiologist who died here recently, left an estate valued at $102,475, it was announced today. A $50,000 fund was set aside from which a $2,400 annual minimum will be paid to his widow.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Synopsis A feet of snow covered Toronto city this morning, most of it responsible for the snowfall — record of the winter — that followed an easterly track 150 miles south of the lower lakes Thursday. As this weakening disturbance moved towards the Maritimes today, snow will end in eastern counties by evening. With northerly winds, there will be considerable drifting over Southern Ontario today. Over Ontario elsewhere will continue Saturday with little or no snowfall anticipated.

MURDER-SUICIDE PACT REVEALED AFTER TEN DAYS

Timmins Couple Found Dead in Bedroom

Timmins, March 11 (CP)—A 16-day-old murder suicide pact came to light shortly after midnight Thursday with the discovery by police of the bodies of a Timmins couple shot to death in a bedroom of their home where they separately had lived together in a common-law union.

The dead are Oscar Buxinet, 43, a former Hollinger miner and Mrs. Bernadette Bedard (Alias Mrs. Arthur Dontigny) aged about 40.

The bodies were discovered when a neighbor across the street, puzzled by the failure of Buxinet to appear at his window and by the brightly burning light in the bedroom, phoned Rector Brousseau, Timmins dog catcher, shortly before midnight. Brousseau went to the house and finding all the doors locked notified police.

Police broke through the locked front door and discovered the bodies of Mrs. Bedard and Buxinet lying dead on the bed with, police believe, a single bullet fired at each.

Buxinet's body, fully dressed in grey flannel shirt and brown gabardine trousers, lay sprawled across the dead woman's feet.

Police said Buxinet had had joined the staff of Hollinger in 1940 after he dropped working for a Timmins lumber company. They said that he came to Timmins in 1936 from Drummondville. They know of no survivors.

The woman is alleged to have a husband named Arthur Dontigny, and a child, Mrs. Joseph Provencal both living in Montreal.

Police said the pair had lived together in the home for seven years.

Bequests in Wills

The wills written by Mrs. Bedard and Buxinet, in which they net left property and money to Mrs. Provencal the sister of the former and to Mrs. Bedard's brother house and belongings. In his Buxinet left the latter woman the war savings certificates and his other money and possessions.

Buxinet had been employed as a motorman at the Hollinger mine since 1940. It is thought the nearest survivor is the dead man's mother in Montreal. Address is not known where Mrs. Buxinet resides.

Neighbors told police the couple had started drinking heavily at 8 a.m. on the night of March 1. They also said that Buxinet had been looking for a gun at the Hollinger. It is during this action why he had wanted it. They said that Mrs. Bedard obtained the rifle.

Four Forced Out of Cottage In Night Attire

Wasaga Beach, Ont., March 11 (CP)—Four elderly Toronto persons, routed in the night were forced out in the cold in night attire and barefoot when fire of unknown origin destroyed their summer home at this Georgian Bay resort.

Police Chief Wilfred Downar had noticed the flames and started across the dangerous ice of the Nottawasaga River, but the cottage was destroyed when he arrived.

Reported burned was William Wate, retired Toronto postmaster, who was living with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson, owners of the cottage. Fourth person was a guest of the Andersons.

Executed in Chair After Two Escapes

Montgomery, Ala., March 11— (AP)—Willie Boyd Smith was executed in the electric chair early today for the two cold-blood murders of Cobb, 34, was convicted in 1946 of murder and sentenced to death. Then he escaped and was recaptured to life imprisonment. Later he was convicted of murdering a fellow-prisoner. Last week the execution was unsuccessful, and his execution was postponed until today.

GREEK PARCELS DUTY-FREE

'Uncrowned King of S. Africa' Dies Sold Watch Chain to Set Self Up

Johannesburg, March 11 (Reuters)—J. W. Schlesinger, known as "the uncrowned King of South Africa," died today at the age of 74.

The head of more than 70 South African concerns, Schlesinger came to South Africa in 1897 without a penny in his pocket. To set himself up, he sold his watch and chain for £13 ($52). Soon after he met a record as an insurance salesman by earning £10,000 in commissions in a one-year period.

He went to the Rand in 1871, he was shipped off to South Africa by his father. He travelled steerage. From that skimpy beginning he rose eventually to control vast business enterprises in the Union.

After the Boer War when land boom was beginning, he used his contacts to establish the African Realty Trust. Later he started the African Life Assurance Society and then created the Colonial Banking and Trust Company, the African Broadcasting Company, obtaining broadcasting rights from the government in 1928.

Schlesinger often began his day at 8 a.m. and would start board meetings at 7 a.m.

He sponsored the Schlesinger air race from Britain to Johannesburg in 1936, when he put up £10,000 in prize money for Empire pilots.

Schlesinger went into the newspaper publishing business with daily and Sunday papers in Johannesburg and Durban, but in 1930 he sold his interests.

Prices Down Since Last Month on Beef, Butter, Shortening; Pork is Up

By The Canadian Press

Canadian consumers paid less for beef, butter, shortening and lard and most canned goods during the last month. But they probably paid more for pork.

Those conditions showed the only significant price changes in a Canadian Press comparison of today's retail food prices with those a month ago.

Beef prices dropped as much as seven cents a pound in some cities while butter prices fell from two to three cents. But at the same time, pork was unchanged or as much as six cents a pound more expensive.

Sirloin steak dropped from 69 to 63 cents a pound in Toronto, from 65 to 59 cents in Regina and this grade beef fell from 72 to 65 cents in Quebec. In Saint John, N.B., round steak fell from 69 to 64 cents and in Vancouver a rump roast selling for 59 cents a month ago sold for 53 cents today.

But leg of pork went up from 43 to 47 cents a pound during the same period in Vancouver and increase to pork prices also was reported in Edmonton and Ottawa.

Most canned goods, too, dropped. In Quebec the drop was ground three cents a can. In Moose Jaw, Sask., grocers said they didn't expect any drops but in North Bay canned fruit dropped from 37 cents down to 24 and other canned foods followed.

Canned goods in Calgary were unchanged and in Winnipeg only canned fruits, including tomatoes, fell in price.

Butter still is 75 cents a pound in Halifax, the same as a month ago. In Quebec cities—where the sale of competing margarine is expected to be illegal under ah act now before the provincial legislature—but prices also slumped.

Biggest drop was in London, Ont., where butter went from 73 cents last month down to 69.

Lard and shortening prices slumped all across the country. In Vancouver lard fell from 21 to 19 cents; from 23 to 24 in Regina; 34 to 31 in Winnipeg, 37 to 32 in Toronto and 30 to 27 in Ottawa. Shortening went from 34 to 25 cents in Vancouver, 39 to 36 in Halifax and 39 to 21 in Toronto.

There were no changes recorded in flour prices.

Prices of potatoes increased from 90 cents to $1.00 in Saint John, N.B., spinach was cheaper in Toronto while vegetables were unchanged in Vancouver.

Measures to Protect Dairymen Against Oleo Threat Urged On Cabinet by Farm Brief

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Government action to protect the Ontario dairy industry against the unrestricted manufacture and sale of oleomargarine is urged in a brief prepared for presentation today by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture to Premier Kennedy and the Ontario cabinet.

"We wish to continue to press upon the government the seriousness of the threat to the dairy industry of an unrestricted manufacture for butter and request early legislative action on the measures contained in our brief presented Feb. 24," the brief said.

The previous brief urged laws to ensure that margarine offered for sale was truthfully labelled and packaged to resemble butter, that coloring of margarine or starting butter substitutes be kept far from those handling butter and that illegal fines be set for margarine plants.

Approves Milk

The Federation said it approved of sections of the milk control act providing for co-operative hauling of milk by farmers and for the setting up of marketing agencies.

But it suggested that the legislation be changed to provide that all negotiations for adjustment of prices and conditions of sale of fluid and concentrated milk be handled by a province-wide bargaining committee with equal representation by producers and distributors.

A 30-day limit for completion of all negotiations and arbitrations was suggested, with a permanent board of arbitration ready to take over at any time if negotiations broke down.

From these recommendations the brief ranged into matters covering most of the problems and aspirations of people on the farms.

It called for accident insurance for the farmer, for his family and for the hired man; or speedy extension of rural hydro lines; for extension of rural credit unions; for support of junior farmer activities intended to help keep young people on the land; for assistance in self conservation; for an increase in the number of agricultural workers in the public service; and for aid to teaching, research and field work.

Urges Assistance

It urged government assistance in co-operative "pool" and "group producers' marketing scheme; aid to the hog producers' marketing committee in their application for petition in transportation of live hogs; for the removal of protection in one year, instead of the present six months of the period within which a farmer may apply for tax rebate on gasoline used for the purposes of improvement of doctors to take up practice in rural districts.

The Federation also put in a word for persons who have difficulty in getting a start through the maze of concession lines.

"We request that the Department of Highways and the Department of Municipal Affairs make provision for markers to indicate to those not familiar with the different systems in county the locations of concessions, with names and numbers, and also the different kinds of township boundaries.

SEVERAL MINOR ACCIDENTS REPORTED

Slippery streets again were responsible for a series of minor accidents in the city during the past 24 hours with fenders and headlights taking the brunt of the blame.

Minor accidents were reported at several street intersections, the slippery condition of the pavement causing cars to skid into other vehicles.

This morning the Dundas Street two Americans saw the headlamps and fog lamps of a speeding radiator grill of their car damaged when they rammed into the rear of a Rawson bus. The bus had stopped at an intersection to pick up passengers and the following auto could not stop in time to avoid collision. The bus was not damaged.

COMMANDER OF ROYAL SWEDISH AIR FORCE VISITS TRENTON

Commander in Chief of the Royal Swedish Air Force, Lieutenant General Bengt Nordenskiold, was a guest at the Trenton Air Station on Tuesday, accompanying the Swedish officer on the visit were Air Vice Marshal W. E. Plant and Col. VonSchinkel, Swedish Air Attache for the United States and Canada.

A complete inspection of the air station was made by the dignitaries of visitors, while the new R.C.A.F. bowling project was also visited. On their return to the air station the visitors were guests at an officers' mess banquet.

Lieut.-General Nordenskiold told Mayor Kenneth Couch who attended the banquet that the people of Sweden have a very high regard for Canada and for Canadians.

WINS CAR IN DRAW

Lyall MacDonald, Reservton, Ont., was the fortunate winner of the 1949 Pontiac automobile given away through the draw held by the Bowmanville Arena management. The draw was made at the grand opening of the arena held earlier in the week. A number of tickets was bought in Belleville hopefuls.

FOUND GUILTY ON SIX CHARGES

Found guilty at a previous court on six charges of breaking and entering with theft in Deseronto, Harold Davis of that centre was sentenced by Magistrate T. Y. Wills to one year definite and two years less one day indeterminate. He had pleaded guilty on charges. Davis was also sentenced to 30 days in Napanee court on the sentence to run concurrently with those sentences imposed in Deseronto.

JUDGMENT RESERVED AFTER CASE HEARD

Judgment was reserved Tuesday in Trenton Magistrate's court by Magistrate T. Y. Wills after a charge of dangerous driving against Gerald Bullied of Belleville. The case was enlarged until March 22. Bullied was granted bail.

The charge against Bullied was laid by Trenton police following a fatal accident at the intersection of Dundas and Byron Streets in Trenton which occurred on January 30th. Donald Baker of Trenton was killed in the motor crash.

GIRL SLIGHTLY HURT WHEN HIT BY CAR

Five-year-old Donna Belch, Pine Street, suffered a minor cut over her eye and also a bruised shoulder when she was knocked to the pavement when struck by a car as she was crossing Bleecker Ave. at Pine Street.

John H. Badger, Ann Street, was driving north on Bleecker Ave. when the little girl darted across the street in front of his car. The girl was examined by Dr. R. Potter who stated only minor injuries were suffered.

STOLEN JEEP FOUND

Provincial police early this morning recovered a jeep on the Trenton - Belleville highway which had been stolen early last evening from a service station at the corner of Bridge and Coleman Streets.

The jeep was found abandoned in the ditch seven miles west of the city. The vehicle had been overturned and was badly damaged.

Owner of the vehicle Earl Bernhardt, 122 George Street, stated he had left the jeep at the service station and when he returned to pick it up shortly after the supper hour it had disappeared.

Malcolm Robb Heads Belleville Baseball League

Malcolm Robb, well-known city barrister was elected president of the Belleville District Baseball League at the annual meeting held in Kilwarlin Centre last night. The new prexy succeeds former president Harold Reilly of the RCAF.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, William Lockyer, secretary treasurer, John Francis, both of Belleville.

Temporary directors were named, pending the definite entry of teams in the league, when representatives of the squads will automatically be appointed to the league directorate. Directors named included: Eric Cooper, Belleville; L. Yanow, Picton; C. Allore, Trenton; Bill Cook, Belleville. Frank Bateman, Belleville; Charles Hendricks, Napanee and Jack H. Gower, Belleville.

Teams represented at the meeting included Penney, Belleville Merchants, Belleville, Kiwanis Juniors, Trenton, Royal Canadian Air Force, Trenton, Stockdale, Point Anne, Northern Electric Company and Napanee.

A motion to restrict the maximum number of entries to league to six was defeated, thereby it created a lot of discussion with the result the motion was lost.

Lengthy confab regarding the disposition of junior players of the league also took place in saying concrete.

The schedule for team entries was set for March 23rd.

Rawdon Hunters Shoots 36 Foxes

Since the township fathers established a bounty of two dollars for the pelts, hunters and farmers of the district have been taking a fairly heavy toll of the wily marauders.

Last month thirty-six foxes bit the snow in their death agonies. Mr. Ed. Colden was the topflight hunter with six foxes to his credit. Murray Meiklejohn got five; William Johnston four and Morley Phillips three.

Reg. McGee, township resident shot and killed a large wolf and collected a $25 township bounty in addition to that paid by the county.

A motion to pay the bounties was passed at the regular meeting of the township council held at Stavolo.

Biologist Gives Talk to Fish And Game Club

Last evening Kiwanis Centre was well filled with enthusiasts in fish and game protection and propagation.

In spite of the storm, members were in from Wellington, Bancroft, Marmora and Point Anne.

Dr. Curran spoke on "Studies in the Field" and illustrated his address with a fine color film showing the Queen's University Experimental Station on Opinicon Lake and activities conducted there and on adjoining lakes in the Rideau chain.

A running comment on the studies, experiments and summer courses conducted was most instructive and interesting.

President J. H. Legate was in the chair, Bruce Smith, chairman of programs, announced the appointment of the association to Dr. Curran, W. A. Ingleton, president of the Kingston Rod and Gun Club, spoke regarding the new zone system covering the province. Col. W.A. Davern and J.E. Shortt will represent Belleville District at a meeting of zone directors in Kingston on Saturday.

Other pictures shown were "Trout Across Canada" and "Salmon Fishing in New Brunswick."

Two important features of the local club program receiving attention were the "Restocking Plans for Spring and Summer," and the plug and fly casting practices and instruction at the Armouries each Friday evening.

Farm Income Tax Information Will Be Broadcast

Farmers who are anxious to file their income tax forms may be interested to know that Mr. C. H. Cossitt, Assistant general of the individual assessments, will speak on farm forum over radio station CKWS in Kingston at 6.30 p.m. on Monday, March 14.

This broadcast will be of particular interest to farming communities as a great deal of information will be gained by listening.

Also on the same evening, at 10 p.m., another radio program will be given over CJBQ by Mr. Lancaster of the farm section and Mr. H. N. Burgess, representative of the Federation of Agriculture, who will be sponsoring the broadcast. This program will take the form of a question and answer discussion on farmers' income tax.

From time to time a representative of the District Income Tax office in Belleville meets with farm organizations and gives a short talk on income tax measures pertaining to farmers along with a question and answer period. These meetings have been well attended and the members of the various organizations have given a great interest and have spoken highly of the information and co-operation given them.

The department is anxious to co-operate with organizations and individuals in these matters of meetings, if requested, on the proper method of making income tax return and filing of returns. There have been meetings held recently at Wellington, Consecon, Cannifton, Melrose and Ivanhoe and all were attended with great interest shown.

Five Members Artillery School Injured in Crash

Picton—Five members of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Long Branch were taken to hospital at Kingston yesterday, following a two-car collision on the road that leads from the town to the station on Macaulay's Mountain. Three suffered fractured legs and make the slippery incline, slid down the hill, hit Fifth Corner and rolled over in a ditch fifteen feet deep.

Small trees prevented it going farther.

The men miraculously escaped death. All suffered cuts and bruises and X-rays were taken at Kingston to learn if some had hidden injuries.

The truck is used to transport men to the rifle station daily. The doctors were available for half an hour and the injuries were met by ambulance, and thence to Kingston.

History of Cement Subject of Talk To Y's Men's Club

The history of the development of cement from the time of the pyramids was the subject of an interesting address given to the Y's Men's Club at the Y. M. C. A. last night, by R. C. Brown of the Canada Cement Company. Giving to those early builders of Egypt the credit for their skill in developing a cement which has stood the test of the ages better than any product developed since, he traced the contributions of the Romans and the Greeks of ancient time and the discoveries of Smeaton and Aspden in more modern times.

The plant in Belleville was one of the largest and most efficient operations in the world, he stated, a fact in which the local community could justly take a great pride.

The speaker was introduced by Cesar Wright and received the thanks of the club by Ralph Black. Larry Buck presided, and Mac Dowsett was sergeant-at-arms.

CHARLES F. LINGHAM (Lockport, N.Y.)

The following obituary, which appeared in the Lockport, N.Y. Union-Sun and Journal on Feb. 28th., refers to the son of a former resident of the city, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lingham, who was a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Lingham of College Hill. Many old friends here of Mr. Fred Lingham will be interested in the account of his son's untimely death:

Private and Mrs. Charles F. Lingham, 46, of 426 Willow St., vice president of the Federal Mill Co., died at 1 a.m. today after early Saturday aboard a New York Central train, while returning from a business trip to New England, were taken off and rushed to St. Jude Prudden Funeral Home, 243 Genesee Street.

The Rev. L. Russell Foster, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of which he was a member, officiated.

Burial was made in Glenwood cemetery.

Tested by Porter

Mr. Lingham went to New England earlier in the week and visited Boston, Springfield and other points. En route home he asked the porter to awaken him in time to catch the train at Buffalo. When the train reached Batavia the porter tried to arouse him and found him dead.

The body was taken from the train at Buffalo where Medical Examiner Arthur Glaeser, issued a certificate of death from natural causes. Mr. Lingham was 51 with rheumatic fever some years ago which left his heart in a weakened condition but it was believed he had fully recovered.

Born in Boston, Mass., June 30, 1902, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Lingham, he came to Lockport with his parents 43 years ago. He was educated in the Lockport Public Schools and at Harvard University where he majored in chemistry and was graduated with a BA degree.

After graduation he joined Mr. Lingham entered the employ of the Federal Mill of which his father is president. He had been vice president for several years.

Community Fund Head

Interested in community affairs, Mr. Lingham recently was elected president of the Lockport Community Fund Council. He was a member of the Masonic, the Rotary Club, the Tuscarora Club and the Industrial Club, all of Lockport; the Buffalo University Club and the Buffalo Country Club.

Golfing and chemical organizations with which he was affiliated included the American Society of Bakery Engineers; the American Chemical Society, the Institute of Food Technologists, and the American Association of Cereal Chemists. He was an associate member of the Association of Operative Millers.

Besides his parents, Mr. Lingham leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Louise Merrill Lingham; a daughter, Ann French Lingham, a son, Frederick Charles Lingham, and a sister, Miss Lucia Lingham, all of Lockport.

MRS. PETER RASHOTTE (Tweed District)

Tweed, March 11 (Special) — The funeral of Mrs. Peter Rashotte who died at her home near Gilmour's Corners, after a short illness, was held from her late residence on Wednesday morning to St. Carthagh Church, Tweed, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. Dean Carrie, who also said the committal prayers at St. Carthagh Cemetery.

The late Mrs. Rashotte was born 73 years ago at Marysville and was a daughter of the late Joseph Kilmurray and his wife, the late Mary Anne Scanlan. At the time she lived in Kingston and for the past 43 years she lived near Tweed. In connection with St. Carthagh Church she was a member of the Altar Society and of the Catholic Women's League.

Surviving her are her husband, three daughters, Miss Martin Rashotte of Toronto, Mrs. John Marchen and Miss Elizabeth Rashotte, both of Tweed.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Chapel, 257 Front Street, Corbyville Street, where the funeral will take place on Saturday, March 12th., at 2.30 p.m. Rev. Ralph Reginald Mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. Dean Carrie, who also said the committal prayers at St. Carthagh Cemetery.

The late Mrs. Rashotte was born 73 years ago at Marysville and was a daughter of the late Joseph Kilmurray and his wife, the late Mary Anne Scanlan. At the time she lived in Kingston and for the past 43 years she lived near Tweed. In connection with St. Carthagh Church she was a member of the Altar Society and of the Catholic Women's League.

Surviving her are her husband, three daughters, Miss Martin Rashotte of Toronto, Mrs. John Marchen and Miss Elizabeth Rashotte, both of Tweed.

IN MEMORIAM

REILLY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, William Reilly, who died March 11, 1942.

Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
Few remember, few by wife and child.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 11 — (CP) — Prices moved narrowly on the Toronto Stock Exchange today with a few golds providing a large share of the modest small changes. Base metals and western oils slipped lower while industrials showed a slightly firmer trend.

Volume for the first three hours was 571,000 shares, about 139,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

Canadian Red Lake, a Dome subsidiary in the Red Lake district of Northern Ontario, featured the golds, being actively for a 50-cent advance in early dealings at $3.70 but slipping to $3.40 in mid-session. The company is nearing production with its 300-ton mill scheduled to be ready at the end of the month.

Brood of Six Canaries Hatched

There is a proud little matron residing at 96 George Street who is preening her feathers and warbling maternal melody as she broods over her family.

Six tiny puffs of feathers comprise the new brood of the gaily-dressed mother. She is a canary owned by Mrs. Harry Bennett.

The little mother deposited six eggs during the prediction period and she hatched them on the half dozen.

The little songsters today are doing very well indeed, thank you, within the confines of their cage, living blissfully proud.

"The old man!" We he can't figure it all out, and hopping about his cage in a set of canary haze.

Oleo Sales Affect Butter Demand

Ottawa (CP)—Appearance of some margarine in the Canadian market in January apparently had its effect on butter sales, which dropped 23.5 percent below sales in the same month last year.

The Bureau of Statistics reported that domestic disappearance of creamery butter in January was 30,500,000 pounds, approximately 9,000,000 pounds below the January 1948 figure. This meant a domestic disappearance of 1.53 pounds per capita, which compared with 1.64 pounds a year before and was the lowest per capita figure since 1941.

Production of creamery was estimated at 9,600,000 pounds in January compared with 37,000 in January last year. Total factory butter during the month totalled 1,511,000 pounds.

Cheese butter stocks Jan. 1, which amounted to almost 37,000,000 pounds represented a decline of about 20 per cent from the 46,000,000 of 15 per cent on the same date last year. Totals supply represented by stocks on hand beginning of the month plus butter produced during the month was 22.5 per cent from December and 8 per cent from January last year.

tanks and armoured cars".

Dr. Reuben Shiloah, Israeli delegates to Rhodes, informed Bunche, a U. N. spokesman said, that Israel forces in the area are "engaged in nothing but normal patrolling."

The U. N. already has observers in the general area of the clashes reported by Trans-Jordan. Bunche ordered more observers to the scene.

A line from the south end of the Dead Sea southward to Aqaba, a palm-dotted fishing town on the Gulf of Aqaba, roughly forms the Palestine - Trans - Jordan border. Aqaba is several miles inside Trans - Jordan. It is garrisoned by British troops, under terms of a mutual defence pact invoked recently by King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan. On the Palestine side of the boundary is the Negev Desert area, which a U. N. partition plan awarded to Israel in 1947.

Missing possible help to Trans-Jordan in event of invasion, Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, told the House of Commons Thursday that "an ally should be protected against an aggressor."

Reported Threat

London (AP)—State Minister McNeil told the Commons today that Trans-Jordan has reported Israeli forces thrust "some miles" into Trans-Jordan territory, raided a police outpost and withdrew.

He said another report received from King Abdullah's Trans-Jordan government told of movement of a "considerable force" of Israeli troops toward the Gulf of Aqaba. These troops now are "reported to have reached" the gulf, he said.

McNeil said no British troops have been "involved in any action" as a result of these reported Israeli moves.

(McNeil made his statement before word was received in London of the signing of a cease-fire agreement at Rhodes between Israel and Trans-Jordan).

Reports of Israel-Trans-Jordan clashes have come from Amman for the last three days. The government there said today battles were still in progress and Arab-Legion reinforcements were on the way to Aqaba.

McNeil said "it is a very difficult to relate" the armistice talks between Israel and Trans-Jordan under way at Rhodes with the Trans-Jordan reports of new clashes "if these reports made to us unfortunately are found to be true."

CLIPPER MAKES RUN IN 7 HOURS, 50 MINUTES

Los Angeles, March 11 (AP) — Pan-American's new 75-passenger stratо-cruiser America has clipped off the run from Honolulu to Los Angeles in seven hours, 50 minutes. The big plane landed Thursday night with 27 government and company officials aboard on the Civil Aeronautics Board's proving flight. The regular schedule is 13 hours, 15 minutes.

Lady Canvassers Urgently Needed By Red Cross

Wilk, the task of aiding the quota of $15,000 for Hastings County ahead, members and officials of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross are looking expectantly to another generous response to their appeal for funds.

With the campaign just under way, officials pointed out today that there is urgent need for additional canvassers and that twenty or twenty-five will help out to a great extent. And, it was also pointed out, these women are not fosthcoming there is a possibility that the campaign may fall by the wayside.

The district not yet assigned to canvassers include Moira St. and that area in the vicinity of North Front Street.

The need for canvassers is urgent, and potential workers are asked to get in touch with Red Cross headquarters immediately so that final arrangements may be completed.

Deer Found Helpless on Ice

Helpless through sheer exhaustion, a large deer, antlered, was on the ice on Stoney Lake, near Peterborough, Thursday day and dragged to safety by Mr. Leo Copp, principal of Peterborough Normal School, and his daughter Joyce.

The Copps were walking on the frozen surface of the lake to visit their summer home when they saw the deer. Four other deer browsing along the shoreline fled at the approach of the Copps and their dog.

In an open stretch some distance off shore a large deer lay motionless on the ice. Scratches on the ice caused by the animal's sharp hoofs indicated it had been trying to get away.

The Copps were unable to lift the deer to its feet due to the slippery footing so they dragged it by the front fore legs and Leo Copp carried the deer to a thicket where he fed it beaver hay. The animal quickly regained the use of its legs and started browsing. Later in the afternoon when the Copps were ready to leave for home, the animal was in the same place comfortably feeding and apparently reluctant to leave.

POLICE COURT

Pleading guilty to a charge of passing a worthless cheque at the Bay of Quinte Fisheries on the Bay Bridge Road, Donald Corey of Campbellford, was remanded to March 25th for sentence by Magistrate T. W. Wills in city court this morning.

Corey was apprehended in Campbellford on Tuesday and was brought back to the city for trial. On signing a bail bond he was granted his liberty with instructions to return to court on March 25th. The amount of the worthless cheque was $40.

Two L. C. A. cases were heard, one accused being given a month in jail on a second offence drunk charge, and another 10 days for first offence.

52 Workers Die In Explosions At German Plants

Hannover, March 11 — (Reuters) — Eleven workers were killed and 35 injured today in an explosion in the former Herman Goering Steel Works at Salzgitter.

The explosion, believed to have been caused either by a deonation charge or by the bursting of an oxygen cylinder, brought down a large workshop which was being dismantled.

About 200 men were in the workshop when the explosion occurred and were buried in debris.

The workshop had been used by the British Dismantling Command for breaking up scrap iron. The explosion was heard more than 10 miles away.

Frankfurt, Germany — (AP)— The newspaper Neue Zeitung reported the death of 16 German workers in the explosion of a powder factory near Bautzen, in Soviet-occupied Saxony.

The paper said the explosion occurred in the Goda factory, which manufactures powder for Soviet occupation authorities.

Butter Consumption In February Drops

Ottawa, March 11 — (CP) — A well-informed dairy source said Thursday night there now was tangible evidence that the advent of margarine in Canada was giving butter the biggest run for its money in production history. Quoting Bureau of Statistics figures the source said latest compilations showed that Canadians consumed less butter in February than in any month since butter was rationed to five ounces a week in 1946.

Proper Preparation of Advertising Copy Needed to Get Best Results Sales and Ad Club Told at Meeting

The first meeting of the study group of the Sales and Ad. club got under way last night with Fred Barton, advertising manager of the Ontario Intelligencer, as their guest speaker.

Mr. Barton gave an interesting and instructive talk on the merits of advertising. He pointed out that 60 per cent of all money spent in advertising is wasted, and wasted entirely through the fault of the advertiser himself.

He went on to say that all advertising is based largely on the trend of the times, and times are changing. The heyday of modern retailers and manufacturers is at an end. The time has come when merchants must start again to sell their way to prosperity.

Must be Aggressive

"Retailers and manufacturers", said Mr., Barton, "are facing years in which aggressive merchandising and sales promotion will play a vital part. Passive indifference won't do in a buyers' market, and that is what we have right now, regardless of the fact that many refuse to admit it."

"At the general meeting of the National Retail Furniture Association which met in New York in February, Mr. J. Gordon Dakin, general manager, stressed the need of increased expenditure in newspaper advertising, and presented three resolutions to be acted along this line. These resolutions are: use your advertising to buy customers before you can expect customers to buy your merchandise. Do in your advertising what customers want in order to induce customers to do what you want. Make your advertising work harder by working harder to make your advertising work."

"If you want to sell a product then have the advertisement (that is the copy at least for the advertisement) prepared by a man who knows what he is talking about."

"We at the Ontario Intelligencer have quite a few accounts that take a great deal of care with their advertisements," said the speaker, "and we can describe material for the merchandise that they want to sell, and they work with the advertising salesman in presenting a pleasing layout. These people get results from their advertising. We have other accounts who expect us to make up their advertising entirely. But the men and women who are buying ask for definite description. They want to know exactly what the products are like.

"When we have to make up an advertisement we don't know the merchandise and we are reluctant to make definite statements about it, so we keep to the vague lines. I say to you that you will get from your advertising what you put into it. Don't try to fool the people. Prepare your advertisement with care, and you are sure to get results. You can write intelligently about your merchandise. Your advertising salesman will help you, but you're spending your dollars and you should take care that those dollars bring you more dollars."

Reasons for Advertising

"Here are some of the reasons why it pays to advertise in your daily. newspaper: people read newspaper advertisements, you can get a message with a very small budget, no other medium definitely reaches as many people and people wait for it, newspaper advertising puts your message in print for all to see . . . a permanent record that can be checked. The use of illustrations will show the public just what you are selling. Timeliness: you can change your copy overnight to take advantage of a change in the weather. No other medium is so closely bound up with the everyday life of your community. People turn to it for news of what is doing tonight."

The next meeting will be on Thursday, March 24th, and all members are urged to attend.

Empire Store, Quinte Paint Reaches Finals

By E. SCHREIDER

Wednesday night at the Belleville Memorial Arena, Empire defeated the Bell Telephone 8-7 in a closely fought overtime game. Quinte defeated Flats Boys 8-2, this being an upset to the Flats Boys, who were leading on the round by two goals before the game.

Empire 8; Bell Telephone 7

The Empire boys had a tough battle all the way, defeating Bell Telephone 8-7. It was a close, rough game all the way with Milligan, Doyle, Hatfield and Morrell being the pick of the winners while Rollins, Lyle and Hurst stood out for the losers. Empire won the round 14-12.

Quinte Paint 8; Flats Boys 2

This game was a rough, wide-open affair with the Quinte Paint club having the margin all the way. The stars of the winners were Green, Whalen and Carey, while Garvin, Roy and Rush stood out for the losers. Quinte won the round 14-11.

BEWARE OF WEAKENING ICE

Some time ago there was warning to everyone to avoid going on ice on the river or bay. That advice was timely for the ice at no time this winter was as reliable as it usually is. For a long period ice in the river has been dangerous as the steady disappearance has shown. Few winters have seen such thin ice or the river open at as good a time.

Down at Kingston there were two near-tragedies on the harbor ice recently so that the Kingston Whig-Standard has against taken occasion to warn everyone "to keep off the ice unless compelled to use it as a bridge." The newspaper cites the narrow escape of a youngster who got out on the ice and comments that "the child who broke through the ice on Sunday would almost certainly be dead today had it not been for the remarkable presence of mind of his companion and the presence of other boys in the vicinity. Another crash through the ice might not have so fortunate an ending, and parents can help to make sure that there will be no more involving children by warning youngsters of the danger every day."

That warning is especially important at this time when the strength of the thick ice of this winter is rotting with the higher temperatures which have been prevalent for days. The advice holds true here and elsewhere.

FEBRUARY'S VERY HEAVY TRAFFIC TOLL

February of this year set several records. The weather was unusually mild and in that month traffic accidents took more lives than in any other February in Ontario's history. Preliminary reports show at least 55 persons were fatally injured last month.

Public Relations Service Ltd., commenting on this bitter fact says, "With a single level-crossing crash taking five lives at once, another car going off the road into a creek, killing three and four double-fatality accidents, February's toll of tragedy brings the total deaths for the first two months of 1949 up to nearly double what it was in the first two months last winter. This sharply reverses the trend of last year toward lower death rates in relation to traffic volume."

Motorists will be interested in the fact that cars going out of control formed a marked feature of the new traffic fatality record. The service mentions that "the worst feature last month was the number of deaths caused by vehicles getting out of control, leaving the road or hitting fixed objects."

These facts are of importance to every pedestrian and driver. The pedestrian is interested because he belongs to the class which suffered most for more of those who walk were killed than drivers or passengers in cars. At least 25 pedestrians died, including eight children, three of them skating or riding in the street. Other victims included 15 passengers, 13 drivers, one cyclist and one passenger who was thrown out of a car and run over by another car.

February has shown an increase of 85 per cent in deaths and these two months of January and February this year showed a preliminary total of 110 deaths as compared with 59 for the two months last year — surely an appalling increase and total at any time.

What is the reason for the sharp increase? It may be that the fact that this has been an open winter with naturally more slippery and icy roads was in part to blame. With the open winter conditions a greater volume of traffic has been on the roads and highways which may help to account for the very steep climb in the fatality totals.

Under such conditions drivers have been warned to be more than usually careful.

It would be a happy day and would relieve the minds of many drivers, pedestrians and those who stay home while others of their family are riding on the roads and streets if there would be a very definite trend downward in accidents, and finally — the sooner the better — a very great reduction in the number of fatal accidents. Perhaps some day public opinion will demand that fewer fatalities occur and bring about a change for the better which would be welcomed.

Recently the question of courtesy on the highways was emphasized by the Department of Highways Minister and this courtesy which would include every regard for the rights of others on the roads. It has been emphasized time without end that mechanical causes be blamed very often but that it is the human element which figures mostly in the causes behind the accidents.

After February's upswing in fatalities, it may be that the trend may be lower, from the mere psychological effect of the impression and the shock made upon those who use the roads and highways.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

" CHILDHOOD CARES.

It's chicken pox or measles
Or some mishap of childhood,
With its attendant fears,
Those follow one another, as parents all deplore.
To keep them watching, praying, to see a smile once more.

The doctor says: "It's nothing for you to fret about.
But while the fever's running
just keep the playmates out.
I'm sure you'll soon be over."

But words like that are vain.
The mother's bound to worry, till the smiles return
again.

These cares are part of childhood. The fevers come and go.
Such ills seem necessary, but why we'll never know,
But when the fever's broken and ended is the pain,
There comes that glorious moment when smiles are seen again.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Is a person alone in a motor car more impatient than the same person alone on foot?

I certainly look like it: but it is ridiculous. Every one of us who drives a car, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. About $900 worth of machinery (turn in a decent offer) available ... with an astounding transformation in our whole personality.

Sitting alone in our car, driving downtown, we are all around us countless anonymous, insignificant two-legged objects disordering around us and not presenting to us hazards and emergencies almost too much to bear. Especially when we wish to make a right turn, walking across the intersection. They even seem to slower at us.

We park our car. We step out onto our two feet. And instantly, we are transfigured. All around us are characters in command of motor cars (most of them run down, shabby, and worth about $900, turn in value) who have to be under the impression that they own the universe. Brush aside all these, along, ignoring our rights, our basic right even to survive. They to their homes. And treat them coldly at us. Especially at intersections, when it is our stated right and privilege to cross with the lights, the cross streets are privilege to motor cars fill us with a mild fury. They seem to think nobody has any right to be on foot. They keep edging and shouldering around the corner, and, in many instances, vicariously touch us with their fenders. Then, as they try to take the right of way from us . . .

This transformation in our personalities can take place in less than sixty seconds.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SO DON'T COMPROMISE

An elderly minister was employed by a church to conform the pastoral office for a few months while the flock was looking for a new shepherd. The first evening the new man met his church officials, he was taken back a bit to find that cocktails were being served and was considerably scandalized when the invitation to drink was not only extended to him but was pressed upon him. "Why," said one of the church officials, when George was our pastor, he always took a drink when it was offered him." The old minister was also named George. His rejoinder was, "Maybe that George did drink but this George doesn't."

In the months that followed, the congregation became so attached to the old man that they asked him to become their permanent pastor. But he declined, saying that a younger man was indicated for the onerous responsibilities of the pastorate. Before he handed the church over to his young successor, one of the officials met the church said to the old pastor: "Your ministry among us has been a real blessing. Above everything else you have awakened the conscience of the congregation on many issues. Everybody appreciates your sincerity and the firm stand you take on behalf of what you believe to be right. That unyielding attitude of yours, tempered with a fine spirit, has been in itself a fine and lasting ministry."

House of Representatives Approves Tax Repeal on Oleo

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 11 (CP)—Discouraged but not down, the friends of the pocketbook nibbitists went ahead on points as the agriculture committee of the House of Representatives approved repeal of federal taxes on margarine.

The committee acted at the same time to bar the sale of yellow margarine in interstate commerce.

Stiff Competition

Congress tackles the oleo-vs.-butter issue — and all its political ramifications against a background of decreased butter consumption and steadily - rising use of margarine.

Seventeen bills have been introduced. They would eliminate these taxes:

Colored margarine — 10 cents a pound, plus a $480-a-year levy on wholesalers and $48 on retailers.

Uncolored margarine — one-quarter cent a pound, plus a $300-a-year tax on wholesalers and $6 on retailers.

Both types — $600 a year on manufacturers.

Heavenly Gift

Coloring plays a big part in the argument. For example, Representative George H. Christopher (Dem. Mo.), a dairy farmer, told the House of Representatives recently:

"I am ready to vote for the repeal of all taxes on oleomargarine if they will color it red, white, green or purple — or leave it white.

"But I do think that if the American dairy farmer does not have a competitive chance, something that God and Nature gave to butter, that he ought to have that competition."

Many a fellow Congressman agrees with Christopher.

Oleo bickers, on the other hand, contend there's lots of yellow coloring going into butter these days, too.

The present "evil" of the tax on dairy say, is that the housewife has the worst of it. She should be able to buy oleo at a price which contains no "anti-margarine" tax.

Prince Failing

Meanwhile, both sides warm to the battle. Last words, before both commodities have been dropped in: In cities butter sold recently at $1 pound, it now is about 70 cents. Oleo hasn't dropped to that extent, but a retail price drop has been noted.

Per capita butter consumption in the United States before the war was 17 pound a year; it is now about 10 pounds. During the same period, margarine consumption has shot from 2½ pounds to six.

Mackenzie's Column:

Change in Russ Leadership Would Not Help Peace

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

A reader of this column asks whether a change in the supreme leadership of Soviet Russia might improve the chances for world peace. My correspondent presumably has in mind a substitute for Prime Minister Stalin as head of the all-powerful politburo.

The answer, from viewpoint, is definitely "no."

The top-leadership is going to better the chances of peace. It is a matter of fact peace likely is easier to maintain with than it would be in any others.

Why? Well, because Moscow obviously wants to avoid another world war right away and Stalin is the man who has the power to make that decision.

Communist leaders may come and they may go, but the Red creed will not change so long as the iam lives. Of course there are times when, as in our state's circumstances change, but the basic policy won't change.

Sentenced to Die In Chair For Wrecking Passenger Train

Morristown, Pa., March 11 (AP) —James M. Johnson, 36, Thursday was convicted of murder in the wrecking of a Reading Railroad passenger train near Valley Forge, Pa., last fall. He was sentenced to death in the electric chair. He was accused of tampering with the railroad ties and causing the wreck, which killed two.

Five are Held One is Charged With Murder

Hull, Que., March 11 (C— Police today held five persons as investigation continued in the police believe may be in the city's alleged gambling and operating Ottawa, Hull and Montreal.

Held on a murder charge in death of Jacqueline Lambert, 23-year-old Hull woman, found slain by police in Toronto after a three-day search.

Police said material witnesses are: William Francis Gibson, 46, dentist, Hull woman's common-law husband; Lorne Nixon, 32-year-old son of an Ottawa physician, and Mrs. Gertrude Lavigne, 35, of nearby Chelsea.

It was not known whether the fifth person was a man or a woman.

Lt. Ubald Legault of Montreal said that as a result of police investigation into the Lambert death discovery has been made of alleged "rings" operating 100 illegal operations in the three cities since 1947.

The Lambert murder and discovered Heart Hospital last Monday from what police believed was an illegal operation performed at Deschenes —a tiny village near here — in January.

Eight days before she died. It was during this week made a statement which put police on the trail of Roma Anderson. A warrant for her arrest on a charge of murder was sworn out a few hours after the bodies were found Monday.

It was understood that the statement made was "a confession" and that it is a prominent part in charges which may follow the inquest.

Wharf Extension Contract at Trenton Let For $25,099

Cloutier Walks Calmly to Death On Gallows

Montreal, March 11 (CP) — Showing the same resignation to his fate with which he was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of two Montreal policemen, Noel Cloutier walked to the gallows calmly today.

He was hanged at 12.03 a.m. and his body was cut down at 12.30 when he was pronounced dead.

There were no witnesses at the hanging, many of them detectives who had prosecuted evidence against him in court.

Cloutier, 34, was tried to chest the gallery murder—once when he slashed his wrists in Montreal detective cells while awaiting trial and again when he made an illfated attempt to escape from the death cell, hacked up to the scaffold as he was escorted by guards.

His mother's request that a death mask was placed over his head and made no movements as the noose was placed around his neck.

Scarcely 12 hours before he was to walk to the scaffold, Cloutier learned that his request for stay of execution was denied.

Shooting of Constables

Cloutier was sentenced to death last Nov. 26 after a trial lasting four days. He was convicted specifically of the murder of Constable Nelson Paquin during a bank holdup. A second constable, Emile Dumesnil, was killed in the same time.

Subsequently, Douglas Cloutier was tried, convicted sentenced to be hanged March 1, 1948, for the murder of Donald Perreault turned Kingston, constable who died of wounds and Douglas and is yet to be tried.

The two constables were shot down last Sept. 23 outside a east end bank; a few seconds after the manager had been forced to hand over $2,142.

An hour later Cloutier was captured in a lane, about $3,000 stuffed in his shirt. To the constable who searched him, he said: "This is it; the noose is waiting for me."

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Life Was Made to Work

According to all the evidence that the scientists are able to unearth it appears very evident that life was made to work.

The fish are designed for life in the sea; birds are designed to make a success of life in the air. Life everywhere is adjusted to the circumstances under which it has to be lived.

If this is true of the brutes, the plants, and the insects, it is reasonable to assume that it is also true of man. If any man is finding life an insoluble mystery, then it is because he has not learned how to live life as it is expected to be lived. Life is not impossible for sparrows, for lilies, nor for any of the beasts of the field and, as Jesus said, we are "worth more than many sparrows." It must be possible for us.

The Sunday School lesson for March 13: "Jesus' Ministry to Human Need," Mark 5: 2-21-44; Luke 7:18-23; 18:1-10.

The Lesson of Pentecost

Some wag once said: "The queer have queered religion." The extremists, faddists, and eccentrics, by their fantastic emphasis upon half truths, have succeeded in beclouding for many people a very simple principle. Good religion enables a plain man to make a success of his living.

The Christian church was born at that little meeting called Pentecost, when a strange spiritual experience fell upon a company of 120 people who believed in Jesus of Nazareth. The New Testament record of the event is told in highly figurative language not altogether plain to modern readers. But one fact stands out with crystal clearness—a new quality was added to human life that day. It was not a mere psychological phenomenon, but a definite importation by which a new life entered into the life of man.

Help From Outside

It is a very common experience to hear someone say: "I cannot tell you how I did it. I must have had some kind of supernatural strength."

Psychologists are quite familiar with the case of the person who rises to a great emergency and accomplishes that which would have been impossible under ordinary circumstances. A mother rescues her child from under the wheels of a truck, displaying a physical strength she never before exhibited. A surgeon holds steady in the midst of a delicate operation and collapses after it is all over. A singer rises to amazing heights in the midst of her song as if moved upon by some mysterious power from the outside.

It is experiences like these that heroes are made, but it is also of experiences like these that ordinary lives are made. In the hour of man's emergency it happens again and again that help comes to him from the outside.

Much Mystery Remains

Students of the occult declare that there is an entire realm just outside our human reach which is vibrant with power, and which has never been tapped.

Christian thinkers and students declare that this vague and mysterious "something" of which the cultists speak is the enveloping presence of God in the midst of which all of us live every day.

All of us know that we are played upon again and again by forces and factors for which we have no easy explanation. The strange and eccentric ways of the human mind, for instance, leave us in awe when we consider them with respectful care.

Faith and Confidence

Just because life has been made to work for every other creature we may be absolutely sure that it has been made to work for man.

Jesus had a great faith in life because he had a great faith in God. He could not believe that anything that came from His heavenly father's hand could be imperfect or impossible.

It was His faith that opened up vast resources of power and privilege for mankind. He went to great pains to assure us that when we exercised the same sort of faith then the same sort of results would follow in our efforts. He looked upon faith as the key to life and existence, and commended faith to those who believed in Him.

The man without faith is beset with fears, and life knows no greater enemy than that. A religion which does not produce confidence in our lives is poor religion, and hardly worth defending.

There is a sense in which it can be said that man's serenity is a better measure of his orthodoxy than his doctrines.

Lord Mildmay Will be Up On Favorite

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 11 — (CP) — A flute-blood with the cool nerves of a circus acrobat and as many battle-scars as a hard-luck hockey player probably will be up on the favorite when the horses go to the post for this year's Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, March 26.

He's Lord Mildmay of Fiete, 40-year-old, six-foot-one gamecock-rated Britain's No. 1 amateur steeplechase jockey. His likely mount will be the six-year-old Cromwell, current 100-7 first choice in the ante-post books.

He's one of the most popular figures ever to ride on the British turf — and railbirds are still tut-tutting about a colossal piece of bad luck he suffered in the 1936 National.

The story is often told how, riding his father's outsider, Davy Jones, Hon. Anthony Mildmay surprisingly led his field to the last jump.

But Davy Jones' reins broke. Mildmay desperately sought to keep the horse running straight by using his whip, but the unguided animal ran out at the last fence, scattering spectators and shattering a life-time ambition.

Mildmay had rotten luck again last year. He was well up with the leaders aboard Cromwell a mile from home when the reminiscence of an old neck injury forced the jockey's head down into his chest. Mildmay couldn't see where he was going; he had to leave the steering to Cromwell.

Cromwell's pace slackened but he took the remaining fences flawlessly to carry his half-crippled owner home in third place.

Lord Mildmay, in the course of 13 seasons' racing, has suffered fractured collar-bones, ribs, an arm, a wrist and a skull. But he still rides at his fences as if they just weren't there.

His career was interrupted by six years' war service with the Royal Artillery, the Welsh Guards and 4 Commando unit. But in the latter outfit he never took - the tumbles he's had over the sticks.

Dunbar Charges C.C.F. Trying to Start Jail Riot

Toronto, March 11 (CP)— Reforms Minister Dunbar said in the Ontario legislature Thursday that C.C.F. members were trying to start a riot" in Toronto jail.

He made the statement after B.E. Leavens (CCF-Toronto Woodbine) said neither the city nor the reforms department would give guards collective bargaining rights.

Mr. Leavens described the guards' men without a country" and said the city had declined to allow the guards to join the municipal employees union. The reforms department would not allow them to be classified as civil servants.

Mr. Dunbar said the CCF members were creating discontent among jail employees in an attempt to start a riot.

After a brief cross floor debate in which several members took part, Mr. Leavens compared Mr. Dunbar to the biblical character Zachias who was famous for having been "up a tree." The difference between the minister and Zachias was that Zachias knew enough when he was up a tree to keep his mouth shut.

Mr. Leavens said guards were paid a minimum of $1,850 and a maximum of $2,000. The widow of one guard had been deprived of three days' pay because the guard died three days before his holidays ended, he added.

Women of the Moose

The weekly euchre party for the Women of the Moose was held in the Conservation rooms on Wednesday afternoon. Prize winners were: 1st, Mrs. Chapman; 2nd, Mrs. Kenyon; 3rd, Mrs. Garrow. Mrs. Mary Peoples was in charge of games. Plans for the Child Care Committee Work. Mrs. Pendleton also reported on a similar party given last week. Winners were: Mrs. Milne, Mrs. Burn and Mrs. W. Scrymgeour.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

On Tuesday the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church held their March meeting. Mrs. Manzie, the president, presided over the opening exercises and business. Two special items of business were discussed—the Easter Thankoffering at which they hope to have an outside speaker and an afternoon tea for the Expense Fund to be held at Mrs. D. A. Fleming's on April seven.

Mrs. Baragar then took charge of the program. The hymns used were selected by Mrs. A. Reid, who also wrote the prayer which was read by Mrs. M. Barlow. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. G. Wallbridge.

Mrs. Brisbin gave an interesting account of the history of the Woman's Missionary Society. Mrs. Baragar read an instructive paper on "The Religions of China" Taoism, Confucianism and Buddhism". No matter which religion they may profess to follow, the majority of Chinese people have a tinge of each in their religious life. Today Christianity is one of the religions of China, and Mrs. Baragar told of some of the men who were instrumental in making it so.

JUBILEE EVENING AUX.

About 75 members and guests were present.

The supper was served by Mrs. Harold Mott, and her very efficient group. After supper the president, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, asked for the introduction of all guests.

When the routine business was finished a collection was taken to buy supplies for vacation schools to be held in centres supplied by student missionaries.

It was decided to cancel the next regular meeting and to join with other W.M.S. groups in the church for the Easter Thank-offering meeting.

The program was in charge of Miss Grace Tucker, ably assisted by Miss Brown, Mrs. Holmes, Miss Heagle and Mrs. Calnan, who told of the work done by the Christian printing press in China from 1897 to the present.

MELROSE W.M.S.

Melrose—Members of the Melrose congregation met for the World'd Day of Prayer on Friday afternoon last, at the home of Mrs. Wm. McMechan. With the president presiding after the opening exercises, the business part of the program followed with the reading of the minutes, communications and reports of conveners.

The supply letter requests two crib quilts, these to be ready by June. Materials for these will be purchased and arrangements for quilting made later. Members will meet at the home of Mrs. John Blakberwick and quilt for the last on Wednesday March 18.

Delegates were appointed to attend the Presbyterial in Trenton on April 6 these being Mrs. J. C. Milligan and Mrs. Arnold Batty.

The World's Day of Prayer program was then followed throughout with Miss Bailey giving the address and Mrs. Batty conducting a solo, to her own accompaniment, on the piano, "Fear Not, O Land Thy God is With Thee".

Intercession was made by Mrs. E. M. Badgley for "our families, the children of the world, Our King and leaders of our country and commonwealth".

Intercession was made by Mrs. J. C. Milligan for all nations, for the Christians of the world, for the missionaries in every land and the World Council of Church, after which the hymn of intercession "Zion's King Shall Reign Victorious", was sung.

The meeting closed with the singing of "The Day Thou Gavest Lord is Ended" and the benediction "The Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace". The regular offering received amounted to $5.10 and the special offering $2.85. Attendance, eleven.

IVANHOE

Mrs. Alwilda Ray Celebrates 77th Birthday

A delicious dinner was served with two birthday cakes decorating the table. Mrs. Ray received a lovely bouquet of daffodils and numerous gifts and greetings from absent members of the family.

Her many friends wish her many happy returns of the day. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Murney Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Ray, all of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ray, Shirling; Mr. Irvine Ray, Ivanhoe; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Cooney, of Harold; Mr. John Fleming, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McCaffery, Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ray of Harold and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ray of Springbrook, called on Saturday, being unable to be present on Sunday and son, Samuel Ray, of Toronto, was home during the week.

Ivanhoe—Mrs. Kenneth Oddie, John, Judith and Peter, of Campbellford, spent the past week with Mrs. John Wright.

Mrs. Wm. Hinds, of Frankford, who had the misfortune to break her arm in a fall, is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Earl Benson.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clement and Mary spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Reid.

Mrs. Donald Fleming is visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. Timbrell of Bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keeble and Wayne were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reid.

Mrs. Richard Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reid and Mr. Samuel Twiddy, visited Mr. Ed. Twiddy who has been confined to his bed on Sunday afternoon.

The Ivanhoe Young People are presenting their play "Aunt Tillie Goes to Town" in Carmel Church Friday evening March 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ray, of Springbrook, were guests of Mrs. Melvin Reid on Wednesday evening.

Films Shown

The following films were shown in Ivanhoe town hall on Wednesday evening by the National Film Board's county representative H. E. Seeney. "Navy Flies". "The Life Line of the British Empire" and "Champions in the Making."

The evening's entertainment was sponsored by the Ivanhoe W.I. and was well attended in spite of the inclement weather.

Women's Institute

ELDORADO-BANOCKBURN W.I.

Eldorado.—The Eldorado, ard Bannockburn Women's Institute held the March meeting at the home of Mrs. Bert McCarey with a fair attendance. Roll Call was answered by current events. The Secretary read a letter from the Department.

It was decided that anyone with good used clothing to dispose of would send it to a needy family in Queensboro. The proceeds from the pot-luck dinner held at Mrs. Pidgen's amounted to $9.40.

Mrs. Delbert Carman then took charge of the meeting, the topic being a reading on "Education". Mrs. Bert McCarey read a poem "The Lost Purse". A contest by Mrs. Carman concluded the program. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

COLORFUL CARDS

During the Middle Ages cards possessed names like "the two of cups," the king of Bastos," the "cavalls of coins" and the "sagga ing man."

Make the Most of the Root Vegetables

Root vegetables need to be prized as the only vegetables available for the Canadian table during the winter months. When there was a supply of carrots, turnips, parsnips, beets and potatoes in the cellar, the housekeeper of the last generation felt complete satisfaction that her winter supply of vegetables was on hand.

With the wide choice of fresh, frozen and canned vegetables on the market all winter, the roots are apt to be overlooked. Root vegetables are an economy buy and are attractive, full flavored and appetizing when cooked. They still deserve first place in planning winter meals.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggest varying the methods of cooking and serving root vegetables for variety.

Ancient Styles Still in Vogue

Cairo (CP)—Women of Ancient Egypt could teach some of their modern sisters a trick or two. A visit to the local museum demonstrates this.

Modern wives please note: Thahatep (2331 B.C.) was knew that her man, Imhotep, had a roving eye, pinned him down in black and white. The document, attested by 16 witnesses, had clauses like this:

"I have made you my wife. To the children that you bear me shall belong all that is mine and that I may acquire .... I give you so many measures of wine, silver and oil to secure your food and drink for every year. Should I turn you out, I will give you 80 sisters of silver. Should I take another wife beside you, I will give you 100 sisters of silver." (A sister was a Grecian coin of varying denomination.)

Modish Women

Miss Egypt 2,000 B.C. anticipated the now fashionable stole for evening wear. There are examples in the museum that would be perfect with a plain black dress today.

Teen-agers of these days would incorporate the names of their boy friends in the designs of their jewelry just to show that it was honorably acquired.

Neferti, Tutankhamen's wife, had a cosmetic cupboard that would shame all the beauty shops of today. She ordered by the gallon in beautifully carved alabaster jars. Also, she made sequins popular and the modern sequin embroidered collars are poor imitations of those she ordered by the dozen.

The latest spring fashions show many types and styles of pleating but the Theban dressmakers of 2,000 B.C. used one style not yet tried by modern designers. They cross-pleated linen at right angles to give poles a checked effect.

Portraits of Roman women of 20 B.C. give jewelry styles now on show in London—drop earrings, three string choker necklaces. And these same Roman misses wore the tulip cut hair style, popular choice of today's new short-cuts.

HOT MUTT-AND-JEFF TEAM

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Police said today that the holdup attempt Thursday night of a West Toronto drug store was not the work of the notorious Mutt-and-Jeff team which has plagued city stores for the last two weeks.

The bandits who were foiled by a plucky 15-year-old delivery boy did not answer the description of the Mutt-and-Jeff combination, police said. Roy O'Connor ran to the back of the shop and shouted for help instead of carrying out an order to empty the till. The thugs fled empty handed in a stolen automobile.

"LOOK—a cheque from Ottawa!"

This month you may be in for a pleasant surprise.

Cheques, representing refunds on compulsory savings during 1943-1944, are now being mailed to over 2,250,000 Canadians. One of these cheques may be coming to you.

Saving this money meant sacrifice and self-denial. Think twice before you spend it. You can make it count for something by tucking it away in a Royal Bank savings account. Use it as a nest egg—to build up your savings, to gain that added sense of security that savings bring.

FASCINATING FACTS—The Canadian Government will pay back this month over $247,000,000 in refundable savings.

Some 50,000 cheques are still held at Ottawa from last year's distribution because the owners cannot be found.

NOTE...if you have changed your name or address since 1943, be sure to inform the Department of National Revenue. Change of address cards for this purpose are available at all Post Offices and District Income Tax Offices.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Tea O'Clock and "Good Night" It Must Be

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have a birthday party soon, my 13th birthday . . . I'm inviting both boys and girls . . . the party is to be from 7 to 10. It is most important that the boys and girls leave at 10 o'clock. How can I tell them in a nice way that they must leave promptly at 10?

Will there be a piano and a pianist in the house? If so, why not take the pianist into your confidence before the party, ask her to help in play, at about 9, the "Good Night Ladies!" Then you add merrily . . . for there's nothing to be self-conscious or grim about, since this curfew hour is a reasonable one at the birthday party for such a young lady . . . "Yes, it must be 'Good night' promptly at 10 o'clock. Dad is the committee in charge of . . . and these are his orders. And thank you all, every one of you good friends, for coming to my party . . . You've made me so happy! And I'll always remember this birthday.

If there's no piano, you can pass on Dad's or Mother's order, somewhat like the above, and in a gay voice and manner. You'll easily achieve your guests' friendly co-operation.

Teshake when the Gentleman is Shy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a problem . . . will you please help me? I have become deeply interested in a man who works in the office where I work, and so of course I see him every day. He is several years older than I am. From the chats we have had together, I have found that we have many of the same interests . . . even that we are both teetotalers! We are both rather shy, but he is more so than I am. I would so much like to have him take me out . . . have you a suggestion?

M. C.

Why not take a chance on capturing his interest by inviting him to come to your home some evening (name a specific evening) either to dine informally with you and another couple and then play bridge or some other game afterward; or for a game first to be followed by buffet supper. Make him aware that a charming hostess you are . . . be simple and complimentary forthright in your friendliness (no obvious struggle-to-please, please!) . . . show him that you can serve interesting, non-alcoholic drinks "with an air and a flair" . . . and, as bolsters for six shyness and yours, invite at least one other couple, perhaps two couples, because inviting him for a two-some might very well make him shy—away!

The flower girl . . . in white or dress

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My bridal attendants are to be a maid of honour, bridesmaids, and a flower girl. How should the flower girl be dressed . . . may she wear white?

N. H. R.

Yes, the flower girl may wear a white dress, with contrasting accessories (a delicate garland of flowers or her pretty head, or a flower-trimmed hat or poke bonnet, . . .or a simple headdress and an old-fashioned bouquet of tiny flowers . . . or a colorful ribbon sash . . . and with her hat trimmed with the same ribbon and long streamers). The Kate Greenaway type of dress continues to be the most popular for a flower girl . . . and deservedly so, for it is simple and appropriate, can be made of a material and color suitable to the time of year and harmonious to the and Summer weddings, the flower-bridesmaids' dresses. For Spring or girl's dress (of any simple type, and either ankle-length or short) may be of marquisette, organdie, very soft taffeta, mousseline de soie, and (for mid-summer) lisle and voile. She may wear white buckskin slippers with straps, or patent leather slippers, or, with a pastel dress, she often wears slippers dyed to match her dress.

Iridescent Cord

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE latest trick in resort and summer-to-come cotton fabrics is the varied iridescent numbers, subtly colored lengths which are as pretty as the old-fashioned shot silk for very best dresses.

Here we have a cord fabric, a wonderful cloth indeed when it comes to taking tailoring, washing and styling, plus the fact that it wrinkles almost none at all. It was originally a menswear cloth, but in this rainbow tourbed version it is highly feminine.

Claire McCardell uses the fabric for this two-piece, long-sleeved town or travel or business cotton model, fastening the slim bodice with minute hooks and eyes, thus avoiding a ridge of metal closing while getting a real closing. The girdle belt is attached to the skirt.

At a recent meeting the officers and teachers of College Hill Sunday School entertained over 200 old and new residents of the College Hill.

Every guest was given a card upon entering with their name to pin on their coat in order to get better acquainted with each other.

Mr. Howard Burley, superintendent of the Sunday School was master of ceremonies and the following program, which was made up from talent of the surrounding community, was very much enjoyed.

Cartoon slides, Major Graham of Salvation Army; Prayer, M. Greene; Darky solo, Douglas Tufford; Comedy solo, Ed. Waterhouse; Piano duet, Wilma and Wanda Lough; Solo, Max Wilkinson; Cornet solo, Douglas Farrar; Solo, Miss Lorna McDougall; Spiritual solo, Bill Vallance; Reading, Mrs. R. McLuskie; Comedy dance and duet, Douglas Tufford and Ed. Waterhouse.

Presentations were made to Mr. and Mrs. O. Coulter for their long years of service as superintendent of the Sunday School.

To Mr. and Mrs. A. Johns for their services as secretary and treasurer of the school, and who now have moved to another vicinity and to Dana Cook, who was pianist of the Sunday School, and is now organist of Christ Church.

Community singing, led by Mr. Arthur Simpson of Christ Church choir, was enjoyed by all.

The ladies of the Sunday School served refreshments and the evening was brought to a close with prayer by Mr. Hillis.

Officers of the Sunday School wish to thank those present who helped in any way to make the evening the large success it was.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Letters and Answers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 22 years old and have been going with a man 24 for a couple of months. I know I am in love with him and he has told me he loves me. But he does not know we are of different faiths. We have never discussed our religion because the subject has never come up.

Do you think that I am deceiving him by not telling him what I am? I don't want to tell him unless he asks me, because I am afraid of losing him.

"Unhappily in Love"

Dear "Unhappily in Love":

If you feel that the difference in your faiths is so vital a matter that you would rise this man if he knew about it, then I think the sooner you make an opportunity to tell him, the better. Sooner or later he is going to find out about it anyhow, and the longer you wait the more deeply involved emotionally you are going to be, which will make the whole thing much harder. Even though the subject of religion has not come up, I think you would be wise to find some way of letting him know just what the situation is. If it is going to make so much difference to him that he would drop you rather than try to work out solutions, better that you had better know it at once.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 and have been going out with a boy seven months younger than I for about five months, during which time I have accepted a friendship ring from him.

Now, however, I know I have made a mistake, for I don't seem to care for him as much as I did when I accepted the ring. I have come to the conclusion that we are both still too young to go out with just each other. I think that he should go out as much as he can with girls and I with boys.

What I want to know is how can you tell a nice boy that you no longer want to go steady with him without hurting his feelings? I would also like to know if I should return his ring and a locket which I received from him as a birthday gift.

"Puzzled"

Dear "Puzzled":

I don't think there is any very satisfactory way of telling a person down easily in such a situation. All you can do is tell him as gently as possible how you feel. You might say that you are not as sure of yourself as you thought you were, and you would like a little time to think things over. You could suggest that for a definite period, say six months, each of you should be free to go out with whomever you pleased, and at the end of that time you can then decide what you want to do if by then, there is any necessity of making a definite decision. It may be that after such a "cooling off—but of course if the rings you mention is an engagement ring, it would be taken for granted that you'd return it.

Accessories For Spring

Colorful charm for new outfits

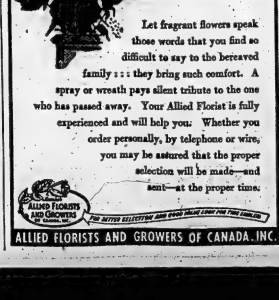
By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

NEW ACCESSORIES are ready to lend their colorful charm to early lightweights, or to pep up tired Winter wardrobes. Dotted swish silk in either red and white or green and white is used for a jaunty little cap and matching scarf. The cap is lined with a rolled edge and a button on top. Two-toned slippers will strut through the Spring scene. This one has a black leather vamp with cocoa suede for the heel quarter and strap. There is plenty of fashion detail in the new fabric gloves. Cocoa suede finished cotton is used for this one designed with black piping at the wrist and on the tab which buttons down gauntlet style.

Princesses Hear Word Seldom Used in Society

London, March 11 — (AP) — Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret today visited Old Bailey, London's central criminal court, and heard a word seldom used in polite society.

The first royalty to set foot in the famed old court since their great - grandfather, Edward VII, opened the building 43 years ago, the Princesses watched part of the trial of two men accused of trying to kill two policemen by running over them with a stolen truck.



The Crown prosecutor, a scholarly gentleman with a cultured voice, quoted one of the prisoners as shouting: "Hang on! We'll get away if we do in the bastard."

The princesses didn't seem to mind.

BEAUTY

Career girls beautify on the run

When a young lady fares forth every morning to bring home the bacon, it is not easy to find leisure for pulchritude pursuits. There seems to be little time for anything other than the job. And one must keep perfectly groomed. Good appearance is twin-tact .It is no credit to the boss to have dowdy employees around the place.

There are certain duties that cannot be skipped, no matter how tired or hurried one may be—the daily bath; the careful, neat arrangement of the hair; fastidious brushing of the teeth night and morning; looking after the finger nails; the brushing of hats, clothes and shoes; anointing the complexion at bedtime. Sounds like a big order, but it isn't, really. Not if you have a plan, a schedule. You mustn't rush, get flurried. The girl who does her hair, gets into her clothes and slaps on make-up in twenty minutes before going to work is no credit to the sisterhood.

Professional attentions—facials, shampoos, manicures—often take up part of Saturday and, quite often, the permanent must be had in the evening. Many shops give evening service to business women.

To give the laugh to approaching birthdays, the career girl must devote a few minutes at bedtime to a brisk massage of her complexion with a 'sweaty cream.' This rite is almost an insurance against wrinkles. The emollient keeps the skin surface smooth and of fine texture; the patting and slapping stimulate the blood streams upon which the cells live and give a certain amount of exercise to the tiny fibres that are just under the surface tissues. By keeping these small muscles in form, youthful contour will remain with one.

The health of the hair depends upon frequent brushing and a scalp that is in a normal condition. Use a narrow brush with stiff bristles and massage the scalp to be kept clean. Denote at least three minutes to friction of the scalp.

After creaming the face, give the cosmetic leavings to the finger nails. Frequent anointing will keep them from getting brittle, will have a favorable effect upon the surrounding cuticle, will contribute to a pleasing color of the fingertips.

There is the matter of exercise, of which few business girls get as much as they need. Without it the desk worker will, in time, take on the mid-section spread. Outdoor sports are best because they are enjoyable and ventilate the lungs. But five or ten minutes of torso-twisting will help a lot. Before arising in the morning, and before going to sleep, do stretching and deep breathing exercises.

The girl who makes her toilet in twenty minutes is no credit to the sisterhood

STIRLING

Mrs. R. B. Bell New Regent of I.O.D.E. Chapter

Stirling—The eighth annual meeting of the Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Baker last Thursday evening with a good attendance

The work for the coming year was discussed after which euchre and refreshments were enjoyed. Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Marion Rose a bride-to-be was guest of honor at a miscellanous shower held at the home of Mrs. Robert Leery on Wednesday night. Mrs. Elmer West and Miss "Mickey" McKee and Mrs. Leery were the hostesses and there were about twenty-five in attendance.

The evening was spent in preparing a bride's cook-book with the recipes for the bride-to-be sung to Mrs. R. B. Bell.

The guest of honor was seated under a decorated umbrella and the sounding of an alarm clock revealed the filling and sale of individual gift.

Miss Rose voiced her sincere thanks and appreciation for the gifts after which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Entered to Move Protest

Premier Kennedy and Mines Minister Frost jocularly offered to move the Appanboon prospect out of the lakehead area after Mr. Cox renewed objections to the big development. Mr. Cox (Fort William) (CCF-Fort Arthur) concurred with him. The Fort William contract was started without the approval of the Fort William and Fort Arthur hydro commissions.

—Reforms Minister Dunbar and Mr. Leavens clashed briefly after Mr. Leavens insisted that neither the city of Toronto nor the reforms department would give guards at Toronto's Don jail barbershop visits. Mr. Dunbar assured C. C. F. members of creating discontent among jail employees in an attempt to start a riot.

Crossed Swords on Pay

Mr. Park crossed swords verbally with the education minister over teachers' pay. Mr. Porter told the average public school teacher earned $2,053 in 1948, compared with $1,906 in 1947 and $1,664 in 1946, but Mr. Park insisted that teachers still were paid less than common laborers.

Mr. Gemmell said Northern Ontario gold mine operators were caught between the fixed price of gold and rising costs of production, so that the output of some mines was falling off. He added: "Ontario gold mines, if given a chance, could roll back our northern frontiers and build new communities that will guarantee the continued prosperity of our province and our country."

Promises Investigation

Mr. Frost promised an investigation after Mr. Temple claimed that some private pre - paid medical plans made "misleading" representations. Mr. Temple said some subscribers found conditions they thought they were providing against were excluded in clauses "at the bottom of the page in small type."

Mr. McMillan suggested construction of a steam - powered plant to generate electricity at Kriesu in Kent county. He said such a plant would be convenient to the industrial centres of London, Windsor and Sarnia.

Mr. Walters said he regretted that the budget made no provision to solve the problems of old age pensions, housing, the unemployable or the blind.

PRIME MINISTER

Many Speakers Heard

While Mr. Low and his supporters touched on other matters, they mainly confined their remarks to the way in which a Social Credit government would handle the finances of the government.

Speakers in the debate included J. L. Gibson (Ind.-Comox-Alberni); G. A. Stokes (PC-Hastings South); Patrick Ashby (SC-Edmonton East); M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader; Agriculture Minister Gardiner; T. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview); Benoit Michaud (L -Restigouche-Madawaska); Real Caouette, L'Union Des Electeurs for the Quebec constituency of Pontiac; W. Chester S. McLure (PC-Queens); D. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer), and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., (PC-Nanaimo).

At the House opening, Mr. St. Laurent announced that Ministerial responsibility for the projected Trans-Canada highway has been transferred from Resources Minister MacKinnon to Reconstruction Minister Winters, at the former's request.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said there are no negotiations under way with the United States for a new treaty of extradition.

Would Not Endorse

Mr. Coldwell stepped briefly into the main debate to say that his party could not endorse the Social Credit motion because of the means it suggested as a remedy of the country's ills.

Mr. Gardiner covered the discussion to refight with Mr. Coldwell some of the bygone election campaigns in Saskatchewan.

Gen. Pearkes protested against the government's decision to raise the prize money—about $3,000,000—going to the navy for wartime captures of German Naval vessels into the benevolent funds of the Navy and the Air Forces rather than to distribute it among the men involved.

He said that every sailor who served in the Royal Navy received a share of the British portion of the Commonwealth prize pool.

Mr. Shaw urged government action to prevent communists from using the law to protect their "treasonable" propaganda. He said Communists in Canada are beginning a drive against the North Atlantic Security Pact.

Fact Attacked by Reds

The Communists in his constituency had distributed through the mails a circular attacking the pact and asking those who received it to write and urge him to oppose the pact in the Commons.

Mr. Michaud suggested Federal legislation to set a minimum price for potatoes sent out of the country and to establish an adequate acreage in growing areas. Prices paid Maritime growers were too low.

Mr. McLure dealt with transportation problems in Prince Edward Island and in the Maritimes generally.

Mr. Stokes dealt with the government's health program and objected to the way in which it was being administered.

He objected specifically to the fact that a grant made to a hospital in his riding was announced at a Liberal gathering by the former Liberal member. There was no objection to the grant but the people did not like the injection of politics into the method of making it known.

He hoped that Prime Minister St. Laurent would instruct that such tactics be abandoned.

Mr. Caouette urged an investigation into reports that gold-mining companies in Northern Quebec are dismissing Canadians and hiring immigrants in their place.

Mr. Ashby argued that the government was wrong in contending that taxation was the only source of revenue. He said taxation was only necessary when there was too much money in circulation and there was danger of inflation.

Mr. Gibson said he did not see anything unduly wrong in the big surplus built up by Finance Minister Abbott. Any business man in the Chamber would agree that $600,000,000 was a worthwhile amount to have set aside for the future. Members should keep in mind that the government could not plead poverty when it was asked to undertake public works.

Debate on Pact May be Opened Soon in House

Ottawa, March 11 — (CP) — Debate on Canada's participation in a North Atlantic Security Alliance may be precipitated in the Commons as soon as the throne-speech debate ends.

This was indicated Thursday as the government took under consideration the draft of the security pact written in Washington after nine months discussion.

There was an unofficial indication that opportunity for debating the draft might be made in a government resolution approving dispatch of a delegation to finally approve and sign the historic document.

Text of the draft, completed at a conference of the State Department in Washington and the ambassadors of Canada, the United Kingdom, France, Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, was placed before cabinet council Thursday.

So far as could be learned the government here has no significant changes to propose in the draft and will advocate making it available to the public at the earliest opportunity.

It now is generally known that the terms of the agreement call for each participant, which will include Norway and perhaps other North Atlantic states additional to the original, to help with armed force any one of them that becomes victim of an aggressor.

The pact proposes a 10-year term certain and a revision at the end of that period if it seems necessary, with the opportunity to terminate it at the end of a second 10-year period. In effect, it is a 20-year pact.

It is the intention to table the draft in parliament next week if other signatories agree.

Attitude of the member governments is due to be reported to the Washington conference at the end of this week.

...ed Rolfe Aims To Take Flag In First Year

Lakeland, Fla., March 11 (AP) —Red Rolfe is taking dead aim at the pennant in his first year as manager, rating his Detroit Tigers a chance in a four-way scramble in American League baseball league with Cleveland, New York and Boston.

"I can't see a stand-out team in the league," said Rolfe, in discussing with off-season predictions of several baseball men. "Everybody on Cleveland had a good year last season. Boston still needs pitching and if Joe DiMaggio's heel is going to act up, the Yankees are in for trouble. I think we're definitely a better ball club than the (Philadelphia) Athletics."

The Tigers hopes suffered a sudden jolt Thursday night, however, when pitcher Art Houtteman was severely injured in an automobile collision. Rolfe had been counting on the young right-hander as one of his starters.

"As I see it," Rolfe said before learning of Houtteman's accident "we have four main problems—the right side of our infield, lack of speed, relief pitching and spirit. I'm not sure about spirit but right and I'm hoping we'll be able to solve our other problems. We still have hopes of a trade for a second baseman, but it doesn't look bright now."

Trout Not a Starter

Rolfe, the veteran New York Yankee third baseman who was a surprise choice to succeed Steve O'Neill last fall, revealed he was taking Dizzy Trout off the starting pitching list.

"Diz will go to the bullpen," he said, "at least for the start... I've got to show us he deserves a chance to be a starter..."

Hal Newhouser, Virgil Trucks, Freddie Hutchinson and Ted Gray will be the Tigers.

The entire camp raves about Johnny Groth, a brilliant freshman who hit .360 last year at Buffalo, as a sure bet to be "rookie of the year." He had the centre-field job as soon as he hit camp. Hood Rivers shifts to right field, Dick Wakefield, who got Mel Mullin or Vic Wertz in the other field. Also uses Mayo, Cramer donations, all including both Groth and Rivers.

Only George Kell at third base hoping to escape the injury jinx this year, and shortstop Johnny Lipon are sure of infield posts. Second base, the club's real problem, is a scrap between Neil Berry and Eddie Lake.

Catching should be stronger with Aaron Robinson the No. 1 man. Bob Swift will team up with Robinson.

CORNWALL EARNS TIE

Pembroke, March 11 — (CP) — Cornwall Cabinets and Pembroke Lumber Kings Thursday night fought to a 4-4 tie in the first of a best-of- seven series for the Senior Ottawa District Hockey Association championship. Second game will be held in Cornwall Friday.

Manitoba Rink Wins Curling Title Without Defeat

Hamilton, March 11. (CP) — A seven-year dream of Winnipeg's brother curling combination—Ken and Grant Watson—to play on three Dominion championship teams, has been realized.

The dream came true Thursday night when Manitoba, skipped by 44-year-old Ken and with 43-year-old Grant as third, captured the Canadian "World Series" of the ancient sport with a 14-6 victory over British Columbia. Ken became the first skip to pilot three rinks to a Dominion title and Grant, as third, has been a member of each.

They were in the winning Manitoba rinks of 1938 and 1942, equalling the two-time title winners, Gordon Hudson and Howard Wood of Winnipeg and Edmonton's Cliff Manahan, and it was their big ambition to surpass their mark. They were provincial champions in 1943 when the Dominion championship was cancelled because of the war.

Their 1949 sweep to victory was achieved by nine straight triumphs in the four-day round-robin tournament open to 10 provincial winners (Ontario has two). They were odds-on favorites to take the title with their masterful draw style of game matched with the close-cut Scots they couldn't be beaten.

The Manitoba competition came from the British Columbia rink from trail, skipped by 35-year-old Jimmy Nelson of Nelson, who had hopes of returning with the Mowat Trophy which Nelson won last year by fellow-townsman Theo (Treacky) D'Amour. Darling Trinity College.

But Ken and Grant who have played together for 30 years ago, couldn't be denied.

They had a couple of scares—from Nova Scotia, which held them to a 7-7 draw in the 11 ended in the fifth round and from Britain Columbia, who lost by eight—but they rose to the occasion each time. So, who was victory in Manitoba's 11-8 victory over Ontario in the eighth round Friday afternoon, standard victories and a capacity crowd of more than 1,500 crammed into the Thistle rink to see the "down".

British Columbia took a big three-rock first-end lead and spectators settled back for a Grand-cut battle. But Manitoba, capitalizing on miscues by the lone-experienced B.C. rink, took the next five and led 7-3 at the half-way mark.

It was 12-0 with Manitoba on top going into the 12th and the Winnipeggers scored two in a tense last-end duel to take the silverware.

A surprise if the tournament was the showing of Northern Ontario's foursome from Schumacher—all miners. Skipped by 32-year-old Quinney Sutherland who has been curling 10 years, the rink ended in third place with seven victories and two defeats.

Fred Dunstan, play a small-bang knockout style of play. They were beaten only by British Columbia—9-13 in the first round—and Manitoba, 15-9 in the fourth.

Johnny Evans Scores 200th Goal In Scottish Loop

Dundee, Scotland, March 11 — (CP) — Johnny Evans of Dundee Tigers has racked up his 200th goal in Scottish hockey—a record unlikely to be equalled in this decade.

Few Canadians now spend more than two seasons in the local circuit, but the Edmonton boy's liking for Dundee prompted him to sign up this year for a third term.

So far he's scored 84 times and assisted in 22 more goals. This compares with figures of 88 — 54 and 78 — 62 for the two previous years for a grand total of 380 points.

The 400 mark is not out of sight with seven weeks of the season to go before the play-offs and another visit from Sudbury Wolves also on the schedule.

But Evans has been a bit overshadowed this season by the scoring feats of a pair of fife players — Bud Scrutton of Kingston, and Dale Mann of St. Catharines. Scrutton has notched 138 points against Mann's 135.

RETURN TO WORK

Detroit, March 11 — (CP) — Chrysler corporation announced Thursday that 22,200 workers laid off early this week because of a shortage of automobile frames will return to work Friday on their regular shifts.

The shortage results from a brief strike Monday at Midland Steel Co.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We know of at least three solid Kingston Nylon supporters who don't feel when the team is in action. Seventeen broken, thirty-one contusions, seven weighty verdicts ranging from the coccyx to the third cervical are colorful evidence of the rooting calisthenics of this trio of Nylon nifties.

They ...z three bebby-saxer, teen-agers or what have you who sat directly behind us in the Kingston bleachers. If that is the correct term for it, Wednesday night. They mumbled over bubble-gum and whiffed the cold gasper between times. Blackie Gilmour, the acrobatic wonder of the Kingston nines must have tried out with the Varsity football squad last year. They, all three of them, have developed the best drop-kicks we have fail to many a year.

They screamed, they yelled, they screamed. We had the first introduction to this trio of vehement women when Nylons scored the first goal. Came an unearthly shriek. A flying foot, which approached the dimensions of an elephant's fore flipper careened up just above the pocket book. A streak of fire ran up the reportorial spine. Then a cold wave. Everything blacked out. In the distance we could hear the raucous reeling of the Kingston fans. There was a strange lightness about our throat. We gasped for breath. The honorable specimen of womanhood sight against the manly appendage.

• • •

We struggled to free ourselves. What had happened was that the brunette member of the team-go-gals had seized the reportorial fedora and jammed it tightly down over our face. Finally we extricated the mug from the hat, but even at this time, the figure 7½" are firmly imprinted on our proboscis. On the back of our neck the word "Stetson" (we got it at a rummage sale) stands out like a leper's mout at a temperance convention.

• • •

But that is not all. Mark Storms, who flanked us in the press box stall, stopped more kicks than Udall did pucks in That flaming first period every time a Nylon player threw down or up the ice, the gals number five started to do a tapdance on the wooden seating arrangement. Virtuosity. Came the second Nylon goal and three jet-propelled feet shot well underneath the reporter's chair. Everything in unison as the feet landed with a solid thud on the south side of our plates. We had a fine aerial view of the packed arena while we were sitting there, but we were essentially landed with a solid thud in our seats—and so them.

• • •

"Hows like that, Belleville" shrieked the Kingston edition of the Andrews Sisters, whenever a Nylon puck slithered behind the Belleville goalie. "Hyyyah. Hyyyah. We couldn't whip cream" screamed the blonde menace in the centre.

• • •

"Yeah" bowled the redhead on the port side "I could go for that and then some." Although, if he didn't wear a Belleville uniform (Telephone number on request), he'd be out on the score steadily mounted with the Diesels fading from the picture. Then, Amazing Grace, a massive moment with doing a mere tap-dance on the opposite side of our torso. It wasn't Fanny, McGee.

• • •

Diesels tied the score near the end of the first period. There was a cheer. Someone behind Mark turned and snickered. "Okay, wise guy" sneered the otherwise pretty brunette. "Let's see you whistle 'yet, brother." (How true, sister). We hadn't up to that point.

• • •

Then came the debacle and the foot-loose trio swung into high-kicking action. The rinkside ballerinas threw their pains into a concerted effort and some of the things we were on the receiving end. The reportorial spine yesterday morning resembled a bowsnet of kookberries embellished with bluish bearing-around.

• • •

And back to the beginning at hand. Tomorrow night the Diesels face the severest test of their hockey career. Two games down and three to play. Unless if they are to go down that tough trail to the championship. They are the best that thing if they play the hockey of which they are capable, but with the Nylons flashing along at breath-taking speed, it is going to be a superhuman task. The teams clash in the third and what might be the last game of the Memorial Arena on Saturday night, and all indications point to a sell-out crowd. It's do or die for the Men of Carson, and they'll have to do all out to pull this one out of the fire. Game gets under way at 9 o'clock.

• • •

Last night's scheduled junior "B" game between the Rockets and Kingston Aces was washed out, the Kingston team defaulting due to the bare mantis plight of the Rockets in that 18-3 win here earlier in the week. Last night the Kingston Barons defeated the Aces in a junior "A" game for the right to meet Rockets for group honors. The first game is scheduled for Kingston tomorrow night with the second and third, if necessary here on Monday and Wednesday of next week.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By TREVOR ICETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, March 11 (CP) — With the end of the regular National Hockey League schedule only 10 days away, it looks as if Montreal Canadiens' Bill Durnan is a cinch for the Vezina Trophy.

"It strikes me," says Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle, "that in William Ronald Durnan, hockey has one of the greatest goalies in the history of the National League.

"Durnan has won the Vezina Trophy four times in a row and may make it five. He was great before the advent of the rabbit punch and he has been equally skilful since its arrival transformed the game into a hurry-on, skeddadle handicap in which frequently a goalie is compelled, not only to stop the puck with his pan but to protect himself as well from pucks that slip past him off the skates and anatomies of colleagues! That's added risk the old boys seldom had to confront.

"I've seen all the goalkeepers in professional hockey since 1934 in the east and since 1911 on the coast and mid west, except Charlie Gardiner and Georges Vezina.

"I feel satisfied that none of those I observed over the years was Durnan's superior."

In the last eight games Durnan has racked up four shut-outs and allowed only two goals. Last night he blanked the Boston Bruins 2-0. Hawks at Chicago, and gave Gus Stewart's goal in the second period ended Durnan's shut-out record at 200 minutes, 21 seconds of play.

It goes without saying that this is a phenomenal feat the way hockey is played today," says Trevor (Windsor Star) Vaughan... "Now of course he's not only got his goal-tending trophy sewed up, but will probably also be named to the N.H.L. all-star team."

Not Finished Yet

The writers say Toronto Marlboros, in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" loop, recently made a clean sweep of the semi-finals in order to enter the finals against Barrie Flyers at Toronto Saturday.

Marlies won five straight games to eliminate Stratford Kroehlers and St. Catharines Teepees for the honor of fighting out top spot with the Flyers.

Not bad for a team that had to fight its way up from the bottom of the league to squeeze into the last playoff berth.

Maritimers Want Three Additions For Senior Team

(By The Canadian Press)

President Charles Campbell of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association said Thursday night he had asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to consider addition of three players from the branch to the Maritime senior champions.

Mr. Campbell made the request after similar appeals from the Alberta and Ottawa and district branches of C. A. H. A.

In past years it has been C. A. H. A. policy to grant Maritime junior club replacements. But this is the first time additional help has been sought for senior clubs.

A sudden - death play-off at Halifax Saturday will decide the Maritime junior hockey championship, it was announced Thursday night. The contestants are Halifax St. Mary's and Prince of Wales College of Charlottetown.

The winner will face the Ottawa Valley champions in a Memorial Cup playoff series starting at Ottawa March 16.

At New York four men were sentenced to prison Thursday for attempting to fix a college basketball game.

Three of the men were sentenced to terms of 15 months to 3½ years in prison and fined $500 and a suspended one-year term for conspiracy. They were Joseph Arnowevic, 22; Phillip Klein, 24, and Jack Levy, 40, all of Brooklyn. William Rivlin, 43, of Queens, was sentenced to a year on a conspiracy charge.

Skiing conditions described between good and excellent were reported in Ontario Thursday.

The Ontario Travel and Publicity Department listed 'excellent' conditions at Barrie, Collingwood, Haileybury, Midhurst, Huntsville, Owen Sound and Orangeville. Good bush conditions are found in Fort William, Dagmar and Toronto Summit but Dagmar and Toronto Summit tow hills are in poor condition.

Marlies Have Chance to Wrap Up Senior Title

Toronto, March 11 — (CP) — Joe Primeau's surprising Toronto Marlboros tonight have the chance to wrap up the Ontario Hockey Association senior 'A' championship in four straight games and move into the Allan Cup playdowns.

The Dukes, an undermanned, hard - checking team of youngsters, have confounded the experts by taking a 3-0 edge in games over the powerful Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the best-of-seven series.

It hasn't been easy going. Each game was won by a single point and the scoring record stands at a close 11-8.

Hockey - minded Kitchener - Waterloo fans aren't giving up hope. Some 9,500 of them will make tracks to Toronto tonight to be among the standing-room-only audience at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Scotty Mair, leading playoff scorer, is still a doubtful quantity for the Dukes with a skate wound suffered in practice. Johnny McLellan gathered a painful leg bruise Wednesday night, though he'll probably play, and Ray Hannigan sports two black eyes.

He gained them in a third-period blow-up at Waterloo Wednesday when he almost got a match misconduct penalty for slashing Jack Shewchuck and then taking on an angry Bill Dinning in a brief boxing match.

Capitals Score Three Late Goals To Earn Draw

Indianapolis, March 11 (AP)— Indianapolis Capitals came from behind with three goals in the third period to salvage a 4-4 tie with the New Haven Ramblers in an American Hockey League game, on Thursday night.

Gordon Haidy sifted home the tying goal from over the blue line with two seconds to go.

Indianapolis lost goalie Terry Shawchuk late in the second period when he suffered a deep gash over the eye from a 'card drive.

Trainer Letty Wilson took over for Shawchuk and Jacques Proteau became beat him to score on Haven's fourth goal at 19:35 of the second period.

Detroit Pitcher Suffers Skull Fracture in Crash

Lakeland, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Detroit Tigers' hopes of making a fight for the 1949 American League pennant got a smashing blow today.

In a Lakeland hospital early today it was discovered that the 21-year-old right-hander suffered a skull fracture in an automobile - truck collision Thursday night.

A medical report also said that Houtteman suffered a fracture of the cervical vertebrae, which is just below the skull.

The Tigers frankly didn't know when the fast-ball youngster would return to action — if at all. Doctors weren't making any comment on that.

Five hours after his convertible car collided with a five - ton fruit truck in downtown Lakeland, Houtteman was still unconscious.

Zombies by splitting with Owls, two points each, moved into first place in the Quinte Mixed League by one point over the Yardettes who lost four points to the Rovers. In the other game Pearsons turned back Eager Beavers three points to one.

Rovers turned in the best effort of the night with a total score of 3042.

Bessie Smith of the Rovers rolled the highest three string for the ladies with a score of 858. Her three games were 297, 294 and 267.

P. Ronsky 714, D. Diamond 696, L. Mansfield 654, T. Wardhaugh 619, H. Reddick 613 and L. Ashley 606 were some of the better ladies scores.

For the men G. Seeley was high with 735, followed by C. Hardwick 680, A. Whalen 667, E. Myles 641 and M. Latchford 617.

N.H.L. Teams Jockeying For Second Place

(By The Canadian Press)

The battle between Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins for second place in the National Hockey League is shaping up to be a close battle.

Both teams will see action Saturday, but not against each other.

Canadiens are favored to pull ahead Saturday when they meet the lowly New York Rangers while Boston Bruins face Toronto at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Tied with 58 points each, 11 behind the champion Detroit Red Wings who have already clinched the National Hockey League pennant, Canadiens and Bruins hold the spotlight in the circuit as they jockey for position.

A win by Leafs over Bruins will boost the Toronto stock, leaving them within a one-point striking distance of the Bruins. Toronto still have a chance to move into the second place with five games to play.

The unpredictable Conny Smythe, bossman of the Leafs, has predicted the Leafs will retain their Stanley Cup crown, providing they are free of injuries, which is hardly the case at the moment. Smythe said Thursday night that Leafs will be down to nine forwards against Bruins Saturday and Sunday when they invade Chicago.

Bill Ezinicki and Howie Meeker are reported still out with injuries while Harry Taylor was sidelined after receiving a rugged bodycheck against Detroit Wednesday night. Centre Tod Sloan will be shifted to right wing on a line with Cal Gardner and Harry Watson.

The Montreal camp was brightened somewhat Thursday with the report that Kenny Reardon sidelined two weeks ago with a separated shoulder, was rapidly recovering from the injury and would possibly see action against Rangers Saturday night.

Training Camp Notes

(By The Associated Press)

Two International League baseball training camps have been opened at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Pitchers, catchers and coaches for Toronto Maple Leafs and Baltimore Orioles arrived yesterday. Outfielders and infielders are to report Monday.

The Canadian team is sharing Westside Park with the Fort Lauderdale Braves of the class - B Florida International League. Baltimore will work out in nearby Hollywood.

Rapid Robert Feller wasn't throwing his high, hard one Thursday but he unveiled some control that had Cleveland Indians highly pleased.

Making his first appearance since the world champions opened spring training, Feller worked for four innings in an intra-squad game and allowed only two hits.

Members of Brooklyn Dodgers are buzzing about the words which passed between Jackie Robinson and Chris Van Cuyk, a young pitcher assigned to Fort Worth of the Texas League.

Van Cuyk dusted off Robbie a couple of times in an intra-squad game yesterday, and the first-baseman warned him against repetition of the close throwing.

After the game, though, Robinson, apparently called off and said he wanted to forget the incident if Van Cuyk would do the same.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 11 (AP) — Training-camp reports say baseball is going to the movies in a small way, the sporting News reveals that the Chicago White Sox manager, Jack Onslow, is studying the club's promotion film to see how the players perform, and that Cincinnati's Warren Giles is encouraging amateur movie photographers on the beach.

It seems obvious that a shot of a batter when he's swinging just right would be helpful when he's in a slump, especially if you'd make a similar film and compare them in slow motion . . . It also seems strange that most any colleges can afford to have complete pictures made of all its football games while big-league baseball is counting on amateurs.

Shorts and Shells

Tommy Brown, 21-year-old Brooklyn infielder, drew one of regret laughs in Dodgertown by asking a reporter if he (Brown) was going to be traded to the Phillies . . . when the scribe asked where he got that idea, Brown explained seriously: "I'm too old for the Dodgers."

Dear All, Brothers

Ky Ebright, California's crew coach, has worn the same battered hat to practice for the past 20 years, but doesn't take it on trips . . . in an effort to look after all the local teams, the National Invitation Basketball Tournament has developed into something like the heavyweight title eliminations . . . at least there's only one promoter.

Belleville Cage Team Defeats Kingston 44-35

Belleville's Peppas Billiards will carry a nine-point lead to Kingston for tonight's basketball game with the Prince of Wales Regiment squad in the second game of a two-game series points to count. Last night at the Collegiate gymnasium, the local squad, expertly coached by Austin Watkin, won the first game by a 44-35 count and were never headed during the pastime. In the first quarter the Belleville team led 19-10 and at half time 25-18. At the three-quarter mark the team had the game lead 34-27.

The teams are competing in the Intermediate "B" section of the Ontario Basketball Association playdowns and the winner of tonight's round will proceed to Peterborough on Saturday night in the first game of the round for the Eastern Ontario title and on the strength of their game last night the locals should be hard to take for of the marbles.

Belleville presented a well knit, defensive squad that made the visitors shoot from well out and in this respect they were not as sharp as the locals. George Boyd for the visitors was the high marksman for his team with 12 points and was closely followed by George Allen with 11. The only other player on the Kingston team to get more than two points was Cheeseman with four.

W. Spafford led the home cagers with 13 points and was a thorn in the side of the opposition all evening. He was on the floor practically the entire game and most of the plays revolved around this marksman. A. Galbraith was a close second with 10 points and L. Faulkner and Gord Watkin had seven and six respectively so it can be seen that the coach ha scoring punch pretty well divided throughout the squad. A fair sized crowd was on hand to watch the pastime. The lineups:

Belleville—B. Pappas, G. Miller, W. Spafford 13, G. Watkin 6, A. Galbraith 10, G. Gerow 4, R. Lapore, L. Faulkner 7, D. Lockyer 4.

Kingston PWOR—G. Wotherell, 2, D. Howard 2, Cheeseman 4, D. Conner 2, J. Connel 3, G. Allen 11, G. Boyd 12, K. Smith.

Marmora Midgets Oust Bradford In 4th Round

Marmora — Marmora Midgets turned tables on Bradford Midgets on the former's rink on Wednesday evening and winning this game by nine to one secured the two game series in the 4th round OMHA by eleven to eight.

Ten minutes overtime were necessary to declare the winner of the round as at the end of the 3rd, the homesters had wiped off the five goal deficit of Monday evening's game at Bradford. The visitors lacked the services of their star defence man Phillip who registered five goals in the previous game.

Bradford's only goal came in the third, Lotto scoring on a rush. Several similar good attempts by his teammates were thwarted by Drummond's stellar work in the nets. The keenness with which the overtime period was fought was a splendid climax to a fine game witnessed by four hundred fans.

Teams:

Bradford: goal, Tripling; defence, Thomson, Jackson; centre, Gaske; wings, B. Cradchuk, T. Osadchuk; alternates, Collins, Veale, Lotto, R. Faills, D. Faills, Wilson.

Marmora: goal, Drummond; defence, Derrah, Trumble; centre, Brooks; wings, Brown, Nicholson; alternates, Mumby, Mantle, Jones, Paramult, Pamult, Hickey, Meehan, Walker, Kouri.

Referee: P. Everett, Belleville.

How will the home of tomorrow be paid for?

The home of tomorrow will have many new comforts and conveniences unknown today.

But tomorrow, as today, few people will be able to afford to buy or build such homes for cash. Most people will need help. And many will get it in the form of a loan from thousands of "unseen partners".

These partners are the nation's great multitude of life insurance owners. Part of every dollar they pay in premiums is set aside to be invested for them. And some of these funds, in turn, are invested in sound home mortgages.

Other life insurance dollars are invested in government bonds to help build bridges, highways, schools, power plants and harbours — or in securities that help the nation's great industries to expand.

So every life insurance owner not only provides financial security for himself and his family — he also helps promote progress, create jobs and provide homes in communities from coast to coast.

The Bridgeman

With time on your hands, may be you would like to solve a bridge problem. Let me show you one. It is not easy. But it is one of the easiest in the puzzle book of Ivar Anderson.

After many tricks of a deal are in, the six cards left in each hand are shown here:

♠7
♦ None
♣A 9 8 6

WEST — EAST

WEST	EAST
♠ 10	♠ None
♥Q	♥K
♦Q	♦ —
♣ 10	♣J 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠J 5
♥A 4
♣K

Hearts are trumps. Sit south as the declarer. You lead next in the lead. With your own cards and those in the north hand of dummy, make 5 spade tricks. And it is obvious that no good can come from starting off with a spade lead.

No, you do not lead diamond king and shuff the dummy spade from north. If you then ruff a spade in north, east will overruff with his king. You will later lose your second spade to west.

Your first lead should be the club king. This will unblock the suit in case you later lead the club ace from dummy. But is it your intention to lead club ace when you get in the north hand?

After leading club king the second shuff dummy spade on diamond king and ruff a spade? No. East will overruff and return a small club. East will still get a club or west will get a spade or a trump.

Do you shuff a dummy club on diamond king and lose a spade? No. West will win and lead another spade that west can overruff.

Having eliminated these tries from among your plays, you have narrowed what can be done. Find the steps that will win for you. Give up!

TheMovieColumn

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 11 — (AP)—Everybody's got a reason for the movie slump and now Dan Dailey offer a new and critical one — film stars are too dull.

The song and dance man gave this wistful comment: "We actors advertise the fact that we lead terribly simple lives and have no adventures to the small space allotted us by the camera.

"Except for an occasional actress falling in love with a prince, or some star carrying on a transcontinental courtship, most of us must accept the fact that movie audiences, they want their movie heroes dished up with a dash of excitement."

Now Dailey doesn't advocate wholesale immorality among the film famous. The thing can be done without breaking moral or criminal laws.

Dailey admitted that he contributes little to the glamor of Hollywood. "I probably lead a more ordinary life than most actors," he said sadly.

We Agree

Things brings up a matter which is dear to my heart. I have contended that the studios have made a mistake in their buildups of new stars in the last few years.

It seems to me the studios have been too intent on selling individual pictures. People go to see movies to view the stars and they're not intrigued by seeing people who are normal citizens. They want lively, exciting stars.

I'm not saying they should imitate the headlines of Lana Turner, Robert Mitchum and Rita Hayworth. But young stars should realize that publicity is as essential a part of their careers as the art of acting.

Peterboro C.I. Basketeers Oust BCI Hoopsters

By MAC BURKE

Wednesday night at Trinity College, Port Hope, the Peterborough senior hoopsters eliminated B.C.I. from the Ontario Federation Secondary School playdowns and the right to seek the all-Ontario title.

The Peter really won the game in the first quarter when they outscored B.C.I. 18-2. It seemed to take Saliwlik Redmen a while to catch on to the opposition's play since Peterborough in the first few minutes of the game built up a substantial lead with fast-breaking plays and dead-eye shooting. Had B.C.I. played as well in the first quarter as they did in the remaining portion of the game then the score would have been very much closer. Besides this, the hometown hoopsters had more than their share of bad breaks around the tricky baskets of Trinity College. Nevertheless they fought hard for the whole game.

For B.C.I. Al Galbraith played an excellent game both offensively and defensively and he led his team with 9 points. Griffin, the Peterborough cage star led in team honors with 10 points while Thompson got 8.

Score by quarters:

Axis Sally Found Guilty of Treason

Washington, March 11 (AP)—It may be a week or more before Mildred Gillars (Axis Sally) learns her punishment for broadcasting propaganda for the German radio during the war.

The 46-year-old Miss Gillars was convicted late Thursday of treason for her wartime activities. The maximum sentence is death in the electric chair. The minimum, five years in prison, a $10,000 fine and loss of her American citizenship.

Even in advance of sentencing, Miss Gillars' counsel served notice that he is continuing to fight. Lynn Gillars, who heatedly swore from the witness stand that she always loved the United States and never intended to betray it, heard the verdict without visible emotion.

Her expression did not seem to change when the foreman, Henry G. Davis, Jr., said in a low voice that the jury had found her guilty. thus reversing her story that she was forced to do propaganda work for the Nazis.

Then, at Laughlin's request, each juror was asked separately how he or she voted. In turn, the seven men and five women said "guilty."

When the polling of the jury had ended, a marshal pulled on Miss Gillars' chair as a signal to go. She took quick, soft steps once turning sideways to look at her half sister, Mrs. Edna Mae Herrick of Conneaut, Ohio. Her expression did not change.

Tears rolled down Mrs. Herrick's cheeks. A paper cup slipped from her hand, spilling water on her tan suit.

"I don't see how they will be able to sleep," she said of the jurors.

A reporter made his way through the crowd to Miss Gillars' still black suit and asked her comment on the verdict.

"I wish those who judged me would be willing to risk their lives for America as I did," she replied.

AT THE CAPITOL — Montgomery Clift, Barbara Stanwyck, now being billed as the screen's newest "heart-throb." Clift plays the role of the sympathetic American GI in Sitka's much discussed film, "The Search," opening at the Capitol on Monday for its first Belleville showing. Matinee daily at 2.00. Continuous show Saturday from 1 p.m.

BARKMAN REMANDED

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Vitezl Barkman, Toronto barber charged with manslaughter in the Jan. 30 traffic accident death of William Miller, Thursday was remanded to March 31.

Magistrate O. M. Martin adjourned 'Barkman's preliminary hearing until that date and renewed his bail of $4,000.

An erroneous report yesterday carried by The Canadian Press, said that Barkman had been committed for trial.

Remember That Night

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

When Karen ceased to look for work on the stage and looked for one a job selling dresses in the department stores or in one of the innumerable little dress shops on Madison avenue. Her pride stung. She had come to New York to get on the stage. Instead she was filling out applications in stores and walking into little shops and filling out applications in stores and walking into little shops and saying, "I'm looking for work," and seeing others at every turn.

You could love a man completely and yet hate him a little at the same time, she thought, walking down Fifth avenue at noon. She had been thinking of Stephen. It was a warm day, and she could feel the heated pavement beneath the thin soles of her slippers.

In her room she wearily dragged off her hat and sat on the little chair before the desk. She had failed. Her high hopes were for nothing. Small wonder that every one had smiled sympathetically when she had said, "I'm going on the stage." Aloud she said, "I've failed. I can't even get a job selling dresses."

Harriston and Jerry were waiting. Slowly she picked up the fountain pen, took a sheet of paper, and wrote, "Dear Jerry, you were right. I am licked and I haven't started." The pen paused. But to go back defeated, to run back, to leave New York and Philip forever . . . If she did this, she would never see Philip again.

Leaving the letter unfinished, she went down the hall to Roxanne's apartment and knocked.

In a dull voice Roxanne said, "Come in."

Karen found her standing in the center of the room reading a newspaper. Coming closer, she saw what Roxanne's stunned, terrified eyes were reading. In large black print she read, "Man missing from ship". In smaller print "William McGrath disappears an hour after ship leaves Miami."

Roxanne, her black blue satin negligee tied tightly around her slim hips, was trembling. Swiftly over her shoulders Karen read the newspaper account again.

Bill had come on board the ship at Miami and he was missed an hour after the ship sailed. Scheduled to sail in the afternoon, there had been a delay because of freight. So Bill had disappeared in the dark . . . The account went into gruesome details. His parents in Richmond had been notified.

Staring and speechless, Roxanne lifted her eyes and looked at Karen. Never would Karen forget that expression. What should she say? What could she say?

"Disappeared," Roxanne said at last, her voice unnatural. "Disappeared, Bill!" She shook her head. "No. It can't be! Not Bill!"

Karen choked back her tears. "Perhaps . . ."

But the other shook her head again. "There's no 'perhaps' when you 'go off the side of a ship in the dark.'" She looked at the newspaper again. "No letters. Nothing. But why did he do it? Why?"

"Perhaps it was an accident."

"The sea was calm. It says that." After a while she said slowly— "Something made him do it. He was worried when he left. He was trying to tell me something and couldn't. You don't know him as I do."

"But I noticed that, too, Roxanne."

"Something happened. I don't believe he had to go to Florida on business! He — he went see his parents for the last time. He knew! He had it all planned! He didn't want me to see him off because he knew he'd never see me again . . . But why? Why didn't he tell me? I'd have understood anything. I love him enough to forgive him for anything.

And Karen was thinking that Roxanne had not cried or fainted. She just stood there trembling with the paper in her hand. In the hard school of experience this honest, realistic girl had learned to face things with a calm other people could not understand.

"He parents know," she went on. "It says that, doesn't it? Was it another girl? I don't believe it. It wasn't another girl. He loved me."

Looking at Karen and speaking in a despairing voice that made Karen's heart ache, she said, "I'll never see Bill again. Never again. I'll never have his arms around me. But why — when we were so happy?"

She pressed her hand over her mouth for a moment. "I told you I couldn't live without him, Karen. Bill was my life. He was my world. He was everything. I believed in, everything I was faithful to. After four years of getting nowhere, playing in small parts, singing in cheap night clubs . . ." Her voice stopped suddenly. "You run along. "I'll be okay."

"I don't want to leave you alone now, Roxanne."

"I don't want to live without him."

Karen looked at Roxanne gravely. "Bill's parents have got to learn to live without him! They have had him all his life and loved him, too. You belong with his parents now. They need you. You can't give up as long as somebody needs you, Roxanne. It does not take long to get to Richmond and there two older people need you. Let me send them a telegram and pack your bag and see you to the station."

"Do you think . . ."

She nodded. "I know!"

"But my job ! I'll lose my job." Several times, the sound of her small blue satin slippers cushioned by the rug, she walked from the sofa to the window. Then she looked back at Karen. "Can you sing? It's not so much singing as putting a song over and making 'em think you feed what you're singing, and mean it. Saturday night I sang happy songs because Bill was there. And I was happy. Don't think I don't remember. You don't dare remember . . ."

Karen frowned as a new panic seized her. "I used to sing at parties in Harriston but I can't, I couldn't . . ."

"There's a job in it for you if you can. My pal, Ben Lee, has it. I hate to lose it. If you take it, you can step out when I get back."

"You will go to Richmond?"

She nodded. "I'll go if you'll see Sam Kesten this afternoon and tell him you'd like to take my place. He'll give you a try-out. He'll give you a chance. You have got looks . . ."

Karen looked away. Again her pride stung. Singing in a night club, when she had come to New York to be a great actress. But Roxanne had asked a favor.

"I can try."

Standing at the gates, a small blonde girl in a new blue suit and beige hat, Roxanne looked at Karen. Her eyes were drowning in her tears. It was the first time she had cried. After a little while she managed to speak.

"Move into my place, Karen. It's bigger. Don't try to see Sam Kesten until this afternoon. There is a rehearsal. I don't know how long I'll be gone. I'll stay as long as they need me." Her bright mouth trembled. "Funny what you said about not giving up as long as somebody needed you. You're going on trial today and so am I. You see, they weren't keen about me. Bill's parents are. Their only boy and — and a girl who sings in a night club. Can't blame them much." As the gates opened, she gripped Karen's hand. "Thanks for — for everything."

"I've done nothing, Roxanne."

Back in her room, Karen put her hands against her flushed face and thought, "I can't do it! I shouldn't have promised. I'll make a fool of myself!" But Roxanne had asked her to keep her job for her. "You can't give up as long as somebody needs you."

Karen tried to think reasonably. Imagine you are back in Harriston at one of the Saturday night parties and you've been asked to sing. They always said, "Oh, come on, Karen. Give us one of those low blues numbers." Often as they rode at night Jerry had said, "Hum a few bars. I don't know the words. Sing it for me, Karen."

She had to imagine that she was back in Harriston! Glimpsing her face in the mirror . . . she saw that her mouth wore a bitter smile. She had come to New York to be a great actress and now she was going to try to get a job singing heart - breaking songs on a hotel roof. And one night, because it seemed to be a place where he went, Philip would come and see her . . .

But there was no time to think or plan. Seeing her unfinished letter to Jerry, she crumpled it slowly and dropped it in the basket beside the desk. She couldn't admit defeat.

SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville—The community was sorry to hear of Mrs. Pickell's injury last Wednesday when she fell from her back steps fracturing her leg. Mrs. Pickell was removed to Belleville General Hospital and it is hoped she will soon be able to return home. It is understood this is the second occasion Mrs. Pickell has broken her leg and sympathy in her misfortune is extended.

Miss Jane Stewart of Deseronto was a recent weekend guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stewart of Milltown.

Rev. A. W. Lougheed has been confined to bed these past few days with the influenza flu.

Mr. and Mrs. William Coles were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lucas of Napanee.

Day of Prayer Observed

A large representation of the members of the United Church Woman's Missionary Society gathered at the home of Mrs. Hughes Cook to observe the World's Day of Prayer. This special service was conducted by Mrs. Charles Wood, assisted by Mrs. Frank Dowker, Mrs. William Slavin, Mrs. A. W. Lougheed, Mrs. Stratton and Mrs. Audrey Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vesterfelt of Warkworth were Sunday guests of their son, Mr. Robert Vesterfelt and Mrs. Vesterfelt and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Vesterfelt was also a Sunday guest and remained in the community to visit other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Robert Little is able to be around again after being confined to bed some two weeks.

Mr. Ralph Stewart of Milltown, spent a recent weekend in St. Catharines and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. James McFarlane and Miss Grace Cox were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander of Marysville.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whiteman were recent dinner guests of their daughter, Mrs. Armour Calder and Mr. Calder.

The community was shocked to learn of the sudden passing on Monday evening of one of the fine old residents in the person of Mrs. James Kerr. Mrs. Kerr had been removed to Belleville General Hospital that morning and her passing on that evening was indeed a great shock to her many friends. The funeral service was held in the United Church in Shannonville on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. Interment was in Riverview cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elmy of Belleville were Sunday guests of Mr. Elmy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Elmy.

It is pleasing to see that Mr. Willis Wilson is able to be out again after his recent bout with the flu. Willis was confined to the house for some three weeks.

The Woman's Association of the United Church are holding their regular meeting, quilting and pot luck supper at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Vivian.

Master Don Hagerman grandson of Mrs. Edith Larose recently celebrated his birthday by visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Hagerman in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bell of Picton, were Tuesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Armour Calder.

Miss Betty Rose of Kingston, was a recent guest of her aunt and uncle Mr and Mrs. Everett Stratton.

Rev. E. M. Caldwell attended the meeting of the Ladies' Guild in Point Anne on Tuesday afternoon.

Trinity Ladies' Guild

The Ladies' Guild of Holy Trinity Anglican have postponed their meeting which was to be held at the home of Mrs. E. M. Caldwell. They are to be guests on Friday, March 18th of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, on the occasion of the 80th anniversary of the organization of that society. Special services are to be held with Mrs. Frank Harbach the guest speaker.

Master Earl Spencer has been confined to his home with the prevailing flu these past few days and it is pleasing to see him out again.

Mrs. Kenneth Vivian entertained the Quinte Women's Institute at her home on Tuesday afternoon.

WEST HUNTINGDON

West Huntingdon—Mr. Don Wilson of the O.A.C., Guelph, spent a few days this week with Mr. Foster Wilson and Glenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood were recent supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. S. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sarles, were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Baker of Kingston.

Sunday evening guests of Mrs. Sandy McCurdy and family were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Donnan and daughter, Josephine, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson and Grant and Miss Ina Holland, of Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Malville Reid spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Reid of Halloway.

Mrs. W. Hewle, of Cameron, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Fargey.

Recent guests of Sarah and Arthur Wilson included: Mr. and Mrs. Morley Barlow of Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hassall and Arthur; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McCurdy and family; Mr. and Mrs. Don Fargey, Carol and Kenneth and Mrs. Thomas Rollins; Mr. Keith Bray and Karon.

RUSSIAN COLONEL GENERAL ROMANENKO DIES

Moscow, March 11 — (AP) — The Soviet press reported today the death of Col. Gen. P. L. Romanenko, who was described as one of the outstanding heroes of the last war. He was a member of the Supreme Soviet, which is now in session.

Brighteners

Minnesota, Minn., March 11 (AP) — The village council did not mince words in its notification to dog owners that licence time is here.

An advertisement in the Minnesota weekly Mascot reads: —"Notice! Get your dog license for 1949 immediately, or hang! — no dog! (Signed) Village Council."

That was the startling announcement that readers of Louisville newspapers saw yesterday in the advertising columns.

However, Robert Gesecus, the apartment owner, explained that the good old days aren't back yet. The reason for the offer was that 23 apartments in his development had been finished ahead of schedule. They were not due for occupancy until May 1, but the tenants may move in now.

Tokyo, March 11 — (AP) — A 20-year-old Japanese awoke this morning to find a farmer's daughter in bed beside him, hugging a basket sack of rice.

He had brought his wife — already up and at work. Later police came and arrested Miss Shizu Matsushina. The girl was one of a number of arrivals at the railway station whom police attempted to arrest on charges of bringing in black - market foodstuffs.

Without dropping her sack, she had sprinted 200 yards, rushed in to Mitsuoke Matsumoto's house and hid beside him in bed.

"From now on, I'm not going to get up until you do."

WANTS SCHOOLS INSPECTED

Toronto March 11 (CP) — The Board of Education wants to know whether any of its schools are fire traps.

It passed a resolution Thursday night asking the city council to have all schools inspected for fire hazards.

Fire Marshal Sam Hill was quoted this week as saying that all but two of the city's public schools were fire traps. He said later that his statement had been "misunderstood and misinterpreted" but that safety recommendations made in 1943 had been carried out in only a few schools.

LEGISLATURE TOLD TAX ON WRESTLING BOXING CONTINUES

Athletic Commission to be Transferred From Treasury to Education Dept.

Toronto, March 12 (CP)—A five-per-cent tax will continue on professional boxing and wrestling gates to allow the Ontario Athletic Commission to control them, Provincial Treasurer Frost told the Ontario Legislature Friday.

Mr. Frost described professional wrestling matches as a "racket" and said some amateur athletic organizations had made certain "suggestions and overtures" about professional boxing.

The legislature, taking time out from the budget debate, gave second reading to a number of government bills designed mainly to abolish the two-per-cent tax on all professional athletic contests except wrestling and boxing. The bill also provides that the Athletic Commission be transferred from the treasury to the Education Department.

Mr. Frost said it was becoming increasingly difficult to distinguish amateur from professional sports and the tax was difficult to apply. Professional wrestlers were already assessed a 20-per-cent amusement tax.

Mr. Frost indicated that Fred Steele, secretary of the Commission would be taken from the department to succeed Syl Apps, former Toronto Maple Leafs hockey player who resigned recently.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver said there was a danger that in putting the Commission under the education department amateur sports not connected with schools would be neglected.

Gateman Faces Negligence Count As Two Men Die

Toronto, March 13 (CP)— Leo Jenkins, Canadian National Railways gateman, was scheduled to appear in court today on a charge of criminal negligence arising from the death of two men after level-crossing automobile-train collision in West Hamilton Friday.

The men, John C. Wilson, Jr., 52, president of the Carwill Transport Company, and Thomas Guy Watson, 44, his chief secretary-treasurer, died in hospital Friday night.

Police said the veteran gateman failed to lower the safety gate at the crossing. The car was struck 500 feet when struck by the Midland-Toronto diesel.

The two men, critically injured, were trapped in the car after it had been carried along by the locomotive and finally crushed against a coal car standing on a siding.

Walton suffered head injuries and compound fractures of both arms. Wilson, who received a fractured skull and suffered from shock, did not recover consciousness before he died.

Nurse Highly Praised

Police had high praise for nurse Dorcas Bolton of the Victorian Order of Nurses, who gave emergency treatment.

"How she managed to squeeze through that small opening to get at the two men I'll never know."

While Miss Bolton attended the men, a rescue crew of citizens, railwaymen and police used crowbars to pry apart wreckage in order to get them out.

Jenkins told police he did not hear the second alarm bell which sounds as a approaching train. He said he saw no car drive onto the track and did not hear a crash "but as soon as I saw the train I put the gates down."

GOVT. WEATHERS TEST OF STRENGTH BY 97-89 VOTE

Two Other Opposition Motions Easily Defeated

Ottawa, March 12 — (CP) — The government Friday weathered the first major test of strength in the Commons since Prime Minister St. Laurent took over the leadership last November. It defeated a combined opposition 97 to 89 on what was tantamount to a vote of confidence.

Only J. L. Gibson (Ind-Comox-Alberni) joined the Liberals in supporting a motion, which in a word-about-way, sounded the real feelings of the Commons on the government's legislative program as outlined in the Speech from the Throne.

The motion was to adopt the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The victory, which won Mr. St. Laurent a thunderous, lengthy ovation from the Liberal benches came on the heels of the easy defeat of two non-confidence motions sponsored by opposition parties. The opposition parties split on these motions because of their contents.

By a vote of 190 to 13, members of the Special Credit committee which asked the Chamber to declare unanimously that it supports the government's "studied indifference" to the Social Credit Party's Credit theories as a remedy for the country's economic ills.

9,600-Mile Flight Made by Bomber

Fort Worth, Texas, March 13 (AP) — A B-36 super-bomber streaked at Carswell air base here at 7.57 a.m. (CST) today after a 9,800-mile non-stop flight, the longest ever made in a B-36. The plane was not refuelled in flight and had only enough fuel left when it landed, Carswell air base said.

The plane landed with fuel to spare because of failure today of two of its six engines.

Maj. John D. Hertlett directed the flight, which exceeded by 227 miles the record set last year by a piloted bomb run from Fort Worth to Honolulu and return which he headed on that trip.

Bartlett said four of the engines stopped after they left when the plane landed, but two engines failed early today and because the plane was cruising at best speed well, the plane was ordered to land.

U.K. Must Produce Much More Wheat Or Expand Imports

Lincoln, England, March 12 — (CP)—Agriculture Minister Tom Williams said Dec. 6 in a farmers' meeting "many millions of dollars more must be spent the North American wheat unless home production is improved.

In an address to the farmers' union, Williams said that three-quarters of the country's wheat and flour imports come from dollar countries.

"Our aim for the crop year 1951-2 is a total acreage of 2,- 750,000," he said.

Nova Scotia Suffers Heavily in Ice Storm, Power Lines are Down

By ARNOLD AGNEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax, March 12 (CP)—Galewhipped rain lashed Nova Scotia today as maritimers struggle to repair battered communications and power lines knocked out in Friday's ice storm.

Northeast gales up to 80 miles an hour are buffeting the southern half of the St. Lawrence area.

Poor weather conditions, like the last week, is expected to continue during the weekend.

Gale warnings are displayed in all coastal areas.

Communications were paralyzed Friday as ice-coated telegraph and telephone lines toppled. Halifax was cut off from the outside world for hours.

Line crews, battling in the face of wind-driven drizzle, continued to patch communication lines, linking Halifax with the northern Nova Scotia, ice on telephone wires between Amherst and Truro was two inches thick. In one section, 20 poles toppled under the ice and falling trees felled other wires.

In Charlottetown, members of the provincial legislature were kept at home by the storm. The island's capital city was cut off from the world for hours, and telegraph and telephone lines were re-established last night.

Army signals jumped into the breach to move commercial, Canadian Press and service messages until late Friday night. Charlottetown newspapers received most of their news through the day over

Possible Mediterranean Pact Said Making Russia Anxious

By EDWIN B. GREENWALD

Ankara, March 12 (AP)—Russia seems to be treading quiet but anxious, inquiring steps possible formation of a Mediterranean defensive alliance that would be linked to the projected North Atlantic Pact.

There were strong indications that Russian Ambassador Alexei Lavrishchev was cool toward the proposed Mediterranean agreement in his conference and talks with envoys of other powers.

Diplomatic sources said Lavrishchev left Ankara three weeks with Ambassadors of France, Italy, Great Britain, Greece and, perhaps, the United States. American sources withheld comment.

Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak of Turkey said he had no information that Lavrishchev was talking with Turkish officials about a Mediterranean regional treaty.

Diplomatic sources in London said earlier that Russia had asked the Turkish Foreign Office about Turkey's interest in such an agreement. Russia and Turkey have a common border of more than 300 miles.

Turkish officials so far back at the proposed alliance formation of a regional security belt in the eastern Mediterranean area.

The British informants said Turkey told Russia in reply that the suggested arrangement would be aimed at securing peace, and not at starting World War III.

Russia is expected to come into strong opposition against any alliance that will link Greece and Turkey with the Western powers.

A Mediterranean alliance presumably would include Greece and Turkey, Britain, France and Italy. Both Turkey and Greece now receive military aid from the United States as part of the "Truman program" to check Communism.

Ice on Wings Given as Cause Of Siple Crash

Ottawa, March 12. (CP)—A board of inquiry on Friday reported that icing conditions caused the crash of a transport near Maxville, Ont., last Feb. 13, which took the lives of Wallace C. Siple, his wife and five children, of Beaconsfield, Que.

The board added that another incidental cause of the crash could have been pilot's action in continuing the flight without deicing equipment into an area of freezing rain.

The report of the board said that while the aircraft was carrying three more persons than the maximum permitted, it was certificate of airworthiness, it could not be considered overloaded since five of the passengers were children.

The findings said the lift on the plane was not affected somewhat and the formation of ice on the wings and other surfaces and that the performance of the propellers not reduced as well. This forced Siple to attempt to land the aircraft, the board said.

"The fact that the landing was attempted at a point where the aircraft was heavily weighed with ice and the forward visibility of the windshield restricted, caused the aircraft to strike the ground in a steep attitude."

The board said it found no evidence that the engine or controls were not functioning properly and added that there was no evidence that the aircraft caught fire before it struck the ground.

Siple, 32-year-old experienced trans-Atlantic ferry pilot, who rose from a Norwich, Ont., grocery boy, to prominent aircraft executive, was flying his family to Montreal from Norwich. The plane landed at Ottawa Airport for refuelling and took off at 7:05 p.m. The crash occurred 15 minutes later.

Mrs. Siple had the plane caught fire in mid-air and plummeted to the ground in flames. However the findings of the board discounted this.

Will Take Court Action Against Western Bakeries

Ottawa, March 13 (CP)—Court action will be launched against a combine alleged to be operating in the baking industry of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The prosecutions, announced by Justice Minister Garson in the Commons Friday, result from the finding of a combines investigation commission that five western companies and two trade associations violated anti-combines law.

Government sources said later the charges probably would be pursued in the Supreme Court of Alberta at Calgary.

The investigation commission under H. Carl Goldenberg of Montreal reported to the government in January that the companies had tried to control all bakeries in the three western provinces, resulting in the progressive elimination of price competition.

Companies cited in the report were Canada Bread Company Ltd., McGavin, Ltd. (Alberta), McGavin, Ltd. (British Columbia), Canadian Bakeries, Ltd., and Weston Bread and Cake (Canada), Ltd.

Trade associations said to be involved in the combine were the Alberta Master Bakers' Association, Inc., and the Master Bakers' Association (Vancouver). The commissioner said the companies were dominating the bakers' associations.

Government law officers now are considering a prosecution in the case of the companies found guilty, where a combines investigation commission last year reported that a combine existed.

Horse and Cutter Halt Alongside Parking Meter

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 12 (CP) — A horse and cutter appeared on a downtown street Friday to prove that winter is not over yet. With close to a foot of snow covering the district, one Niagara resident had decided a sleigh was simpler than driving a motorcar through heavy snow. The horse was found tethered to one of many vacant parking meters.

TWO-WEEK COAL SHUTDOWN IN U.S. STARTS MONDAY

Boyd Appointment Arouses Lewis Ire

Washington, March 12 (AP) — A two-week coal shutdown will start in the country United States Monday as John L. Lewis' latest protest against President Truman's selection of James Boyd as director of the Bureau of Mines.

Lewis' announcement Friday stirred swift demands in Congress to keep a big chip against major strikes in the impending American labor law. But it created little concern over the loss of fuel.

An abnormal 45-day supply is on hand: About 70,000,000 tons of bituminous coal. A 60-day backlog is considered normal.

Technically, Lewis described the walkout of about 400,000 members of the United Mine Workers as a "holiday" rather than a "work stoppage" or "strike."

Lewis announced Friday that the 100,000 miners in the Pittsburgh area would be idle for two days, the mine chief said, will be working the 1,000 miners added and more than 50,000 injured last year.

The move was another in a long series of Lewis attacks on Boyd, former Democratic Party appointee to the post in 1946. Boyd's backers claim the director, former Dean of the Colorado School of Mines, has an excellent two-year record in the position and that deaths in the mines have dropped since he took office.

All Roads Clear In Province

Toronto, March 12 — (CP)— The Ontario Highways Department announced today all roads in the province are open again following a bright sun and mild fall in the south. However, highways along the Ottawa River from Niagara Falls to Fort Erie still are blanketed with snow.

Winter officials, meanwhile, forecast a two-inch snowfall for the Lake Simcoe and Muskoka districts, accompanied by moderate drifting.

PERFUME CHEMISTRY AUTHORITY

Toronto, March 13 (CP)— John R. Ferrell, 58, an authority on perfume chemistry died at his home here Friday. Born in Hamilton he was formerly head of a Toronto perfumery oils and extracts for perfumes.

"Six Silent Women" from Russia Given Big Play by London Press

By JOAN CAPRON

London, March 12. (Reuters) —Six Russian housewives, who live on a 10-acre collective in Asia, have probably received more space in London's newspapers since their arrival three days ago by refusing to talk to the cheery band of press-conference hungry interviewers.

Their present reticence about themselves or their plans for life to them being dubbed the "six silent women" has not yet worked out only the familiar phrase "from curtain" but the "red flannel curtain" as well.

The London Star, Liberal daily, refers to them as "the six silent ones."

Entitled "let them talk", it said:

"It seems that once again, the most ordinary and unpolitical of human activities is enveloped by the Soviet government with some highly charged significance.

"It was only a year since the Dynamos (the Russian soccer team which visited Britain four years ago.) Flying Fortress of running a kitchen seems to have The union is pushing and threatening to upset completely the sphere of influence of big business, the Catholic Church and the best people who have always run the town. The Catholic Church gives every appearance of accepting and collaborating with unionism.

"Every municipal election brings nearer the day when the unions will have a permanent and decisive majority on city council."

"The Catholic Church gives every appearance of accepting and collaborating with unionism," Prof. Hart said in a report.

Many observers of Windsor politics, of all parties, believed the church has been strengthened by C.C.F. in Windsor elections in recent years.

The visitors who are staying at the Russian Embassy, which have been telling reporters "Yes" when we take a photograph are only Russian) when taxis whisk them away. The reporters in turn have been saying "Yes" in the same expression dauntly.

The "nyazdo" is say" of the party's interpreter has been "Nyazdo" is say" of the party's interpreter has been unfortunately.

The deputation arrived Wednesday night by air, a day late because of bad weather. An international Women's Day, the committee of which is playing boycott.

A committee spokesman decided the housewives were issue orders from Moscow to say nothing.

Tiredness after their two days flying in bad weather was the reason given for their silence.

The women include Madame Tatiana Zueva, minister of Cultural institutions and a deputy to the Supreme Soviet. She leads the deputation.

Social Upheaval Found in Windsor By Sociologists

Unions Said Taking Place of Church And Other Services

Toronto, March 12 (CP)—A sociologist reports that Windsor, Ont., is undergoing a social upheaval in which labor unions—not the church or the traditional social influences in the civic affairs of the bustling border city.

Prof. G. W. M. Hart, noted Canadian sociologist, after a two-year study of Windsor conditions, reported in the current issue of the Canadian Journal of Economics and Political Science that trade unions now are the most potent authority in the city.

The professor said that the impact of the unions had led to a split in Windsor's 100,000 citizens —violently for or against labor. There are 35,000 unionists, and 18,000 of them are members of the United Auto Workers Union. (C.I.O.).

Now professor of sociology at the University of Saskatchewan, Hart conducted his Windsor investigation under auspices of the University of Toronto's Institute of Industrial Relations.

He found that the labor union, in this case the U.A.W., had so thoroughly organized the city that "it has been serving without the usual $10,000-a-year salary.

"Labor unions are well suited for the post because he has never had a chance to assert himself. Boyd's backers claim the director, former Dean of the Colorado School of Mines, has an excellent two-year record in the position and that deaths in the mines have dropped since he took office.

THREE GUNMEN HUNTED AFTER $25,000 HOLDUP

One Thug Shot and Killed by Employees After Freeing Bandit

Montreal, March 12 (CP) Three gunmen were the object of a city-wide search here today following the $25,000 holdup of an east-end tobacco wholesaler's office Friday night and a shooting in which one thug was killed.

The fourth member of the gang, which broke into the establishment of A. Dibord Company at 9:05 p. m., was identified at the city morgue early today as 28-year-old Orella Larose.

Police said the dead gunman, killed after failing to halt after a police challenge to arrest, had apparently used hold on his fingers in an attempt to screw off the safe.

Larose was believed to be the safe-cracker, police hearing the word "Halifax" were found on his body.

The four gunmen broke into the office just as company president Albert Dibord and two employees were counting the day's receipts.

Brandishing masks and armed with small calibre automatics, two of the four men took up positions inside the office while the other two ordered Dibord and the employees to raise their hands over their heads. They were forced into a small cupboard and were locked.

Then the gunmen rifled the open safe and escaped by a back stairway.

Nichols and Ephage Gauvreau, assistant accountant, broke out from the cupboard, took pistols from a drawer and pursued the bandits into the street, firing a dozen shots at them.

Police were notified and soon after two radio police cars were on the scene.

Following traces in the snow, Constables Napoleon Lavalee and Raoul Brossard cornered one of the suspects in the rear yard of a house on Dorion Street, D'Ary Street, a few hundred feet away. Lavallee said he fired one shot in the air, warning the suspect to surrender. When the man refused, Lavallee said he fired at him from a garage roof and saw the bandit trying to escape over a fence. He fired another shot and the bandit fell on his face.

TRANSPLANTED BERRY PLANTS PRODUCE FRUIT IN HOUSE

It may have been an unusually mild winter but the current weather bent, little to do with the strawberries which Richard Marcelle of Point Anne has at his home.

Last November Dick lifted a few strawberry plants from his garden and transplanted them in a can which was taken into the house for the winter. Cooled by the kitchen warmth the plants blossomed during December with the green berries rapidly forming. Late in January the fruit ripened and over the weekend Mr. Marcelle expects to have fresh berries for his Sunday dinner.

DISTRICT FARMERS WELCOME SNOWFALL

District farmers heartily welcomed the seven inches of snow which fell over the Quinte area Thursday night and Friday, stating it would give protection to fields of fall grain and meadows.

Bare fields, it was pointed out, are in grave danger of damage from alternate thawing and freezing which serves to kill out meadows and fall wheat and rye.

The forthcoming maple syrup season will also benefit by the fall of snow as a good depth of snow is needed in the woods to prolong the syrup making season.

SEVERAL DEER VICTIMS OF WILD DOG PACK

Victims of a pack of wild dogs, several deer carcasses have been found in the vicinity of Haliburton, according to a Peterborough report.

Residents removed the carcasses all but one which was left for bait for the killer pack. A trap was set nearby and the next morning a large dog bearing wolfish physical traits was caught. The following morning another of the marauding pack was trapped.

Belleville Cage Team Wins Round From Kingston

Pappas' Billiards cage team will meet Peterborough "Marshalls" in the semi-final series for the Intermediate "B" crown of the Ontario Basketball Association, the first game to be played in the Lakeview Club Saturday with the return game here some time next week.

Last night in Kingston the locals were defeated by the Prince of Wales Regiment team by a score of 33-32 in the second game of the series but captured the round through the 44-35 win on Friday night.

The team made a good start in their Kingston game and were ahead 14-4 in the first quarter and 20-11 at half time. The three-quarter score was 28-23 and the locals, weakened after their hard game here and the long drive to Kingston, tired under pressure and were outscored in the final quarter 10-4. Stafford was again the top man with 11 points for the team and Watkin and Faulkner each had six. Lapoint, Faulkner and Buchanan had two each with Allan Galbraith scoring three.

This is the best showing a Belleville cage team has made for some years and everyone is pulling for a win or close score in the Peterborough game so that the return game the locals will have the advantage of their home floor to run up the count.

Diesels' Protest Not Lodged

Rumor extant yesterday to the effect that the C.N.R. diesels hockey team had lodged a protest with the OHA asnext Saturday's game, disallowing a Diesel goal in the first game with Kingston Navy, and had been awarded a replay, are entirely without foundation, the Diesels' management announced today.

Warned of the futility of lodging the protest by OHA officials, the Diesels' master minds reconsidered the matter with the result the matter was dropped.

"After all," quoth Manager "Red" Carson, "we prefer to win our games on the ice."

J. A. Thomson Dies Suddenly In Toronto

John Arnold Thomson, well-known architect of this city, died early Saturday morning at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. G. Alistair Elliott, 114 Glenrale Blvd., Leaside, Toronto.

The funeral was held in Toronto yesterday for the purpose of conferring with the Department of Welfare with regards to plans for the new Hastings County Home. He was taken suddenly ill upon arrival at the Union Station and was conveyed to the home of his son-in-law. The cause of death was a heart seizure.

To many friends in this city the announcement of the death of J. Arnold Thomson will bring sincere feelings of regret. He came to this city in 1924 and since that time he took a prominent part in the life of the city. He stood high in his profession and was the architect on many important building undertakings in the city and throughout Central Ontario including the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School. Prior to taking up residence here he resided in Ottawa and was the Chief Draughtsman in the Architectural Branch of the Public Works Department. He was quite prominent in the musical life of this city.

Born in Ayr, Ont.

J. Arnold Thomson was born in Ayr, Ontario, and was a son of a Presbyterian Minister, the late Rev. J. Gibb Thomson and his wife the late Martha Kate Thomson. In this city he was a member of the Bridge Street Presbyterian Church and fraternally he was a member of Civil Service Lodge A.F. & A.M., Ottawa. He resided on Dundas Street East and for the past three or four months ago he purchased the property at 151-153 Bridge Street, and took up residence there.

Surviving him are his wife, Eleanor (Fitzsimmons), two daughters; three daughters, Mrs. G. Alistair Elliott, Leaside; Civil Service Lodge A.F. & A.M., Ottawa. Churchill Says 1940 Letter To FDR His Most Vital

New York, March 12 — (CP)— Winston Churchill writes in his war memoirs that a 4,000-word letter he sent President Roosevelt Dec. 8, 1940, played a big part in the genesis of the American lend-lease program.

The second volume of the memoirs is being serialized in Canada by the Montreal Standard.

Churchill says the letter, written just a month after Roosevelt was elected to his third term, was one of the most important he ever wrote.

It reviewed the whole course of the war and told of Britain's serious financial plight, explaining that $4,500,000,000 in cash already had been paid the United States for arms and other supplies needed to carry on the war. Britain had only $2,000,000,000 in dollar resources left and the greater part of this was in investments not readily marketable, the letter said.

Wrong In Principle

"I believe," the letter continued, "you will agree that it would be wrong in principle and morally disadvantageous in effect if at the height of this struggle Great Britain were to be divested of all saleable assets, so that after the victory was won with our blood, civilization saved, and the time gained for the United States to be fully armed against all eventualities, we should stand stripped to the bone . . .

"We here should be unable, after the war, to purchase the large balance of imports from the United States over and above the volume of our exports which is agreeable to your thrifty and industrial economy. Not only should we in Great Britain suffer cruel privations, but widespread unemployment in the United States would follow the curtailment of American exporting power."

The letter reached Roosevelt while he was cruising in the Caribbean on the cruiser Tuscaloosa, Churchill writes. He says Harry Hopkins, presidential aide, told him later that Roosevelt read and reread the letter, then sat brooding about it for two days.

The idea of lend-lease already had originated in the Treasury Department with the strong backing of Secretary Henry Morgenthau, the wartime prime minister says.

He adds it was never a question of Roosevelt not knowing the help he wanted to do, but rather a question of whether he could carry the country and Congress with him on the revolutionary proposal.

News Notes From Tweed

Tweed — John White of Roslin while working for W. H. Chisholm suffered a badly lacerated nose and forehead on Wednesday when he was struck by a plank.

The accident occurred while he was loading lumber on the C.P.R. siding in Tweed. Mr. White was taken to the office of Dr. M. G. Dales where seven stitches were necessary to close the wounds.

Fingers Injured

Walter (Joe) Courtney had the fingers of his right hand injured when they were accidentally drawn into a machine at the Central Bakery. Fortunately no bones were fractured by the injury.

Cuts Foot With Axe

While working in the woods Melvin Andrews of Flinton had the misfortune to cut his foot badly with an axe. Eight stitches were required to close the wound and the foot was placed in a cast. He was attended by Dr. M. G. Dales.

Fractures Hip

Mrs. E. Wallace, Arthur Street, had the misfortune to fall at her home fracturing her hip. She was removed by ambulance to Belleville General Hospital for X-rays. Mrs. Wallace's friends in Tweed will regret to learn of her misfortune.

Personals

Mr. C. C. Atton left on Thursday to rejoin his family in Riviera Beach, Florida, where he will spend the next few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, who have been in Florida since January will return home at the end of this month.

The many friends of Mrs. W. A. Countryman who is a patient in Bellevile General Hospital will be pleased to know she is greatly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Price and family spent the weekend with friends and relatives in Peterborough and Markworth.

Harmony Club

The March meeting of the Harmony Club of St. John's United Church met on Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowers' group in charge.

Mrs. Barnett read the Scripture lesson which was followed by a reading given by Mrs. C. B. Clark. The guest speaker of the evening was Mrs. F. F. Downing who gave a vivid word picture of her teaching experiences at the mission school of the Blood Indians in southern Alberta. She traced the history of this tribe from the days of the first unscrupulous traders who came into the area from the U.S., to the present days of the Blood reserve.

Samples of bead and leather work by some of her former pupils were on display.

After Mrs. Downing's fine address, a sing-song of Irish airs, led by R. H. Osborne and accompanied by Mrs. Ken Belch, was enjoyed, and delightful lunch completed the evening's entertainment.

C. Cassidy Heads Legion

At a meeting of Tweed Branch of the Canadian Legion held recently in the Veterans Hall, Mr. Carlie Cassidy was elected president. Other officers are: Immediate Past President, Len A. Taylor; 1st Vice President, Terrance Rashotte; 2nd. Vice President, Burton Yarker; Secretary Crossen-urer, Jack Beare; Sergeant-at-Arms, Earl Drummond; Executives, Norman Champagne, Ray Langevin, Oscar Thurston. Two more executive members are to be appointed by the new president.

WASHINGTON LIONS DRUBBED BY BUFFALO

Washington, March 13 — (CP) — A little more than 7,000 fans Friday night watched Washington Lions take an 8-3 drubbing from Buffalo Bisons in an American Hockey game between the tail-end clubs of the eastern and western divisions.

Lionel McKay tallied twice and Floyd Curry, Joe Levandoski, Tom Cooper, Les Douglas, Tom Johnson and Ab Demarco completed the Buffalo total. Tom Forgie, Wm. Mommens and Bryan Hextall counted for the losers.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

REGULARITY

Back in 1886, George B. Grinnell of "Forest and Stream" wrote a rousing editorial about the sparrow hawk. It should live for the sake of the millinery business. He complained bitterly that barn swallows were especially aimed against. Bird lovers decided that something must immediately be done about it. Thus it happened that barn swallows were responsible for the founding of the first Audubon Society, the most important organization for the protection of birds.

Beautiful, useful, and at times almost as domesticated as hens are barn swallows should be placed in birdland's class A. When sun strikes their spotless blue steel gilds and dip through the air, the top-sides shine steel-blue, with a greenish tinge to wings and deeply-forked tails. Occasionally there is a little more brilliance to the blue of the male, and the reddish chestnut of his underparts is more pronounced than his wife's, but often the two are indistinguishable. Their tails, which originated the term "barn tow-tail," are characteristic, and add to the gracefulness of their sweeping flight. No wonder poets have for centuries sung the praises of the swallows!

Their mouths, with wide gapes and short bills, make perfect shovels for scooping up flying insects as the birds turn and wheel overhead. Their nesting habits with which barn swallows appear at San Juan Capistrano Mission in California on March 19 and leave on October 23 is amazing. These dates have been kept, so say the inhabitants, since 1776, with remarkably few exceptions. They arrive when flies are available, and must be off to their winter home in Argentina before cold deprives them of their food. Even their conditions between California and Canada are so precise, four that their coming here varies somewhat, but we may expect them about May 1, and we can probably see the last of them by mid-September.

Barn swallows like to live in colonies, placing their nests in a row along a beam or rafter of an old barn. Modern structures rarely have suitable ledges, consequently these birds are on the decrease. A nest is made of mud pellets piled as a man would pile bricks for a house. The pair that built under our verandah roof used to feed their babies while we watched from a few feet off; but when a stranger mounted the steps, we felt ashamed at the way they flew about scolding and fussing. Even after the young ones could fly, our house remained their headquarters, and the nest their nightly resting place.

STRAIN FOR FREEDOM

Lisdemore, Oxfordshire, England — Corporal Michael Caves, 22, who committed suicide after spending five years in a prison camp was said at an inquest to have "found the strain of freedom too much." His headless corpse was discovered on a railway.

Fear of Worries

Once Congress had accepted lend-lease it seemed immediately the whole position, Churchill writes, it made Britain free to make long-term plans for all her vast war needs without having to worry about repayment, he explains, and it was full recognition that Britain's continued fight against the Hitler system was in the vital interest to the United States.

Churchill says he learned of Roosevelt's 1940 re-election with indescribable relief, although both Roosevelt and Wendell Wilkie, the Republican candidate, had come out squarely for aid to Britain.

"No newcomer into power could possess or soon acquire the knowledge and experiences of Franklin Roosevelt," Churchill writes.

"He could equal his commanding gifts. My own relations with him have been most carefully fostered by me, and seemed already to have reached a degree of confidence and friendship, which was a vital factor in all my thought.

"To close the slowly built-up comradeship, to break the continuity of all our discussions, to begin again with a new mind and experience, seemed to me a repellent prospect."

WINTER STRIKES MILDLY

Winter struck out with a more rugged and yet not too ungentle a hand on Thursday when across the country blew a storm of snow which was the nearest to a real storm of the winter now drawing to a close. March storms are often very rough, snow banks often mount high and roads are drifted in for miles in some seasons. But Thursday's demonstration was much gentler, though it did make for conditions of driving which caused a number of accidents through the hazards of the wet snow on the roads and slippery conditions.

Contrasted with Thursday's wintry blast, March storms have often been really lionlike. The lamblike characteristic which has marked all the present winter's progress was likely well sustained.

The mild turmoil of the elements at this time did not alarm anyone. In the country the snow was welcomed as a protection for the roots and for the moisture which it brought and which will prove a boon to the prospective crops which will be coming up everywhere once spring in earnest sets in.

With nine days to go to reach spring and but five to come to St. Patrick's Day there are days enough ahead for nature to make a change. But will those days run counter to the all-winter trend? Time will tell, even early April may tell.

But no one can look upon this year as a record. It has been moderate, but the oldest-timers in the city remember mid-winter scenes with the Bay of Quinte open and excursions held at Massassaga at Christmas. That was long ago but the fact is authentic. Yet no one necessarily wants a warm winter, which is opposite to our custom, which might mean disaster to crops. Few however will deny the pleasure of a mild winter if it does not bring a late spring and does not cause damage to the root crops and the harvests. One complaint which has been heard is that the lack of frost in the ground can interrupt operations on the ground even when the snow covers it.

Nine days and then it will be spring. Five days from now it will be St. Patrick's Day as good a line of demarcation between winter and springtide as the equinox itself.

THE KING'S MALADY

Throughout the Commonwealth and in other nations there will be raised the prayers for His Majesty King George who it is announced has had an operation performed on his throat in his right foot. Since the first news of the King's condition some months ago, his progress has been a matter of happiness to the people. His health is good.

The operation will not be a serious one according to the news reports from London. The physicians attending His Majesty state that conditions for a successful operation have been established as a result of his long rest. The King is a good patient and he has been of the greatest assistance to the physicians.

UPSET CUTTERS IN OLD DAYS

It once was a common experience, but we don't fancy it happens often now, a cutter upset. (We don't mean a meat cutter, but the comfortable winter vehicle that once was the principal means of winter transportation in Canada.)

Up at Meaford, however, it did happen, or almost did. Mr. Daniel Vaughan's horse ran away. He heaved his three children out into a snowbank so they wouldn't be hurt, and then jumped himself.

In the days when highways, as they are known today, didn't exist, pitch holes were frequent on winter roads. If one was driving along at a good clip and hit one of these holes in the snow, an upset cutter was possible. It also could happen when two vehicles met, each having to get off the narrow road to let the other pass.

Usually one didn't get hurt, if thrown clear of the cutter. You would get some down your neck, and up the legs of your pants, and in the wrists of your mitts. The buffalo robe would be unwrapped also.

The trick was, however, to keep a grip on the reins and get the horse or team of horses, stopped quickly. There always was the danger of them being frightened and running away. It was no fun chasing a team down the road when one was in heavy winter clothing, and carrying a robe or parcels. — Windsor Star.

DETERMINATION

It is easy to stop. It is hard to go on
When strength to continue the struggle seems gone,
But all progress was won by the stout hearts that stayed
To face hardship and blunder loss undismayed.

Not by ways that are easy men come to success.
Who ventures for triumph must courage possess.

There are failures to face, disappointments and years,
But the goal will be reached when the right man appears.

Grim failure's a teacher! From every retreat
Man learns as he ventures what not to repeat.
In that respect wiser than ever before,
Still seeking the true way, he sets out once more.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Just as we look back on the ignorance and superstition of our own folk a hundred years ago, so will our kin look back a hundred years hence, without, we hope, derision, on the ignorance and superstition in which we are now steeped.

Take the various way to open a few Saturday remarks upon the black-listed cuckoo. A hundred years from now, we will probably know all about the mysterious movements this bird. Right now, it is one of the items which puzzle which we are steeped in ignorance and superstition. Returning, of course, to our scientists as well as to Coo, Dick and Harry.

The cuckoo, a shy beautiful, furtive creature of tropical decidious and green, is one of the few birds that will eat the fearfully destructive tent caterpillar. It is distributed all across Canada from coast to coast, but mostly in the southern edges of the provinces.

Last year, near Matheson, in Northern Ontario, there was the outbreak of the forest tent caterpillar, a pest that builds a tent, but defoliates the trees just as avidly as the common tent caterpillar we know in the southern regions.

Now, that district was between a hundred and a hundred and fifty miles beyond the previously known range of the cuckoo. But into the plagued area came the cuckoos in large numbers.

How did they know of the presence of the tent caterpillars? Does a sense of smell function over hundreds of miles? Some observers suggest that such species of birds have far-ranging members of their tribes who explore well beyond the normal range. Can birds talk to each other, then?

Well we know, in our ignorance and superstition, is that when a plague of tent caterpillars breaks out, the cuckoos arrive from miles away, the cuckoos arrive.

Little Prince Charlie has been born in Buckingham Palace, and with the eyes of the world upon him, he will be trained to occupy a throne.

His training will not be easy for him to take, nor will it always be easy for his mentors to administer. He will have to be denied many things that others can have. He will have to learn how to accept adulation without becoming vain. He will memorize hundreds of rules governing the conduct of royal persons. His companions will be carefully selected for him, and when he comes to the age that he can choose a wife, he will have to choose from a limited number of royal women.

Even the luxury of the palace will pall on him. He will often look wistfully at the street gamins who have no thought for tomorrow and little for today and will wish he could be one of them.

But all this he has to pay for the high privileges and grave responsibility of the great office he must some day hold. It will do his soul good if he learns the craft of kingship well; it will do the world good if he acts an example of what good men are willing to deny themselves in order to serve their fellows.

N.S. Election 'In Due Time' Says Macdonald

(By The Canadian Press)

Premier Angus Macdonald told the Nova Scotia legislature yesterday that provincial election would be held "in due time." The 1945 election returned 38 Liberals and two C.C.F. members to the 39-seat House.

Premier Macdonald's statement came in the Throne Speech debate when he said that there only are we able to increase our expenditures, we are able at the same time to offer reductions in taxation."

Nova Scotia's three-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline used in farming, fishing and lumbering operations would be removed, he said.

Bad weather—a heavy snowstorm—kept many members away from the Prince Edward Island legislature at Charlottetown but the sparsely filled House gave second reading to two private members' bills. Third reading was given eight others, notably an amendment to the Agricultural Act regulating sale of fruits and vegetables by grade in cities and towns.

At Fredericton, the New Brunswick legislature received 14 private bills and 11 new petitions for bills, adjourning to Tuesday. Government legislation is expected to start flowing for introduction.

At Toronto, the Ontario House gave second reading to a bill abolishing a two-per-cent tax on certain transportation of goods contests, but treasurer Frost said the five per cent had not been levied on boxing and wrestling.

Renew Criticism

At Winnipeg, the Manitoba House heard renewed criticism of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's Edmon Prefontaine, who left Coalition ranks to become an independent Liberal. He said that partisan considerations had necessitated the appointment of the present 12-man cabinet, at the expense of the taxpayers. Premier D.L. Campbell said that it was true expenses were higher, but the government was getting more services than before.

At Edmonton, Minister C. C. Williams told the Saskatchewan legislature that he was informed there was a strike in the prairie feeling at the Pacific Northwest Progress Speech debate he said the only explanation was that "our citizens were energetically building." Their support of the prairie governments should have a protection of the rights enacted by British Columbia — succession duties from those private citizens who retired to the West Coast province. "Every cent of that money has been made in the prairies," he said.

Mr. Williams also suggested that it should be illegal to install high pre-election straw votes, mentioning the U.S. election. He said such polls could do no good, but could do a lot of harm.

Mackenzie's Columns Home-Rule Talk Heard Again In Scotland

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Ever since the union of Scotland and England in 1707 the Scots periodically have demanded home rule for their kingdom. (Of course Scotland is officially a "kingdom.") Now they're at it again.

To the uninitiated that would seem mighty tough on Mother England. And in truth it would be tough — if the Kilties were in dead earnest. But since the blood of the Highlands runs in my own veins I speak with some understanding when I voice doubts about the seriousness of the insurgency.

The Scots could walk out of union with England — if they wanted to. But they don't want to and for a jolly good reason.

You see, while Northern Scotland has great industries, the resources of the country as a whole are not all that a Scot could wish. Of course, there is the world's biggest shipyard on the Clyde; there are the big Scotch whisky distilleries and the Loch Ness monster.

Cost of Government High

But Scotland is far from wealthy. In fact it is unable to maintain a government for a country like Scotland. Even the filthy rich Britain is economically much more sound. At least so I am told by well-informed Scots.

The latest home-rule flurry is the third in 40 years. The "Scottish Society" has taken a sample of opinion in Scotland. Eighty-eight per cent of the registered electors voted with this result: In favor of parliament independent of England — 329; in favor of a Scottish Home Speech debate to handle home affairs — 1,505; not in favor of such a parliament — 122; only for tonsillotomy, not for tonsillectomy.

Tonsillotomy means simply cutting off a portion of the tonsil by means of the guillotine knife as the guillotine. Forty years ago it was the standard method of removing tonsils.

Tonsillectomy means removal of the entire tonsil—or the attempt to do so. Nine times out of ten something, my dear doctors, if you think I haven't the statics to substantiate the statement — more or less tonsil tissue remains in the throat after this operation.

The purpose of surgery in this instance is of course to remove the septic focus nidus or nest of germs which the physician properly assumes to be present in the tonsil. Various strains of staphylococci streptococci or pneumococci are commonly found present in such septic foci buried in the tonsil. So it may be argued that tonsillotomy, removing only part of the tonsil is likely to fail to "get" a deeply buried septic focus. But Dr. Seward Hemeon believes there is no assurance that the formidable tonsillectomy will accomplish the purpose either. Thousands of people have learned this the hard way.

On the other hand, thousands of people have experienced help by results from a tonsillectomy. Still, it is my firm conviction that tonsillectomy is unjustifiable for the purpose—clear the throat of infection—as well as tonsillotomy can.

Tonsillotomy is a minor operation, with a minimum of risk. Tonsillectomy is a major operation with far greater risk to the patient's life.

In my opinion tonsillectomy or an attempt to remove every bit of tonsil tissue is justified only when the case is diagnosed as tuberculosis, anthrax (malignant pustule), syphilis (chancre, primary sore) or cancer.

Child aged two years had had several attacks of tonsilitis. Pediatrist says her tonsils must come out as soon as she is completely recovered from the present attack. But a relative who is a nurse insists the child is too young to undergo tonsillectomy. The doctor says that if the child has many more such attacks she will develop rheumatic fever and/or maybe heart disease. The child's parents can't decide what to do.

In the studies made by Dr. Albert D. Kaiser of Rochester, N.Y., —by far the dependable statistics we have, I believe—among 1278 children who developed rheumatic fever 979 had not been subjected to tonsillectomy and 299 had been subjected to tonsillectomy.

The only inference I can draw from these statistics is that the pediatrist (baby or child specialist) is not warranted in even implying that tonsillectomy, now or at any time, will prevent development of rheumatic fever in any instance.

Let physicians, pediatrists, surgeons, throat specialists and parents ponder Dr. Kaiser's statistics carefully and decide if they can why nearly 400 among the thousands of such children observed by Dr. Kaiser a ten year period developed rheumatic fever after their tonsils had been removed.

I cannot with conscience say that this child should not have surgical tonsillectomy. In the way my own child I'd leave the decision to a physician in whose judgment I had confidence. But only for tonsillotomy, not for tonsillectomy.

TONSILLITIS AND RHEUMATIC FEVER

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Alcoholarism

Man aged 43 has a hard time getting to sleep. So he claims he drinks to sleep. He is very nervous and his drinking makes him very harsh toward wife and children. (M. C.)

Answer—An alcoholic always finds a reason for drinking, no matter whether the reason is logical or not. If you can persuade the large man to get in touch with Alcoholics Anonymous (consult telephone book for no. A. A.—group in your vicinity) and attend a meeting, that may be the means of getting him back where he belongs and in his home. (A. F. D.)

Answer—Avoid the tense, calms the nervous, improves the circulation, carries the restless off to sleep. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for Health Pamphlet on Daily Breathing.

Dandruff and Falling Hair

I have found articles about every conceivable health subject but never dandruff, but never anything about dandruff and falling hair. I have very much so. (R. B.)

Answer — Send twenty-five cents for my pamphlet on Dandruff envelope for booklet the Scalp and Hair.

Two Children Burned to Death Near Pefferlaw

Pefferlaw, Ont., March 13 (CP) — Two newly - arrived Polish children died Friday when fire of unknown origin destroyed a suburban tourist cabin in this county village, 50 miles north of Toronto.

The children, twelve-year-old Margaret Olijnyk and her three-year-old brother, Nicholas, had been left alone by their mother, Mrs. Margaret Olijnyk who returned from a shopping trip to find the cabin in flames.

When the blaze died out, one of the children was found in the ashes with the other was on the charred floor.

Bill Villneff, who manages the camp area here in which a large group of European displaced persons live along the banks of the Pefferlaw River, said he spoke with two other men when he heard the mother's screams. The best he could make out they said the cabin was impossible.

The children's father, Dimitro Olijnyk, a workman with the Ontario Hydro Commission, was unable to be reached when he returned from work.

The couple met and married in a displaced persons camp where later both children were born.

TODAY'S TALK

OUT OF FASHION

It is strange how we become accustomed to custom, or fashion, and accept it as right and proper if we don't if we act, or even think, natural. We are looked upon as queer, strange, if we, of course, we are. This would be a dull world, and a lonely world, if we would but act and think in a natural manner — the way we were born to.

There is an old adage that tells us to make the most of what nothing of the kind. Often they are discouraging when to be a snob or a boaster. Style and neatness are often strangers. It is not a crime

Bd. of Education Discusses Change

Stirling—A special meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday night when Mr. A. W. McGuire, K.C., inspector of public schools, was present and discussed the proposed changes at the high school for the accommodation of the beginners in the public school pupils, with the members.

Mr. McGuire advised the board that the department of education didn't approve of the present arrangements for these pupils on the third storey of the high school building and that the proper proposal to construct a covered fire escape, and redecorate, and relight the classrooms. As a temporary move, he suggested that one of the high school grades be moved to the third floor, and the smaller pupils to the ground floor.

He further suggested that the board take under consideration the erection of an addition to the present public school so that all public school pupils would be located in the one building.

After a lengthy discussion the board decided to follow the suggestion of Mr. McGuire, and the property committee was asked to interview the village council relative to the proposed addition to the public school.

During the evening, several fathers dropped in to see how the boys were progressing in their work. This interest is appreciated very much by the teachers.

Six more boys took their tenderfoot tests, they were Howard Myers, Jimmy McIntosh, John Anderson, Rick Smith, Ronnie Woodbeck and Bobby Bird.

Due to the solemn nature of the Scout investiture only three boys are allowed to go through it in one evening as a repetition tends to lighten the gravity of the occasion. The boys drew lots to see who were the lucky ones.

Cancer Society Seeks $500,000 For Year's Work

Opening a month's campaign on April 1, the Canadian Cancer Society will seek $500,000 to carry on research work, the extension of diagnostic and treatment facilities, educational work, and service to cancer patients in Ontario, it is announced by Dr. Bruce Taylor, provincial president.

"Funds are urgently required for the promotion of research in Ontario into the cause of cancer, and for the provision of fellowships to enable qualified workers to carry on research projects" the president stated.

Need Extra Space

"Six of the eight cancer treatment centres now being assisted by the Ontario Cancer Research and Treatment Foundation must have larger quarters, and while government grants will be made to defray the costs of diagnosis and treatment they cannot be used for clinic construction. The clinic at the Toronto General Hospital is one of the eight requiring extra space, and some of the money raised in the April campaign will help to provide this space," Mr. Taylor pointed out.

Free Dressings

"In the last year, the Ontario Branch of the Society provided more than 200,000 free cancer dressings to needy patients and arranged for transportation of many patients to treatment clinics and hospitals" Mr. Taylor said. Cancer patients, being treated in their own homes frequently require hundreds of dressings, and many of them cannot afford to purchase the essential requirements. The Ontario Branch furnishes such dressing free of charge.

The Society believes that every citizen can perform a real public service by helping to carry on the work which may eventually result in a cure for the dread disease which takes thousands of Canadian lives yearly. Contributions may be sent to local units or to Ontario headquarters, P. O. Box 459, Toronto 1.

Cut Postal Rates On U.K. Gift Parcels

Ottawa, March 12. (CP)—A "substantial" reduction in the postage rates on gift parcels to the United Kingdom was announced today by Postmaster-General Bertrand in the Commons.

Effective April 1, the new rates are: 81 cents on parcels from one to five pounds; $1 from five to 10 pounds; $1.50 from 10 to 15 pounds, and $2 from 15 to 20 pounds.

The current rates for these classifications are $3 cents, $1.50 $3 and $3.00, respectively.

The new tariffs apply only to gift parcels containing non-perishable food products discarded wearing apparel and soap. They should be plainly marked "gift parcels".

CROWS COMPLICATE GOLF

London — (CP) — Players on Finchley, North London, golf courses are having their games spoiled by crows, which swoop down and carry off the golf balls.

WHY PUT OFF IMPROVING YOUR FARM AND HOME?

With improved farm equipment coming on the market, Canadian farmers look forward to fewer headaches and higher profits. Their wives, too, hope for new labor-saving devices in the home. But many folk lack the necessary cash to buy their share of these modern improvements.

Henry Becker, local Bank of Montreal manager, was described ing yesterday the way thousands of farmers overcome this problem every year.

"These men know improved business is to increase present efficiency and comfort, as well as future profits, with a B. of M. Farm Improvement Loan," Mr. Becker explained.

"With an interest rate of only five per cent, no other charges, and easy repayment terms, these loans make possible a convenient, inexpensive investment in increased production and easier living."

Whether it's for a tractor or a washing-machine, a new building or road repairs, Mr. Becker invites farmers to see him now about the farm and home improvements they want most.—(Advt.)

FRANKFORD

Frankford—Sorry to hear that Roy Sharpe has been ill this past week.

Mr. Fred Stuckey spent the supper hour Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lodmore.

Mrs. L. M. Sharpe suffered a fractured hip, when she fell on the ice on Mill Street Thursday afternoon. Friends wish her a successful and speedy recovery.

The regular monthly meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the Frankford United Church will be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Ottenbreit on Monday evening.

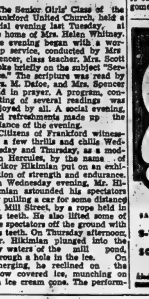
Final preparations are being made for the presentation of the Frankford Young People's play, "Raggedy Man" to be presented in Rose-Lowery Hall, Monday and Tuesday, March 21 and 22.

Senior Girls' Social Evening

The Senior Girls' Class of the Frankford United Church, held a social evening last Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. Hailey Whitney. The evening began with a worship service, conducted by Mrs Spencer, class teacher, Mrs. Scott spoke briefly on the subject "Service." The scripture was read by Mrs. M. Dafoe, and Mrs. Spencer lead in prayer. A program, consisting of several readings was enjoyed by all. A social evening, and refreshments made up the balance of the evening.

Citizens of Frankford witnessed a few thrills and chills Wednesday and Thursday, as a modern Hercules, by the name of Krikor Hiklinian put on an exhibition of strength and endurance. On Wednesday evening, Mr. Hiklinian astounded his spectators by pulling a car for some distance on Mill Street, by a rope held in his teeth. He also lifted some of the spectators off the ground with his teeth. On Thursday afternoon, Mr. Hiklinian planned into the icy waters of the mill pond, through a hole in the ice. On emerging, he reclined on the snow covered ice, munching on an ice cream cone. The performance attracted a large crowd of adults and children. Mr. Hiklinian's only regret was that it wasn't a colder day.



Women's Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of the Frankford United Church Women's Auxiliary was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. E. Rombaldt. The president, Mrs. J. Finnigan opened the meeting. The theme for the meeting was "Responsible Womanhood." Mrs. J. Finnigan read several items on the theme, including the "Mother's Creed." Mrs. Harry Silagsrland read the Scripture.

The president welcomed all visitors. Minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The treasurer's report was given, add roll call showed an attendance of over forty. A business discussion took place, on several items, including a banquet to which the W.A. will cater, for the Canal Men and their wives, to be held in the near future.

The program was as follows — A reading by Mrs Harry Montgomery, entitled "My Prayer." A reading, "The Shamrock" by Mrs. Budd Patrick. A reading, "A Prayer" by Mrs George Montgomery. Mrs. Fred Charlesworth read a poem, "Friends." A reading, "Ingredients," was given by Mrs. Bert Bush. Gay Bonisteel favored with a piano solo. The Mizpah Benediction was repeated, to close the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. F. E. Bonisteel, Mrs. Bleecker and Mrs. Herrington.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A party in her honor, before she sails abroad to marry.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance is in the Navy, and is at present stationed in Germany. . . I am sailing in a few weeks to be married there. My sisters would live to give me a farewell party, somewhat in the form of a personal shower. And to be truthful I would very much appreciate a shower of this kind! What is your idea of such a plan . . . would it be proper?

Bride-to-be

I do wish you could be given a bridal shower sometime before you set sail on your romantic journey . . . but I do wish it could be given by a group of your intimate friends, not by your sisters, for a family-planned shower is too obviously a bid for gifts. Couldn't you hint to your sisters that they hint to your closest friend or a group of your intimate friends to plan a "personal shower" for you, since this will be your only opportunity to have this kind of charming and memorable occasion? (Your sisters might offer to help, perhaps by suggesting they bring certain important food-items . . . " We will make and bring several of the special cakes that Mary loves, and we'll decorate them to look like wedding cakes.) Or if this plan can't be gracefully organized, your sisters might send invitations (not shower invitations) to all relatives and friends inviting them to come to "a party for Mary, to say 'Farewell' to her and to give the dearest wishes for her happiness". (I really think some such words would suggest gift-bringing. I hope so. . . and all good fortune to you!)

How older woman signs card sent to child

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If a friend of mine, a woman who is many years older than I and whom I have known for quite a long time, sends my daughter a card, should she sign herself "Mrs. Black", "Amy Black", or "A. B. Black"?

Wondering

The older woman should be most punctilious that she sign her name in proper form on the card to your daughter. . . otherwise she will be guilty of she is giving a younger person! Correctly she should sign Amy Black. Since it is never correct for a woman to sign a letter or card with a title before her name, it would be entirely incorrect for her to sign herself "Mrs. Black" or "Mrs. John Black". And the title, abbreviated "A. B. Black" is too business-like, generally reserved for signing notes to domestic employees, sometimes to telegrams, and often when ordering items or giving directions to, a salesperson in a shop or other retail store where one is known.

Should she wear a hat to the dining car?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you think that a woman should wear a hat into the dining car of a train? My sister thinks she should. I . . . I don't agree with her, for to me this seems unnecessary.

Gloria D.

Although I must agree with you that it is not necessary for a woman to wear a hat into the dining car, or to the lounge car or observation car.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Redwing? Then coddle yer skin

Everyone knows that overweight is a health menace. Or should know. For that reason old family Doc does not turn a deaf ear to a patient who yearns to regain the youthful silhouette. He will calculate her diet needs meticulously. He will arrange daily menus that will supply her with all the food elements necessary for well-being, but which will starve the fat cells, cause them to go off and die. She will have to give up the beloved cream puffs, resists the intake of pastry, pies and starches, but she will never be hungry because she will have plenty of good proteins to sustain her.

This method of reducing is the sensible one. The candidate for the willowy shape will take off six or seven pounds a month, and that is reducing fast enough. She will tell you that she has been eating practically nothing, but that's just her diet. Adipose tissue is formed by a surplus of calories that are not burned up through physical energy. The three prescription meals she gets each day will measure up to the required number of calories.

Diet alone will reduce, but a daily walk, if brisk enough, will help a little. Everyone needs a certain amount of outdoor life, be they fat or thin or betwixt-and-between.

There's no sense in getting a younger body and an older face

Even if reducing goes on slowly and gradually, the facial tissues must have extra-special attention. There's no sense in getting a young body and an older face. The dissolution of the fat cells on the face will cause the cutaneous covering to be too large, and, unless something is done to tone the underlying fibres, lines may form.

Preventive measure consist of generous lubrication with a heavy cream and the kind of massage movements that vitalize the cells and stimulate the blood streams so they will carry away tissues wastes and build new cells.

An ordinary cold cream is not suitable for these treatments. The emollient should be of the kind that offers resistance to manipulations.

After washing the face with a bland soap, rinsing with warm water and drying well, spread on the cream lightly, starting at the middle of the chin, and work down on the throat, along the jaw line from chin tip to ear lobes. Then the cream on the cheeks. Do circles over the forehead.

Place the first finger on the eyelid close to the nose; sweep out to the temple and do several circles there; coms back under the eye to starting point. That movement erases incipient turkey tracks.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A seriously postponed marriage

A very strange situation is described in a letter from a young woman who has been living with a man long enough to have two children by him, but has never yet taken the trouble to marry him.

It is not, of course, this particular situation that is curious, since many other misguided young women have chosen to live with men without benefit of a marriage ceremony. But the unusual angle in the case is the fact that this couple have been intending for many for some time but just never got around to it. Now, at long last, they wish to propose going through with the marriage ceremony no longer, but feel that things have become so involved that they need some advice on how to plan it.

Here is the story the girl tells: "For two years I went out with a fellow who worked in same office, as I did. He was living by himself, and so was I, and we soon were constantly in each other's company. We were so in love that we were lost without each other, and why we didn't get married then, I'll never know. . . Anyway, we just decided to get an apartment. . . We did, and I never thought two people could be so happy.

"We had been living together for a few months when I discovered I was going to have a baby. I was very upset about it, but my husband said he and two people could love each other more than we did, and told me if any of our married friends were half as happy as we were, and I had to admit they weren't. . . Finally we set a date to be married, choosing a date which would correspond to the one we had previously given out as that on which we were married. But when the baby was born, we had to postpone our plans. The following year when the same date arrived, I was in the hospital with my second child, and the next year on that date I was so sick we had to postpone the thing again.

"None of our family friends or the doctor have any idea that we are not married. They all think we were married when we told them we were.

"Now our 'anniversary' will be coming up soon, and this year we really intend to go ahead with our plans. We don't want to be married here, so we'd like to know where we can be married and just what we have to do. Since we've been together we've saved our money, and only last year we bought a house so we could have a good home in which to bring up our children. We've worked hard, and we've lived together, to make our house a home. Will you help us now, so we can continue?"

This whole things seems to me a most extraordinary one to be put off getting married so long merely for the sake of getting married on one particular date. Under all the circumstances, it seems to me that one date was just as good as another. Having deceived their family and friends for so long, and since they are not likely ever to reveal that they weren't married when they said they were, the matter of the date they chose seems a very minor consideration.

As I look at it, the important thing is for them to get married. If they don't want to do it in the place where they live, it should be a very simple matter to go to the nearest large city or for that matter, they can pick a city as far away as they like, take out a marriage license there and be married. No matter what the circumstances of any marriage may be, the procedure of obtaining a license and going through a ceremony is the same, wherever and whenever that ceremony may be held. The law does not stand itself to special conditions.

But it might well be to take the person who marries them into their confidence in order to try and insure that of their marriage is kept a secret.

HAS CHRISTMAS EVERY DAY

Woodland, Wash., March 11 — (AP) — The Christmas tree still glows for Albert Wyman, and every night his daddy brings home new gifts.

It's a wonderful life for a five-year-old.

But Albert doesn't know that last December doctors said he had about 30 days to live. He has acute lymphatic leukemia. Some night soon he will go to sleep, and in the night he'll die.

That's the outlook for Albert, the boy who has Christmas every day.

Mystery of Flight Across Atlantic Explained by Pilot

New York, March 13 (CP) — The difference in volume between the Imperial gallon and the U.S. gallon was what enabled Irish Schindler and a crew of eight men to make an unauthorized flight across the Atlantic from Halifax to the Azores last July, Schindler said today.

He was describing the mystery flight of a former U.S. bomber that led to international repercussions.

United States authorities charged that the plane was being flown illegally to Israel to aid that country in her fight against her Arab neighbor States.

Piloted by Schindler, the plane took off July 11 from Westchester County airport at Purchase, N.Y., and made a forced landing the same day at Halifax. United States authorities ordered the plane flown back here, but arrested Schindler and his crew flew to the Azores, eluding "no plane ties was sent to escort them home.

The 33-year-old pilot was interviewed in his apartment in Jackson Heights, within earshot of planes flying in and out of La Guardia Airport.

Small Reserve

He said authorities at Halifax "let in the former flying fortress what they thought was only enough gasoline to fly it back to Westchester County airport, plus a small reserve margin. But they were calculating in terms of United States gallons. Instead, Schindler said, the gas supply was in Imperial gallons, which are larger.

The extra mileage represented by the larger measure, plus a favorable tail wind, enabled him to make the flight of approximately 1,500 miles. The distance from Halifax to Westchester County airport is about 650 miles.

Schindler, Wednesday, received a suspended sentence after pleading guilty in District Court to a conspiracy charge in his attempt to fly the B-17 to Israel.

The United States, in December, 1947, embargoed shipments of munitions of all kinds to Palestine and neighboring Arab states. The embargo remained in effect after the United States recognized the Jewish State of Israel last year.

"I was chosen on short notice to fly the plane because no one else was available," Schindler said today. But he declined to say who gave him his flying orders or who made the plane available for the mystery flight.

"I never saw my crew before the morning I took them at the Westchester airport," he said.

Asked what his destination was on the take-off, he said "the main purpose was to get the plane out of the United States because it was believed the authorities were planning to seize it."

Schindler said after several hours of flying they began to have trouble with two of the four engines. Halifax was the nearest point at which they could land, they came down there.

Although registered as a commercial plane, the B-17 lacked clearance papers for the flight to Halifax. Canadian customs officials released it July 14, after imposing a fine of $100 for illegal entry into Canada. Meanwhile, United States officials had arrived to escort the aircraft back to its starting point.

Headed for Azores

But at the last minute Schindler and his crew took off and headed across the Atlantic instead of returning to Westchester County. In the Azores, Portugese officials detained them and subsequently turned them and their plane over to United States authorities.

Schindler declined to say whether he had made any previous flights to deliver planes to Israel.

He said every one they met in Halifax, including customs officials and police treated them most sympathetically. One customs man told him in strity before they left if you get into any trouble come back here."

"I'd like to drive up there with my wife and say hello to the many people who were so wonderful to us," he added.

Schindler also said his pilot's licence had been suspended for three months and his passport revoked by the State Department "I don't know whether I'll get it back," he said.

IT'S SPRINGTIME IN THE ROCKIES"

Spring and winter are only a few thousand feet apart in this contrast of snow-capped peaks in the Canadian Rockies and the ice-free lake at their feet. The giant peaks in the Rockies are mammoth fortresses chiselled by the implacable hand of nature. Scenes like this are commonplace in British Columbia's maze of mountain chains and it is a cenery like this that draws thousands of tourists to that province each year.—Central Press Canadian.

Former Dean of Osgoode Hall Heads U. of T. Law School

Toronto, March 13 (CP) — A new deal may be in store for Ontario's legal education system.

Dr. Cecil A. Wright, who resigned in January as Dean of Osgoode Hall Law School, was Thursday appointed as Dean of the University of Toronto's Law School. Two of his colleagues, who resigned lectureships at Osgoode Hall at the same time, were also given professorships at the University School.

The move, announced by Dr. Sidney Smith, University president, was the latest step in the dispute over legal education between Dr. Wright and the Law Society of Upper Canada, which directs and controls Osgoode Hall.

Dr. Wright, long a proponent of purely academic legal education, resigned over an announced move to increase the amount of practical training law offices for Osgoode students.

Speculation Rife

With his university appointment, and those of John Willis and Bora Laskin—two of three Osgoode lecturers who resigned in January—came speculation that the long-held monopoly of the Law Society of Upper Canada over entry to Ontario's legal profession may be broken.

Donald Carrick, executive member of the County of York Law Association and a supporter of Dr. Wright's views on education, said Thursday night that legislation may be passed qualifying graduates of the University Law School to practise law in the province. At present admission to the Ontario Bar is confined to those who pass through Osgoode Hall.

With Dr. Wright's appointment came the announcement of the retirement of the present Dean of the University Law School, Dr. W. P. M. Kennedy. Under Dean Kennedy the Law School became the only post-graduate school of law in Canada with students from across Canada. Its standards and degrees became recognized by the English Bar Association.

With the announcement of the appointments, Dr. Smith said: "Acceptance of the University posts by these three men benefits not only the University of Toronto but the whole cause of legal education in Canada."

They will join the university staff July 1, 1949.

Dr. Wright was a gold medallist at both the University of Western Ontario and Osgoode Hall. He was appointed lecturer at Osgoode in 1927, and has been editor of the Canadian Bar Review and editor-in-chief of Dominion Law Reports and Canadian Criminal Cases.

SENATES LOW SALARIES

Oxford, England — (CP) — Sir Frederick Ogilvie, principal of Jesus College, protested against "degrading" £1,165 ($4,660) yearly salaries for professors. He said: "Oxford is trying to run a kind of professional black market to provide professors on the cheap."

Quebec House Completes Session In Record Time

(By The Canadian Press)

Quebec's legislature prorogued Thursday night, the first Canadian provincial parliament to complete its 1949 sessional business.

The first session of the legislature since provincial elections last July was the shortest since 1936. It started Jan. 19 and since then considered more than 130 government and private bills, including a government measure making the manufacture, sale and possession of margarine illegal in Quebec.

The eight other provincial parliaments still are in session. The Ontario House, which assembled Feb. 10, is expected to rise by the end of the month and a short session has been predicted for the New Brunswick legislature.

The Prince Edward Island budget, brought down Thursday at Charlottetown by Premier J. Walter Jones, forecast the island province's third straight surplus, the 33rd since Confederation. It predicted a margin of $68,965 for the year ending in March, 1950.

Budget Debate Ends

Budget debate ended Thursday in British Columbia. Much of the discussion concerned the three-per-cent sales tax imposed to raise funds for social services and old age pensions.

The House at Toronto adjourned its budget debate until next Tuesday when it became evident that it could not be finished Thursday night. It turns today to consideration of government bills.

Members told reporters that they expected the government's legislation on the coloring of butter would be brought down Tuesday.

Agriculture Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia told the legislature at Halifax that the province's Annapolis Valley apple growers had lost the British market because British exporters failed to buy Canadian apples at present.

Prices Set Record

An Agriculture Department report tabled in the New Brunswick Legislature said prices paid the province's farmers for livestock and livestock products last year set a record. Dairy products, for example, had a total value of $1,-633,503, or 35 per cent more than during the previous year.

An echo of an inquiry into Alberta's adoption services was heard in the House at Edmonton when J. H. Colborne, Social Credit member for Calgary, asked the legislature to "condemn" the Calgary Herald. The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire had allegedly using child welfare "for political purposes and to further their own interests." The Assembly adjourned without voting on the suggestion.

The Manitoba legislature gave first reading to a bill to consolidate the Bureaux of Industry and Commerce, Travel and Publicity.

Editor of Paper For Fifty Years To be Honored

Huntsville, March 13 (CP)—A large part of this Muskoka district town will gather tonight at a testimonial dinner honoring H. E. Rice, who for 50 years has been editor and publisher of the town's weekly newspaper, The Forester.

Since Mr. Rice took over ownership of The Forester in March of 1899 he has done more than publish a newspaper. He was mayor for 11 terms between 1913 and 1945 and the town's treasurer for 10 years.

He admits a change in editorial policy and manners from his younger days when he was "a little young and eager."

Now he feels that to serve the community "the weekly editor should try to gently suggest and guide changes and reforms instead of trying to drive them through."

"In a small town the personal touch is so strong that much harm can be done by swinging the editorial sledgehammer. If the cause is a good one it can be won by supporting it calmly but firmly and steadily."

He has been president of the Ontario - Quebec Press Association, president of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association and a director of the Ontario Recreation and Mayors Association. Within his own area he fathered the Muskoka Tourist Development Association, was president of the local Rotary Club and governor of Rotary district 168, and was president of the Muskoka Children's Aid Society and the Board of Trade. At present he is chairman of the local hospital fund campaign.

Among his other achievements in Huntsville is the acquisition of the clock in the town hall tower. When he was mayor in 1927 he made a trip to Toronto to salvage the clock when the city's old Union Station was being torn down.

He'll not admit his age, which is probably over 70. One son, Paul, shares responsibility in the newspaper office. Another son, Francis, lives in Montreal.

Boxing Brothers Kicking up Dust In British Ring

London, March 12 (CP)—Boxing has dazed a Hyndeville glove on three British families.

Amateur and professional fight bills sometimes involve as many as three battling brothers—there are 10 of them all told—in one evening.

Leamington Spa, in Warwickshire, boasts the three Turpins. The O'Sullivans of Limerick and Finsbury Park, can line up five for a fistic melee. And now Walsall's two Boston brothers are kicking up resin dust in the big rings.

Among them, there's just one major title. But they're all prominent in their respective divisions.

Middleweight Dickie, at 27 the oldest of the Turpins, made boxing history last June. He became the first Negro to hold a British title.

Randolph, Dickie's brother, probably is the next best middleweight in Britain. He also made history by winning both junior and senior amateur national titles in one year.

Under a recent ban, 20-year-old Randy can't fight for a "pro" title until he's 21. Anyway, he and Dickie have sworn never to fight each other in public.

The third Turpin, Jackie, is a lively featherweight.

Dicking O'Sullivan

Of the O'Sullivans, Danny, 25, and Dickie, 23, are the best known. They're professionals. Jackie, 18, Terry 21, and Peter, 19, are cutting solid reputations in the amateur fly and feather-weight brackets.

Danny recently jumped into the bantamweight front rank when he beat European champion Guido Ferracin. Now he has an eager eye on Jackie Paterson's British bantam crown.

Flyweight Dickie is a leading contender for Rinty Monaghan's world title. . . . Two setbacks at wrench the European laurel from Pyrenbman Maurice Sandaycq recent monts resulted in a draw and defeat on points.

Now for Bostons. They're not as well known as the Turpins and O'Sullivans but already they're claiming title bouts in light and middleweight classes.

Alex Burton, 22-year-old Negro, has beaten nearly every first-class middleweight in Britain. It would be another item for the pressclass department if Dickie Turpin and Alex, both Negros, had a title get-together.

Laurie Burton has done more for British boxing than any other fighter from Bermuda since Sammy Farr.

Laurie wants a shot at light-weight champion Billy Thompson who recently was beaten by Canadian boxers Ut Gardner and Solly Canter, Canter still is in Britain, so maybe he can be accommodated.

Demers Will be Allowed to Join Team For Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Tony Demers, the Quebec Senior Hockey League's most valuable player award winner who played in an Ottawa Senators game without permission, will be allowed to re-join the O.S.H.L. team—Sherbrooke St. Francis—and play out the remainder of the season, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced Monday night at Montreal.

Azarie Choquet, Q.A.H.A. president said he made the surprise announcement that Demers will be suspended for the first 10 games next season, no matter what team he is playing with then.

North Bay Black Hawks took a 2-1 lead in their Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals Friday night with a 7-3 victory over McIntyre Miners at North Bay. It was the Hawks second straight win in the best-of-seven series after losing the opener in Schumacher.

At Timmins, Porcupine Combines scored a 7-3 verdict over Sudbury Cubs combine Friday night to take the first game in their best-of-five final series for the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title.

Paced by Fred Gardner with a neat hat trick, Valleyfield Braves mets Friday night took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Senior Ottawa and District Hockey Association crown by walloping Pembroke Lumber Kings 10-3 at Cornwall.

At Toronto, four young Westerners annexed the Memorial Cup and cut out here Friday with Toronto Marlboro Juniors at Maple Leaf Gardens. Jack Hay Coy of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs and other officials saw the westerners, Chuck Lussier of Winnipeg, Monarch Jamieson, Orris Sage of Flin Flon, Ernie Gare of Trail, B.C., and Len Ellis of Kenora, Ont., win.

At Paris, Canada's Sudbury Wolves battled the Racing Club of Paris to a 7-7 draw last night in the second game of an international ice hockey tournament. The United States beat the racing club 8-5 Thursday night. The final match of the tournament between Canada and the United States will be played tomorrow.

At Atlantic City, N.J., the American Bowling Congress Friday reaffirmed its 53-year-old ban against Negro membership. For a third straight year delegates to the A.B.C. convention rejected by wide vote an amendment that called for the deletion of the word "individuals of the white male sex" from their constitution.

At New York, Steve Belloise, hard-hitting Bronx middleweight contender, stopped J. T. Ross, lanky San Jose, Calif., youngster in 1.13 of the fifth round of the scheduled 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden Friday. Each weighed 157 1-4.

From London, comes word that Johnny Morris, star inside forward for Manchester United, was sold Friday to a rival First-Division club in the English League for a reported £25,000 ($100,000.) The 25-year-old player was sold to Derby County. The reported figure is the highest ever paid for a played in British soccer history. The previous high £.20,000.

GRAB THOSE TICKETS

A word to the wise. Those of you guys and gals who have reserved seat tickets for tonight's game between Dieselo and Kingston Nylons, had better pick them up before six o'clock, or else. Ticket members, they said we'd be there. That is the latest word from the Memorial Arena management Get 'em before six, or they'll go on sale again. And don't say we weren't warned.

This action has been put into force because of conditions that existed during the last game played here. A large number of reserved seat tickets while could have been sold, were uncalled for and the rink management was left holding the bag, so to speak. So tonight, the pasteboards will go on sale if not called for by 6 o'clock.

DIESELS CONFIDENT

With their collective backs to the wall, the Diesels with the two straight setbacks at the hands of the high-flying cocky Kingston Nylons, face the sternest test of their brief hockey career. Defeated in their first two games of the three-of-five group final series the Railroad crew meet who tonight's battle if they are to remain in the running for the title. They had a strenuous workout last night and all hands appear to be in the pink of condition. They are not in the mood to be trifled with and their grim determined manner bespeaks no good for the confident Limestone City rockards.

However, word from Kingston has it that the speeding Nylons passed by the Garner-Cahills-Parish trio of precocity-heated puckchers are bound and bent, egad, to cop the series in three straight victories. That remains to be seen. But they are superbly confident and two straight nods over the Diesels have given them plenty of the old eye. They'll be out there tonight in an all-out effort to send the Diesels into hockey oblivion, for this season at least.

Don Miguels El Redden, he of the Kingston Whig Standard and sports writing fame, following that 11-2 debacle on Wednesday night: "Belleville Diesels, undefeated in 10 OHA Senior B group games, are tottering on the verges of elimination in the Ottawa Valley playoffs after losing two in a row decisive setbacks at the hands of Kingston Nylons. They appear next Saturday night in the stricken Metra River city when they meet the same opponents in the third consecutive time in this series of frustration. Last night in the Limerock Harry Arena—2,500 fans were there and many of them from Belleville—the Nylons were rated overwhelming favorites by 3 in the most astonishing double reversal of form seen here in years."

Mr. Redden goes on to say "Nylons expect to wind up the series in Belleville on Saturday night although the Limestone Diesels will be vastly more formidable than they were Wednesday evening. Defenceman Leforet who was injured Monday and Bernie Meagher, who missed Wednesday night's runaway will be in the line-up." That's what the man said. . . . . .

ROCKETS INVADE KINGSTON

Tonight Belleville Rockets shooting for their twelfth straight victory in junior "B" circles trek to Kingston where they meet the latter Thursday night in a two-of-three series for the group championship. Barons are confident that Rockets on their unfortunate intra-city colleagues, the Navy, last night in a shooting match. The Rockets were rated favored here on Monday night while the third, if necessary is also scheduled for Memorial Arena on Wednesday evening.

Rockets will be at full strength with Bill MacKay between the posts. They went through heavy weekend workouts and all players appear to be in good shape and rarin' to take the measure of the dangling Barons from Nylonville.

FLYERS GO "NAVY"

The "Senior Crabbes and Johnny Mcioumillers" of the Trenton Air Station thrilled a lot of the boys in blue the other night when an outstanding exhibition of boxing in the station pool. The Sports Cavalcade team splashed with a crowd from the station proper and the result was in doubt until the last event, the obstacle swimming race. The judges decided the events were exceptionally good especially in view of the fact that the boys had been training for only three weeks. Chief Swimming Coach L. Alberts was elated over the showing made by his sports coaches team and also the others. He was ably assisted in running them out by Flight Lieutenant Barry.

Battle for Second Place in NHL Holds Spotlight

The unhappy New York Rangers, who know they can hang up their skates for the season by next other week, may throw a lot of weight by the battle among Montreal, Boston and Toronto for second place in the National Hockey League.

If the lowly Broadway Bluesshirts lay down and play dead for Montreal in the home-and-home weekend series starting tonight the Canadiens are as good as home free right now.

New York lost all mathematical chance of making the playoffs Thursday when they were beaten 4-2 under Boston's heavy artillery. This dispirited display may mean that Lynn Patrick's crew have lost all interest in proceedings.

With the Bruins and Canadiens tied for the second notch, two points ahead of the Leafs, the final scheduled games will tell the tale. And from all indications, things don't look so rosy for the Toronto forces, defending Stanley Cup champions.

Leafs face a tough task. They play Boston twice, and the pennant-winning Detroit Red Wings, Montreal and Chicago one each.

After their double date with Rangers, Canadiens meet Toronto and Chicago at home in the wind up the long campaign next Sunday night in Detroit. Boston plays three away games in a row, at Toronto tonight, in Detroit Sunday night, and New York Tuesday. They complete the schedule at home with contests against Chicago and Toronto.

In the other fixtures of this weekend's bill of fare, Toronto is at Chicago Sunday night.

Leafs have won their last six games against Boston. If they win tonight they are mathematically sure of playoff berth. To miss out Leafs would have to lose all remaining games while Chicago wins all its remaining games.

Training Camp Notes

(By The Associated Press)

Johnny Mize, New York Giants' first - baseman who has been a poor spring hitter, plans to get off to a quick start in an attempt to win the home crown this year.

Mize, slimmer than usual, is pulling the ball to right field more than ever. "That's the way I planned it," he said. "I'm not getting any faster. If I can hit them into the seats, I won't have to run those bases so fast."

Brooklyn manager Burt Shotton is toying with the idea of dropping Jackie Robinson from second to the third or fourth slot in the Dodger batting order.

Robinson led the club in runs batted in last year while batting second. Shotton believes Robbie will be more dangerous hitting third or fourth.

Ed Klieman, after three years' service as a relief pitcher for Cleveland, is headed for a starting job with Washington Senators.

Manager Joe Kuhel is giving the bespectacled righthander a shot at the position.

All the major - league clubs today start the "grapefruit league" season. They'll play exhibition games with other major and minor clubs almost until it's time to head for their home parks in April.

N.H.L. Board of Governors Rejects 70-Game Schedule

Toronto, March 23 — (CP) — The National Hockey League Board of Governors Friday rejected a proposal for a 70-game schedule in the 1940-50 season.

At its meeting which also fixed dates for Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs opening March 26 the governors decided to stick with a 60-game schedule which has been in operation for three seasons.

They decided it was not possible to extend the schedule for another 10 games, as suggested in some quarters, without adding an additional week to the present 27-week season. There were other difficulties, such as obtaining ice in some of the rinks.

A spokesman said that the governors discussed the longer schedule and playoffs at a normal meeting. This afternoon they went to talk over television at N.H.L. games.

President Clarence Campbell presented a draft 70-game schedule at the morning meeting and it was after study of this that the governors rejected the plan. There had been considerable speculation during this season of a longer schedule next year with a possible provision that seat sale for the extra 10 games be open-ended to all comers. At many rinks season's subscribers now take a large part of the season accommodation.

Four Clubs in Playoffs

The four leading clubs in the six-team league enter the Stanley Cup playoffs. With the end of the schedule only 10 days away the only definite thing about the playoffs is that Detroit will finish first and that Montreal, Boston and Toronto will be the other teams. So the playoff schedule is drawn up by the governors before the last game is played. Each semi-final is a best-of-seven affair.

Series "A" brings first-place team against Detroit. If it's Montreal, dates will be at Detroit, March 23-24; April 2 at Montreal, March 26-28 and April 3. If it's Boston at Detroit, March 23-24; April 1-2; at Boston, March 26-30, April 3; if it's Toronto at Detroit, March 23-24-31, April 2; at Toronto, March 26-30, April 3.

Series "B" brings second and fourth place teams together. If Boston finishes second, dates then will be March 23-24-30, April 1 and if Toronto or Montreal has to play Boston their home dates will be March 26-29, April 2.

If Montreal finishes second and Toronto fourth: at Montreal, March 23-24-30, April 2; at Toronto, March 26-29, April 3. If Montreal finishes second and Boston fourth: at Montreal, March 24-26, April 2-3; at Boston, March 26-30, April 3.

If Toronto finishes second and Montreal fourth: at Toronto, March 23-26, April 2-4 or 7; at Montreal, March 29-31, April 1. If Toronto finishes second and Boston fourth: at Toronto, March 23-26, April 2-4 or 7; at Boston, March 23-24, April 3 (this is the only set of dates which puts one home team in a series, the team finishing highest in the standing always from home at the start).

Bethel-Tions Edge Foxboro 3-2 In Loop Finals

Frankford — Bethel-Zion Combines edged out Foxboro 3-2 in the first game of the Frankford District League finals Thursday night. The winners got all their goals in the first period. The game was clean and there was only one penalty being issued for a minor infringement. Bates played a great game in the Foxboro net, particularly in the third period.

Bethel-Zion: goal, H. Dickey; defence, C. Tummon, L. Ray; forwards, R. Robson, T. Ray, F. Ray; alternates, G. Dickey, V. Dickey, D. Sills, H. Thrasher.

Flying Dutchmen Defeat Marlies By 2 to 0 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

Don't put the 10-count on the Kitchener — Waterloo Flying Dutchmen yet.

Last night they drove back from near-elimination in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" finals by defeating Toronto Marlboros 2-0 to take the first game in four of three-out-of-five seven series. Previously, the Dukes had beaten them both in Waterloo and once in Toronto.

Before a sellout crowd of 13,216 fans, the Dutchmen fought through two scoreless periods and then counted on two screened shots in the third.

The start little custodian from Sorel, Que., kicked out 32 shots by the Dukes, who had more sightening chances than their rivals. However, the Dutchmen got in 26 shots at Howie Harvey, and the best they counted were about 40-foot screened shots that Harvey couldn't see.

Bill Dinsley sent the Dutchmen on their first victory of the series. His took a pass from Billy Curick inside the Toronto goal zone, skated a couple of strides and drove a low shot that never left the ice for the first counter at 7:43.

The 3,500-odd Twin City fans shouted themselves into near hysteria when Dick Bebbing counted on a blue-line shot at 9:35. Again, Harvey's view was obstructed by numerous players. Presented With Trophy

Pelletier not only received joyous hugs from his teammates but was presented with the Turofsky trophy as well. He won the goalkeeper's trophy — offered this season for the first time — when he finished off the regular season with a goal average of only 2.70 a game for 40 games. Harvey was close behind with a goal average of 2.74.

Also today O.H.A. play, the best-of-seven series for the Memorial Cup gets under way when Toronto Marlboros clash with Barrie Flyers at Toronto.

The powerful Flyers are off to a bad start, however, Officials announced last night that little Gil Mayer, one of the best netminders in junior competition, may be out for the game. Mayer was released from hospital after being treated for pneumonia, but still is weak.

Coach Happy Emms said he had asked league permission to use another junior goalkeeper if necessary as the Flyers lacked a subgoalie.

Defenceman Jack Leckie is also out with injuries. Emms said Leckie is still in bed with influenza. The Dukes are at full strength.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

New York — Steve Belloise, 157 ½, New York, stopped J. T. Ross, 157½, (10).

Hollywood, Calif. — Art Aragon, 134½, Los Angeles, knocked out Alfredo Perazzo, 133, Italy (1)

New Tackle Designs for 1949

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Salmar Tables

New York City, N. Y.

The annual Sportsmen's Show at New York's Grand Central Palace has quite a few surprises on hand for the fishermen. Hayhig the tackle industry is applying streamlining and engineering to many items. For instance, take nylon lines.

Raw nylon, as it comes from the DuPont Company, will stretch about one-third of its length before it will break. This positive breaking with the strike. The actual stretch factor of braided nylon varies from twelve to fourteen per cent.

Clifford Hamilton, a varicolored line in mixed browns and greens, offers a new tackle-fisher line. The angler, by cutting back on the casting end of the line, can reach the fish with best knots and with the water in which he is fishing. Another fishing line, a line that is comparatively unobtrusive instead of standing out in sharp contrast with its surroundings.

Fly lines are keeping pace with the parade. Non-stretch nylon holds its enamel dressing much better than the early nylon lines and this, of course, makes for lasting wear.

There are still a good many surf casters who prefer linen Cuttyhunk lines to the newer nylon. Linen takes on water and is easier on the hands. Cuttyhunk, of nylon, which stays comparatively dry and blisters no surface, is still too easily.

For these fellows Ashaway has good news. For the first time in over eight years they now have a limited supply of pre-war linen.

Reels are improving in design, at least this is true of the multipliers. The Hedden Company now has a quadruple multiplier. Called the "Pal," that comes as close to being the ideal "all-purpose" casting reel as any I have seen. With it an angler can fish standard fly-rod-light bass or salmon, even down to quarter-ounce.

For easy changing of the spiling, the end plate which holds the gears is held in place by a threaded ring. This ring can be unscrewed manually, permitting dismounting and reassembly in 5 minute or two; no more fussing with a screwdriver and lost parts.

Novel Reel

The Ocean City Manufacturing Company has introduced the most novel innovation that has come to light in many years in their "SSO" Inductor Reel. Using the same magnetic principle that governs the electric meter which measures the amount of current you use each month, the spool of this reel is protected against backlash by means of electric braking.

Bob Ransom of The General Electric Company figured the thing out. Inside the end plate are housing a series of eight small magnets. When the spool revolves, these magnets, being affixed to the spool, cuts through these eight magnetic fields and the breaking power thereby is increased or reduced in direct proportion to the speed of the spool. The degree of magnetic tension can be set to suit the needs of the caster by turning a self-adjustment lever at the rim of the end plate.

Since there is no mechanical friction, there is no need for frequent oiling and no necessity to remove worn parts to get efficient break. This particular model is a surf-casting reel but it is my belief that a fresh-water model will be available in the near future.

Hedden is showing a new fly-rod reel called the Imperial — and it looks like a good, workmanlike job. As fly reels go, it is fairly light, but it is strong and it has enough line capacity to allow one hundred yards of fifteen pound nylon backing without crowding the casting line. Incidentally, this is the only new fly-rod reel that I could find in the show above.

For some reason, there is little to report about fly rods. The Shakespeare Company now has fourteen models of the "glass rod" both in fly rods and casting rods.

Five-Strip Rod

Net Union is on hand again with his five-strip rods. I have talked to several men who have used these rods and they are all enthusiastic about their performance and durability.

Incidentally, there are spinning reels and spinning rods all over the show. About the only virtue that I can see in this spate of spinning tackle is that a man now can find a light-line rod without much trouble. One of these—and a honey—is Hedden's—and is the Langley Lurecast or Target, comprise the answer to the bass fisherman's problem. The rod combination will do a grand job with the giant-mouth and three-eighth midget plugs.

The Sportsmen's Fair Company, of Hartford, Conn., is putting out fait soles that can be cemented to the soles of your rubber boots and give you real wading comfort. I did my best to disparage the line on the sample I got at the Anglers' Roost, but it resisted my best efforts.

The Solunar Tables are not new. They have been at the Sportsmen's Show for the past fifteen years. What is new, however, is that the old-timers don't laugh at them any more. Instead, they now waylay me and demand their yearly sample copies. They, too, at long last, have learned that it pays to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

Boston Braves Team to Beat Says Southworth

By JOE REICHLER

Bradenton, Fla., March 23 — We're the champions. We have definite designs on first place again. The other clubs will have to best us. We're not ready to step aside for anybody."

"We'll be tougher to beat this year," Billy said, "because we have a better ball club than we had a year ago."

Southworth based his optimism on the following:

Shortstop Alvin Dark will open the season, as a proven big leaguer whereas last spring he was an untried rookie; the acquisition of Phil Cavarretta, former idol of Jimmy Russell, the development of Vernon Bickford into a fine starting pitcher, and the addition of manpower insurance as fine bench of reserves, all tend to make us stronger."

Southworth expressed the opinion that the race would be one of the tightest in years "because the clubs have levelled off."

Brooklyn, Chicago and Philadelphia Phillies have been helped considerably. I would say they are the strongest clubs in the circuit. Brooklyn, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and New York are the strong clubs.

Only Two Sure of Jobs

Billy said that only Dark at short and Bob Elliott at third were sure of their jobs. Ray Sanders is battling with Earl Torgeson for the first base job, while Sibby Sisti and Eddie Stanky are wrangling for the post at second.

In the outfield, Russell and Reiser are angling for the centre-field nod while Jeff Heath and Mary Rickert are right field prospects. Even Tommy Holmes in left is not sure of his job. The newcomers, Don Thompson and Harold Moore have shown lots of stuff.

Southworth plans to start the season with six outfielders, six infielders, three catchers and 10 pitchers. He named Johnny Sain, his ace, Warren Spahn, Vic Lindell, Jim Wilhelm and Johnny Antonelli, his $70,000 rookie as his "big five."

Southworth intends to use Nelson Potter, his veteran right-hander, mostly in relief.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 13 — (AP) — During her visit here this week, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt disclosed the tale of how the late President slept through "Gone With the Wind."

I asked Mrs. Roosevelt about her husband's movie habits.

"Of course, movies were his most practical diversion," she said, "because of the fact that they could be brought to him. That was important because of his incapacity. He liked movies very much and his favorites were the Walt Disney pictures. He loved to watch the animals.

Sleeps Through

"There was one picture which made him very sleepy. Let me see ... I forget the name of the book and movie: it was about the civil war."

I supplied the title: "Gone With the Wind."

"Yes, that's it. My husband went to sleep in the middle of it and when he woke up, the picture was still on. He was quite angry. 'No movie has a right to be that long,' he said."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she has seen few movies since leaving the White House. "I know I shouldn't be saying that in Hollywood," she smiled. "But I don't even have time for the theatre, which I particularly enjoy."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she likes doing the radio show. Except for her two shows here, she records her portions, doing the week's work in an hour and a half. She gets an idea of what she is going to say and records without a script.

Gambits are what bridge problem solvers make plenty use of. A gambit is the sacrifice of a winning card for the purpose of gain. It is deliberately losing a trick to win two or more.

In perpetrating a gambit, a player may employ a jettison. The jettison is to dump a card that might have been of use or value. It may be shed. It may be ruffed. It may be overtaken or consumed.

The remains of a deal will be seen here:

NORTH

WEST
♠ Q 10

♣ Q 10

EAST

♣ J

SOUTH
♠ J 8
♥ A 4
♦ K
♣ K

Hearts are trumps. You are declarer in south and now in the lead. Take five of the six remaining tricks. Do so despite any defense. Then copyright side attempts to put you. How would you go about it?

After fiddling around you realize the first lead is club king. Then diamond king. Do you venture on shifting the north spade seven? To ruff it is spade with the dummy trump seven?

If you do, east overruffs and returns a small trump. You can dump your other spade on this club and win with dummy's ace. Since east must follow suit it looks as if this play will help you.

But dummy will then have nothing left in club to return. You may ruff this. If you ruff small, west will overruff their second trick. If you ruff with ace, west will have a later trick with a trump.

After king club king, it is correct to lead diamond king. But jettison it by ruffing with dummy lone trump. Foolish as this may seem, it paves the way for the winning plan.

Then return a small club from dummy. Not the ace of clubs. The club you return must be a small one. Your small trump can ruff this safely. But dummy will then trump ace on it.

Now you come back the small trump and east must win. From his two clubs, east must return one and dummy wins both. Is it too far fetched? That, honey, is what makes it a gambit.

Movie Magnates Do Not Believe Industry Doomed

By NORMAN CHEVRIER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 13 — (CP) — Vying for front-page space with the cold war and budget estimates is the British movie industry, fighting a battle with costs as realistic as any it puts on the screen.

Nevertheless, movie magnates do not believe the industry is doomed. They declare that, as it yields nearly £60,000,000 ($160,000,000) a year in revenue, no government is likely to allow British movies to suffer extinction.

Extravagance and high taxation are blamed for the losses which have made city financiers reluctant to advance money for new productions. One example is the British film "My Brother Jonathan," made last year. Although it cost £196,000 to produce and took in £1,041,000 at the box office — the second highest British earner of 1948 — its producers still lost £8,000 in the home market.

The producers' explanation is that of the money earned the government took £418,000 in taxes, the exhibitors £278,000 and the distributors £87,000 — making a total expenditure including production costs of £1,048,000.

Two drastic changes have been suggested for putting the British movie industry on a paying basis: First, a larger percentage of the box office returns must reach the producer, and second, pictures must be made at less cost.

Some relief is being exerted upon Harold Wilson, president of the board of trade, to have the government refund part of its taxation so that it can be plowed back into production.

ACCESSORY TOO LIVELY

Hatfield, Hertfordshire, England — (CP) — Roger Bishop, 15, loves music. When it entered for a fancy-dress parade he decided the music would enliven things. It did. Wilson ran screaming in all directions. The mouse who harried but Roger won first prize. He dressed as Mickey Mouse.

SHIPPING UP

Stockholm, Sweden — (CP) — Sweden's shipping increased 11 per cent in 1948 over 1947. Last year, her merchant marine increased by 145,000 gross tons to a total of 2,057,000 gross tons.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

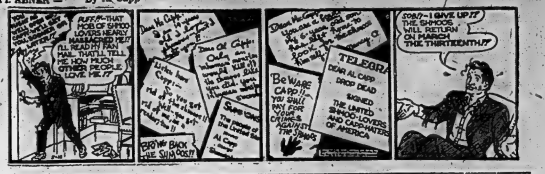
FRENCH MODEL

The University of Paris was the model for England's Oxford and Cambridge.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was home erly on account of Saturday, and I said, Hey pop, can I go around to the Little Grand and see the Saturday afternoon Western?

Don't you think it's possible to see too many Westerns? pop said, and I said, No sir.



Whilst I was out and pop said, Well I do.

Aw G, pop, G roozelem, I meen gosh, pop, why? I said, and pop said, Because they're libel to give you a serious misconception of how life is carried on in this day and age. No doubt the West, like the rest of the world, still has a fair supplyfair supply of strong and courageous men, but they're no longer able to shoot their way out of their trials and tribulations and still finish up with a happy and romantic ending. They've got to learn to grin and bare it and when they're too sorely pressed they write an indignant letter to their newspaper, or if the worst comes to the worst, they go to see their lawyer, he said.

But jiminnies, pop, this picture aint about shooting people, I said. It's about herding nearly a million wild horses through blizzards and floods and across falling bridges, and everything, and nobody gets shot except horses there, and you cant call them people, can you, pop? I said, and pop said, Well, no, perhaps not. Wild horses, heh? Are you sure of your facts? he said.

Sure pop I saw a lot of it last Saturday in Coming Attractions, I said, and pop said, Well, suppose wild horses cant hurt you, they mite even be instuckting. Let's get going, he said. Meaning he would go with me. Which he did, on account of one thing he cant resist being horses.

GOVT. WEATHERS

John Stinnott (I.-Springfield) joined the Social Crediters in the vote.

Minutes later, a Progressive Conservative amendment, which simply added a clause declaring that the government has lost confidence was defeated 78 to 62. The C.C.F. had described this motion as a "whitewash" and voted against it with the Liberals.

Last Wednesday members defeated by a vote of 174 to 30 a C.C.F. non-confidence motion which criticized the government for failure to inaugurate a national health insurance program and to introduce a national productu marketing act.

100 In House

All three motions were moved during the four - weeks debate on the reply to the throne speech.

The votes — each totalling in the neighborhood of 100 heads counted — indicated a number of members were absent from the 245 - seat House. However, some members in the opposition were paired with hiter paired with their opposite numbers on the Liberal side and did not vote.

The present party standing is:

Liberals 124, Progressive Conservatives 68, C. C. F. 22, Social Credit 12, others seven, vacant one.

An unofficial count indicated 27 Liberals were absent on the count on their motion, 13 Progressive Conservatives away on the vote on theirs and one Social Crediter absent on that party's motion.

With the throne-speech debate ended, members will turn Monday to debate the government's measures for the extension of controls on such things as domestic rents, certain food prices, timber, steel and a few other products.

Among the last of some 150 who participated in the debate were Howard Green (PC — Vancouver South); Angus MacInnis (CCF — Vancouver East), John Blackmore (SC - Lethbridge), John Stinnott (I. - Springfield), Victor Quelch (SC — Acadia), R. B. Knight (CCF — Saskatoon City) and John Probe (CCF—Regina City).

Redoes Demands

Mr. Houck, mayor of Niagara Falls, renewed his demands that the government fulfill a promise he said was made by former Premier George Drew that mayors of Niagara Falls be made members of the Parks Commission by virtue of their office.

Mr. Daley said there were already three representatives of the city on the commission, one of them a member of city council.

Mr. Oliver said there was no assurance that in future the city would not be unrepresented on the Commission. C. W. Cox (L-Fort William) said the government's refusal to appoint the mayors to the Commission "smacks of political discrimination."

The House gave second reading to the bill. It also gave second reading to a bill which would increase the bounty on wolf pups to $15.

Wants Bounty Increased

Mr. Cox said Northern Ontario would be keenly disappointed to learn that the government had failed to increase the bounty on adult wolves. A few years ago there had been a considerable sheep-raising industry in Northern Ontario which now had disappeared because of wolves.

Why should the bounty on pups be increased? If the adult wolves were killed there would be no pups, Mr. Cox said. William Dennison (CCF-Toronto St. David) pointed out that if the pups were killed there would be no wolves.

This was the signal for members to start a round of quips: "which came first—the chicken or the egg? "You're putting the cart before the horse". "Maybe birth control would solve the problem."

"When is a pup a pup?"

"Birth certificates should be issued."

WELSH BIOGRAPHIES

Flint, Wales — (CP) — Flintshire city council is to give £1,000 ($4,320) toward the cost of compiling a new Welsh biographical dictionary.

LEGISLATURE TOLD

Mr. Frost said it was becoming increasingly difficult to distinguish between amateur and professional sport. Mr. Oliver agreed but added that it was the government's duty to make this clear distinction.

Not Sound Principle

C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe suggested it was not a sound principle to use taxation for "disciplinary" powers.

W. L. Houck (L.-Niagara Falls) said a section of a bill renewing the Niagara Parks Act gave the Niagara Parks Commission "dictatorial and autocratic powers". The section would give the commission certain powers over areas adjoining the parks.

Mr. Houck said the section would permit the commission to order tourists homes and hotels to remove signs facing on the highway. He approved of the principle of avoiding heavy industrialization in the park area but said this was not the way it should be done.

Labor Minister Daley, chairman of the Commission, said the Commission's authority would not be exercised in a dictatorial way, and in any case, final appeal from the Commission's rulings lay with the legislature.

Drew Critical Of Govt. Handling Of Television

Ottawa, March 12 — (CP) — Opposition leader George Drew Friday told his weekly press conference that the CBC, by its "dog-in-the-manger" attitude toward television, was delaying private development and making it likely that all the best-wave-lengths would be swallowed up by United States companies.

Television was one field which private enterprise should be allowed to develop. It would be wrong for the CBC to spend money collected from all Canadians on entertainment which for years could be enjoyed only by those in the populous centres.

Mr. Drew said all applications for television permits from qualified companies should be granted.

He also said that if the Progressive Conservative party attained power he would separate the functions of the CBC as between supervision and operation. It was not right that supervision of private radio station should be in the hands of their competitors.

Questions on the issue of federal government enjoyment of municipal tax exemption he said the law had come when consideration should be given municipalities servicing large holdings of tax-free federal properties.

He declined to discuss Senate reform as a long - term policy, but expressed the belief that the Senate could do much more effective work if it were organized to handle more original legislation.

... and we're after your vote — but only after we have shown you complete satisfaction with our materials and service.

Remember That Night

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

The tailored gray suit she had worn so much was warm, quickly she changed into a simple black crepe dress, a small lipstick painted her mouth, and looked through the dresser for a pair of clean white gloves. All at once she thought of Philip again with bitterness. "I'm not dressed yet. I'll get there yet, Philip. I'll make you so proud of me you'll come to me. I'm doing this for Roxanne who has lost everything she believed in."

At the hotel she asked the elevator operator for Mr. Kasten. "He's up there," she was told. "They're rehearsing."

There was no time to think of plan, for when she stepped off the elevator, she was in the large room where she had danced with Bill McGrath not many nights ago. The men in the orchestra were in their shirt sleeves. The leader was mopping his brow. She scarcely recognized the tango dancers in street clothes. But standing only a few feet away from her was a short, stout man with thin dark hair and small dark eyes. Puffing on a strong cigar, he was silently watching the entertainers.

While the tango dancers were arguing with the orchestra leader, Karen went to the short stout man.

"Mr. Kasten?" she asked. Turning, he growled at her. But she continued, "I'm a friend of Miss Dell. She — she had to leave town today hurriedly. You may have seen the papers. The young man who disappeared off a ship near Miami was the man she was going to marry. She wants to see his parents." Her breath seemed short.

She paused a moment and then said, "I'd like to take her place while she's away."

Sam Kasten took the cigar from his mouth and squinted his small dark eyes. Then he looked Karen up and down, beginning with the small black slippers that had walked so many miles.

"You mean the young fellow who waited for Miss Dell after the show?" he asked in a thick heavy voice. Karen nodded.

Kasten placed the cigar between his teeth, chewed on it, and wagged his head. "That's tough — tough on her." His shrewd little eyes appraised her coldly again. "Did she tell you..."

"She told me to ask you to give me a chance."

"Any experience?"

Should she lie? "No," Karen said. "Only at amateur things but I'm sure I can . . ."

The argument settled between the dancers and the orchestra leader, the music began again.

Sam Kasten raised his hand and his voice. "Say, wait a minute. Keep quiet."

Every one looked at Karen.

But Sam Kasten was thinking of tonight's show, a show without a singer. He could call an agency and get a girl in fifteen minutes but the girl would be a Broadway type, a little blonde like Roxanne. The better places were going in "class" and the public was getting tired of synthetic blondes. This girl probably could not sing but she was young and beautiful. She was not a Broadway type. She had "class." Oh, well, give her a break and if she clicked . . .

"Okay," he said. Looking across the wide room, lovely at night with the dim lights and the colors of women's dresses, ugly in the daytime glare, he called to the orchestra leader, "I'm giving the young lady an audition, George."

He glanced at Karen. "What's your name?"

"Karen Wallace."

"Let's see what you can do."

She felt his shrewd eyes follow her as she went to the orchestra. She saw the young man who played the saxophone smile, saw the eyes of the tango dancers sweep over her. Forget them! Think you are back in Harrison singing to your friends!

Chewing on his cigar, Sam Kasten watched her as she spoke to the orchestra leader. He say that her smile was nervous and that the others were both pitying her and laughing at her. Suddenly he hoped that she would be good. A new photograph in the lobby downstairs, a new face . . . Put her in a good looking dress, paint her eyes, and turn the spotlight on her . . .

Her first notes of a popular song were shaky. She closed her eyes. Why didn she close her eyes, he wondered, half smiling. But the last half of the song was better. Still not looking at him, she sang another.

He wasn't a great singer, Karen thought. She never would be. But she could put a song over and she was beautiful. That was the important thing—her being beautiful. Women might say, "She has no voice," but the men would say, "No, but she's beautiful."

Thanking the orchestra leader, Karen walked back to Kasten.

"What kind of dress have you got?" he asked.

Her eyes were grateful. "A gray chiffon one."

"No. That won't do. Get something bright."

"But gray is good. You don't see many gray evening dresses."

He grinned. Maybe the kid was right. "Okay. We'll see how you look tonight and if you don't look right, you'll have to get something else. You've got to have your picture taken for downstairs."

Looking over her head, he called, "That's all, boys."

Karen said, "Thank you."

"You'll get used to it." She was a nice kid. Her eyes were grateful. "Now about some pictures. I'll tell you where to go . . ."

Ten minutes later she was walking in the warm June sun to a studio. She had been terrible, she knew. Why had he taken her? Men like Sam Kasten didn't hire you because they liked you or felt sorry for you. To them you were an investment from which they expected high dividends. But Roxanne's job was safe as long as she had it.

Seeing a tall man in brown a few feet away from her, she slackened her pace and her heart seemed to stop. Philip? If it were he, he would say in his amused, suave voice, "Karen, we meet again." And she could hate him and love him in the same breath. But it was not Philip and she hurried on.

There was a letter post - marked from Harrison when she reached her room late that afternoon. Lying across the plaids bed she tore it open. It was from Cora Hillman who wrote, "I thought you might like to know that Jerry is 'dating' Mary Catherine Haley almost every night. Somehow I don't like it because I know she's only catching him on the rebound."

"How is New York? You can have it, darling, but I'll take Harrison. I've a house that isn't paid for and a husband who will never be rich but I'll take him any time to walking hard pavements and eating in subways and living in one room. I'd rather be a big fish in a little pond. Ted was asking last night how you were. I said I hoped you'd either come back in a pink coat and imported, or know you were licked soon enough to come back and marry Jerry. Write and tell me about you. I might be thrilled but I won't be envious. While you're trying to become famous, I'm housecleaning and all steamed up over new summer rugs and love it!"

Smiling, Karen folded the letter slowly. Cora had been sensible enough to know that New York had defeated her. She had Ted and love in a white cottage with green shutters. "I have given up and gone back if I had not met Philip," she thought, looking out the small window at the sunset. But Philip had been her challenge. To make him proud of her, to show him her some day, not as a stubborn fighting girl alone, but as an actress.

* * *

The hotel roof, its daytime ugliness gone, was a fairy land world when, wearing the graceful gray chiffon dress and the white satin coat, Karen arrived that night. With a big cigar in his mouth, Sam Kasten walked by the entrance.

Hiding her nervousness with a crooked smile, Karen said, "Well, I'm here."

His shrewd little eyes narrowed. "You need more make - up. On the eyes. You know. Lolita'll help you." Maybe he was crazy, he thought, leading the way. Maybe she'd get stage fright and cry or faint or something.

Capital Closeups:
Mrs. St. Laurent Finds Days Far Too Short for Everything

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 12 — (CP) — The merry-eyed woman shrugged her shoulders. "Not enough time," she said.

That is Mrs. Louis St. Laurent's chief complaint about this job of being the wife of the prime minister.

For instance, she used to have lots of time to cook; to do a bit of needlework. But now the days aren't long enough to manage that and keep an eye on Parliament Hill.

Any day Mrs. St. Laurent can be seen in the Senate Gallery of the Commons, watching her husband at work on the floor of the House.

Time Slips

Following House proceedings and attending necessary official functions doesn't leave Mrs. St. Laurent much time for anything else.

"Occasionally I slip away to do a little shopping," she said, admitting that she liked "to look at the hats."

She usually rises around eight o'clock daily to share breakfast with her husband who generally is at his office by nine. Soon after that Mrs. St. Laurent is busy reading newspapers.

"I read all the editorials," she said. "Some are good — some are not so good."

Most of the newspaper reading is done in a corner of her husband's office "where there is a good lamp, and where I can rest when I grow tired of sitting in the Commons."

Busy Weekends

The weekends have been and are destined to be even more taken up with visiting various parts of the country. Mrs. St. Laurent accompanies her husband on as many of these trips as possible — just as long as it doesn't mean travelling by plane.

"I'm not going on any plane," she said with a laugh.

"I would get nervous . . . They say planes are safe; but I'm not one who believes everything they tell me."

A NATION OF LISTENERS

Stockholm —(CP)— The number of radio licences in Sweden at the end of 1948 was 2,025,099. This means that every third Swede, or every family, has a radio. The increase in 1948 was 65,876.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, March 11 (CP)— The livestock market opened the week stronger and cattle prices jumped 25-50 cents, but Wednesday the market lost its gains and finished the week unchanged. Calves, sheep and lambs were unchanged and hogs gained 25 cents. Sows were up 50 cents.

Cattle receipts of 5,885 cleared well in spite of Thursday's dull trading and there was a small holdover of 50 head. Weighty steers sold as high as $21.50-$21.75 but closed with few over $20. Good light steers and heifers closed at $19-$19.50 with a few at $20. Plain steers and heifers sold downward to $17. Good cows closed at $16-$16.50 after early $17 tops. Canners and cutters were mostly $10.50-$12.50. Good bulls closed at $15.50-$19.50 with plain lights downward to $17. Feder yearlings were mostly $20-$23. A few plain stockers sold at $14-$17.50. Ordinary quality milkers and springers were $140-$180 with a few better kinds up to $200.

Calves were steady on a run of 1,350 head. Good to choice vealers opened steady at $28-$30, then sold at mid-week at $27-$30. Plain to medium kinds dropped $1 or more and sold at $17-$26. Heavy grass calves sold for slaughter at $14.50-$18.50.

The hog run totalled only 1,688 head. Grade A sold at $21.25 with grade B1 at $20.25. Sows were up 50 cents at $23.50, dressed.

Sheep and lamo receipts at 1,118 included 924 western lambs. Good western lambs and a few good locals sold at $25-$25.25. The few sheep offered sold at $7-$12, according to quality.

C.D.S.

IS PRETTY AND POISED

Fashion this Spring is delicate, light, airy; developing from an affinity of design and fabric rather than from one definite silhouette. There are rules, of course, shoulders follow their natural curve, the throat is often deeply bared and waists may rise to an Empire line, but the NEWS is the fresh interpretation fashion gives to floating chiffons, crisp surahs, textured wools and cottons woven to new worldliness. This feeling of harmony in textures, tone and pattern follows through in hats, shoes, gloves and other accessories.

We, at the C.D.S., have assembled just such fashions . . beautiful, becoming, wearable clothes designed to make you, the lady of Spring, pretty and poised.

OBSERVERS CLAIM ELECTION DRIVE IN FULL SWING

St. Laurent Returns From "Get Acquainted" Ontario Tour

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 14 (CP)—The Liberal party's next federal election campaign is in full swing.

There was little doubt of that as Prime Minister St. Laurent returned to the capital today after a tour of southwestern Ontario that was obviously devoted, in part, to pinking up Liberal votes.

While the main purpose of his visit was of a social and "get-acquainted" character, the Prime Minister never stepped out of his way here and there to get in strong plugs for his party and its candidates.

Although he told newspapermen he still does not know when the next election will be held, Mr. St. Laurent handed some stiff jolts to the Progressive Conservatives, made his first appearances at practically every stop between here and Windsor Saturday, shook the hands of hundreds and generally made a job of selling the party.

His major speech at Windsor Saturday night, however, was a declaration of strong support for the Liberal part, which he said would likely discourage any Russian aggression because of the forces it would array against the Communists.

He said that any expressions of support from Russian aggression in this country should be treated as treason. But Canada had little to fear from her own Communists so long as peace continued. She would not tolerate declarations from Communists, similar to those made by European Communists, that they would support Russia in any future war.

"In Canada that would be treasonable conduct," he said, "for which we have laws with plenty of teeth to prevent that going on." At the same time, he said the old formula of "divide and rule" into the question of Communist influence in Labor would be futile unless were better able to look after the problem than an "outsider."

In Windsor speech before 2,000 persons was largely on the level of international affairs. The Prime Minister suggested that the two major political parties were generally agreed.

But at Chatham, addressing another 3,000 persons in a public speech, the Prime Minister attacked the Progressive Conservatives. He said the Liberals had made their stand completely clear on the Atlantic pact, but the other opposition was "not very zealous" to make known its own stand on the pact.

(Progressive Conservative leader Drew has said in a statement he will lay down his party's stand when the Atlantic pact is debated in the House of Commons. It is expected the document will be tabled next Friday when a one-day debate may be held.)

At London and elsewhere the Prime Minister was completely free with those he met. As the occasion demanded, he switched fluently from French to English and back again. He shook hands with persons at a dozen stops, either scheduled or unscheduled.

At one point while his 15-car cavalcade was moving from Chatham to Windsor, Health Minister Martin notified the face of Richard Benoit, who first nominated Mr. Martin for parliament in 1935. The Prime Minister promptly halted the automobile and got out to shake hands with the 75-year-old political worker in front of a service station.

TEN FAMILIES CUT OFF BY FLOODS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Breakup Waters Cause Damage, Three Drown

St. John's, Nfld., March 14—(CP) — Ten families were marooned in the tiny settlement of Nuggetville, 45 miles from here, as flood waters wiped out the bridge connecting the hamlet and other communities. A premature thaw brought an early spring breakup.

One woman in Nuggetville is in need of medical aid but the nature of her illness is not known.

A crew set out for the scene to repair the bridge and it was expected food would be shipped there. A brief distress message from Nuggetville said supplies were short.

Three children drowned in separate accidents on the south coast, when they fell through rotting ice.

Meanwhile, railway gangs worked night and day to replace a steel bridge on the trans-island railway carried away by the mounting ice at Port Blandford, 140 miles northwest of St. John's.

Crews dynamited a channel for the floes to pass into Chandlers Marsh and hoped to have the 250-foot bridge ab-sparas for the 350-foot bridge already up so that regular railway officials said they hoped to restore train service in five days.

The railway connects St. John's with the east coast and Port Aux Basques on the southwest corner of the island. At Port Aux Basques is the ferry terminus connecting with Canada.

Though there were no transisland trains, service was operated from both coasts to the scene.

Stalin's Deputy Premier And Head of State Planning Relieved by Supreme Soviet

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 14. (AP)—New major shifts in the top Soviet leadership were announced today in a decree of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

Nikolai A. Voznesensky has been relieved as chairman of the state planning commission. This job placed him at the head of the U.S.S.R.'s industrial production. He also has been released from duties as a deputy prime minister.

Ivan T. Golyakov was relieved of his duties as president of the Supreme Court of the U.S.S.R.

The changes were announced by the Council of Nationalities, one of the two equal houses of the Supreme Soviet, now in session. The council approved.

The planning job went to Veli-neseansky's vice chairman, Maxim Z. Saburov, who was the commission's chairman once before, in 1941. Saburov became a deputy prime minister in February, 1947. He is one of a dozen vice-chairmen of the council of ministers, the Soviet Cabinet, to whom V. M. Molotov ranks first. Soviet Premier Stalin is chairman.

Soviet industries were sharply criticized at the recent session of the Supreme Soviet's current session. Finance Minister A. G. Zverev blamed lack of preparation for meeting their goals by making the goods available on credit, rather than concentrating on the sale for cash. Voznesensky replied and declared this sort of thing must stop.

Voznesensky, only 45, is the youngest member of the all-powerful party presidium. The Saburov of 11 members headed by Prime Minister Stalin. There was no indication in this dispatch whether he would retain the Politburo membership.

The change was made March 5, at about the same time V. M. Molotov was released from his duties as foreign minister and replaced by Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Molotov remains first deputy premier and is among its newest members.

Today's announcement made no mention of Voznesensky's post as politburo member. And it is assumed he will continue in that role.

The action freeing him of the vice-chairmanship on the council of ministers and the state planning commission chairmanship was announced March 5, at the same time V. M. Molotov was relieved of his duties as foreign minister and V. I. Dekanozov was released from the duties of ministry of state security.

Gorkin announced at the same time the decree of the presidium appointing M. Z. Saburov, also a deputy prime minister, to the planning commission post. The council of nationalities approved the changes.

ADVISES GREATER INVESTMENTS IN COMMONWEALTH

Massey Offers Plan To Ease Trade Problem

Montreal, March 14 (CP)—In a statement of Canadian funds in British commonwealth countries was suggested today by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey as one solution of Canadian economic and trade problems.

The Chancellor of the University of Toronto and former Canadian High Commissioner in London said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian Club of Montreal that investment of Canadian funds in under-developed commonwealth countries would provide those countries with Canadian dollars to spend on Canadian goods. He said Canadians might follow the example of the United Kingdom, which recently imported goods from Australia and made huge capital investments in them instead of accepting direct payment.

Economic problems which could lead to a "serious misunderstanding" between the United States and Canada have arisen because of the lack of American funds. The United Kingdom cannot pay for all that Canada could sell her; therefore Canada has to look elsewhere for dollars, what she used to buy with the proceeds of sales to Britain.

"We ask ourselves what is to happen to our external trade when we can no longer look to these artificial measures (gifts, loans and Marshall aid dollars to the United Kingdom) for help."

One solution to the "immediate difficulties" was more buying from the United Kingdom to give her dollars to buy Canadian goods. And Canadians should manufacture more products originally imported from the United States.

Some Canadians had suggested a customs union between the United States and Canada as a possible solution but "economic union would be but a prelude to political union." And "no responsible Canadian would advocate such heresy."

Red Army Plans Big Manoeuvres In Germany

Berlin, March 14—(AP)—The Russian army in Germany is planning its greatest peacetime manoeuvres since the war, it was reported in Berlin today.

The western-licensed press said the manoeuvres would stage gigantic war games in eastern Germany including river crossings and mock attacks on simulated defensive lines.

Fifty thousand German policemen, making up the communist "Volks Polizei," will take part in the manoeuvres, particularly assigned to handling traffic, the United Press-licensed telegraf said.

Police would be used to keep the communists during the last year well performed military operations to show the Soviet officers the advanced stage of their training, the newspaper said. It then said the performed by eastern German sources.

Allied sources said the estimated strength of the Russian army in Germany now is about 300,000 officers and men.

Police Find Parts Of Pontoon Raft, Blanket on Shore

Had Been Gone Several Hours When Absence Noted

Hamilton, March 14 — (CP) — Tragedy struck four Hamilton bound today as hope waned for the safety of four schoolboys, believed drowned Sunday night when they slipped from their pontoon-type raft into the icy waters of Hamilton Bay.

The four boys, whose homes are in the Birch Avenue-Burlington Street district, fashioned their craft from pontoon-shaped "slips" per gas tanks reportedly taken from the airplane stock of a nearby junk yard.

The missing boys are Barry Popowich 14, Bernard Lenon 14, Murray Smith 11, and John Barclay 14.

They are believed to have taken the raft to the bayfront, near the International Harvester docks at about 8.30 p.m. Sunday. Parents were alarmed when they did not return home by 10 o'clock, and it was not until 7 a.m. today before they learned of the raft's construction and telephoned police to investigate. Two Police Constables Harry Brown and John Slater began the hunt first, checking at the waterfront.

Find Raft Missing

When it was found the raft was missing from the Harvester dock yard, detectives checked further and located maps of Hamilton Bay at the home of one boy's home.

Later the detectives cruised along the north shore of the bay, hoping to catch sign of the raft in the light moonlight.

At 3:15 a.m. Murray Smith's father and Barry Southworth, 14, Popowich's child of Sealer police, located one of the pontoons, broken away from its mate. A few moments later, they located the second.

In the first of the two pontoons recovered, police found a small blanket with blankets of the boys' bed on it, and identified it later as one which the Parsonick boy had been carrying.

A blanket found was identified as one given the Barclay boy.

On the bottom of the first pontoon, police found wear had already from over several fresh doughnuts.

"They told me they were going to sail it across the bay to Lasalle Park and I said, don't be silly, you'll be drowned," said Mrs. William Barclay, mother of John.

The four boys had brought the silwood tank-shaped apparatus with them last night. His mother saw it in her backyard, Mrs. Barclay said and when she asked John what it was for, he told her he said they had found it in the fields.

"All week and last night before supper they sat around the table drawing maps of the bay," she said. "After supper last night, I saw them take the raft and I said they went outside to play. I took a look out of the front window and saw them playing on the road so thought they were all right."

Later on, Mrs. Barclay said, there was no sign of them and one of her other children said that the "boat" had gone from the backyard. When she told her husband about it, he suggested calling police but Mrs. Barclay thought they were probably at one of the boys' homes. Her children went to look for the boat but could not see no sign of it anywhere.

BURMA OFFERS REBELLING KARENS STATE AUTONOMY

Reports Reach Rangoon All of Mandalay Taken by Tribesmen

By DOUGLAS LACKERSTEEN

Rangoon, Burma, March 14 — (AP)—Burma offered rebelling Karens an autonomous state of their own today as reports reached Rangoon that the Karens had captured all of Mandalay.

The newspaper Rangoon said the Karen tribesmen had taken all of Burma's second largest city in a three-day battle with government forces. The Burmese government admitted yesterday part of Mandalay had been taken by the rebels. Monday, with a population of 200,000, is 300 miles north of Rangoon on the Irrawaddy River.

The newspaper which reported the city is the Karen hands was the city of the Peacock. It added that fighting still is going on outside the city, chiefly along the banks of the Irrawaddy River. It also reported the Karens are attacking the city of Sagaing, across the river from Mandalay.

The government, meanwhile, announced its acceptance of recommendations for creation of a separate Karen state within the Burma Union.

The Karens originally demanded complete independence but Feb. 2 Sa U Gyo, Karen leader, offered to keep Karenistan within the Burmese Union provided the Karen state was allowed to maintain its own armed forces.

The government said boundaries of the new state would be determined by a plebiscite.

The government also announced an amnesty for Karens in Insein, a suburb of Rangoon, provided they lay down their arms Thursday.

Says Unwarranted Sensational Aspect Given to Report

Windsor, March 14 — (CP) — The use of the word "submarine" regarding his study of auto unions in Windsor gave an "unwarranted sensational character" to his report, Prof. C. W. Hart said in a lecture to Detroit students.

Prof. Hart denies any responsibility for the report.

"I am responsible for an article in a technical journal in which submarine was cited as an interesting example of certain trends in American labor. There was no mention of revolt or revolution in that article."

He said in the telegram that he wants to send a clarifying statement but that he has not had the cost of the Canadian paper reach him.

Clothes Rationing Ends In U.K. as Supplies Increase

London, March 14 (Reuters)—The end of clothes rationing in Britain today was announced in the House of Commons.

From Tuesday, Britons will be able to buy anything at any retailers without coupons which they have had to use for the last eight years.

Harold Wilson, Board of Trade president, made the announcement. It was greeted with cries of "bravo" from his supporters. Opposition members shouted "what a coincidence"—a reference to the forthcoming parliamentary by-election at Sowerby by-election.

Wilson said he was satisfied that, taking clothing as a whole, demand and supply were in reasonable balance. Home suppliers would not be increased at the expense of exports. The necessary measures to ensure the allocation of textiles would be taken and export targets would remain.

Nor would there be any change in Britain's rules and regulations of labor raw materials as a result of the decision to end rationing.

"The export drive in textiles must continue to be pressed with the utmost vigor," Wilson said. "We cannot afford, even in times of abundance of clothing—indeed, some items remain in short supply, to let down our market."

The Sowerby by-election is on Wednesday.

Last month all woollen goods except gabardines were taken off the list. Utility cloth was already rationed at that time.

Rationing of shoes ended last year.

Candy is to become ration-free on April 1 and milk and eggs will be taken off the list of rationed foods tentatively this spring while supplies are plentiful.

Gasoline remains tightly rationed.

Goods still rationed included meat, of which each individual is allowed one shilling worth (20 cents) weekly, bacon, butter, margarine and fats, cheese, tea, sugar, some of canning, and jam.

Wilson said higher prices due to increases in the price of imported raw materials, were the result mainly of currency cuts.

He estimated that the decision to end rationing would mean a spending of 10,000 workers—1,000 for the government department—and 9,000 in the trade.

Oliver Stanley, for the opposition, congratulated Wilson on his decision. He questioned whether to end rationing or not—on Harold Wilson's shoulders.

Wilson retorted: "If this announcement had been related in any way to by-elections it would have been made two or three weeks ago"—when a whole series of by-elections were pending.

King George's Condition Remains Satisfactory

London, March 14 — (AP) — King George is more comfortable and his general condition "remains satisfactory," his doctors reported today. He underwent a delicate nerve operation Saturday in his right arm to increase the blood circulation in his right leg. A bulletin issued from Buckingham Palace this morning said:

"The King slept for the greater part of the night. The post-operative discomfort is lessening and his general condition remains satisfactory."

The bulletin was signed by Prof. J. R. Learmonth, who performed the operation, and five of his associates.

$100,000 Loss Taken By Butter Dealers

Toronto, March 14 (CP)— The Telegram says today that Toronto butter dealers have taken a loss of more than $100,000 in a week. The story reported there was "panic" selling of Canada-produced butter in storage there and the average decline since last Monday was about five cents a pound. Today's prices are down a cent more.

Kingston Ponies Sign Zeke Bonura

Kingston, March 14 — (CP) — Zeke (Banana) Bonura, 40-year-old former White Sox first baseman, has been signed as playing-manager of the Kingston Ponies of the Border League, club president W. J. Watts announced today. He has not been here.

Bonura played with Chicago White Sox, New York Giants, Washington Senators and Chicago Cubs.

He was owner and playing-manager of the Stamford club in the Connecticut League last season.

A leading hitter in the Majors, he batted .347 and hit 31 homers while with the White Sox in 1937.

No Basis in Fact Found For Claims Of Biological Weapon May Kill Millions

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, March 14 (AP) — The United States military is alarmed at the American public's idea of the mass-killing capabilities of germ warfare, atomic bombs, guided missiles and other new weapons.

During the weekend, it sought to explain the limitations and effectiveness of the use of these items.

The national military establishment issued a formal statement, followed by a press conference, on biological warfare—a top military secret for the last three years. These views were expressed:

1. Biological warfare—the deliberate implanting of germs in people, animals or crops—is practicable, can be conducted on limited scale now, is a "most potentially important weapon."

2. Because this is true, the United States must be on guard against the use of Germans in a war or "biological sabotage methods before a declaration of war has been made."

3. In the research field of bacteriology the United States is even with or perhaps ahead of any other nation.

4. But—"there is no factual basis for extravagant claims of the existence of 'biological superweapon' which can kill hundreds of millions of people.

United States officials familiar with the policy to debunk fantastic public ideas about germ warfare. A-bombs and other weapons

Hit-and-Run Driver Hasn't 'Strength To Give Himself Up'

Atlantic City, N.J., March 14—(AP)—"God help me for hitting you," the post card read, "but I haven't the strength to give myself up."

The unsigned card was among some 1,000 greeting cards Eddie Devlin got yesterday on his seventh birthday. Eddie was released from hospital last night after being struck down by a hit-and-run driver.

Mrs. Frank Devlin, the boy's mother, turned the card over to police. She said she was just sorry for the person who sent it.

"He must be going through terrible torture," she read.

Taximen Vote to Strike If Recommendations Are Not Granted

Toronto, March 14 (CP)— Toronto taxi drivers early today voted to strike unless cab operators agree to implement the recommendations of the conciliation board. No date was set.

A. F. McArthur, international representative of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers (A.F.L.) said the decision was made at a union meeting that lasted until 5 a.m. today.

The Board recommended a weekly wage increase of from $37.50 to $38, a 20 per-cent commission on weekly fares over $75, overtime pay of 81 cents an hour and holiday provisions.

Labor Federation Presents Brief Asking Amendments in O.L.R. Act

Toronto, March 14 (CP)— The Ontario Provincial Federation of the Trades and Labor Congress today presented Premier Kennedy and his cabinet to amend the Ontario Labor Relations Act which federation delegates said "still falls definitely cause a great deal of trouble."

The Federation delegates met the cabinet today and read a 19-page printed brief, calling for amendments to the Act, a provincial health insurance plan, lower milk prices, higher old age pensions, a subsidized, low-rental housing plan, higher compensation rates, guarantee of civil rights.

The brief asks that provision for revocation of certification be deleted from the Act and that the Labor Relations Board should have the right to grant conciliation and institute prosecutions, rather than the Attorney-General's department.

Other amendments asked by the federation are clear definition of company unions and elimination of these unions from all forms of certification; right to apply for certification when 25 per cent of the union has indicated approval; certification when 51 per cent of members actually voting in a labor department poll approve, rather than a clear majority of eligible voters; union shop and

Thefts Featured Crime List Over Weekend

Wallets and purses as well as rolls of bills had a habit of disappearing over the weekend with no less than $688 being reported as stolen.

A Foster Ave. woman reported a black purse and wallet containing in the neighborhood of $60 had disappeared from her home. A Bonnon lighter had also been taken.

Another woman reported her purse contained $23 had been taken from a local cafe, while still another complained milk money amounting to $2 had disappeared from the milk bottle at her home on Williams Street.

But the "coup de grace" was the complaint of a St. Charles Street man who early Sunday morning claimed he had been "rolled" for his roll of bills containing some $600. The alleged offence was stated to have taken place between a downtown hotel and a Grove Street address.

Police, however, stated the man had attended a party and that the complainant was drunk. Also $40 of the alleged $600 was found in the man's shirt pocket.

A Forin Street woman reported that a young man had attempted to molest her two young daughters, aged seven and eight, as they were crossing the Collegiate lawn on their way home from down town. Police searched the area but found no one answering to the description given.

Mrs. H. Calbury, Franklin St., reported that a tire, tube and wheel had been taken from the trunk of their car when it was parked as they had attended a show.

O.S.D. Student Believed Drowned In Moira River

Fifteen-year-old student of the Ontario School for the Deaf, Norward Vernon Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson House of Frankford, is believed to have drowned Sunday afternoon while crossing the ice at the mouth of the Moira River.

The young lad who had partial speech and hearing, was stated to have gone for a walk along the bay shore with three other students from the Bay Bridge Road the three other students turned back with House continuing his walk toward Victoria Park.

When he failed to return at the supper hour the alarm was raised and searchers following his last known trail they ended at some black ice at the mouth of the Moira River.

The young lad had walked through the muskrat marsh south of the Water Street plant of the Northern Electric and had reached Victoria Park. The return tracks leading from the park ended at the black ice.

Provincial police, together with city firemen, city police and Finlay Harris and Harold Vaughan of the O.S.D. searched for the lad from early Sunday evening until early Monday morning without results. This morning it was planned to grapple in the open water at the mouth of the river.

Front Street Business Block Threatened When Fire Guts Rear of Vandusen Bros Store

Damage estimated at approximately $15,000 to building and contents resulted here early Sunday afternoon when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the service shop of VanDusen Brothers Ltd. electrical appliance store on Front Street, and at one time threatened to gut the entire business block.

The blaze was the first second alarm fire in the city this year but despite the substantial start which the flames had, the fire was under control by firemen in about 40 minutes.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance stated the blaze apparently started in the service shop at the rear of the store, but from an unknown cause. An oil furnace was in that part of the building but it was not known if this was the cause of the blaze.

Flames were pouring out through two side windows and reaching almost completely across an alley when firemen arrived on the scene. Immediately the second alarm was turned in bringing out all equipment owned by the department. Out-city men were also called out.

Fire Confined to Rear

Although the flames were confined to the rear one-storey service department of the store, firemen said that much heat had been discovered until a few minutes later flames would have reached a stairway leading to upper storys and in all probability the entire block may have been buried.

As it was no flames reached to the main part of the store but the heat was so terrific that paint on the walls and ceiling of the main store was peeled off and expensive radios and other electrical appliances were ruined. Plaster electric clocks hanging on the wall near the street were shriveled with the heat.

It was the second fire in an electrical appliance store within recent months. Some time ago Tucker and Company store on Front Street was gutted by fire, the premises only recently having been re-opened.

Street Blocked Off

Although the fire took place during the late noon hour when ordinarily the streets would be almost deserted a large crowd quickly gathered to watch firemen at work. Police blocked off Victoria and Front Streets to vehicular traffic, permitting unhampered operation of fire fighting equipment.

In confining the blaze to the service shop of the store, firemen came in for considerable praise on the part of persons watching the fire. In view of the start the fire had, it was considered fortunate that firemen were able to confine the blaze without it reaching into the upper storys.

Everything in the service shop department and appliances in the warehouse were completely destroyed, while the heat caused extensive damage to appliances on display in the main store.

Harold Gordon Tip Top Tailors Local Manager

Formerly assistant manager of the Tip Top Tailors store at Kingston, Mr. Harold Gordon of Kingston has been named as manager of the Belleville store. He succeeds Norman Wood who resigned as manager of the store some weeks ago.

A native of Kingston Mr. Gordon has been associated with the clothing business for the past five years and for the past 18 months has been with Tip Top Tailors.

He is a veteran of the last war having served overseas with the R.S.A.S.C. An ardent curler, he is a bit dissappointed that curling facilities are not available in Belleville and trusts that the proposed curling rink for the city will materialize. He took over managership of the local store late in February.

Spectators Shiver as Human Polar Bear Dunks in Icy Bay Waters

Well over 2,000 skeptics who watched a trick of some sort or other, braved a rather chilly 30 miles per hour wind Sunday afternoon to see the self-styled human "polar bear" Krikor Hekiman, Toronto, strut his stuff in the Bay waters.

And when we say "in the Bay" of Quinte" we mean just that.

With goose pimples breaking out all over the skeptical 2,000-odd spectators, Hekiman calmly doffed his clothing and clad only in a pair of bathing trunks, dived right into the Bay of Quinte.

And, either not satisfied with one dip, the Armenian swam for the spectators a run for their money, did "polar bear" about two additional excursions into the chilly water. Between times he lolled on the open ice cakes in an ice cream cone.

"Only too warm" gleefully yelled Hekiman as he finally climbed out of his ice-fringed waters, grabbed up a proffered huge chunk of frozen snow and briskly rubbed his hairy chest and brawny arms.

It was a chilly wait for the spectators, some of whom in overalls with turned up collars, waited for the anticipated event to take place. Krikor hauled a couple of huge cakes of ice to the brink of his improvised swimming pool, chatted the occasional youthful admirer back to the safety of the law enforcement dock and all in all seemed in no hurry to take his afternoon dip.

What, No Goose Pimples?

But promptly at the appointed time, the husky Armenian doffed his clothing, accompanied photographers with two of Belleville's police and then borrowing a cap strolled leisurely through the shivering spectators accepting goodwill handclasps.

"You have got to take up the collection before you go in the water or else the people will not wait," he says.

Krikor, who has been going swimming in the winter for the past 18 years, says he may put on another one of from exhibition this winter in Belleville. The next time, besides swimming "polar bear" fashion, he will do a couple of trucks up the street with his teeth.

All in all yesterday's demonstration was good entertainment but it seemed that the locals with Hekimian enjoyed the performance more than the shivering spectators.

Gutted Trudeau Garage Under Reconstruction

Almost completely destroyed by fire last December which caused damage amounting to approximately $50,000 to building and contents, the Sidlon Street garage of Trudeau Motors Ltd., is in the course of re-construction.

The two storey main part of the building which fronts Sidlon Street which was gutted by the fire, has now been completely rebuilt, while the foundation for the one storey service garage is now being placed. Ground area of the service garage will be approximately the same as the one destroyed by fire.

ANAF Veterans Add New Members

The monthly meeting of the A.N.A.F. veterans, unit 201, was held in the newly decorated Memorial Hall last Thursday evening.

The meeting was held with president Hall Ford in the chair and assisted by Jack Carter who was acting as secretary in the absence of vice-president Jack Lundberg. The comrades were informed that vice-president Jack Lundberg had been appointed to represent this unit as agent for the Army Benevolent fund in the administration of veterans in distress of World War II.

A large number of applications were read for membership and several new members, having taken the oath of comradeship, were admitted and presented with their membership card and by-laws of the unit by President Ford.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation of the past-president's medallion to comrade J.H. Smith having been the first president of the unit in Trenton. Appreciation was expressed by comrade Jack Carter to the members who helped in redecorating the club rooms.

Refreshments were then served to all present.

34th Bty. Assoc Extends Field Of Membership

Officials and members of the 34th Battery RCA (Active) Association at a weekend meeting opened wider the doors of eligibility of membership to the organization.

It was unanimously agreed that ex-members of the unit who served with the battery previous to the outbreak of hostilities; those who had joined the outfit and were selected for overseas service on medical grounds, and those who received training in it and served with other units overseas would be eligible to join the association.

It was also recalled that members of the 34th Battery CFA who served overseas in the First Great War are eligible for membership.

A special membership committee consisting of Scotty Gregg, Jack Lundberg, Bert Wells, and Bill Sharpe was appointed.

"Club 34" Officers

The new "Club 34" a subsidiary of the association which resumed a social evening for March 18, decided to postpone the event until a week later. The new club's officers are, president, John Brownlee, vice, Wm. Bailey, secretary, Don Hurst, treasurer, Dick Burns, directors, Dave Kidd, Dave Bill, Jim McKenna.

Much discussion centred about the forthcoming inaugural meeting of the association being held here June 4 and 5. A special entertainment committee to work in conjunction with other named minor bodies was appointed with Secretary James Matthews, and J. Browning named to act.

The next meeting of the association will be held in the Bridge Street Armouries on the second Sunday in April. Regular meetings will be held every second Sunday of the month in the future.

A large number of members will attend a meeting of the Gananoque branch on Sunday next, leaving the armouries here at 12.30 p.m.

Clare B. Morgan Re-elected Head Of Country Club

Clare B. Morgan, was re-elected president of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club at the election of officers held following the annual meeting.

The club slate of officers of the club includes: vice-president and chairman of games, Dr. George Faulkner; secretary treasurer, Walter Thompson; chairman of house, Walter Allore; chairman of finance, E. P. Hughes; chairman of membership, Roland Pryke; directors, Arthur Beaman, Dr. George Stobie, William Cook, Henry Becker, Ernie Pudney.

Appreciation of the efforts of W.A. Sipes retiring secretary treasurer after two years of occupancy of that position was voiced at the meeting.

The Country Club enjoyed a year of "satisfaction" during 1948. It was pointed out, with several capital expenditures made and considerable course improvement noted.

Charles Pidutti, who has been mainly responsible for the fine condition of the course has been re-engaged as club professional. The club anticipates a banner year in 1949.

Police Blotter

City police are continuing their drive against violators of local traffic by-laws with several motorists yesterday being checked for driving through 'stop' signs and further driving against red traffic lights.

All motorists checked for traffic violations were charged accordingly.

Two East Hill residents complained of having their clothes splashed by motorists on Victoria Ave. while the same district young boys were reported to be breaking lighted firecrackers at passing cars.

Officials at the C.P.R. station complained of three men causing a disturbance at the station and police brought the men responsible to the police station. One was charged with being drunk, while his two companions were charged with disorderly conduct.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—Trading was generally at a standstill in the stock exchange today as prices moved narrowly on slightly lower levels. Norpick Mines provided some interest, turning actively for a slight advance but the remainder of the market was asleep.

The exchange's 1 p.m. index showed industrials down .17 at 71.86, golds .04 at 94.73, base metals .25 at 90.37, western oils .50 at 48.45. Volume for the first three hours was 354,000 shares, about 121,000 shares less than Friday's similar period.

Action in Norpick for the first three hours totalled about one-third of the activity. The company declared a dividend in the Patricia district of northwestern Ontario and the stock was in demand at 19 cents in early dealings but weakened to 11 1-2 cents under profit-taking.

Base metals slipped slightly as Sicep Rock, Quebec Manitou and Labrador weakened.

Gypsum tightened and Powell River was down 1 1-2 at a new low at 30 1-4.

In western oils Royalite recovered an early 50-cent decline, rising to $8.05, five cents higher than Saturday's closing price.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—Cattle receipts were dull up to noon on the local livestock market. Prices were generally unchanged. Hogs were unsettled with higher prices asked. Receipts reported by the Dominion Stockyards here were: Cattle 2,200; calves 300; hogs 400; sheep 600.

Weighty steers were $18-$21 and good light steers and heifers sold at $19-$19.50 with plain kinds downward to $17. Good cows sold at 15-$16.50 with canners and cutters at $10.50-$12.50. A few bulls sold at 17-$19.50. Fed yearlings were $18.50-$22.

Calves were steady at $28-$30 for choice. Other grades were weaker with bids from $1-$2 low-

Britain Active in Talks For Pacific Defence Pact

By LESLIE BRODIE

Canadian Press Correspondent

Canberra, March 14 (CP) — Discussions are under way here between representatives of Britain, New Zealand and Australia for a Pacific defence pact similar to the North Atlantic alliance and embracing British Commonwealth and other countries, John Dedman, Australian Defence Minister, announced today.

Dedman said that Britain has taken an "active part" in the talks.

The Earl of Listowel, British Minister for Colonial Affairs, who is here for the defence talks, saw Prime Minister Chifley today. He will confer with Dedman tomorrow.

The Canberra correspondent of the Sydney Daily Telegraph reported that the talks envisaged "a strong defence system from western Europe across the Atlantic through the Pacific to the Indian Ocean."

Many Problems to Iron Out

Dedman said "there are many problems to iron out" in considering a Pacific pact, including possible membership. He said Australia would like to see the membership spread out over the widest possible area.

He added:

"An alliance obviously would include countries outside the British Commonwealth as well as inside."

Dedman added that some countries on the Asian side of the Pacific would be invited to join.

Informed observers here believe that Canada, the United States, Mexico and some countries in South America will be invited to what really amounts to a big extension of the Anzac pact, a regional defence agreement signed in 1944 by Australia and New Zealand.

The Australian government is openly concerned over revelations that Australia is being excluded from the proposed Atlantic talks at London on the grounds of security.

It was reported here that the United States was believed to have put strong pressure on Britain to exclude Australia.

Newfoundland Expects 1949 'Banner' Year

Charlottetown, March 14 (CP) —Approaching union curtailed 1948 trade between Canada and Newfoundland but 1949 should be a "banner" year, says a report tabled in the Prince Edward Island legislature.

The report was prepared by W. E. Agnew, P.E.I.'s Newfoundland trade agent since 1943. It formed part of the annual report of the Provincial Industry and Natural Resources Department.

The report says trade fell off because Newfoundland retailers did not want to have on hand stocks of Canadian merchandise on which high customs duties had been paid. With confederation, customs tariffs will come off.

The report says Canadian exporters seem to understand that Newfoundland's market will not adapt itself readily to the same sales methods operating in Canada. The population of 320,000 is spread through 1,300 settlements, distributed mostly along the coast.

"The unique Newfoundland market makes it essential that Canadian exporters sell through a local representative or make direct sales arrangements with Newfoundland importers or wholesale houses."

This echoed the advice of R. Campbell Smith, Canada's commercial secretary to Newfoundland. Mr. Smith said in St. John's Saturday that many "pitch salesmen" from Canadian firms were wasting their time in Newfoundland.

$20,000 More For Restoring Clarence House

London, March 14 (AP)— The government today asked parliament for another £5,000 ($20,000) to finish fixing up Clarence House for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

It already has spent £45,000 to polish up the mansion, next to St. James Palace. Elizabeth, Philip and baby Prince Charles are expected to move in sometime next month. They now are living in Buckingham Palace.

compulsory check-off when approved by a simple majority of union members; limitation in the list of unfair practices of threats to shut down, move plants or declare lockouts; inclusion in the list of employees of municipal corporations, their boards and commissions without passing of by-laws or resolutions.

The brief urges that until a National Health Insurance Act is passed, the Ontario government introduce an Ontario health insurance bill. In unorganized territories in Northern Ontario methods of caring for the sick and injured were "totally inadequate". The brief urged that the government convene a conference of representatives of unions and industries to amend the Public Health Act to provide for proper maintenance of camp standards.

"Immediate steps should be taken to lower the price of milk," said the brief, "if large percentage of the people in lower wage brackets in Ontario have had to curtail seriously their use of this basic food because of its high price."

The Ontario government should agree with the Dominion government to change the Old Age Pensions Act to provide for payment of pensions to all over 65 years, their wives to become eligible at the same time. Other women would become eligible at 55. The present monthly pension should be from $30 to $40 plus a cost-of-living bonus. The same pension would be paid to blind persons at 21.

The government should begin a low-cost, subsidized housing plan with every effort being made to ensure that the necessary materials and labor are channelled so as to obtain a maximum production in this regard."

The Ontario Hours of Work and Vacations with Pay Act should be amended to provide a basic 40-hour week without reduction in pay and time and one-half for overtime; two weeks vacation with pay; abolition of split shifts in beverage rooms, hotels and restaurants.

The Workmen's Compensation Act should provide 100 per cent compensation, elimination of the waiting period; raising of maximum payment from $2,500 to $5,000.

Removal of price control and subsidies had contributed to the rise in living costs. The Federation asks that there be restored a basic food; the 100 per cent excess profits tax be enforced; restoration by the federal government of price controls.

Other federation requests: A bill of rights "to protect the ordinary rights and civil liberties of the people"; legislation to protect workers and veterans from losing their houses to financial corporations; adoption of an Ontario housing planning code to ensure plumbing in rural areas is done by qualified persons; amended Act with a basic 40-hour week in all government contracts; and establishment of a 75-cent minimum wage.

Fire Breaks Out In Mail Car Mail is Saved

North Bay, March 14 — (CP)— Stacks of weekly papers and magazines destined for Northern Ontario homes lay in sodden and acrid heaps aboard a mail car in a North Bay siding this morning. Many of them were charred and burnt by a fire which broke out aboard the mail car as the crack Northland train was doing the Ontario Northland Railway tracks towards Latchford Sunday morning.

The fire, of unknown origin, was noticed by the three railroad mail clerks as the train passed through Johnson, a mile or so south of Latchford.

At Latchford the car was taken alongside the water tank, where the fire was extinguished with the aid of a party of sectionmen.

21-Year Mother Disappears

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—City police today are searching for Mrs. Kennedy Adams, 21-year-old mother of three small children, who disappeared Saturday night after leaving her home to attend an early show.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Adams, said the family, all living in one room, was completely puzzled by her absence.

Police said she apparently had been in good spirits when she left for the theatre.

Pathology Prof. To Examine Body

Petrolia, Ont., March 14 (CP)— Dr. John Fisher of London, Ont., pathology professor at University of Western Ontario, was scheduled to arrive today to examine the body of Harry Brown, believed a victim of foul play.

Body of the 60-year-old oil driller was found Friday in the bush north of Arkella's lower hall. A post mortem revealed he died of a skull fracture and cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. Fisher will be accompanied by a provincial police inspector who will assist Inspector Len Neil in his investigation.

Funeral services for Brown were held yesterday but burial was delayed pending further investigation.

Registered mail, letters and other first class mail were saved. The greater part of the damaged mail, which from solid after the fire had been put out, consisted of weekly papers and magazines which are shipped in large quantities on Sundays. There were also some parcels.

Little damage was done to the car itself, beyond the burning of paint work.

How the fire started cannot be determined until postal authorities have made a detailed check of the mail and loaties now being trumbled about the interior of the compartment. It is possible that it was started by some combustible material being sent through the mail against regulations.

GROWTH OF FORESTS

One of the healthiest signs of this time is the interest in forests, their protection and reforestation where the timberlands have been denuded of their wealth without replacement.

The movement is widespread. In it are those who know the forest for its great wealth and have built up a great Canadian industry and source of national wealth. There are also those in many parts starting young forests as in Hastings County. Bank of the program is the support of the Department of Agriculture. It is no mere thing for public plantings of young trees to take place and with far more interest manifested in the performance and planning than many realize.

Preservation of forests against disease and fire is a big task. What is saved from destruction does not have to be reforested. That is fortunate for there is a big work to do to take full advantage of the opportunities and need for reforestation.

Wood is one of the harvests which has played a prominent part in progress. It served no mean purpose during the two wars when heavy demands for timber were made upon the woodlands.

To be considered along with reforestation is the part that trees play in the temperature and climate of the country. Water reservoirs are necessary for the great projects of electrification and are created by the woodlands.

During the Second World War nursery work was curtailed, the effects of which are still being felt, according to the report of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. "Last year there was a total distribution of 12,269,533 trees of which about 7,000,000 were distributed to private landowners, 3,150,000 were planted on municipal and authority forests, 250,000 were for roadside planting, about 20,000 on school demonstration lots and just under 1,275,000 on various classes of Crown land. The remaining 400,000 were classed as semi-public and extraneous. A cross-section study of private plantations indicates the need of more extensive work on the choices of species to plant and the methods of planting on sandy and wet lands. Studies along these lines are being carried out."

During the past two years a start has been made on thinning on municipal plantations on which many of the trees are nearing twenty-five years of age. This is the time for thinning of these plots in order to give the fullest opportunity for development of the stand. Some hundred cords of pit-props have been removed and sold to the British Government and some pulpwood has been sold from these plantations.

One of the features of the past year has been the continued development of mechanical tree-planters, which are overcoming the shortage of seasonal labor normally used for this purpose. Their value is in large open fields particularly where they can put in an average of about 10,000 trees per day. Naturally they reduce the cost of the planting operation.

In the period from July 1, 1946, to June 30, 1947, there were planted in Hastings 94,700 conifers and 7,738 hardwoods. In Prince Edward County private planting in this period took place of 17,738 conifers and 38,902 hardwoods.

FEDERATION OF NATIONS

What is seen as the first step towards European federation is the fact that recently ten nations have agreed to set up a joint limited authority which will deal with European matters much as international government might, says the Christian Science Monitor. In the shade of the Brussels Pact "this scorn of European Federation has been planted."

This plan has been called by a Frenchman "the first European Government." In it is seen an attempt to form a genuine federation of Europe.

This council will be composed of ten members of an executive council and one hundred members of an advisory council which is another name for a "consultative assembly" whose members will be chosen from the parliaments of the nations in the pact.

The newspaper sees the Council of Europe as only a beginning. The idea of federation does not conflict with the United Nations. It is believed that it will strengthen the UN just as regional agreements are intended to do. It is even thought that it may be possible that there may be a similar "consultative assembly" as part of the United Nations.

King, Henry of Navarre thought of such a design for the nations centuries ago and the dream which is coming into being is regarded as the nearest approach to the fulfilment of the hopes of farseeing men, of many ages.

Everything great is not always good, but everything good is always great.—Demosthenes.

THE INESCAPABLE

We come into the world to die,
And neither how nor when nor why
Is any wise enough to tell;
Lad, life is yours, so live it well!

The cowards, sensing danger, flee,
The weaklings scorn the need they see.
For no far goal they dare to try,
But soon or late, as all, they die.

In this the best of life appears,
For some good cause to use the years.
In God alone confide your trust,
And meet with courage what you must.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

VICTORY-MINDED

You can't very easily discourage one who is so victory-minded that he knows he is going to succeed. No matter what obstacle you may place in his pathway, he is sure to find a way to overcome it or to push it aside and pass on. He may even climb over it!

It is possible what power the mind has over the body. No man ever failed who was victory-minded. He may have had his setbacks. All of us do. But when we are victory-minded nothing can stop us! We keep going on until we have attained our ideal, or come as near to it as mortal life allows.

We meet these kind of people all through life, and they are the kind that keep the spark of hope alive within us. I have often wondered what the course of history would have been had not Winston Churchill been born. What a personality — even in political defeat! In my humble opinion, he is the greatest single figure in the world today, as a personality. A man of unending influence, honest convictions, and character-minded does it!

The most dominating figure of his time. He has always been victory-minded — even when he took up "painting as a pastime."

I like to meet and associate with, successful people. And I find men attain success who succeeded in making a lot of money. Success is a temporary fame. I mean those who set out to accomplish certain objectives, and who have always done their best. They are the lights along the roadway of life. They are the ones who help each one of us to gain our objectives.

The reason why there are so many failures among men and women in their personal lives, and among those engaged in business, is that they are not victory-minded to start out with. You have got to have the flame itself lit and burning before any fire of enthusiasm can be created. In other words, victory-minded first of all. Then the only, or at least the essential, thing to do is to keep adding fuel to this flame. The late E. C. Wood was asked when he said that "it is easier to win than to fail." Being victory-minded does it!

Four Hamilton Youths Missing, Thought Drowned

Hamilton, March 14. (CP)—Four Hamilton boys are missing and believed drowned in the icy waters of Hamilton Bay.

The boys built a home-made boat and said that they were going to sail it across Hamilton Bay. It is the first time in the history of the Steelworkers Union, whose leadership has been at odds with the anti-Communist Congress executive for a long time, was considered by the C.C.L. only months ago to get out of the Northern Ontario mining fields and let the C.C.L. do the organizing there. The C.C.L. claimed the union was doing a poor organizing job.

The Steelworkers Union has refused to move out, and now it and its parent body are scrambling for membership. At a C.C.L. general council meeting here later this month, the Congress is expected either to deliver a final "or else" ultimatum to the union to move out of those fields or either suspend it or kick it out altogether.

Prime Report

The report of the Royal Commission on Prices, result of a year of hearings by two bodies, may not be tabled in parliament for another couple of weeks or more. It is expected to point out certain cases in a number of commodity lines in which there have been extraordinary post-war profits but the term "profiteering" is hardly likely to be used because of the legal implications under the present economic setup.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa:

Canada's Stockpiling Program May be Tied in With U.S.

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, March 14 (CP) — There is a chance that Canada's stockpiling program for some six or seven critical materials may be tied in with that of the United States as part of the joint plan for continental defence.

So far, although the government Defence Minister Claxton said some time ago it has decided on stockpiling, a start is known to have been made in only one line, which is secret. The materials generally mentioned as likely candidates because any emergency would jeopardize supply lines include tin, quartz crystals, antimony and natural rubber.

It has been agreed in principle between Washington and Ottawa to set up a joint committee on industrial preparedness but this has not yet been done. The stockpiling question is to be considered by the committee.

Swipe at Smellers

The Canadian Congress of Labor is expected to take another swipe at its left-wing affiliate, the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. There is a good chance it may toss out the union.

Mackenzie's Column:

U.K. Goverment Expects Return In 1950 Election

(By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

British Labor government has been favored with so many breaks by fortune that the party now feels able to claim it will be returned to power in the general election scheduled for next year.

As things stand it would be difficult to controvert this prediction. It would be clear that Winston Churchill will have to perform the "hat-trick" if he makes a comeback and regains the prime ministership for the Conservative party.

The Labor party felt it had turned the corner a fortnight ago when it won the by-election in the strategic London constituency of Hammersmith South and thus retained the seat in parliament. This election was considered as vital that Churchill went all-out in campaigning for the Conservative candidate. The old maestro called on the voters to lead the party out of the "valley of humiliation" — but they couldn't deliver the goods.

This was the 31st seat Labor defended successfully since the general election. The party under Churchill as the war was speaking has added another to the co-respondent his affairs with Mrs. Howard in 1943, when Howard went to North Africa with the Eighth Army.

"Then," Lord Merriman said, "the poor husband (forward) was wounded . . . paralysis set in down his right side, it impeded his speech and finally made a wreck of him."

When Howard returned to Britain as an invalid, Lord Merriman continued, his wife was invariably absent from his side in the hospital by the co-respondent. Still in bed with the invalid husband in the hospital heard of the association between his wife and the co-respondent his affairs with Mrs. Howard in 1943, when Howard went to North Africa with the Eighth Army.

Lord Merriman continued by saying that when Howard was discharged from the army—he's still in hospital—"he had a substantial disability pension which was barred to him by his wife's refusal to enable her to buy a bungalow by instalments."

These two people, Mrs. Howard and the co-respondent, settled down in the bungalow which was being paid for in part by the pension of the invalid husband.

Remember this co-respondent had the callous impudence to go to see this injured man's sick bed while he was making love to his wife. It is impossible to describe in words what one feels about a callous brute like that.

Co-respondent 'Callous Brute,' Court Declares

London, March 14 (CP)—For the rest of his life, Stanley Howard, a war-disabled hospital patient, will be paying £25 (.81) a week to pay damages to a "friend" who courted his wife between hospital visits.

Lord Merriman, president of the Probate, Divorce and Admiralty Courts termed James Pritchard, co-respondent in Howard's divorce action as "a callous brute." He termed the case "one of the most dreadful cases I have ever had before me."

Evidence showed Pritchard, since divorced by his wife who named Mrs. Howard as co-respondent, carried on an affair with Mrs. Howard in 1943, when Howard went to North Africa with the Eighth Army.

Berserk Gunman Kills Two, Wounds Another

Philadelphia, March 14 (AP) — More than 900 Philadelphia policemen today pressed a door-to-door search for a berserk gunman who shot to death two state liquor store employees and critically wounded a third Saturday.

George F. Richardson, assistant superintendent of police, said the dragnet rounded up "hundreds of men generally answering the description of the slayer." But no arrests were made.

Police said the man went berserk when he was foiled in a robbery attempt. Richardson said the bullet in the crowded store, he killed the store manager, Herman Weintraub, 30, and a clerk, Howard Robinson, 57. A second clerk, Fielder Jackson, 35, is in hospital with a bullet wound in the chest.

THE LYSSOPHOBIA SITUATION

Hydrophobia-phobia, one physician called it, or rabiphobia, another morbid fear of rabies. Webster calls it lyssophobia — morbid dread of hydrophobia. The story name hydrophobia, instilled us by some physicians and health conscious publicists when they are talking about rabies in man, indicates how much ignorance and superstition clouds the rabies question and confuses the minds of physicians, health authorities and the public.

There are hundreds of other subjects I could enjoy talking about today but whether you readers got any fun out of it or not I have just received news of the death of a neighbor, the father of four children who are in college, and the cause of death was "the effects of anti-rabies vaccine."

The vaccine was administered as a "precautionary measure" when the family dog developed what purported to be rabies. The doctor injected his wife and one daughter with rabies virus and then injected himself. Wife and daughter had no ill effects. The doctor died two days after the injection of virus. One of his friends told me that the dog had not bitten any one and it not positively determined that the dog had rabies.

I doesn't matter. Let us assume the dog had rabies. If the dog did not bite or scratch any one there was no good reason why any one should receive injections or any other treatment. This is not just my notion, but the established policy of public health authorities in America.

Dr. Thomas F. Sellers, of the Georgia State Health Department reported (American Jour. Trop. Med.) that between 1938 and 1945 seven the Pasteur treatment, as practiced in that State, seven suffered paralysis which terminated fatally in four cases. Sympathy naturally goes out to those who have had to undergo this treatment. The persistence with which fatalities continue to be equally distributed among the treated and untreated affords grounds for serious reflection.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE MUST LIKE OUR WORK

We have to like our work if we are going to make a success of it. If it's only carrying a load, a person has to like to carry bricks in the hod. That's what he would call "a fine-class hand and cheerful with it."

Of course, we can learn to like our work. Many a person has started in on a job or career which he abhorred. Circumstances have forced him to take the job he could get, and it was the kind of work which above all others he detested. Sometimes because of such circumstances a man has to begin a life of work he's most congenial activity. But times without number men have found that if they threw themselves into what appeared to be a detestable job with a will they did it tolerable and at last quite fascinating.

But whether we always like our work or not, if we start to like it, like it we must if we are going to be successful in it. The man who will never make an expert at anything is the man who likes one thing about as well as another and so can like it with equal indifference. In a world full of needs to be met, the man who can be of such thing as dignified types of service is the man God has done by a man who has true dignity of soul; and every man has dignity of soul who can throw himself to the task at hand with all that is in him, and with cheerfulness of heart.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

If there is anything that ill becomes a man, it is to twiddle his thumbs. Work is a man's job and it is not so many years since men prided themselves on the size of their biceps.

From their hip, or coat-tail pocket, they whisked forth a large red bandanna and seized the nose with a loud trumpeter. No man really rose to the top of his profession or trade, whether he were a judge, a politician or a foreman of a logging camp, until he had acquired a bandanna in a large bandanna.

It is, perhaps, twenty-five years since I have heard a real good bazooka of a nose. Men have gone dolly. Their handkerchiefs are small white affairs, with a scalloped edge. When they blow their noses, they gingerly dab their red heads and hide behind these pitiable little hankies and twiddle. It is not good.

Sir John A. always used bandannas. In the National Gallery you will see bandannas dangling from the coat tails of all the builders of this nation. It must have been around nineteen-ten that they began to stay and carry white handkerchiefs tucked up the sleeves of their coat. The man of the gentleman was a neat little handkie peeping from the sleeve.

Then came the world which to displace the handsome lidded gold turnip worn in the vest pocket, with gold chain festooned with shark's tooth or agate ball. The handkie left the lady's wrist made it difficult to carry the handkerchief there. Instead the handkie hid the watch. Thus began the era of the fancy, dolly neatly folded and protecting tastefully from the breast pocket. That era persists to this day.

When the war brought khaki and blue handkerchiefs to the front in the services, there appeared for a little while the glory of the old bandanna over the men of the nation. But in only a hundreds of thousands of bureaucrats, at the back, did the khaki handkies lie idle. The fields are back. And the twiddlers are back.

MARMORA

Value of Press In Community Life Stressed

Marmora — The value of the press in the life of the community, and in the realm in general was fittingly stressed at the monthly dinner meeting of the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce held in the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening.

Press representatives able to accept this "Press Appreciation Night" invitation were S. R. Curry, Tweed News; James E. Ormiston, editor, Trenton Courier - Advocate; Ernest Acnery, business manager, Trenton Courier - Advocate; J. N. Loucks, editor, Frankford Advocate; G. A. Morton, of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer; James Watson, editor, North Hastings Review, Madoc; H. W. Sabine, editor, Marmora Herald, and W. J. Cotnell, Marmora, correspondent for the Peterborough Examiner.

Welcome Extended

Introduced to the gathering in an apt speech by H. W. Sabine, an official welcome was extended them by Rev. R. J. Farrell on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce in an impressive speech. This was replied to by Sam R. Curry, following which the remainder of the guests gave short speeches in line with the occasion.

In their remarks the Chamber was extolled for its part in the civic affairs of town and tribute was paid to the fine progress of hockey in the district. Alex Forrester, President of the Chamber of Commerce, also spoke words of appreciation of the assistance the press had given to service organizations.

He called upon H. A. McNally of the Liaison Committee for a report on the Water Authority protect. Mr. McNally mentioned that the committee had attended the recent March sessions of Marmora Village and Marmora and Lake Township councils to ask them to take the necessary action towards having a water authority established for Beaver Creek and Crowe River.

Judge Anderson Guest Speaker

Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville was then introduced as guest speaker by H. W. Sabine. Following congratulations on the fine progress made by the local Chamber of Commerce in the short time it had existed, he continued with a fine dissertation on the functions of the press.

"A free press such as we have is one of the cornerstones of our democratic life," he declared.

He compared such a press with the press of some countries where it is otherwise. He also advocated a right use of headlines and advised that in publicity there should be over-emphasis.

At the conclusion of his address which was followed by the gathering with rapt attention, Crawford Russell moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker.

TO Hold Sports Night

Prior to adjournment the president announced the next executive meeting for March 24 and the Monthly dinner meeting for April 14, the latter to be observed as "Sports Night," when members of the Marmora hockey team will be entertained.

The desire having been expressed by the visiting news men to visit the Dr. Hamilton Arena, a personally conducted tour of that building was carried out. As with one voice, their pronouncement was that the village had an arena to be well proud of. As for the executive of the Chamber of Commerce, their conclusion was that the invitation to "Press Appreciation Night" was well merited.

WALLBRIDGE

Friends Honor John Hogg's 89th Birthday

Wallbridge—On Tuesday evening last, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith entertained a few friends in honor of Mr. John Hogg's 89th birthday. A very pleasant evening was spent in a social-like way, after which Mrs. Smith served a most delicious refreshments and Mrs. E. Hendrick, Trenton, Mrs. Hogg's daughter donated a decorated birthday cake.

Mr. Hogg during the day received many congratulatory cards and all joined in wishing him many happy returns. Mr. Hogg is quite smart, despite his advanced years, and makes calls on his near neighbors and takes a keen interest in outside affairs. Mr. Hogg and Mrs. Smith were thanked for their hospitality.

Wallbridge—Wallbridge W. I. held a very successful pot luck supper and social evening at the hall here on Wednesday evening last. A very pleasant evening was spent in games. The financial results were most gratifying.

Mrs. Frank Harris was a guest of her brother, Mr. R. Langabeer and other Belleville friends for a few days of last week.

Mrs. Arnold Wanamaker is a patient in Belleville General Hospital. All hope she may soon return home much improved in health.

Study Final Draft Of N. Atlantic Defence Alliance

BY WILLIAM N. OATES

London, March 14 (AP) — The five western European union countries will meet today to decide and look at the final draft of the North Atlantic defence alliance.

Ministers of the heads of the five countries—Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—opened a two-day meeting. The ministers of cabinet rank joined them.

One purpose of the meeting is to tell every non-Communist arrangements of the western European union and European countries which will join the North Atlantic agreement, to be signed in Washington next week or so.

The western European union is a 50-year defence treaty the five countries signed in Brussels a year ago Thursday.

The projected North Atlantic agreement, completed in Washington last week, is for 20 years. Besides the five countries and the United States, it also includes Canada and Norway, Denmark, Italy, Portugal and Iceland may join.

The Foreign Ministers of the five countries make up the consultative council of western European union.

They are meeting six weeks ahead of schedule for a final point discussion on the new Atlantic alliance.

They also will talk over a constitution for the proposed council of Europe. The five Brussels powers and five other western European countries meet here March 23 to discuss adopting this constitution. Many people hope the council will be a forerunner to a United States of Europe.

Quebec Man Wins 'Met' Contract

New York, March 14 (CP) —A young Quebec lawyer and a Pennsylvania girl became the latest singing additions to the Metropolitan Opera Company.

The lawyer is Denis Harbour, 28, of Oka, Que., and a graduate of the University of Montreal.

The girl is Miss Lois Hunt, 23, a pretty, brown-haired lyric soprano.

Both received their Met contracts after being declared winners of this season's Metropolitan Opera auditions of the air.

In addition to the contract each received a cheque for $1,000 —the Capehart scholarships presented by the sponsors of the contest, the Farnsworth Television and Radio Corporation.

Harbour and Miss Hunt were selected by a board of judges headed by Edward Johnson, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association. More than 300 singers competed in the contest.

Harbour, a bass-baritone studied voice while he worked for his law degree at the University of Montreal. After graduation, he sang on a Montreal radio station and rapidly became well known.

Iceland Seeks Facts Concerning Atlantic Pact

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, March 14 (AP)—Iceland's foreign minister was due to call at the United States State Department today to seek information which may determine whether the strategically-located island republic will enter the North Atlantic security pact.

Bjarni Benediktsson, Bjarni Benediktsson, arrived here last night. He told reporters in New York that his government has not yet decided to join the alliance and that it definitely would refuse to grant peacetime bases to any power.

"I think there can be no discussion of bases," he said.

The United States and the Western European countries lining up under the treaty are hoping Iceland will provide important protection for North Atlantic sea and air lines. Nevertheless it appeared that Iceland's views on the base question would be fully respected and that no pressure would be brought by the United States on this point.

The pattern for handling the issues of bases apparently was set Monday Saturday in a conference between state department officials and Danish Foreign Minister Gjustav Rasmussen. They discussed what Rasmussen described as the problems of Greenland.

Denmark owns Greenland and the United States has two airfields there. They were built as a result of arrangements made during the war, but not permanently for peacetime.

State department officials told Rasmussen, it was learned, that the North Atlantic Treaty provides the framework in which a future solution of the base problem may be worked out.

Car Moves on Its Way, Back Part Sheared Off by R.R. Engine

Toronto, March 14 — (CP) — A 12-year-old motor car driven by 16-year-old Irving Gardiner ed on a railway crossing here yesterday and was struck later, minus part of its rear end. Gardiner and his brother William jumped clear as a speeding passenger train approached. The train sheared off a back wheel and much of the back of the car, but the vehicle could still be driven home.

Famous Flier Goes on Trial On Spy Count

Paris, March 14 — (AP) — Pioneer ocean flier Dieudonne Costa went on trial today as a spy. He was charged with having been one of the "most paid agents of German military intelligence, working in the United States during the Second World War.

Coste, now 57, who with Maurice Bellonte made the first east-west flight over the Atlantic in 1930, claims he returned to the United States 13 years later to free Germans.

Named the world's No. 1 airman in 1931 by the International League of Aviation, Coste claims he double-crossed the Germans by serving as an American agent while supposedly working for the German Abwehr (German counter-intelligence unit).

agreed that two basic national principles of negotiations compiled the decision to "educate" the American public.

1. To try to undo some of the American public's over-confidence in certain victory through reliance on only such weapons as the atomic bomb, germs warfare and guided missiles.

2. To allay hysteria and panic among certain American populations should the United States be attacked with any of those weapons. The effort bow is to explain that these are not "absolute" weapons, but have definite limitations in the number they can kill or the damage they can produce. There are means of minimizing their effect.

A government book about atomic bombs—what they can and can't do—will follow the world war statement by a few months.

Albert Einstein 70, Marks Birthday

Princeton, N. J., March 14 (AP) — Albert Einstein is 70 years old today.

The world - famous scientist, as is his custom, insisted on a day of interviews, eschewing elaborate celebrations.

Members of his household said he would forego his usual three-quarter mile walk to the Institute of Advanced Study today and remain at home "to sit and think."

The genius, husky-haired Einstein has said before that birthday celebrations are only for children. Nonetheless the occasion brought tribute from leading scientists of many countries.

More Companies Giving Breakdown Of Sales Dollar to Give Understanding

By FORBES RHODE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

An increasing number of companies are giving a breakdown of their sales dollar; that is, they tell what happened to each $1 they took in.

It is part of the current effort to make business statements understandable to the average person.

It is also partly intended to offset claims of undue profits. Much of so-called profits, companies state, is money that is ploughed back into the business to keep it operating; and they point out that with present high costs a greatly increased amount of money has to be kept on hand just to keep going.

Massey Harris Co, Ltd., said in its recent annual report that the value of its 1948 inventory, or goods on hand, was $59,154,871, whereas at 1939 prices the same inventory would have involved only $33,000,000.

Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., which had net sales in 1948 of $73,078,515 recently gave its breakdown per dollar:

Paid for materials and services 29 cents; set aside for depreciation and depletion 3.7; set aside for possible contingencies and taxes 2; retained in the business 2.8; governments and municipal taxes 11.3; bond interest 2; paid to employees as wages and salaries 37.4; dividends on preferred shares 2.

Abitibi had a word too on forest protection and the use of taxmoney. It commented:

"It is becoming increasingly evident that the problem of how funds are to be provided for forest protection and for the scientific development of our forest resources can only be solved by the cordial co-operation of government authorities and the lessees of forest limits.

"The present situation is that huge sums are taken in taxes from the annual revenues of the pulp and paper industry. This money now is spent by governments largely for general purposes.

"Abitibi directors are convinced that the time has come when serious thought must be given to the problems of how a reasonable share of these taxes can be devoted to specific projects which contribute directly to the protection of the forest resources, which is one of the major factors in the well-being of the Canadian economy."

Deer Evidently Killed Put in Back of Car Revives, Goes to Zoo

Peterborough, Ont., March 14 (CP)—A careless pedestrian today found herself in the Peterborough zoo — for life.

The pedestrian, a deer, was struck by a car during the weekend. Harold Dunn, driving a hockey team back to Peterborough, thought he had killed the deer and put it in the back of the car.

It regained consciousness as the car neared Peterborough and was placed in the cellar of provincial police headquarters overnight.

Today game warden Stanley Windsor gave permission to put the animal in the zoo where a doe and a buck already live.

HOW MRS. WITHERS WANTS HER THE NAME OF THE WORLD-FAMOUS APERIENT-NO PROMPTING, PLEASE QUIZ PROGRAM

The name of this world-famous aperient, Mrs. Withers, is KRUSCHEN. And the word aperient is a medical term for the mildly laxative action of Kruschen. In Kruschen you get a unique blend of mineral salts similar to those found in medicinal waters of spas. Kruschen offers you these four advantages:

EASY TO TAKE—Dissolves quickly in water, or tea, coffee, soup, or fruit juice. Most folks find the small morning dose is tasteless.

WORKS FAST—Usually within the hour. Does not spoil your day.

GENTLE ACTION—Its formula is balanced so as gently, without discomfort.

TIME-TESTED—Over 3000,000,000 packages sold throughout the world.

Next time your system needs help, due to common constipation, sluggishness or the effects of over-indulgence—try Kruschen for prompt, gentle relief. Take it regularly—get that grand "Kruschen feeling". 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

Afternoon Tea

The lovely, historic home of Mrs. W. N. Ponton, Trent Rd., at which three afternoon teas are held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, was charmingly presented with its bouquets of golden daffodils and Spring flowers.

Mrs. Ponton received the guests. The tea table, daintily appointed with its white lace cloth, centred by a lustre bowl of mixed sweetpeas and silver candelabra with ivory candles and silver services, which was reflected in the large mirror opposite made an exquisitely lovely picture.

On Thursday those who presided were, Mrs. William Pinkie and Mrs. Arthur Mills, who were assisted, by Mrs. G. Kayser, Mrs. W. R. Gray and Mrs. Ormonde Butler.

On Friday, Mrs. E. McColl poured, assisted by Mrs. R. D. Arnott, Mrs. James Forrester, Mrs. Gordon Robertson and Miss S. Masson.

On Saturday, Mrs. William Maund, and Mrs. Ponton were hostesses, assisted by Mrs. H. L. Brown pouring, and Miss Peggy Blakelee, Mrs. Allan McDougall and Mrs. William Ryder serving.

'Side Sweep' Hat London Favorite

London, March 14 (CP)—In London's Spring hat shows the "side sweep" is top favorite.

Carried in velvets, turban and other close-fitting styles, it rises from the modest little side-swept brim to the "one-eyed" styles not prevalent in Paris. This is a high crown, tilted, side brim drop; flowered or feathered, it generally covers one side of the face and hair.

Cloche styles are popular in smooth baku straws and soft felts with small curling brims and slight side-sweeps. Modified, elaborated, except for brim contrast, they are an excellent combination for the slim lines of the new tailored suits.

Silk, linen and petersham are being used for brim covering usually to match a dress or suit.

Rough straws and felts have big feather mounts, floral or fruit posies. The decorations, if any, are elaborate.

Hats are again being covered with silk or linen to match the ensemble — especially in brim shapes — and tartan is used a lot in little hats with feather mounts intended for combination with matching accessories.

The "pancake beret" in white, lightweight felt—many pleated from centre crown—folds neatly into case or handbag.

The "flower-pot" hat is the latest teen-ager. A "flower-pot" of felt or straw is worn straight on the head, brim down all round and decorated only by wide contrast ribbon.

Greater Salaries For Teachers Urged to Relieve Shortage

The March meeting of the Wallington Unit, Women Teachers' Association of Prince Edward County, was held at Wallington Consolidated School with the trustees and secretaries and their wives, and the men teachers and their wives as special guests.

Miss Mary Wallers, Bloomfield, introduced Rev. John W. Mills of Picton, as their guest speaker. Mr. Mills is the executive secretary of the Rural School Trustees and Ratepayers' Association, and editor of the Canadian School Journal.

Mr. Mills mentioned in opening his address that in Ontario there are the 23rd—reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic; the 33rd—beginning, Building and Budgets; the 34th—Art Care, Courtesy and Common sense and he spoke at length on the three R's which affect the Teachers and Trustees, Taxes and Tradition.

Not Easy Work

He stated that "teachers should not teach things they do not believe, they should be interested in the child's development and interested in the church. It is not easy to be a teacher, yet it is honorable profession, and it is becoming more and more so. Within the next ten years there will be a shortage of 10,000 teachers and 22,000 within the next 15 years. Something must be done to make this a grand profession.

All teachers should demand of the best entering their profession. They should be conservators of their trusts. The average salary of the public school teacher is $1,900 and yet there is something wrong when a Grade 10 boy or girl without going to Normal can get $1,500 a year. This inequality will have to be done away with and those who receive the money must have the qualifications to meet it.

Why do teachers move from one school to another? It is not always the salary. It is because people will not allow them to live as other people and be themselves. The ignorance of their part in making good public relations. Children take their half teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Peel potatoes and onion and slice thinly. Melt fat in a heavy pan; add potatoes and onion, cover and cook until tender (about 40 minutes). Stir well and continue cooking, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

The Late Mrs. Kerr

A large number of the residents of the community gathered in the United Church on Thursday afternoon to pay their last respects to one of their esteemed citizens in the person of the late Mrs. James Kerr. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Lougheed assisted by a former minister, Rev. Charles Hunter of Deseronto. The choir was in attendance and Mrs. Dana Hinchey and Miss Marion Bleathwaick rendered a lovely duet. The church organist, Mrs. Harry Sine presided at the piano. The pallbearers were six grandsons and the large number present filled the church to capacity, many of the place Mrs. Kerr held in the hearts of this community. She was a devout Christian woman and old and was very fond of company. Her home was always open to any charitable and worthy cause. Many can never how many kind acts Mrs. Kerr performed in her own quiet way. Although in failing health in her ow'n home, and later her husband's death in his manhood, was extremely strong.

Mrs. Kerr was an ardent member of the church, in later years, due to ill-health, she was not able to take any active part in its activities, but she was always interested in the work of the activities and welfare. Mrs. Kerr leaves to mourn her loss, her son-in-law, Mr. Wm. Ross Kerr, of Toronto, and a brother, Mr. Arthur Mastin, with the latter having resided with her for some time. The sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved. Mrs. Kerr will be laid to rest in the family plot in the cemetery.

Daytime Worsted

Youthful Beige Dress

By VERA WINSTON

THERE'S A CRISP youthful air about the new crop of daytime dresses that really does bespeak spring. A typical good looking example is this model, one of the present mode, is this neat number in beige yarn-dyed rayon faille.

There is interesting detail in the tiny tabbed collar and cuffs that soften the simple, seamed bodice. The waist is minimized by a contour belt of self-tie leather. The skirt has unpressed box pleats.

Something Special For St. Patrick's Day

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 13 (CP)—Sure you wouldn't be fair to meet St. Patrick's day without a special recipe in hand.

Here are economists of the consumer section on Dominion department store furniture have concocted just the thing—a spinach salad with the flavor of spring and the color of Old Erin.

Saint Patrick's Salad—Ingredients: two tablespoons gelatine; one-quarter cup cold water; 1¼ cups boiling water; one teaspoon salt; one-half cup sugar; one-half cup lemon juice; three tablespoons vinegar; two teaspoons grated onion; one tablespoon sugar; one-half teaspoon spicy mustard sauce; 1½ cups cooked cooked spinach; one hard-boiled egg.

Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add salt, pepper, vinegar, onion, sugar and sauce. Cool until partially set. Fold in pureed spinach. In the bottom of each of eight individual moulds place a slice of the egg and pour in spinach mixture. Chill until firm. Unmould serve. Yield: eight portions.

Here is a new "stew" recipe, while not strictly of Irish variety, nevertheless it is guaranteed to go over well for dinner any time of year.

Ingredients: two pounds veal steak; 2 cups tomatoes; one package spaghetti; one-quarter pound butter.

Grind veal and roll into small balls, dip in flour and then brown in butter before pouring a little boiling water over all. Simmer until tender. Add two cans of tomatoes and the spaghetti which has been boiled 20 minutes and drained. Add the butter. Allow the mixture to simmer until thick. Season with salt, pepper and paprika.

'Twould be a rear'n' shame to allow an Irishman—or any man for that matter—to eat his meal without potatoes.

Home economist of the Dominion department of agriculture have come up with a new method of preparing this lowly tuber which has it's too long a life in the boiled or mashed form.

This time it's Creole Fried Potatoes.

Ingredients: five medium potatoes; two medium onions; two tablespoons bacon fat; three tablespoons tomato catsup; one-

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Staying with an Abusive Husband Is Foolish, Not Noble

Dearie as I believe in trying to keep a marriage intact as long as there is any possible hope it can be done, I believe just as firmly that there is a point beyond which no one should permit herself to be victimized. There is no virtue, as I see it, in a woman staying with a husband who constantly abuses her, and if she does so, I think she is extremely foolish rather than noble.

Of course many women remain with abusive husbands because they have children and see no other way of supporting them. But it seems to me that almost any woman can find a way around this if she goes intelligently at the business of hunting one. After all, if she were a widow, she would have to do so.

I have a letter from a woman who has come to the end of her rope. She wants to divorce her husband but apparently she has a fear that she would be doing the right thing to leave him.

She is the mother of four children and because of her husband's physical abuse of her, she had a number of miscarriages besides. Now for a period of several years, her husband has been carrying on what he declares is a completely innocent affair with a girl who was 16 at the time their relationship began. He has promised on many occasions to put an end to it but always picks up where he left off and more times. At one point he introduced the girl to a young man who was a family friend, and the wife, in an effort to promote a romance between the young people that would keep her husband out of her hair, invited the young girl and the young man to her home for dinner and to be helpful and friendly.

"I feel even worse toward him now," she writes, "because he let me go to so much trouble to be nice to her. She and my husband were to have a date again recently, but one of them have told me so many different things that I can't believe either of them. My heart is broken, and I care very little for him now. I want to divorce him and name her as co-respondent. He tells me he loves me now and he cannot poison trying to keep me from leaving him. But it doesn't seem to matter to me any more. He has hurt me too deeply. Would you please give me your advice?"

To my mind this wife is completely justified in her decision to take her children and try to make a happier life for them and herself. I doubt if she is ever going to have one with this husband of hers.

However, my suggestion would be that instead of taking the final step of divorce, by a legal separation temporarily, and see if by any chance it might bring about a change. Then let her husband want to change his ways. If he has to do without her for a while, he may decide it would be worthwhile to make an effort to get her back.

I do not think she needs to be impressed by his dramatic action in drinking "poison." Undoubtedly, he was very careful to select for his demonstration some preparation that would do him no real harm. I don't think for a minute he intended to kill himself, but merely to frighten her into giving up her idea of leaving him.

WHAT EVERY
Middle-Aged Woman
SHOULD KNOW!

When tears come too easily . . . when you get upset or panicky over the unexpected . . . when you feel "all in" and just a bundle of nerves . . . these may be signs of bodily changes which every woman must undergo in her middle years.

But don't be alarmed! Many women pass through this period nervously—by using common sense and taking good care of themselves. Extra sleep, plenty of fresh air and wholesome food are sound rules. And you'll also find a good tonic, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, is most helpful in building up your vitality and restoring a brighter outlook on life.

For over 50 years, Canadian women have relied on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to help overcome a tendency towards nervous and hysteria at such times. Containing Vitamin B1, iron and other needed minerals, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has helped so many to rest better, feel better—when-ever their nerves get on edge and they feel run-down. Light Calfskin Sandals

By FRUNELLA WOOD

PRETTY sandals to wear with our Springtime frocks are party-sided without being exactly formal are shown above, in (guess what to day!) peddy green calfskin.

The shoes can be had in many an accenting color as well as white.

Note the slight platform sole, very comforting to one's soles, and the Broiderie Anglaise eyelet design of the vamps.

Fashion Flashes

NO TRIMMING seems to be the thing just now for the very smartest evening gowns. A beauty is in silk taffeta in a delicate eggshell shade. Its slim lines are dropped up into a bustle bow in back and the bodice is softly draped to an off-the-shoulder neckline. There has long, matching taffeta gloves.

THERE'S PLENTY of novelty in the new belt line-up. White capeskin trimmed with black patent leather in pyramid appliques, makes a smart new belt. It is fallie lined and has a black patent covered clip buckle. Incidentally, the black patent leather shoe is here again!

IT'S A CINCH to keep a handbag neat, so far as some of the new models are concerned. For instance, here's a calf bag, cut and assembled on the lines of a metronome, and it has three sides which open. One is a main compartment for cosmetics; the second contains a special leather wallet and chain purse; the third contains matching folder or lighter and cigaret compartment. The three separate cases are initialled to identify contents.

IT'S DIFFICULT to dodge the lavender-to-purple tones in millinery this Spring. Lilac colored shantung straw is used for a backless bonnet with a two-toned violet bouquet at one side, and deep purple velvet ribbon chinties.

IT'S FUN shopping for a print frock this year. There are the good old favorites, some done in beautiful fabrics, and there are interesting novelties. Rayon crepe in a life-savers print in delightful color combinations has an attached capelet that ties in a casual bow. It is lined and edged with taffeta to match the gauntlet cuffs of the dress.

DREAM DRESSES add their charm to the dance floor under the Southern moon. Filmy gray nylon over mauve taffeta is the fabric plot for one dress made with a tiered skirt edged with silver bugle beads.

GOOD MANNERS

Nice Gesture to Acknowledge Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I never know quite what to do when I receive a wedding announcement. Is it necessary to acknowledge it in any way?

— S. P.

No, not actually necessary — but it is polite to make some form of acknowledgment to such a courteous gesture that someone is making to you. If it's the announcement of a wedding of an acquaintance, social, professional or business — it's nice for you to write a cordial little line of good wishes. If it announces a friend's wedding — which perhaps only family and relatives were invited, you may very well have the generous urge to send a gift to show your friendly interest in the new home.

Proper to Invite Other Guests to "Come In After Dinner"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our dining room is not very large, but I would very much like to have a dinner in my own home at which my engagement would be announced. I would be most courteous for my parents to invite my fiance and his parents, his two sisters, his brother-in-law, and have my sister and brother-in-law as the only other guests at dinner, and then invite other close relatives and intimate friends to come in after dinner, to hear the news before we announce it publicly? Is this nice.

—Anita S.

And it would be entirely correct. Today people understand this kind of invitation, and appreciate the hospitality as it is given them. Your present plans means that all most personally acquainted with the happy news will be with you to share the joyous announcement.

Theatre Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a married couple take some friends to the theatre, shouldn't the host, after he has given the ticket stubs to the usher, let his guests precede him down the aisle, back, the guests directly following the usher?

—Patricia K.

Not necessarily. This might seem a proper rule, but in reality it doesn't always work out as the practical thing for the host to do. It might be, and often is, much more convenient for the host to give the tickets to the usher and then, rather than hold up the procedure in a crowded place, follow the usher, and then wait at the head of the row to direct his guests in the order in which they are to sit.

Bride's Mother's Dress May be Lace-Trimmed Too

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) At her afternoon wedding my daughter is wearing a satin dress with lace. Would it then be all right for me to wear a dress with a lace top, and with this dress, a lace hat to match? (2) The bride is the guest of honor, and the groom a best man. Do you think it would be all right to have, for ushers, two junior ushers 13 years of age?

— M. M.

(1) Yes. Since of course your dress would not be white, there would be no noticeable lace-similarity. (2) Since, I take it, ushers are going to be seated, there should be adult ushers to escort them to their seats. Having two such young ushers would suggest, unattractively, that the groom had no friends to invite to be ushers at his wedding.

Father's Toast Makes Engagement "Official"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our engagement is to be announced at a dinner to be given by my mother and father. Who proposes the toast to my fiance and me?

— Claire M.

Your father .. and his toast makes the engagement "official."

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Plan a beautifying schedule

In the grand old days about which Grannie spunks with tender emotions, women spent hours each day making themselves attractive. Curling the hair with a smoking iron, piling it high over factory frames, took at least thirty minutes. Getting into one's clothes wasn't the speedy project it is now. There were more girdles—like chemise, the long corset, corset cover, ruffled pantties, short petticoat, long one. Dresses were hooked up the back so were so intricate in design that they were wonderful to behold.

Grannie thought nothing of spending half a day at a beautyry. She had a facial, manicure, hand and arm massage, shampoo and marcel...Frequently she prefaced all that with a Turkish bath. Well, she could. Grannie had plenty of help in the home. And it was before the days of numerous clubs, organizations and lectures that took up most of the modern woman's time.

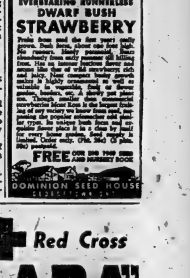
Now a woman has to do most of her beautifying herself, although she usually manages to have a professional shampoo and wave set. But she begrudges the time for those attentions, for all that means that she has certain pulchritude duties that must be taken care of. She must have a schedule, stick to it.

The plan is to have a beautifying half hour at bedtime, at least weekly.

A number of ladies of the W. I. Plainfield collected and brought clothing and other articles on Thursday afternoon to Mr. W. Elliott's to be packed to be sent overseas. Five big boxes were packed and more will be sent in soon.

Mrs. Walter Hall is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Almond Hall and family.



Several people have had the flu in and around here.

Miss Lillian Woods spent a few days with Mrs. W. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Syers called on Mrs. W. Elliott on Sunday forenoon.

Twenty Penalties Handed Out When Rockets Defeat Barons In Fisticuffing Junior B Game

In a rough brawling battle, that at times threatened to develop into a miniature conniptrook, Belleville Rockets defeated the Kingston Barons by an 8-5 score in Kingston Saturday night to take the first game of a best three-of-five final series in the District Junior "B" Group.

No less than twenty penalties were handed out to the embattled youngsters by the hard-worked officials. Included in the six minor sentences were majors, misconducts and a match penalty as the boys hurled caution to the winds and leaped at one another at the slightest provocation.

Rockets drew nine of the sentences with Don Semark drawing a match and a major penalty. Graham got himself misconduct while Jud Semark drew down a pair of minors.

Penalty of Yesterday

Reynolds appeared to be the chief offender for the Barons having down four penalties one of them a misconduct, Jamieson also of the Barons also drew a misconduct sentence. It was wild and woolly hockey with Rockets not backing down from the husky Barons but tempers flared and fists swung in earnest.

Hockey outside of the fisticuffing and general melees played a thrilling hockey and were full value for their win. They scored three goals in the first six minutes, dropped one to Kingston and scored another before the Barons stopped back in the latter minutes to bring the score to 4-3.

It was almost ever-stephen in the embattled second period when the greater part of the pugilistic efforts broke out. Trussel hit the twine for Rockets at the eight-minute mark but Barons got that back through Godwin with seconds to go in the period.

Johnny Green, who played an outstanding game throughout scored his second goal of the evening shortly after the opening period and Jud Semark netted the final goal of the evening, Barons flew back to attack and Jamieson scored a consolation later. Rockets, however, turned on the offensive heat and flung home two more goals from Jones and Schrieder to give the visitors three-goal lead. Although Jamieson scored the last Kingston goal with five minutes to go.

Schrieder Stars

Rockets played a man short during the last eight minutes of play and Tommy Schrieder rose to hockey heights in a superlative effort to hold off the rushing Barons. The steady defence-man played one of the best games of his career. Besides starring behind the blueline, Schrieder scored a goal and was credited with a pair of assists.

Johnny Green was another Rocket star nabbing a pair of markers and assisting with another. Peter Jones helped himself to a brace of tallies besides aiding in another. Joe Nolan scored a goal and with Jud Semark played outstanding hockey all night. Bill MacKay scintillated in the Rockets' goal and his performance was outstanding.

Aitkens, Bill Shepherd and Jamieson starred for the Barons, the former scoring two of his teams' goals. Shepherd got three assists. Reynolds spoiled a good defensive game with too many penalties.

Play Here Tonight

The teams clash in the second game here tonight and it should be a thriller of a game. The series has been extended to a best three-of-five games. The third game will also be played in Memorial Arena here, the date being Wednesday. Rockets are confident they can take the next two in straight, but as was said before, anything can happen in a hectic hockey series, especially when teams from Kingston and Belleville are involved.

The teams:

Rockets: goal, MacKay, defence, Schrieder, Jud Semark; centre, Jones; wings, Hogan, Art. Wright; rover, Nolan, Graham, Trussell, J. Green, D. Semark. Barrett, Taylor, Bone.

Barons: goal, Anderson; defence Reynolds, Andress; centre, Aitkenaw; wings, White, Godwin; subs Jamieson, Hartman, Joyce, McGaughey, W. Shepherd, D. Shepherd, J. Anderson, Gommer.

HANDY MOISTURE-PROOF POUCH

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE E. CARVER, Sports Editor

The wirewire of the faithful on the banks of the sleepy Moira once again rang with paeans of joy. The roundhouse of the CNE slang happily with metallic echoes of happiness. All is well along the railroad front and along the hockey rosette in the village by the golden shore. Diesels have "It" back in team snap set of a more or less lethargic state on Saturday night to hurl back the Kingston Nylon threat of "three-straight" in the group finals.

•

And they did it in a convincing manner. Surely a score of 9-4 is convincing enough. Yep, the vaunted Nylons, saucy sockeroos from Kingston, with two victories tucked away and with brisk visions of a third, went home licked, but by no means disgraced. They battled hard for that elusive will-of-the-wisp third win, but they were not good enough, last night at least. A stout battling Diesels squad, smarting under that two-in-a-row setback were in no amiable mood. That was evident from the first second of play. They fired home the first tally in exactly 33 seconds of the first period. And that was it. They went on to play in the hellish fiery form that characterized their undefeated march through the schedule—and Nylons, as them, could not cope with their rapid-dazzle drive. And the largest crowd of the season seeing 2,200 including a big contingent from Kingston saw a bruising slam-bang battle with the homesiders holding a definite advantage.

•

But its not over yet. There is a tough barrier to hurdle down Kingston way come Wednesday when the Diesels take on Nylons in the fourth game of the series. The Limestone lads will be tough to beat on the ice surface of their home-town arena backed up with the moral and vocal support of the local fans. The Diesels, their confidence restored after Saturday night's victory, feel they can wrest this one from the cocky boys, and so far as to predict they might even win three straight and stop the series. Stranger things have happened. If by any chance Diesels do win in Kingston on Wednesday and they should if they produce the brand of hockey as of Saturday night, they stand an excellent chance of taking the group by virtue of the fifth game being played here.

•

While their big brothers of the Diesels were taking defeat as the Nylons, the Rockets journeyed to Kingston in a battle that had everything in the hockey calendar thrown in. They defeated the Kingston Barons 8-5 in a rough brawl that saw nearly everything but capital punishment handed out by the harassed officials. Majors, minors, misconducts, with a match penalty thrown in for good measure. Rockets took the honors as both squads kneeled caution and their gloves in the winds in a fisticuffing fill.

•

The boys carried chips on their shoulders as large record-sticks, and neither side found lack of accumulation with the pugilistic pranks started to open up. Don Semark got himself a match penalty with seven minutes to go in the drawing misconducts and majors. Tommy Schrieder was one of the heroes of the piece with a superb defensive display in the final eight minutes of the game when Rocket boys were playing shorthanded. The entire team played heads-up hockey when not slowing off Barons little high jinks. But at that the McNaught kids did not back away from any beak-busting fun. They took it—and dished it out. Rockets and Barons meet again tonight in Memorial Arena, and as there is apparently no love lost between them, the game might develop into a mighty interesting hockey spectacle. Gets under way at 8.30.

•

Yep, it was the night for the Old Lady of the Moira to shout in glee. While their hockey brothers were defeating the Kingston teams, Austin Watkins Belleville Intermediate "B" basketball coach was administering a neat 56-24 shellacking to the Peterborough Outboard Marines up in Peterborville. The Belleville lads hold an eleven-point margin for the second game of this second round OABA playdowns, scheduled here Friday night at either the Y or the Collegiate gymnasium.

•

An imposing array of beak-busters has been lined up by Royal Canadian Air Force sports officials at Trenton and they gala show scheduled for the sports banque Wednesday evening. Headlining the card is Trenton's Glen Dafoe, slugger de luxe who is matched with crafty speedy Eddie Sooner, of Aylmer, Ont. The bout is expected to be a replica of the new famous bout staged by this pair two years ago—or was it farther away than that?—when the lads brought down the house; hangar and part of the living quarters in a sensational brawl that formed the station sport's topic for the next twelve months.

•

Both boys have gone far in the fistic field since that memorable scrap. Sooner reached the finals for the Olympic boxing trials while Dafoe has travelled far afield in his quest for ring honors. He has fought several times in Toronto rings and is regarded by the Mike Jacobs of dear old Rockaway as one of the outstanding box-fighters in provincial circles.

•

Wilf Deby, who caught the eyes of the faithful when boxing shows were staged here last summer will clash with Gunner Bob Smith of the RCA Picton. Deby is extremely popular with boxing enthusiasts both here and in his home town of Trenton and the gunner had better have his sights lined properly with plenty of "super-charge" in his fists if he is to turn back the smart Trenton battler.

•

Seven other bouts round out what appears to be a highly entertaining card. The Trenton Lions Club band will be in attendance and several door prizes will be distributed to the lucky ticket holders. The card will be held in the sports hangar at the south station. First preliminary gets under way at 8 o'clock.

•

All teams of the Service Darts League swing into action tonight. The Hasty Pres take on their perennial enemies the 8th Anti Tank Regt.; the ANAF's meet the CNE Veterans while the CNE Stores tangle with the Foilwell Supply Company.

•

The boys of the miniature harpoon bog go social on Friday, March 25th when they play beats to their wives and sweethearts and friends at a social evening to be held in the Sergeants' Mess of the 8th Anti Tank Regiment. There will be dancing, entertainment and refreshments.

Dillard Sets Meet Record At Hamilton

Hamilton, March 14 — (CP) — A 17-year-old Hamilton sprinter, Don Dillard, edged into the limelight with some of the United States' best runners Saturday night in the annual Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders track meet here.

Four track records were broken over the indoor oval at the Highlanders armories. One was made by Stonehouse, who raced 300 yards in 33.7 seconds to better the mark he set last year for boys under 18.

Harrison Dillard of Cleveland, holder of the 100-metre Olympic title, set a new local mark of 7.4 seconds over the 60-yard hurdles and went on to win the 60-yard invitation dash in 6.5 seconds. Stonehouse, showing well against the veteran U. S. runners, was close behind in third place.

In the 60-yard dash for boys under 18, Stonehouse equalled the standing record of 6.5 seconds.

U.W.O. runners copped the Lt.-Col. Fred Wigle Memorial Trophy in another three-footed race, the one-mile university relay. McGill was second and Queen's third.

The two other records were set by the East York Track Club who took the 1,000-yard girls relay in 2.4.2 seconds and the Hamilton Central Collegiate relay team in the half-mile event, with a time of 1.32.3.

In the featured one-mile invitation run, Donald Wittreich of Princeton University won in time of 4:18.8. Curtis C. Stone of Pennsylvania State College placed second.

Gord Haight, a Queen's University runner, took the 1,000-yard run in 2.24.3.

C. Bracey of North Toronto Track Club was second and R. White, Alfred University, third.

The 880-yards, high school relay was won by Westdale Collegiate Institution, Hamilton. Central C. I. Hamilton was second and Oshawa third.

U.S. League Enters Final Week of Play

(By The Canadian Press)

The United States Hockey League is entering the final week of its schedule with a three-way pair-up still possible in the northern division playoffs.

St. Paul, with five games to go in a gruelling week, has clinched first place in the division.

Kansas City Pla-Mors stepped into second place Sunday night by defeating Omaha 8-1 after they played to a 2-2 tie Saturday.

But Minneapolis and Omaha still tie the Pla-Mors, and only the top three teams in each division qualify for the playoffs.

In the southern division Tulsa, Dallas and Fort Worth already have made the playoffs.

Sam Kennedy scored three goals in leading Fort Worth to a 5-3 decision over Tulsa Sunday night after Fort Worth downed the Oilers 3-2 Saturday.

The last-place Houston Huskies also scored a pair of victories over Dallas, 2-1 Sunday and 5-4 Saturday. Les Richey made the winning goal Sunday night.

St. Paul midget Minneapolis Saturday 6-3.

Diesels Regain Schedule Form To Defeat Kingston Nylons 9-4 In Third Game Group Finals

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

A fighting grimly-determined Canadian National Railways Diesels hockey team roared back into the Senior "B" group finals picture in Memorial Arena Saturday night defeating their two-game conqueror, the Kingston Nylons 9-4 in the third game of the three-of-five series.

The fourth battle is scheduled for the Jock Harty Arena, Kingston next Wednesday night. Diesels officials announced that a special train will convey Diesels supporters to the scene.

Twenty-eight hundred fans packed the Arena, a lot of them from Kingston, and howled their way through sixty-minutes of blistering hockey. Diesels raced back into the heavy-checking goal-scoring form that carried them through the group schedule undefeated. They had the margin of territorial play throughout and after scoring the first goal in 36 seconds of the first period, were never headed.

Outshoot Foe

The Trainmen outshot the Nylons 33-17 on the night's play. They grabbed a 6-5 lead in a hectic first period, led 6-3 going into the third frame and topped home three more to Nylons one in this session to make the victory more convincing.

It was rugged boisterous hockey throughout with both teams resorting to hard body checking. Tempers flared at times and there was a lot of slashing. Referee Jim Crombie, Bowmanville, however, kept the game under control dishing out sixteen penalties, the teams splitting the sentence. Wardaugh drew a major in the second period.

Gerows in Star Roles

The Gover brothers played brilliant hockey throughout for the Diesels although every man on the team aided in the victory. Leo, clever centre sifted through the Nylons team in the second period of the game to drive in the puck past the starry Udall in the nets for the first goal of the game at the 36-second mark. He scored two goals and was credited with three assists. Vern, huge Diesels defenceman scintillated all night with his hard-checking and effective rushing. He got two assists but was robbed of several chances when close in by the heavy-hitting Nylon defence.

Johnny Sennick and Timmy Williams each got two goals with MacDonald and Barrett getting one each and two assists. Jackie Wardhaugh got the remaining tally.

The Catlin-Partis-Gerow line accounted for two of the four Nylon goals with Gerow and Catlin scoring one each. McKeown and Keziuk were the other Nylon snipers.

Williamson and Gover played one of the best games of the season on the Diesels defence, although at times Nylon marksmen were left unmarked in front of LeFort in the Diesel nets. All three Diesel lines rose at times to speed throughout and they backchecked like fiends to beat Nylons at their adapted style of play.

Goalies Stand Out

LeFort and Udall the respective netminders for Diesels and Nylons, stellar goal-keeping performances. Both goalies outguessed the onrushing opposition at times when speeding forwards raced in alone. It was senior "B" hockey at its best with the Diesels having a distinct edge on the night's play.

Leo Gover set the Diesels' fans on the edge of their seats with that first minute goal, but he immediately drew a penalty. Wait Gover tied the score a minute later on Joey Catlin's pass but the Gover brothers erupted down ice two minutes later with Leo beating Udall cleanly from brother Vern's pass.

Williamson went off for high - sticking and Nylons applied the rubber home on passes from his mates. McKeown made the score 3-2 at twelve minutes but Johnny Sennick got his first goal of the night on a flashing foray with Al. Meagher and Doug Bastedo.

The same player scored on a brilliant solo effort early in the second period to give Diesels a 4-3 lead. He zipped around the Nylon defence, was knocked over, regained his feet and drove a slashing back-hand shot past a surprised Udall.

Increase Lead

Wardaugh increased the lead to 6-2 on a three-man attack with Barrett and MacDonald. Nylons fought back desperately but the hard - checking Diesels' front lines and clicking defence hurled them back. Keziuk got the only Nylon goal from Richardson midway through the period.

Diesels took command of the situation in the third period with Timmy Williams flashing brilliant hockey with Moser and Leo Gover to fire home a pair of goals. Catlin got the Kingston fourth goal from Blake after seven minutes but Keith MacDonald aided by Barrett added another for Diesels for good measure.

The game was delayed for some time in the third period when an excited fan hurled a whisky bottle (empty) on the ice. He was promptly removed by the law.

Catlin, Partis and Gerow battled gamely in a lost cause but their effectiveness of the first two games was lacking due to the hard back-checking of the Diesel front lines. Harrison, Blake, White and McKeown also stood out for the losers with of course the well-known Udall performing brilliantly in the nets.

The Teams

Nylons: Goal, Udall; defence, White, Keziuk; centre, McKeown; wings, Harrison, Greenlaw; subs Greenham, Gerow, Partis, Catlin, Sweetman, Blake, Stevenson, Wilkinson.

Tight Battle For Playoff Spots in Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Fans of the American Hockey League's western division have been sitting in on one of the closest and most exciting seasons in the league's history with the final games piling up a terrific battle for the first three top positions.

When the season comes to an end — in a week or two — only three top teams in the western loop will survive to enter the playoffs for the Calder Cup against the three top eastern division teams.

In the eastern it looks like Providence, Hershey and Springfield respectively in that order.

Providence has been the league's top winner of the year, and assured themselves of first position a month ago.

Springfield Indians virtually clinched third place Sunday night by defeating New Haven Ramblers, their closest threat, 6-3. Springfield now has a five-point margin for third spot.

Phil Nardozzi set the pace for the Indians, tallying twice, while Bill Golden, Bill Currier, Otie Schmidt and Paul Courteau scored one each. Chick Webster scored twice for New Haven and Jacques Pretorius once.

St. Louis Flyers nipped Buffalo Bisons 5-3 Sunday night to take over first position in the tight western division race. The victory put them a single point above the idle Cleveland Barons, who had held the pace by that margin.

Paul Gladeau scored twice for St. Louis and drew an assist on Tony Licardy's goal. Mudro Macklay potted the two Buffalo tallies.

Second-Place Tie

Indianapolis Capitals hoisted themselves into a second-place tie with Cleveland with a brilliant 6-3 victory over Hershey Bears.

Rod Morrison and Freddy Glover rammed home two goals apiece to lead the Caps, while Stela Pocolsky and Cliff Simpson scored the other two. Hershey goal-getters were Herb Cain, Freddy Hunt and Gordon Bruce.

Pittsburgh Hornets defeated Providence Reds 6-3 Sunday night. Eloy Kobussen and John (Peanuts) O'Flaherty each scored twice for the Hornets. Other Pittsburgh marksmen were Bob Dawes and Fleming Mackell.

Five games were played Saturday night. St. Louis downed Indianapolis 4-2; Cleveland defeated New Haven 4-2; Springfield battled to a 5-4 victory over Providence; Hershey white-washed Buffalo 5-0; and Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia 7-2.

Lumber Kings Even Series

Pembroke, March 14 (CP) — Pembroke Lumber Kings tied up their Senior Ottawa and District Hockey Association final series 1-1 Saturday when they edged out Cornwall Calumets 5-4 in the third game of a best - of - seven series. First game was tied.

Roy Glassbrook, Pembroke winger, sparked the Lumber Kings with a two-goal effort. Other Pembroke tallies were by Bill Fairweather, Inglis and Freemark.

Belleville Hoop Team Grabs Edge In Second Round

Belleville Intermediate 'B' basketball squad took a commanding eleven-point lead over the Peterborough Outboards' Marines in their first game of the second round of OABA playdowns on Saturday night in the Littlock City. The score was 56-45.

The second game of the points-to-count series will be played here on Friday night either at the YMCA or the Collegiate gymnasium, most likely the latter.

The Bellevills team playing their third game in as many nights, played impressive basketball despite the fact they were minus the services of a star guard George Garrow, who suffered a twisted knee in a previous game. The local squad eliminated the Kingston PWOR's in the first round series played on Thursday and Friday nights.

A win for the Belleville quintet here on Friday will give them the Eastern Ontario Intermediate "B" basketball title.

Should the 20-20 at the end of the first half, and playing consistent basketball scored an equal number of points in the second half as against 28 for the Marines.

Gord Wallin was the chief point - getter for the Belleville team notching fifteen. Dave Lesher lined up an even dozen while William Spafford helped himself to ten.

60 YEARS OF ACCOMPLISHMENT
1889 1949

In early days the "horse power", operated by teams of horses hitched to its arms and walking in a circle, supplied the power to operate the threshing machine and other farm machines. Today tractors and engines supply the power to operate most farm machines. Nickel Steel and Nickel Cast Iron are used in the important parts of tractors and other farm machines to give extra strength, toughness and wear resistance, and to eliminate breakdowns.

Canadian Nickel sold Abroad brings in U.S. Dollars

Since more than ninety per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is sold to the United States and other countries, it brings a constant flow of dollars back to Canada. In fact, Canada's Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars so essential at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products not produced in this country.

These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees, and help provide the dollars which make it possible to pay millions in freight to Canadian railways, to buy timber, steel, coal, machinery and supplies amounting to many millions each year.

These millions, flowing into all industries through the length and breadth of Canada, help create jobs for Canadians.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Not so hot is it sitting in the judge's box. Many a bridge quiz dare not be answered with a plain yes or no. This because inquirers may start from a basis to which I do not subscribe.

A fan sends me this hand:

♠J
♥A K Q 8 7 6
♦K 6 5
♣A Q 3

Writes he: "When I open one heart and partner in north responds with a spade, what is my next bid?" My answer to this would have been three hearts.

But he went on: "If I rebid only two hearts; we may pass a game. If I jump rebid three hearts it would show a fit in his suit. So, I bid four hearts. Wasn't that the best bid?"

What gets me is that crack about a jump rebid showing a fit for partner's suit. Where do they get that stuff? Is it a private opinion? Or is it a telepathic brain storm?

A jump is a signal with a very definite meaning. It does not say anything about having a fit. All it says is that it sees enough for a game. It simply promises tricks enough to help make a game.

South has a count of eight tricks. They are his six high cards and two shorts in spades. The north response shows not less than three tricks. Thus does south see 11 tricks.

With 11 tricks in the pair there is a game in something. A player who sees 11 tricks notifies his partner of this with a jump. This he does whether or not he has or sees a fit.

A double jump to four hearts is a shutout signal. It tells partner there is no hope for a slam and only a gamble for game. Which would not be sensible here. Because partner may have help for slam.

The fit-jumpers make other problems for themselves. To avoid showing a fit with a hand that should jump they must bid phoney suits. A wrong basic start learn your smoothness apart.

Hollywood, March 14 (AP) — There stood Oliver Hardy, chins and all, but something was missing. No Stan Laurel.

For the second time in 33 years of existence, the famed comedy team of Laurel and Hardy has split up. I found round, firm and fully-packed Hardy in a buckskin outfit on the set of John Wayne's "A Strange Caravan." He admitted that a couple of cows gave their lives to supply the costume.

I asked if his present role meant a permanent split with the wistful Laurel.

"No, no," Babe assured. "This is just temporary until we get active again. In fact, my salary goes to our joint corporation. We've been incorporated since 1935."

The two comics began performing together in 1926. Until now they had only one professional division. That was in 1935 when they were working under separate contracts to Hal Roach. Stan had a dispute with the producers and left the lot.

Hardy had to finish out his contract and Roach put him into a thing called "Zenobia," co-starring Billie Burke, Alice Brady and an elephant. The picture fell flat on its trunk, and Babe rejoined his teammate.

Non-Support

Their last Hollywood contract was with 20th.-Fox. They quit because of non-support.

In 1947, the pair played successfully all over Europe. Babe shed 75 pounds and was happy with the experience. "I tasted my first champagne and my first horse meat," he said slowly. He now is back to his standard 295 pounds.

Hardy offered a reason for their recent inactivity.

"The producers don't seem to want to be associated with slapstick comedy," he said. "It hurts their prestige," he said. "Actually the comedy situation comedy than slapstick."

Laugh-Thirsty

He hoped (as do I) that film makers would realize the public's thirst for laughs.

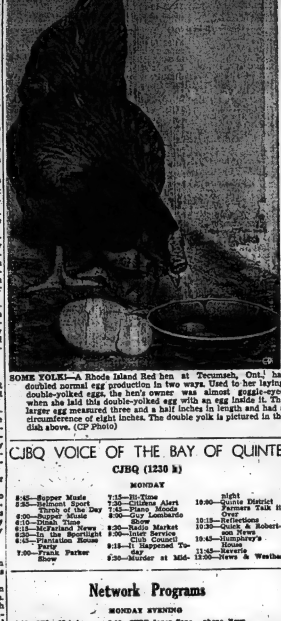
Babe said that he and Stan have never had any friction. "Why should we argue? We both do different things professionally. What I do, he can't do, and vice versa.

Yardmen-Car Dept Tie First Game CNR Finals

Overcoming a two goal deficit in the first period, the Yardmen came from behind to earn a two-all tie with the Car Dept. in the first game of the best two-out-of-three Canadian National Railways Hockey League finals at the Memorial Arena Saturday afternoon.

Shortly after the first Car Dept. goal when he took Pope's pass close into beat Boyle in the Yard net, Dwyer added a two nothing seconds later, scoring from a scramble with Short drawing the assist.

The Yardmen hit the score sheet midway through the second period when Harvey scored on a screened shot from the blueline. Flay roughened up at this point and Redwood Carson issued the only three penalties of the game, two to the Car Dept. and one to the Yard.



The Yardmen went on the offensive in the third period and were rewarded when Rogers took Bill Little's pass to catch the lower right hand corner of the net to tie the game.

Line ups: Car Dept. — Goal, Foote; defence, Sones and Maitis; forwards, Foster, Culkin and Degenova; subs, McLaughlin, Storms, Taylor, Duval, Pope, Gazley and Shortis.

Yardmen—Goal, Boyle; defence, Hall and Rogers; forwards, Ronsky, Meens, McDonald; subs, Harvey, Means, H. Pope, E. Pope, W. Little, V. Little and Gerow.

Referee, Red Carson; Linesman, Huck Reeves; Timekeeper, Dick Young.

SOME YOLK! — A Rhode Island Red hen at Tecumseh, Ont., has double-yolked normal egg production in two ways. Used to her laying double-yolked eggs, the hen's owner was almost goggle-eyed when she laid this double-yolked egg with an egg inside it. The larger egg measured three and a half inches in length and had a circumference of eight inches. The double yolk is pictured in the dish above. (CP Photo)

Governor-General Will Make Visit To Hollywood

Ottawa, March 14 (CP)— Viscount Alexander, always on the go, will make a flying trip to Los Angeles Thursday, his fourth to the United States since his appointment as Governor-General in 1946.

He will make his first visit to a Hollywood movie set and receive his fourth honorary degree from an American university, this time the University of California which will present him with an honorary degree of laws.

Accompanied by his secretary, Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, Viscount Alexander will leave in an R.C.A.F. Dakota Thursday.

He'll stop off at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, visit Canadian and British officers training at the General Staff School there, and continue the journey next day.

At Los Angeles the Governor-General will deliver the Charter Day address at the University of California March 21 and move on to San Francisco to deliver the same address to California students there March 23.

On the return trip, the Governor-General will stop off at Victoria, Vancouver and Winnipeg, arriving in Ottawa March 30.

'Two Blind Mice' Full of Laughs Performed by Brilliant Cast

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, March 12 — (CP)— Government red tape gets a thorough going-over in a new comedy which has just reached Broadway.

A new play by Samuel Spewack — half of the husband-and-wife Spewack team — "Two Blind Mice" is loaded with laughs and capably performed by a cast that is mostly supporting players. As a matter of fact, performance is the entire comedy, for on recapitulation there are really few funny lines — just lots of situations that cause continual belly-laughs.

Movie actor Melvyn Douglas gives a believable performance of a weakly newspaper man. The play concerns a government bureau which was abolished but red tape caused the federal order to be mislaid and so on he goes.

To convolute his work, the bureau raises funds by renting out space to a dance salon, a cleaning and pressing establishment, an auto parking lot and a young couple in need of an apartment. Complications set in when the government asks for space and they pile up so swiftly, the playgoer has little time to recover from one laugh before he's swept into the next, laughing all the harder.

Prize supporting-role honors go to Mady Feign, one of two old ladies who continue to run the defunct bureau. In a word, she's a riot — and so's the play. It's staged by the author, and is at the Cort Theatre.

Happy Ending

Allyn McLorie, now singing and dancing in "Where's Charley?" will be able to accept a leading role in the new Irving Berlin-Robert E. Sherwood musical, "Miss Liberty," after all. Ten days ago it was reported that McLorie, a native of Grand-Mere, Que., would be unable to get the new part because of inability to find a replacement for her in-service role in "Where's Charley?" Now the problem has been solved by postponing rehearsals of "Miss Liberty" for a month, until late May. Miss McLorie's contract with the producers of "Where's Charley?" runs out May 31.

Footlight Footnotes

The Hindu dance team of Sujata and Asoka is embarking shortly on a tour of appearances across Canada, starting in Quebec City. They appeared at Montreal Jan. 23 and give their first performance in the United States this Saturday night in New York.

John Yorke, general manager and Cheryl Crawford, will produce Sidney Kingsley's "Detective Story" next November. Yorke, a native of Toronto, is trying to get Margaret Sullavan to act in the play and Elia Kazan to direct it.

Flagging a Gag

Broadway hasn't had a good farce for a long time but "Mr. Roberts," with the Army as a reckless move to remedy the deficiency. This play by James B. Allardice deals with some of the more laughable aspects of wartime army life in a training camp. The sketchy plot revolves about a sergeant who tries to get overseas and the complications caused by his love life. It moves at the rapid-fire pace of a machine-gun and it doesn't really get into where it provides plenty of guffaws for patrons at the booth theatre. Ezra Stone directed and Donald Cenalager created the set of a company orderly room.

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

I was walking along with Chester Mages, just walking along, and we started to talk about different subjects such as accidently running your father mad, and Glasses said, Oh boy, maybe my father didn't get mad the other night. I woke up all of a sudden and remembered I left my flashlite out in the front steps and I better go down and see if anybody had swiped it, he said.

G, did they? I said, and Glasses said, No, because I hadn't even left it out there. It was safe on the hall table, but I must of made a lot of noise going down to find out, because my father came to the top of the stairs in the dark and called down kind of scared-like and asked if anybody was down there, and just then I pushed the flashlite button by mistake so I could see him but he could not see me, and he thawt it was berglers, and when, he found out it was only me he got mad instead of scared, and it was a lucky thing for him he was too nervies to, still madder, because excitement is suppose to be bad for his hart, Glasses said.

Well oh boy, talk about mad, you awt to of saw my father when I took his pants around to the tailers to be pressed and brawt back the wrong pair because the tailer wasn't sure which pair was pop's and he made the mistake of trusting my memory, I said, and Glasses said, Well, what of it? Couldn't you take them back and bring back the rite ones instead? he said.

Sure I could, if I had of took the rite ones in the ferst place, but my father looked in his closit and found out I had took his new blue ones instead of his old brown ones, and he got even madder when I told him it was a natural mistake because both colors start with a Bee, and he claimed he was never going to send me on another errand, but that sounds too good to be true, I said.

Bruins Hot After Second-Place Money Win Double From Leafs And Wings During Weekend

By HANS GROTTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The only thing certain now after another hectic National Hockey League weekend is the fact that Detroit Red Wings, Montreal Canadiens, Boston Bruins and the Toronto Maple Leafs are definitely going to be in playoffs.

That much, at least, was established at Chicago Sunday night when the defending champion Maple Leafs knocked off the fifth-place Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 and thus mathematically eliminated the last threat to their play-off spot.

Boston, by virtue of their two triumphs over the weekend now are entrenched in the runner-up slot, but only lead the third place Canadiens by one point. The Habitants in turn have only a four point margin over the fourth place Leafs.

Each of the three teams has three games left to play and a winning streak by any one of the clubs is liable to upset the present standing.

Both Boston and Canadiens emerged victorious in the only two games played Saturday. The Bruins edged the Leafs 2-1 in Toronto as the Flying Frenchmen battered Bill Durnan for his first shutout of the season as they blanked the tail-end New York Rangers 4-0 in Montreal.

Tramp Wings at Home

Sunday night, Boston thumped Detroit 6-2 right in the Wings' home ice as Montreal tied New York 1-1 and Toronto beat Chicago 3-1.

Great Warwick and Paul Ronty notched the Boston markers Saturday while the last three to their tally was scored by Harry Watson.

In Montreal, Durnan proved unbeatable once more and rang up his fifth shutout in six games. Rip Riopelle led the Canadien marksmen with two goals while defenceman Tom Johnson added a home one.

In New York Sunday it looked as though Durnan was on his way to another shutout, but rookie defenceman Bill Dineen fired a 16:50 to nullify Murph Chamberlain's second-period goal for the Rangers.

At Detroit Sunday night, Kenny Smith and Johnny Peirson led the Bruin snipers with two goals each while Jimmy Peters and Sugar Schinkle notched one apiece. Veterans Ted Lindsay and Sid Abel matched the Detroit tallies.

Besides losing the game, the Red Wings' fiery netminder, Harry Lumley, just about lost his chances of winning the Vezina Trophy this year. He relieved Bill Durnan by 17 goals and only a complete collapse on Durnan's part could rob Lumley of his 9th Vezina.

At Chicago, the Leafs' scoring was equally divided with Harry Watson, Max Bentley and Gus Mortson getting a goal each while the lone Hawk tally came from Jim Conacher in the first period.

Barrie Flyers Defeat Marlies By 5 to 2 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

It appears as if Barrie Flyers possess the know-how to take the Allan Cup Marlboros into the final, not 'A' title. And they have netminder Gil Mayer's standout stability to back it up.

The Flyers were up 1-0 in their best-of-seven final series Saturday afternoon by defeating Toronto Marlboros 5-2 in Toronto.

Hap Emms' charges felt right at home as they garnered their fifth straight playoff game. And Mayer was no stranger to his charges, even though he was recuperating from a slight case of pneumonia.

The Flyers surprised the sell-out crowd of some 13,000 fans when they bested their rivals. They drove into a 2-0 lead in the first period, held a 3-1 margin at the end of the second and then split two goals in the third session.

Only for a short while in the second period did Marlboros carry the offensive. Tommy Lockhart had a tough time in the nets to stop Barrie and again was at the mercy of the sharpshooting Flyers.

Flyers Score Easily

It took Emms' defending O.H.A. champions only 40 seconds to chalk up their first goal. It came when Stan Lee's drive deflected on a long screened shot. Minutes later Rick Hoog gave Barrie a 2-0 lead.

Early in the second session the Dukes came to life and George Armstrong beat Mayer on a hard shot that the little goalie-tender didn't see. Then Bill Ezinicki came back and Paul Meger put them up by two goals again. Only a minute left in the period Harold Hopper made it 4-1.

In the third period, the Marlies cut the margin when Larry Regan scored. However, Barrie fans could have no part of it. From then on they beamed the Toronto squad from their own end and sewed up the game when Ted McNabney tallied at 16:10.

Tonight the senior A playoffs continue when Toronto Marlboros meet Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at Waterloo in the fifth game of the best-of-seven final series. The Marlboros have a command ng 3-1 lead.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

State College, Pa., March 14—(AP)—Just a couple of hours after Penn State's undefeated football season at Penn State, one of Coach Bob Higgins' basketball tutors, was politely needling football coaches....Joe pointed out that the last scandals with the professional baseball moguls again had produced investigations that college ball players had to go out for spring football instead of playing baseball. I think the lesson of that than there used to be," said Joe.

Another Bedenk angle is that it's unfair to boys who are majoring in physical education not to let them go out for all sports ...it gets so a football man is only a football man and then high school principals start running men from the small teachers colleges, where they can compete in everything, as their physical education teachers...and most of our boys are physical education majors."...It sounds sensible, but we wonder how Bedenk is going to work it now he has a spring football and baseball practice rumbling at the same time—and he's head coach of both. You know how football coaches are. Uncertain Sons

Figures showed that 205 United States colleges and universities in a questionnaire sent out by the baseball coaches association have some 10,000 boys competing in baseball and pay 365 coaches ... just how much they spend to teach those kids the game is uncertain—and they stress the fact that they really have to teach in college football...but Penn State's 1949 budget, probably a typical one, calls for $11,700 for baseball.

Three Powers Move Closer to Union

The Hague, March 14 (AP) — Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg have moved one step nearer union. It was revealed yesterday that economic union of the three countries will become effective July 1, 1950. The union, when effective, will set up a free-trade area with common excise taxes and customs. The countries will also co-ordinate their commercial and monetary policies.

Sudbury Wolves Now in London On Way Home

By WILLIAM ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 14 (CP)—Sudbury Wolves remained in London Sunday night enthusiastic over the hockey Czechoslovakia opened for them in the form of Prague, however, there were misgivings over the world political outlook.

From Prague ago when the 15 Canadian players were competing in the world's amateur hockey championship at Slocokhom, they left Saturday for Stockholm via Wien. Life to them was one succession of hockey games, meals, hotel rooms and local diversions.

From manager-coach Max Silverman down, without exception, the team had appreciative words for the Czechs.

"They gave us a private plane, the crew stayed with us throughout the 'star touring almost part of the team," Silverman said. "We were covered with gifts and banquets—we couldn't pay for a thing."

"Nothing was too much trouble. They took us on sightseeing tours everywhere, on visits to their factories and industries and laid on dances for the boys after the games.

"Political talk, the diplomats about that," Silverman said. "We were ambassadors of sport.

"The Czechs gave us buttons were gifts—Czech glassware, costume jewelry and hand-embroidered blouses.

Players misgiving note was sounded from the players themselves.

They agreed that the hospitality was unusual but Tom Russell of Sudbury said: "It might be a just propaganda". He and his roommate Joe Perreault of Windsor spoke of seeing troop drills thro'ghout Czechoslovakia, evidence of a strong military element and of newly acquired conviction that Russia's way was coming, key' in the people.

No Feeling Around

There was no hesitation among the players as to whether they were getting the best hockey they ever had in competition.

Tergeson maintained that "if they kept on as they are then I saw no indication of it."

Goalie Al Picard, one of the two Sudbury players who visited the team, agreed with Russell and all the others, saying apparently not watched at least the Czechs were doing anything to hide them were.

Ray Bauer of Waterloo was reported to have made notes on his observations but hawth gone the Sudbury squad tonight and Bauer was not available.

Tergeson said: "They are not fooling around. It's nothing to see 5-rops drilling. We saw a giant parade in Prague celebrating the republic's first anniversary. It was a show of strength, two hours. Even factory workers had to take part or lose their jobs."

He said, however, that he felt that the Czechs were not communist-but Communist-held. "I'd say 75 per cent are party members and 10 per cent are party members because it helps their jobs."

Tergeson said the Czechs see Joe Diabastini of Cobalt, who played hockey in Prague with the game that sidelined him for the rest of the year, and Picard with 27 stitches still in his mouth from a mishap in a game with Switzerland.

Next Three Years Critical Period For Universities

London, March 14 (CP)—Fundamental changes in the financing of university education in Canada were recommended Friday by Brewster G. Edward Hall of the University of Western Ontario.

Dr. Hall, a prominent research scientist during the war, said in an interview that the next three years "can be the most critical period in the history of Canadian universities." He predicted that student university fees may have to be increased so greatly to meet expenditures that higher education would be confined to the wealthy.

Most seriously threatened by financial troubles were the four major private non-denominational colleges—Dalhousie at Halifax, McGill at Montreal, Queen's at Kingston, and Western.

He recommended increased government grants and an independent body such as the university grants committee in Great Britain, to administer the system.

The bodies, set up on a provincial basis, would survey financial needs of universities and then ask provincial treasurers for the money needed.

"The great burden of meeting current revenue," he said, "is passed on to increased student fees. With fees going up and up university education is becoming exclusive when it should be a privilege available for all capable of receiving it."

He said university leaders have had to become "executives, super-salesmen, leaders of delegations, and beggars, so that universities may even remain in existence."

Research done at university "should not be paid for through students' fees".

Dr. Hall said that under the British system, $70,000,000 — an average of about $760 per student—had been provided by the government with about state control.

In Ontario the average was $150 per student-about $3,700,000 for about 23,000 students.

By AL VICKERY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 14 (CP) — At least one sports writer thinks Joseph Pierre Gascon Cadieux, a Stratford, Ontario, junior hockey star suspended from organized hockey for five years for playing while over-age, might have a good case in court.

Amateur or not, the kinky-haired player, thinks Jack (London Free Press) Park, makes his livelihood from hockey Referring to the Canadian Hockey Association suspension, Park says: "Is this not a move by hockey czars to keep a boy from anything of earning a living?"

Same Category,

Park believes hockey officials took quite a chance when they handed down their suspension-but Communist-held. "I'd say they are in the same category as communists and 10 per cent are party members because it helps their jobs."

Goalie Al Picard, one of the two Sudbury players who visited the team, agreed with Russell and all the others, saying apparently not watched at least the Czechs were doing anything to hide them were.

Ray Bauer of Waterloo was reported to have made notes on his observations but hawth gone the Sudbury squad tonight and Bauer was not available.

Rose by Another Name

"Bill Shakespeare, that well-known author from Stratford-On-Avon that is —once made the immortal crack that a rose by any other name would still give off a pleasing odor.

"If he were in Stratford today —Perth County, Ont., that is — he might not think so much about his profound statement.

"Apparently there are just as many varieties of Cadieuxes as there are roses, and some of them don't carry the same charm as others, at least not in the eyes of the O.H.A. They have decided that Joseph Raymond Pierre Charles Cadieux is not that great at all. He is actually Joseph Pierre Gascon Cadieux — and in their eyes there is quite a difference — three years to be exact.

Police Holding Eight Persons In Alleged Ring

Hull, Que., March 14 (CP)—Police today were holding a total of eight persons in connection with an alleged abortionist ring, believed to have operated in Ottawa, Hull and Montreal.

Latest to be detained Friday night were three women, arrested by police as "victims" of the ring which completed at least 100 illegal operations during the last two years.

Names of the three women, held as material witnesses, were not disclosed. Police said they are seeking another 30 to clear up investigations started last Monday with the death of Jacqueline Lambert, 25-year-old Hull girl.

The girl was believed to have died from an illegal operation performed at nearby Deschenes in mid-January. Police said a statement obtained from her eight days before her death, started them on the path to smash the ring.

The five other persons held — one on a charge of murder — are being questioned at the Montreal headquarters of the Quebec Provincial Police.

Despite British attempts to check the flow, Jews continue to infiltrate over the Yemen border into Aden and "magic carpet" operations may continue for some time.

Aden's Governor, Sir Reginald Champion, said he had arrived as Jews in the Yemen wished to help, but he feared many more had continued to crowd into the British Protectorate. "He said asked Sir Reginald, requesting Acheson to take measures to stop the exodus from the Yemen.

Fatality Toll Reaches Ten In Eastern Canada

By The Canadian Press

The Maritime Provinces, with six violent deaths during the week-end, headed the front of a fatality toll of 10 in eastern Canada.

The Canadian Press recorded three deaths in railway mishaps, two drownings and two fires. Also reported were a pedestrian and automobile accounted for the other fatalities.

Leon Mailer, 48-year-old fisherman of Yarmouth, N.S., drowned when his skiff capsized in Lobster Lake, N.S., Roy Langille, was hit by a train at Antigonish, N.S. Donald Nelly, 16, was accidentally shot. The body of George Patterson was found at Wentworth, N.S., with his rifle nearby.

Clarence Brown, 63, a Fredericton, N.B., motorist, was killed in a car accident. A farmer near Fredericton, Percy Crouse, 59, died of injuries caused when his horse bolted and dragged him under a low-set barn.

Dorothy Parker, 17, of Woodstock, Ont., died in hospital there of injuries from a Friday night fire that destroyed the family home in Toronto Peter Dewda, 61, was fatally injured when he walked in front of a city street car.

Searchers at St. Catharines, Ont. are dragging the waters of the old Welland Canal for the body of Harry Green, 65-year-old civic employee, who is believed to have drowned.

The body of an unidentified man, about 65 years old, was found on the railway tracks near Sundridge, Ont., near North Bay. Police said the man had been struck by a train.

Yemenite Jews, 'Lost Tribes,' Fly To Palestine

Tel Aviv, March 14 (Reuters) —Bellying themselves to belong to Israel's lost tribes, a group of Yemenite Jews have just made the 1,500-mile flight from Aden to Israel—their first air trip—with the same philosophical Oriental calm as they accepted a new way of life.

The interior of the modern plane was filled with amulets, sacred scrolls and rams' horns while the migrants' women I.e. accompanied were the flowing robes of the desert over European clothing distributed to them before they embarked.

Ancestors of these Jews have lived in the Yemen since Biblical times. As non-Moslems they lived under restrictive Arab laws and fled to Aden at the outbreak of the Palestine fighting which coincided with internal political unrest.

Those of military age were detained by British authorities during the Palestine truce.

Many new arrivals moved to Israel at the rate of 150 a day being questioned at the Montreal headquarters of the Quebec Provincial Police.

Despite British attempts to check the flow, Jews continue to infiltrate over the Yemen border into Aden and "magic carpet" operations may continue for some time.

Aden's Governor, Sir Reginald Champion, said he had arrived as Jews in the Yemen wished to help, but he feared many more had continued to crowd into the British Protectorate. "He said asked Sir Reginald, requesting Acheson to take measures to stop the exodus from the Yemen.

House Passes Number of Bills

Toronto, March 14. (CP) — Clergymen are relieved of some of their taxes by a measure passed by the legislature.

Another bill introduced by Municipal Affairs Minister Porter provides that a nurse or some other qualified person not necessarily a doctor — may certify deaths from natural causes. The bill was designed to relieve the necessity of doctors travelling great distances to view the body.

An amendment to the Companies Act provides that every corporation registered under the section of the Companies Act dealing with co-operatives must include in the word "co-operative" in its corporate name. It also provides that co-operatives shall have only one type of share with a par value of $5 or a multiple of $5 and not exceeding $100.

Doctor's Bill Crossed off Family Budgets

By EDWIN SHANKE

That was the first result for 20 per cent of the population of England, Wales and Scotland since Britain's revolutionary socialized medicine plan became effective last summer.

There is free medical and dental care, medicine, eyeglasses and surgical appliances for all. But only in the sense that the patient doesn't get a doctor's or dentist's bill. Instead, the government foots the whopping bill of £ 306,180,000 ($852,180,000) out of taxes. Another £ 54,000,000 comes from the National Insurance Fund to which all contribute. That's the cost for the first nine months of state medicine in Britain.

The health ministry says approximately 41,500,000 persons have signed as public patients out of about 50,000,000 eligibles. Of 21,000 general practitioners, 18,-165 have agreed to work in the program. Dentists have enrolled about 100 per cent — 9,000 out of 10,000.

Nearly All Druggists Signed

Nearly all 7,000 opticians, and 14,000 of 16,000 druggists signed. They dispensed last year by 2,387 hospitals with 258,000 staffed beds. Private clinics remain, totals which continue to operate privately.

Doctors' waiting rooms are filled. The offices of dentists are bulging. Medicine always understaffed and underequipped, have waiting lists many times longer than before. The health ministry says, "the important thing to remember is that the scheme is working.

The health ministry originally estimated total medical medicine would cost Britain £ 149,675,000 in the first nine months.

The rush for service — particularly for free medicine, spectacles and dental treatment — upset the calculations.

Two months before the end of the fiscal year, on December 31, the health ministry asked parliament for another £ 98,455,-000 to meet expenses.

The British Medical Association, meeting in Brighton in progress closely, estimates the annual cost will be closer to £ 250,-000,000. That would be more than a third of Britain's normal pre-war revenue.

Remember That Night

By Margaret Corman Nichols

He knocked against a door and a high feminine voice asked, "Yes? Who is it?"

"I'm sending Miss Mallare in. Help her get fixed up." Looking down at Karen's shining dark head, he said, "You're on first. I'm depending on you. Good luck, kid." Tomorrow, he thought, he'd either have a headache or a new binex singer would be launched upon a career. Oh well, take a chance. . This was a game of chance anyway.

Lolita's black eyes flashed through a mask of cold cream.

"Hullo," she said with a hint of Spanish accent. "You're so pale! Much too pale. The lights make you look dead. The eyes should sparkle. Poor Roxanne! She love him so much. Her Bill. She talk about him all the time. Come I'll fix you up." Darkening Karen's thick dark lashes, she continued in her high, excited voice, "Now don't be frightened. Look at one man and sing to him as if you love him very much."

"I can't help it - I am scared."

"Tonight! Yes! But tomorrow night a little less . . I know. There! Don't let Sam scare you. He doesn't say much but he's the tapped her head, he think! You know-what he think!" she laughed. "That all the men think you are very beautiful."

A few minutes later as she stood in the narrow hall, she heard the orchestra leader introduce her. If Philip were here—"Sing to him as if you love him very much."

But when she was standing in the spotlight, she could distinguish no particular face. The music began slowly.

Looking at her, slim and dark-haired with the pleated gray chiffon spilling gracefully about she tall-heeled silver sandals, Sam Kasten was, still convinced that she would never be a great singer but he knew that she would be an asset to his floor show.

Five nights later Philip came in with young Tommy Nolting. The place was crowded. The waiter led them to a table near the orchestra.

Coming on, Karen saw him. But it was to the tall blond young man she sang and Tommy responded with a flattered smile.

In the doorway Sam Kasten wagged his nearly bald head. Tommy Nolting, the playboy, and Philip Ashley, the playwright. And Sam Kasten told himself that either he was a smart man or else it had been his lucky day the day Karen Mallare came to him.

Her songs over, Karen lowered her head, smiled, and left the spotlight. In the narrow artists hall before the dressing room she stopped and pressed her hands against her burning face. Philip! Would he be there when she sang again?

Tommy Nolting turned to Philip with a pleased smile. "I've never seen her before. How'd I miss her. And she was singing to me. Say, she's not bad at all. I'm staying right here until I see her again. I wonder who she is."

Philip's brown eyes were amused. He wished he could throw back his head and laugh. "Control your excitement. I know her."

"You do?"

"Her name is Karen Mallare and she's been in New York only a few weeks. She came to go on the stage. Serious drama, you know." What fine dreams she had had the first night he had talked to her! Poor child. And her dreams had brought her to this. Beauty for sale, he thought grimly. Men like Tommy would see her and admire her and meet her . . ."

"Loosen up 'some more," Tommy said. "For a man in love you certainly get around." He grinned at Philip. "But hands off. You might have discovered her but . . ."

Philip frowned. "I didn't, but I might have, I mean," he said, looking into Tommy's spoiled handsome face, "that I might have saved her from this. Oh, this is all right, but not for her. She wants to be an actress. She loves the stage. I might have helped her but I didn't because I didn't want Lilyan to think I was playing around while she was with her dad's father in England."

"You're pretty serious about her, aren't you?"

"Never more serious. And it's been perfect. No quarrels. No misunderstandings. Everything mutual. She's perfect. She also has enough on her mind without thinking I'm taking a short romantic excursion with a world town girl with stage ambitions. Besides," he paused to light a cigarette, "how do I know she has anything but a fighting heart? She has that, all right."

Tommy grinned. "And that's not all. She's beautiful."

"She's a lovely girl," Philip said seriously. "Too sweet and lovely for what she's doing. I'm sorry that we can't seem to escape each other. Brenda thinks she's beautiful, too. But I think Brenda hopes she'll go back to the small town boy and forget Broadway."

He smiled and looked away. His eyes were suddenly very thoughtful. "But Karen Mallare has hitched her wagon to a star."

Tommy lifted his glass. "We're staying. I'm going to meet her. You don't mind, do you?"

Yes, he did mind. He knew Tommy. New face, new fancy, fast horses, parties. Year in and year out since he had inherited more money than he could spend, he had made the same merry rounds. Philip had not seen him for quite some time but tonight he had called, saying he had just got back from his farm in Maryland, and how about their getting together tonight?

"I don't know," Philip said. "Karen isn't your type, Tommy. She has a serious, idealistic slant. She had seen her angry, hurt tears in her eyes one night, and for the first time in his life he had thought tears beautiful. But Tommy would laugh at that and think it a huge joke.

"Don't worry. I won't break her heart."

Philip's brown eyes sprang alive. "It's not that. Don't let her break yours . . You think that your money is all-powerful. But there are still a few things money can't buy."

"How you rate with her!" Tommy Nolting asked.

That made Philip smile. "I don't think Karen loathes me. She thinks I took her to Helene Ward's party to be snubbed. She was the prettiest girl there but she had on cheap clothes and Karen still made a mark. She doesn't worry about me. I don't rate."

Tommy grinned again. "That's a help. When you rate, I don't. She was wearing artificial violets, did you notice? Tomorrow night they'll be real."

Mashing out his cigarette, Philip said. "Bernie Tappen is out of town. He gets back, I'll let you know and I want you to take Karen to see him. He has a play going rehearsal before long. I'll fix it up. All you have to do is to take her to his office. She isn't to know I'm doing it for her."

Tommy said, "My pal! It'll be a pleasure!"

Karen did not look in Philip's direction the next time she appeared. But he was close, so close that if she reached out her hand, she could touch him. Sing to him! Hold out her heart to him in her songs? Never!

She was wondering if he and his younger friend were still there when she left. Wagging his head, chewing on a cigar, Sam Kasten murmured in this thick voice, "Good night, Miss Mallare," as she stepped on the elevator.

And when she stepped off, she saw Philip and his friend in the lobby, saw them come to her.

Philip smiled. "You were splendid, Karen!" He didn't say how lovely he thought her. "We waited to hear you twice." He glanced at Tommy. "Hold on, yo . . I mean, let me get in a word first.

She knew her eyes were shining. "You were surprised, weren't you? It's a long story. Why I'm doing this."

"Let's go some place and hear it," Tommy said. "Since Philip won't introduce me, I'll do it myself. Thomas Nolting is the name. Tommy to you. Let's go some place and celebrate. You haven't got a birthday soon as an excuse for celebrating, have you?"

Her birthday. It was as if a cold hand had passed over, obscuring the sunshine. Standing between Philip whom she loved and a blond young man with a charming smile, she thought, "Tommy, you must forget that I haven't a real name like other girls and I don't know who I am."

She smiled at Tommy. "No. Sorry. I haven't a birthday soon."

But Tommy said, "No, come along."

Philip smiled. "Now that's an idea because if I don't take you up on the invitation, I'll never dance with Karen again. And she dances beautifully. You see, I'm going to London soon."

He was going to London to see Lilyan Kane.

"Everything all set?" Tommy asked. "What are we waiting for?"

In Tommy's luxurious car of foreign make they went to a supper club where Karen told them about Roxanne and Bill.

"All her life," she said, "Roxanne is going to be tortured by one question: "Why did he do it?"

And later as she danced with Philip, she hated herself because she couldn't be gay with him, because she couldn't think of anything to say, and she was afraid. If she looked up, her eyes would betray her. But how precious these moments were, how short, how unique. To be with him again and again long after tonight! "In my room," she thought, "I hate him because he is not in his arms. In his arms I love him. And he is going to London soon to see Lilyan Kane.

She danced with Tommy who said, "Keep the fourth of July open or I'll never forgive you. I bought a place on Long Island just to throw a party that night." He laughed. "You don't believe me? Ask Philip. And come out Sunday with me to christen the boat. Forget your troubles."

"I can't make any engagements for evenings." She smiled. "I work."

More Pigs Being Raised in Canada

Ottawa, March 14 (CP)— Indications are that the spring pig crop in Canada this year may be almost 20 per cent larger than last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

Increases are expected for all provinces with the greatest change indicated in Manitoba, where a 37 per cent increase is anticipated. However, the bureau adds, a substantial rise in the Maritime provinces, with increases of 22 and 19 per cent for Ontario and Quebec respectively, will have the most significant effect on the size of the crop.

There were 14 per cent fewer hogs on Canadian farms at Dec. 1, 1948, than at the same date the year before. The fall pig crop was about 90 per cent of what it had been in 1947.

Total number of hogs at Dec. 1, was 4,604,200, compared with 5,381,200 the previous year.

Sentence Reduced To Five Years By MG Court

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 14 (AP) A United States military government appeals court today reduced from 20 to five years the prison sentence imposed on Mrs. Wilma Ybarbo for killing her soldier husband.

The five-judge court confirmed the right of United States military government courts to try United States civilians in occupied Germany. The decision also upheld the right of such courts to try American civilians under German law.

The court found, however, that under German law the sentence could be for no more than five years.

Mrs. Ybarbo, 22-year-old mother from Malden, Mass., was found guilty under both German and United States military government law of shooting her husband, Sgt. John Ybarbo, during an argument in their home last fall.

Mrs. Ybarbo's seven-day trial was a sensational one, spiced with witnesses' stories of illicit love, soldier-frauline parties and husband-wife brawls.

The pretty 23-year-old defendant, mother of a six-year-old son, testified her husband told her two German girls were pregnant by him when she joined him in Germany late in 1945.

2,000 CHICKS, 50 PIGS LEFT IN MORNING FIRE

Burlington, Ont., March 14— (CP)—About 2,000 chickens and more than 50 pigs were destroyed in a fire last night which levelled a barn and chicken coop on the Halton County farm of Bryce Lockhart near here. The glow from the fire could be seen in Hamilton, about 10 miles away across Hamilton Bay.

Group of Mennonites Back From Paraguay

New York, March 14 — (AP)— A group of 47 Mennonites from Manitoba, who went to Paraguay last spring to try farming there, returned here by plane last night.

Diedrich Wiebe, of Altona, Man., a member of the group, said the Paraguayan government, which experienced three changes of administration during the last year, had not kept its original promises to the migrant farmers. He said the group found the task of clearing the jungle too great and the type of farming required by the country too far removed from their previous experience.

Wiebe said some others of the 1,100 already have returned to Canada and more are to follow.

Brighteners

Sullivan, Ill., (CP)— Bernie Freeman's cow, Jole, is ready for entrance into the bovine limelight darby which is sweeping the United States.

The electric lights have been going on in Freeman's barn at night for several weeks. It's been driving Freeman frantic.

Recently he turned out the barn light, got into his car and started for Sullivan. As he stepped into the car, the lights flashed on.

That did it. Freeman dashed for the barn. All he saw was contented cows. He flicked the lights out again and hid in a dark corner. Then the lights flashed on again.

Jole had reached up above her feed box and flicked the switch with her nose or her tongue Freeman wasn't sure which.

Now Freeman disconnects the power line to douse the lights.

London (Reuters) —One of the inventions to be shown at the British industrial fair next May, is an "electric housemaid" which will peel potatoes, scour pots and pans, clean shoes, polish buttons, mince meat, grind coffee, whisk eggs, stir puddings.

Its inventors worked five years on it and now are experimenting to make it wash clothes and dishes.

$1,000,000 LOSS WHEN ARMY PIER BURNS IN CALIF.

Exploding Oil Drums Threatened Fireboats With Two Ships Nearby

Oakland, Calif., March 15 (AP) —Leaping flames, fed by bursting oil drums, destroyed a huge army pier here today. Loss was estimated by the military at more than $1,000,000.

Two ships tied to the pier were damaged slightly before navy tugs got them to the safety of the bay. Adjacent warehouses and the entire Oakland industrial waterfront area were threatened for several hours as exploding drums buried blazing oil hundreds of feet.

The 1,000-foot pier was one of the largest used to supply men and supplies were dispatched to all Pacific points in the war. It was run south of the Oakland end of the San Francisco bay bridge.

The fire flared at midnight. Eight hours later fire boats and land equipment were pouring sea water into the smouldering ruins.

While the pier was a total loss burned, an adjacent building was untouched by fire. They were separated only by an areaway.

The blistering heat from exploding oil drums and other inflammable materials hampered firemen. Paint, rubber tires and other combustibles jammed the burning warehouse, feeding the leaping flames.

Two soldiers were hurt slightly. Fifty army families were evacuated from nearby residences.

Cause of the fire was not determined, but a possibility of sabotage was not discounted. Col. George Brown, pier commander for the army base, said an investigation would be conducted at once.

Nearby industrial plants were damaged slightly by the flames spread by 30-mile-an-hour winds, the 10,000-ton army transport, Sgt. George O. Keathley.

Bodies of Two Of Four Victims Are Recovered

Hamilton, March 15 — (CP) — Harbor patrolmen continued the search today for the bodies of two of four boys drowned during a Ten Sawyer treasure-hunting voyage aboard Hamilton Bay in a makeshift raft.

Still missing are Bernard Leson 16, and John Barclay, 14. Searchers Monday found the bodies of Gerry Szerowaski, 14, and Murray Smith, 11, in the icy water near the spot where the boys broke up the chums' homemade raft was discovered Sunday.

The boys, all close friends, spent Sunday making the raft from discarded army pontoons, tanks and pieces of boards. They drew maps of the bay, fastened a tattered felt pennant to the raft and collected a supply of doughnuts, a blanket, a wooden sword and a borrowed lifejacket.

They probably lifted their craft over a fence and launched it from the property of one of many factories along the bay shore. Searchers believe the sloppy water worked nails loose and the raft fell broke up, throwing the boys into the water.

William Barclay, father of one of the missing boys, spent the day night on the bay's shoreline. The other parents also spent a sleepless night as the search, begun after midnight, continued. Monday the patrolmen left the water after dragging for the bodies for more than 24 hours in a chilling wind.

DREW DENOUNCES ST. LAURENT AS "BUREAUCRAT"

Charges Position Used For Political Gain

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 15 (CP)—A bitter denunciation of Prime Minister St. Laurent as Canada's "No. 1 Bureaucrat," a one time servant of the "big interests" and a wielder of the "tools of the Communists" was inscribed "on the parliamentary record yesterday.

It was placed there by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, when he opened a hammer-and-tongs attack on the Prime Minister in a Commons control debate and charged that he had used the power of his position for "political purposes."

The opposition leader swung back to the Hong Kong controversy which started seven years ago, and repeated his statement that Mr. St. Laurent, as Justice Minister, had used the "power of censorship"to screen Mr. Brown's criticism of the government for sending an ill-trained, ill equipped detachment to Hong Kong.

He said Mr. St. Laurent had been guilty of "contemptible tactics when he told a meeting in Montreal recently that the Progressive Conservatives were going under the control of "financial interests."

The Prime Minister himself, Mr. Drew told the chamber had been in the opposition last year" who had "served the big interests" before he entered the House in 1941 as well as being a director of a bank, a trust company and a holding firm.

Prime Minister Silent

Mr. St. Laurent who sat opposite Mr. Drew in the government front bench remained silent and did not reply, though he may choose to do so at a later stage in the debate.

Private Railroad At Asbestos, Que., Dynamited

Asbestos, Que., March 15 (CP) —Canadian Johns-Manville Co. officials said today a portion of the company's private railroad linking Asbestos with Danville, Que., was dynamited during the night.

"We don't know where the responsibility lies but we do know Canadian Mounted Police are investigating," a company spokesman said.

The Canadian Johns Manville setting operations at Asbestos are shut down since Feb. 13 when asbestos miners went on strike demanding a 15 cents an hour increase which would bring asbestos miners' basic wage up to $1 an hour.

The blast was said to have so buckled and damaged the rails that traffic over that portion was impossible. The road-bed and right-of-way suffered no damage.

DEATHS BELIEVED DUE TO AMMONIA GAS

Sherbrooke, Que., March 15 — (CP) — A 75-year-old woman and her 51-year-old son were found dead of what was believed to be ammonia gas Monday afternoon, in their home here.

The woman, Mrs. Gaulin, whose first name was not immediately known, and Carmen Pelletier were found in bed by neighbors when neighbors investigated escaping fumes.

The Pelletier girl's parents were at work at the time.

Fuel Oil Price Slightly Reduced

Toronto, March 15 (CP)—Imperial Oil Co. officials today announced a reduction of one-fifth of a cent per gallon in the price of furnace fuel oil and stove oil in Ontario.

Following the announcement, the company said the reduction was in line with adjustments made in eastern United States markets.

In the east the reductions apply to furnace fuel oil and stove oil, and in Ontario to furnace oil and what is known as space-heating oil. The changes are effective immediately.

Prices and reductions vary with the position of places in regard to distribution centres.

Paris Prisoner Back in Jail, Tunnel Exposed

Paris, March 15 (Reuters)—Eighty political and common law prisoners were back in jail today after attempting to escape through a 70-yard tunnel they had scooped with knives and forks.

Warders discovered at the last minute that for three months the prisoners had been digging. Each day was prepared as he emerged to "freedom".

Tanker's Crew Guided by Rope Over 1,500 Yards of Ice For Cigarettes

Goderich, March 15 (AP) — Guided by the ship's search-light and linked together with rope, 10 members of the ice-bound tanker, Imperial Kingston, Monday night trekked across 1,500 yards of solid ice to this Georgian Bay town for chocolate bars and cigarets.

The stranded Kingston broke a 17-year record Saturday when she reached Goderich for the earliest opening of navigation in these waters since 1932 But the tanker became jammed in off-shore ice.

Decision to allow the ice crossing was made after the Kingston's chief officer, Harold Simcoe, abandoned efforts to free the Kingston and moved out into open water. The Simcoe made an all-night run Sunday down the lake from Sarnia and moved to within 300 yards of the Kingston. Attempts to free the Kingston by means of cables failed as cable after cable joining the two ships broke.

Company officials said the only hope for the ice-locked ship was an east wind which would blow the ice off shore and loosen the icy grip on the ship.

VICTIMS OF ADVENTURE

Four young Hamilton, Ont., boys started out Sunday afternoon in a home-made raft in search of treasure on Hamilton Bay. The bodies of two of the boys were found Monday afternoon and hope has been abandoned that the other two will be found alive. The four built a raft from two old airplane pontoons and planks. It was found together with water-soaked blankets, food and rough "treasure" maps Sunday night on the shore of the bay. Here are the four victims, left to right: Barry Personick, 14; Bertrand Lezon, 14; Murray Smith, 11; and John Barclay, 14. — (CP Photo.)

U.K. Balances Trade Account With World Dollar Problem Called 'Worst Danger Spot'

London, March 15 (Reuters) — Britain in her battle for recovery, has balanced her trade account with the rest of the world as a whole—but still faces a vast dollar deficit.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, described the dollar problem as "the worst danger spot in the economy."

His 65-page report reveals that Britain is expected to have a surplus of £50,000,000 ($200,000,000) in her balance of external payments for the 12 months ending June 30.

This comes as a surprise, because as recently as last December the government estimated a deficit of £362,000,000 for this period.

Not only has Britain achieved a balance with the world—she expects to retain it, the survey says.

"The outstanding fact is that despite the assumption of a considerable increase in imports our payments are expected to remain approximately in balance," it adds. But it sounds this sobering note on general prospects: "It is impossible to foresee that 1949 will improve on 1948 as markedly as did 1948 on 1947."

It describes Britain's feat in balancing her world account as a "noteworthy achievement," comparing it with the huge deficit of £ 930,000,000 in 1947.

Within the balance with the world as a whole, the dollar deficit for the first half of 1949 is forecast at £ 185,000,000 ($1,180,000,000). This compares with £ 169, 000,000 in the second half of 1948, £ 254,000,000 in the first half of 1948 and the total level of £ 1,024,000,000 for the whole of 1947.

Primary concern of the survey is with the dollar deficit and the need to become independent of United States and Canadian help.

"Above all else in 1949," it says "we so conduct our affairs that we can do without such help as soon as possible."

Production, Export Tasks

It stresses the following as the two fundamental tasks which must be the drive for self efficiency during 1949:

1. Maximum exports to Canada and the United States.

2. Further exertions to expand productions, especially of coal, steel, textiles and agriculture.

3. Continuous efforts to reduce costs, particularly of exports, and to improve equality.

4. The battle against inflation and the threatened rise in the cost of living must continue to be fought."

The survey adds:

"Our object is not to build up non-dollar world from which dollar goods are to be consumed currently and increasingly excluded. It is to eliminate the deficit with the dollar world so that we can build during the years to a normal pattern of world trade."

All forecasts and program for 1949 are based upon the assumption of adequate North American aid.

"It is because this assistance is temporary and because we are determined to be able quickly to do without it, that our forward plans are directed primarily to solving the problem of the dollar deficit and that other aims take second place," the survey concludes.

Shake-up in Soviet Russia Reaches Into Praesidium' Military Budget 15 Billions

By EDDS GILMORE

Moscow, March 15 (AP)—New ramifications in the shake-up of Soviet Russia's high command were revealed and approved at closing sessions last night of the Supreme Soviet, national parliamentary body.

The new shifts extended into the praesidium of the Supreme Soviet, which serves as the interim national executive body when the Supreme Soviet is not in session. Nikifor Natalevich and Georgi Siurua were relieved as vice-presidents of the praesidium, and replaced by Vasily Kozlov and Vasily Gogia.

Kozlov was promoted from chairman of the praesidium of the Supreme Soviet of the White Russian Republic, and Gogia from chairman of the praesidium of the Georgian Republic.

The 1949 budget, calling for military expenditures of 70,000,000,000 rubles ($15,000,000,000) was also approved by the Supreme Soviet. The figure represents 20 per cent higher than for 1948.

The budget provides for expenditures of 415,355,000,000 rubles for all purposes, compared with expenditures of 348,208,000,000 rubles. The 1948 all - purpose expenditure figure was 268,800,000,000 rubles with revenues announced at 408,400,000,000 rubles.

Molotov behind the series of top-level shifts remained the government's own secret. The Supreme Soviet confirmed the changes, but adjourned without a public explanation of their significance.

All of the shifts appeared to fall into the pattern of changing responsibility which was started by the ousting of Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov as foreign minister, who was replaced by Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Molotov remains first deputy prime minister under Stalin, and foreign diplomats considered he was not demoted.

$64,000 GRANT FOR E. P. U.

Ottawa, March 15 — (CP) — A $65,000 federal grant for expenses of the Empire Press Union Conference and tour in June, 1950, is provided for in estimates tabled today in the Commons.

The conference, during which editors and publishers from many parts of the Commonwealth are scheduled to assemble in Ottawa, will be the E. P. U.'s seventh gathering, the first since the London Conference of 194 .

BOY LOCKED AWAY FROM WORLD MOST OF HIS 14 YEARS

Enters Bright New World, Has His First Haircut and Looks Natural

Boston, March 15 — (AP) — Bewildered Gerald Sullivan, locked away from the world most of all he can remember of his nearly 14 years, awoke to a strange new life in a bright new world today.

Compassion flowed toward him. It was evidenced in scores of exception offers for the lad whose mother told police she hid him away because he was a "love child."

A pathetic figure, the pale, blue-eyed lad, with long dark hair streaming about his shoulders, fled Monday from the brick-walled tenement in which he had been locked. Policemen halted the fantastic fleeing figure, dressed in tattered remnants of a girl's dress.

Placed in private homes overnight — awaiting court action to determine his future—Gerald had his first haircut. For the first time he looked like a normal boy.

Police Captain Francis W. Hurley said it was discovered today that Gerald had been locked up even longer than the 10 years originally supposed.

His aid friends had been boarded out 13 months with a family after his birth. During the rest of his 13 years and five months, he was kept in seclusion by his mother.

Of his mother, who kept him locked in a bare third-floor tenement room, Gerald said, according to police.

Distinctive Dishes Suggested as Bait To Draw Tourists

Toronto, March 15 (CP)—Distinctive Canadian dishes, one for each province, were suggested today as tourist bait for the Dominion by John G. Diefenbaker, K.C., Conservative member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask.

Only some of these dishes a distinctive name and a demand is created," he told delegates to the fifth annual convention of the Canadian Restaurant Association.

Canadian Dairymen Seek Uniform Legislation on Margarine Problem

Ottawa, March 15 (CP)—With butter running hell-bent-for-leather down the prices hill, Canada's dairymen took a determined step Monday to grapple with butter's arch enemy—margarine—the likely fate of it all.

Dairymen from every province were represented at the one-day conference sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. They sought some way of getting the provinces to pass uniform legislation on the control and regulation of the manufacture and sale of margarine.

Meanwhile, with butter prices tumbling, there were predictions from the trade that the government may soon have to move in with floor-price machinery to arrest a possible butter price crackup.

By order-in-council passed last May, the government is authorized to buy up all first-grade butter selling for less than 58 cents in Central Canada, 50 cents in the Maritimes and 57 1-2 cents in Vancouver.

However, there is no floor price on second-grade butter, which appears to be taking the biggest wallop from margarine competition. Imported butter, such as the 10,000,000 pounds brought in this winter from Denmark or the 4,000,000 pounds from New Zealand and Australia. They sought some way of getting first-grade butter was 63 to 64 cents Monday, representing a drop of 10 cents from the price two weeks ago. In Montreal, butter continued down with offerings on the produce market at 62 cents wholesale, a drop of 3 1-2 cents since last Monday. Ottawa retail prices ranged from 64 to 67 cents. Sitting in at the meeting were government representatives of the following provinces: British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, New Brunswick Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Quebec's Coliseum Destroyed by Fire Loss $1,800,000

Another Blaze Splits Fire-Fighting Force

Quebec, March 15 (CP)—Quebec's Coliseum, large, civic recreation centre and home of local junior and senior hockey league teams, was a smoking ruin today after a spectacular three - alarm blaze that drew the full fire-fighting force of the city. The loss is estimated at more than $1,800,000.

In another early morning two-alarm blaze that for a few hours split the fire crews between a downtown shoe store and the city sports centre, estimate of losses was not immediately available but they were believed to be, over $20,000.

No one was reported injured in the fire here.

The loss of the Coliseum was regarded as much more serious than appeared at first in Quebec city. Insurance on the business alone will run into the hundreds of thousands.

Fire had destroyed the old Quebec Arena on June 30, 1942, but it had been possible to install artificial ice in the Coliseum, on the Provincial Exposition grounds in the following season, 1943-44. Now there is no structure left in Quebec where artificial ice can be installed.

Firemen returning from the scene of the blaze here Monday said there was no hope to save the structure from the start.

Railroads Begun To Feel Pinch Of Mine Closures

Pittsburgh, March 15 (AP)— The railroad economy of the United States began feeling the pinch of the coal mine shutdown in earnest today, but the remainder of American coal dependent industry hummed merrily.

In the second day of the two-week mine shutdown ordered by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, coal-hauling railroads mulled the progressive system of layoffs begun Monday.

By the end of the week some 62,000 railroaders will be idle, joining the 463,000 miners who stayed home Monday.

The steel industry showed no sign of cutting operations. The American Steel and Iron Institute said this week's output of steel ingots and castings is expected to total 1,850,400 net tons. This compares with the previous record of 1,589,300 tons ,set last week.

However, Bethlehem Steel said it had enough coal on hand for only a few weeks. The national coal stock pile of 70,000,000 tons is expected to be reduced by 50,000 tons by March 28, the day the miners now are scheduled to resume digging. If the stoppage continues much longer than two weeks, retrenchment would be inevitable.

WIRE-TAP SUSPECT

A photo of Kenneth Ryan, retired, of Jersey City, who is sought by police after his sensational escape through a window of New York city hall. Ryan was held in connection with a fantastic plot to tap telephone wires of New York city officials. Police said the plot might have "national implications." Mayor William O'Dwyer himself, took charge of the investigation, but no one seems to know or be willing to tell just what the plot was all about. Held with Ryan was a former U.S. treasury agent, said to be a leading expert on wire-tapping. He was identified as Edward M. Jones who was a treasury T-man until 1938.—Central Press Canadian.

Reserve Judgment In Appeals of Four Seamen

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Judgment was reserved Monday in the appeals of four members of the Canadian Seamen's Union, convicted last year at Welland following disturbances during strike action, for their received sentences totalling 10 years.

Appealing a "three-year sentence was Richard Jackson, director of the C.S.U. on the Great Lakes, convicted of unlawfully boarding a' ship, boarding and damaging a ship and assault. Louis Schmaltz and Basil Dawson each drew two-year terms on similar charges.

Convicted of doing grievous bodily harm with intent to maim, the fourth man, Charles Scott, was sentenced to five years.

Counsel for the appellants said there was no evidence to show the men were aboard the vessel.

MAN INJURED, BELIEVED TO HAVE TAKEN WEAK SPELL

Believed to have suffered a weak spell as he crossed the intersection at Front and Bridge Street, Arthur Lewis, 56, South Church Street, suffered a slight cut to his forehead early last evening when he either fell into a car or was struck by the passing vehicle.

Lewis was crossing Bridge St. when the traffic light changed. After that he told police that he remembered nothing.

Mrs. Margaret Hein, Spadina Ave., Toronto, was driving north on Bridge Street, when she said she felt a bump at the rear of her car. She stopped and saw the man lying on the road at the rear of her car. Lewis was taken home in an ambulance

BLAME BLOCKING OF SEWER FOR FAMILY ILLNESS

Blocking of a sanitary sewer which caused washing from the old gas plant to be backed up into the basement, resulted in members of the Eiffler household at 35 Pinnacle Street, to become ill during the night, according to a report received by police this morning. The complaint was made to Mayor B. L. Storey who turned the matter over to police.

Following a receipt of the report a constable of the police department investigated and reported members of the household to have suffered no ill effect. The matter was referred to the public works department.

C. of C. Members Entertained By Kinsmen Club

Several members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, including President C. Arthur Bateman, were guests of the local Kinsmen Club at their regular dinner meeting Monday evening. Mr. Bateman was guest speaker for the occasion and told members the important part which the Chamber of Commerce had in the community.

Other Chamber of Commerce guests included Percy McGuire, Gerald Hyde, James Gallagher, Paul Mercier and Freeman Burrows.

President Frank Lang presided over the dinner, at which club members were brought up to date on plans for the forthcoming district Kinsmen convention which is being held in the city this spring.

Three new club members were installed by Kin Harry Rollins. The new members were George Bussey and Jack Tooth, both employees of Northern Electric, and Owen Atkins, Garage Supply.

Junior Members Skating Club Enjoy Party

An enjoyable climax to a highly successful season was the party tendered the junior members of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club in the clubhouse recently. Upwards of 110 junior members ranging from three to twelve years of age enjoyed games, contests, races, topped with lots of refreshments at the conclusion of the entertainment.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Blake Weese, Miss Doris Kerr and Miss Donna Wambolt.

The club's skating activities are about over for the season. Brilliant sunshine is causing the ice on the natural rink to disappear rapidly and many club members expect to hang up their skates as the ice club is consigned, for the season.

Dundas Street Residents Protest New Hotel Project

Faced with a petition bearing the names of approximately 75 residents, who construct an east, area where a new hotel is proposed to be erected, members of city council Monday evening went on record as objecting to the construction of a hotel in this area.

The objection of council will be forwarded to the Liquor Control Board which has power to grant beverage licenses to hotels.

Ormonde E. Butler, local barrister, acted as spokesman for the Dundas Street residents who signed the petition protesting against the construction of a new hotel and cited a total of seven reasons supporting their objection.

Residential Area

Mr. Butler stated there was objection to the hotel on the grounds the proposed site was a residential area that it was close to a church and to a school and that there was already heavy traffic in the area.

If a beverage room license were granted to the hotel, should it be erected, the objection of the residents in the area would be increased, they feeling that such an establishment would be restricted to downtown areas.

"If there is any possibility of a beer license being granted, should the hotel be erected, we feel that it should be known now," stated Mr. Butler.

A further recommendation tabled by Alderman Hyde to the effect that council would strenuously object to the Liquor Control Board granting a beverage room license in a residential area, failed to receive the support of the majority of council members.

Surplus to Be Taken Care of

As his organization built houses only for rental to veterans or to service personnel, at the time at which the 100 additional houses could be built in Bellleville we had the assurance of council that the surplus after veterans requirements were met, would be available to R.C.A.F. personnel.

"That is our proposition and it is dependent upon suitable land being available for the houses," stated Mr. McPherson.

Later Alderman Armstrong introduced a recommendation asking for property on the former county home grounds at the bishopric to be allocated for the construction of rental housing. No action was taken on this, however, when it was made known by Alderman Allin that no particular property possibly could be sold to a large industry.

Council Members' Opinions

Several council members thought the housing project should be commenced without delay but others felt the only starting point for housing might soon be reached.

Alderman Clarke asked if the 1949 contract with Central Mortgage would be the same as that under which the 103 houses were being erected. He doubted if the $600 allowed the city for lot and services would cover the actual cost.

Alderman Brown also felt council should be cautious. He pointed out that there were 103 veterans' houses now being erected, while another 107 integrated houses would be erected on the county home property.

Alderman Allin felt the city should not go out on a limb to subsidize houses for people not working in the city and suggested the true figure of veterans' housing costs be submitted to council.

"Your statement that veterans' housing is being subsidized is entirely without foundation," Alderman Duffy told the previous speaker. "But supposing there is subsidization, we must remember that the promise of housing was made to veteran"

Ald. Thomas' View

Alderman Thomas felt council had the start before the house at neither Central Mortgage, nor the industry suggested by Alderman Allin had accepted the proposed property as being suitable.

Alderman Hyde admitted veterans' houses may be subsidized "to a degree" but pointed out there are no rental houses being built except by Central Mortgage. With many other municipalities building veterans houses Belleville would not be too much out of line.

He pointed out if the land south of the highway in the county limits proved way left unoccupied during the city would be giving an exercise to the veteran.

On suggestion by Alderman Lummiss that possibly both the proposed industry and the housing project could be located on the south side, Mr. McPherson stated it was very unlikely that his organization would agree to building houses in the middle of an industrial area.

Proposal to Build 100 More Veterans' Rental Houses Is Placed Before City Council

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will construct an additional 100 veterans' rental homes in the city providing any surplus of houses and lots after veterans' needs will be allocated to R.C.A.F. personnel.

Also the site on which the houses would be constructed would necessarily have to meet with the approval of engineers for the housing corporation.

This decision was made known to members of city council Monday evening by Mr. McPherson, solicitor for Central Mortgage and Housing. Council previously had made application for another 100 rental houses to be constructed in the city.

According to Mr. McPherson there are at present only 174 applications for veteran applicants for the 103 rental houses now being erected in the city. Of the number these were allocated but 74 veterans qualified for rental houses would remain. This number would not warrant another 100 houses being built as requirements were there should be two applicant for houses before the project would be started.

Man's Strangled And Burned Body Found on Street

Worcester, Mass., March 15 — (AP) — The body of a man who had apparently been strangled and burned was found on a street today. Police identified the man tentatively as Aime Lazure, 30, of Southbridge.

A civil writ issued Lazure by Mester district court Monday was found near the body. It was a $6 claim drawn against Lionel Joeilleur, also of Southbridge.

Police began a search for Joeilleur.

Body of Drowned OSD Student Not Yet Recovered

Dragging operations in the mouth of the Moira River just off Victoria Park were without success yesterday as a group of experienced men under the direction of Mr. Maurice Callaghan failed to find any trace of the body of Lloyd Hubbard, Vernon House.

The young lad, student at the Ontario School for the Deaf, is believed to have drowned late Saturday afternoon when he attempted to cross rotted ice at the mouth of the river.

With three other students, House went for a walk along the bay. When the others turned back House went on alone but failed to return to the school. His tracks ended at a hole in the ice just off Victoria Park.

Police and Firemen searched for the lad Sunday night and Monday morning while throughout the day dragging operations were continued. To increase the depth of water in the hole, open men in boats broke shallow ice, but without success.

Parents of the lad came to Belleville from Preston late Sunday night but returned yesterday.

Britain Expects Leather Footwear Exports To Rise

London, March 15 (Reuters)—Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, today threw more government restrictions into his "bonfire of controls."

Monday he announced the end of all allocations of hides and textiles.

Today he told leather manufacturers that he had abolished individual quota controls of goat and sheep skins and would remove at least relax supervision of trading in dressed leather. Special arrangements would however continue for types of leather in short supply.

Wilson said leather and footwear manufacturers would step up their drive in North American market this year to help in bridging the dollar gap.

"A campaign will go into operation in Canada this year which will exclusively advertise our goods in the shop windows of Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver," he added.

"There are great opportunities for our exports both in Canada and the United States."

Constable Floors Impudent Youth

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Confronted by a police officer in an east end taxi office today, a 15-year-old schoolboy produced a gun and ordered Constable William McKeown to "reach for the sky."

The officer knocked the gun from the youth's hand and floored him with a flying tackle. He was taken to police headquarters and charged with theft of the firearm. Another youth, who said he was 20-year-old Sam Stenzler, was charged with vagrancy.

Police said the schoolboy is the same one who reported being attacked by a gang of coal-suitors and slashed with a knife two months ago.

Six Flee Fire In Basement Apt.

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Four children and two women escaped from their burning basement apartment today when flames from the furnace roared through the cellar.

Mrs. Henry Houlse and her step-daughter, Mrs. Francis Houlse, carried the children from the burning building in east-central Toronto. The children ranged in age from one to five years. There were no injuries.

Born in Belleville 85 years ago the late Mrs. McWilliams was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joel Demaree. The greater part of her life was spent in the 9th concession of Tyendinaga township and in 1918 she moved to Shannonville.

She was a member of the Second Heart of Mary Church, Marysville, and in connection with the church was a member of the League of the Sacred Heart, the Altar Society and the Catholic Women's League.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Hinchcliffe, Plainfield, and Miss Elizabeth McWilliams at home; two sons, George McWilliams of Belleville, and Joseph McWilliams of Peterborough; Sixteen grandchildren and 31 great grandchildren. Her husband, James McWilliams died in 1943. She was the eldest and last surviving member of her family.

Resting at the Corrigan and O'Brien funeral home, 260 Main Street west; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

LATE JAMES LIVINGSTONE

Picton, March 15 — At one time owner of a chain of stores known as The Fair, James Livingstone, 91, was found dead here today. The funeral was conducted by Rev. B. Reid, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of which he had been a member of the Board of Management and as treasurer and secretary of the Sunday School. Mr. Livingstone had owned on a chain of stores carrying dry goods and small wares grocery departments. His first was opened in Picton in 1885 and for several years he operated two stores in this town. Going into partnership with the late Fred Newman, he opened stores in Wellington, Colborne, Bannonoque and after buying out Mr. Newman's interests, also in Brighton, Trenton and Brighton, and for a time operated a store at Stouffville. His wife died some years ago, and for the past three years had resided at 19 Selby Street, Toronto.

Mr. Livingstone's hobby was checkers and he was first president of the Picton club which he founded. He was champion checkerplon on more than one occasion at Eastern Ontario Exhibitions held in Belleville. He is survived by his wife, formerly Florence VanLuven.

LATE ROBERT HENRY HOWES

The funeral of Robert Henry Howes was held from the Bellevile Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, Sunday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at Burial Cemetery, Prince Edward County, was conducted by the Rev. H. H. Lackey, Bridge Street United Church.

The bearers were Herbert Howes, Frank Howes, Richard Howes, Ernest Howes, Peter Cave and James Bunnett.

Influenza Hits North Manitoba Communities

The Pas, Man., March 15 (CP) Practically the whole population of two northern Manitoba communities have been affected by an epidemic of influenza, it was indicated by reports reaching here today.

More than 200 cases of 'flu have been reported from scattered northern settlements but the actual number of cases is believed to be many times this figure.

At one town, 125 out of 189 pupils at a boarding school are in bed with the sickness.

Britain to Merge Two State Airlines

London, March 15 — (AP) — The government today announced that two of its three state-owned airlines will soon be merged.

They are British South American Airways, which operates from Britain to Central Africa and South America, and British Overseas Airways, which flies to Canada, the United States and the Far East.

B. O. A. C. has lost £15,000,000 in two years and B. S. A. A. has reported a decline in passenger traffic.

The third of the three corporations, British European Airways, which flies to the continent and operates local services in Britain, will remain separate.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 15 (CP) — A sharp reduction in the price of lead in two weeks sent base metal stocks skidding downhill on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. This cut followed a two-cents-a-pound decrease March 8 and lead producers declined steadily on the market from the opening today.

Junior and senior gold producers reflected the weaker base metal stocks in dull action and a handful of individual slipped quietly on fractional declines.

Consolidated Smelters led the base metals with a 2 5-8 loss at a new low at 100. Three base metals sold at new lows for the year.

C.P.R. weakened in industrials following release of estimated annual earnings showing a decrease from the previous year. Imperial Oil lost a fraction and Powell River again sold at a new low.

Rotation of City Hall Staff Personnel Left to The Discretion of City Comptroller

Staff personnel at the city hall came in for considerable discussion by members of city council at their regular meeting Monday evening, the end result being that the city comptroller was authorized to carry out as it was written the provisions of the comptroller's by-law with respect to staff.

The entire discussion arose out of a feeling on the part of certain aldermen that stenographic help in the clerk's office should not be rotated to the treasurer's department and to assist in getting out the city tax roll.

Addressing city council on the matter City Comptroller Harold D. Bateman stated that with the tax roll to be out the treasurer's department was short of help and he considered it would be unfair to have a new girl put on this work. Miss Ashton, in the city clerk's office, was familiar with the work, but there was objection from council to have her transferred despite the fact this had been recommended by the finance committee.

Surplus in Clerk's Office

In the opinion of the comptroller there was surplus staff in the clerk's office, as Deputy Clerk C. Lummiss worked but part time in the office and he noticed that Miss Ashton work full time for the clerk. He termed Miss Ashton a fine girl and an efficient stenographer but felt much of her present duties could be done by a less experienced worker.

The transfer of Miss Ashton to the treasurer's office would give this department an experienced clerk to work on the tax roll and would also provide a shorthand stenographer for this department as well as for the comptroller's office. Much of the city's correspondence formerly handled in the clerk's office was now done by the city solicitor, it was stated.

Rotation of Help Helpful

"My feeling is that we should rotate the girls at the city hall so as to have girls familiar with the work of each department," stated Mr. Bateman. He said he had directed that Miss Ashton be transferred downstairs but City Clerk Hinds had refused stating he had not been consulted.

Alderman Hyde wanted know why deputy Clerk Lummiss could not be transferred downstairs, pointing out that it was necessary for him to learn all phases of city business. He was told Mr. Lummiss could not do shorthand.

Alderman Clarke thought that before any of the aldermen took exception to the recommendation of the finance committee to transfer an employee they should have the trouble to get the proper information.

Alderman Liddle wanted to know why highly paid officials in the city engineer's department were asked to write letters a long hand and then have them typed, claiming a stenographer could do the work in a tenth of the time. The alderman did not receive a reply.

Was Never Consulted

City Clerk Holmes interrupted to say he had worked for the city for many years but never had he been consulted as to staff changes in his department. He could not see why he had always been ignored.

Alderman Allin claimed the whole discussion was out of order stating the matter should have been decided within the city hall.

"Rumors as to what is going on at the city hall have been all over the street and I believe I was entitled to give my side of the story, stated Mr. Bateman.

On question by Alderman Thomas if Miss Ashton had been agreeable to be transferred, Mr. Bateman replied she had.

Will Purchase Hose

A recommendation that tenders be called for 500 feet of hose for the fire department, and for uniforms, trousers and shirts, was passed by council.

Council also passed a by-law awarding the city garbage collection to Rex Bridge at a contract price of $32,000. In lieu of Mr. Bridge providing a bond, the city will hold back one month's salary.

Awarding of the contract caused some discussion in council, the feeling of several of the members being that the city was assuming some responsibility in accepting a garbage collector who could not provide a bond.

Alderman Lummiss as chairman of the board of works stated the cost of garbage collection last year was in the neighborhood of $19,000 and this was substantiated by Assistant City Engineer Clifford Matthews.

Would Cost Added $10,000

Alderman Hyde suggested the next highest tender be accepted if this man could provide a bond but he was told by L. Storey pointed out it would not be good business for the city to pay another $10,000 for garbage collection while the purchasing agents department could continue collection if necessary.

"If our contractor fails then the city will just go on collecting," he said.

Voting in favor of the by-law were Mayor Storey, and Aldermen Allin, Clarke, Duffy, Lloyd, Lummiss, Thomas and Wilbur.

Opposing were Aldermen Allen, Armstrong, Brown, Hyde and Liddle.

City-owned signs at the entrance to the city will be repainted at a cost of $54 each. Lock type coin operated toilets will be installed in the city washroom, leaving two public toilets, it was decided.

Wa Action on Request

No action was taken on a request from the L.O.L. for a grant to assist in staging a celebration on July 12. Mrs. W. E. Shortt earlier in the evening had spoken to council on the matter but the grant was turned down by an 8-5 vote, ignoring the recommendation to file the request were Mayor Storey and Aldermen Allen, Brown, Clarke, Duffy, Lloyd, Lummiss and Wilbur, while Aldermen Allin, Armstrong, Hyde Little and Thomas failed to approve.

A later recommendation by Alderman Hyde calling for a grant of $300 to the local lawn bowling association; $100 to the L.O.L. and $200 to the local Trades and Labor Council, was referred to the finance committee.

"There are many requests for grants from all kinds of organizations and unless there is something unusual we must draw line somewhere," stated Alderman Duffy. "It is all right for an alderman to get up in public and votes here and there but we must realize there can be no more grants."

Voting to refer the recommendation were Mayor Storey and Aldermen Allen, Allin, Armstrong, Brown, Clarke, Duffy, Liddle, Lloyd, Lummiss, Thomas and Wilbur with Alderman Hyde being the only member to disagree.

Grant Request Filed

A request from the Health League of Canada for a grant was filed, while the matter of salary increase for Gordon Leggatt, city hall switchboard operator and welfare department clerk, was referred to the welfare department.

An application for erection of gasoline pumps for private use by H. E. McFarland, "contractor, and for J. W. Hamilton, were referred to the board of works.

Council was advised that no lots facing Bridge Street in the country home property of 50 and 60 foot frontage. A special committee was recommended formed to set prices for the lots. It was also agreed that lots be sold with building covenants.

A recommendation authorizing the preparation of a plumbers and steamfitters by-law was referred to the by-law to conform with provincial standards. Fees were set at $25 for resident plumbers and $50 for non-resident plumbers. Also an inspection fee of 50 cents per fixture was set with a minimum charge of $2.

Fees Would Reduce Inspection

Mr. T. V. Scanlon, local plumbing contractor, stated that city plumbers for 24 years had been advocating a plumbers' by-law, claiming this was the only way to remedy poor plumbing conditions. Licence fees and inspection fees would assist in defraying the cost of inspection.

Mayor D. L. Storey was authorized to attend the mayor's convention to be held at Ottawa June 7 to 10.

Council concurred in a resolution from the city of St. Thomas asking that the provincial government place no restrictions on the coloring of oleomargarine.

A communication from the city solicitor was read indicating that in his opinion Market Lane was a public thoroughfare. It was pointed out that trucks delivering at the local liquor store were in the habit of blocking traffic on this street.

More Control Asked

Council approved of a recommendation calling for a by-law to give the local sanitary inspector more rigid control over the production of fluid milk sold by distributors in the city. This was felt necessary to safeguard the health of citizens.

According to a recommendation of the traffic committee the new eastern limits of the city will be defined by proper signs. It also recommended that all parking meters and all traffic by-laws be combined.

The indiscriminate "butchering" of trees in certain residential districts of the city was referred to by Alderman Clarke who asked if the recently-appointed "tree committee" of city council was supervising the cutting of trees on Ann Street.

Members of this committee stated it was their duty to report what trees were to be cut and not to supervise. They admitted the committee had not yet met.

Opposed to Traffic Light

Under inquiries Alderman Liddle asked if consideration had been given to the request for traffic lights at the corner of Moira and Herchimer Street. Alderman Allin replied that the police commission had been opposed to the installation of lights at this corner claiming it would add to the congestion. It had been recommended that the curb at the service station be recessed thus effecting a straightening of North Front Street.

Alderman Thomas asked if any progress had been made with respect to transferring the Stewart-Warner-Alemite revenual field for property in the industrial area. He was told the matter was in the hands of the solicitor.

Alderman Allin wanted to know how many parking tickets had been issued in the city since the installation of parking meters and how many of these had been paid.

"You want to know how many of tickets have been fixed!" asked one of the aldermen.

Approve Salary Boost

Council approved of salaries of public utility commission members being increased. The salary of the commissioner chairman will be increased to $500 annually, and that of the two commissioners to $400.

Approving the increases were Mayor Storey and Aldermen Armstrong, Clarke, Duffy, Hyde, Lloyd and Wilbur. Opposing were Aldermen Allen, Allin, Liddle, Lummiss and Thomas.

The auto-note by-law approved by council at their last meeting was turned back for further consideration.

On motion by Aldermap Allin it was voted to construct a plank sidewalk on Victoria Ave. in the area where new sewers are being put in. Public Pedestrians were forced to walk in mud under present conditions, it was stated.

Brief mention was made of the fact that $1,000 had been raised by the provincial government in lieu of the previous one mill subsidy paid to municipalities. Council took no action on the matter, it being suggested that the various city departments would benefit by the change.

Letter Read

A communication from the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange was read, this organization offering to assist council in any way possible to promote suitable and desirable legislation affecting the various branches of the industry.

Harold Seldon, member of the local Board of Education as a one-man delegation requested council to refer to the Board a certain triangular piece of property in the county home subdivision which would provide a rear entrance for the proposed new school area.

He was told the matter would be taken under consideration.

Community Centre Projects Theme Of Discussion

Over fifty people met in one of the class rooms of Frankford public school for the March meeting of the Foxboro Film Council.

To stimulate interest a film was shown on New Scotland (Nova Scotia) showing the little Gaelic dancers and pastors.

The secretary reported 15 films in January with an attendance of 770 and 30 meetings in February with an attendance of 1035. There were the same number of meetings in 1946 but a considerable increase in attendance this year. Last year 11 member organizations paid annual fees. This year 13 members have paid plus one new member. Two letters were read. Miss Healey of Queen's University wrote that now there were available .eight prints from the Bell Telephone Company.

Cites Benefits Derived

Mr. Macklem who is the representative to the Can. Association of film councils showed the benefits derived from the association.

Benefits at community level.
Benefits at provincial level.
Benefits at district level.
If Ontario is to give leadership in this field it is essential to have a strong association.

Two resolutions were read from — Picton film council for the appointment and part time Shop at Queen's University on every evening and all day Saturday.

The main speakers at both of the meetings are to be Dr. Kidd and Ron Ward.

Ron Ward gave a survey of progress made in the film industry. He has had a hand in this field in the film council, but the time has come to expand. This is the first year that he has made another council or by buying another film produce would be formed, use of community singing, folk songs and spirituals.

A community centre should not be owned by church but by the community or municipality. Everyone in the community should be free to come and meet with others in social activities.

To carry out this phase refreshments were served and a social half hour spent. The council meets in April in Turners School.

Industrial Firms Set Aside Special Funds to Safeguard Future Needs

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Like the family car, company property wears out, and provision has to be made for replacement —else there soon isn't any more company.

Unless you are a very exact bookkeeper, you may find that you can replace the family car when it has done its term, and then maybe manage to replace it somehow.

But with a company, millions of dollars may be involved and replacement can't be taken care of casually. That is the reason there is a depreciation fund, which seems to have worked well enough in the past.

Nowadays, however, the company finds itself in the position of a car owner who bought his last car for $1,000, saved up $1,000 to replace it, but finds that a new one costs $2,000.

Traditional accounting processes provide for replacement at original cost. But what can be replaced now at, sky, pre-war cost? So, though company statements continue to show the depreciation fund in the old way, many of them take safeguards by setting aside special funds.

Robert C. Stanley, chairman of the Board of International Nickel Company, of Canada, Ltd., gives the following explanation in his report to shareholders for 1948:

"The company's production operations each year physically wear out a portion of its equipment and other properties employed. The portion worn out is part of the cost of the metals produced for sale. In placing a figure on the portion worn out, so as to determine the amount of our costs and net earnings, the company, has as therefore, followed the traditional accounting procedure of making charges on the recorded historical cost of the properties which are being worn out each year in a percentage of their present on replacement value.

"The application of this traditional procedure under present-day conditions of drastically increased construction costs has the effect of substantially understanding, in terms of current values, the wear and tear to the producing properties.

"The problem of whether to substitute current value for that of the pre-war cost of properties being worn out is a matter of general application to all businesses and now is under active consideration by accountants and others.

"The matter of accounting procedure to be followed in stating depreciation is receiving the continuing attention of your board."

Markets Yesterday

Security markets were uncertain yesterday and in the main showed little change. Gains, too did little. New York closed mixed in firm-in late trade, closing 20 cents a bale lower to 45 cents higher after an early sag of as much as $1 a bale.

NEW TROUBLE ZONE

Although a cease-fire agreement has been signed on Island of Rhodes by Israel and Trans-Jordan, reports that Israeli troops have taken a five-mile strip at the port of Aqaba (1) is complicating the situation. Located at the tip of Palestine, this outlet to the Gulf of Aqaba is declared to be the scene of a clash between the Arab and Israeli forces. Britain has ordered reinforcements for her garrison at Aqaba.

ALLIANCE GROWING

The Atlantic Alliance is looked upon in world circles as freighted with much importance. It has in its number nations whose steadfastness is assured, nations which breathe the breath of freedom and democracy. There are possibilities of developments and expansion. There are already eight nations committed to the Alliance, these being European and North American states and the growth of the idea behind the pact is likely to bring in four more nations at least. The total number of persons under these latter, represented in the pact, join, would be about one third of a billion souls, no small percentage of the world's vast population. Such peoples too have not only these many billions of inhabitants but they have freedom and enterprise, they have their own particular resources of great value and their national way of life. Such an organization will have vast potentialities for the maintenance of peace and democracy.

WATCHING OTHERS WORK

Watching others work appears to be one of the pastimes to which man is heir. In any town or city the pleasure of looking at others working in a sewer or on a building, or climbing a pole is bound to attract the attention of the crowd. No community can miss such sights. This curiosity must be deep-rooted to inspire so many persons to indulge in its enjoyment.

St. Thomas Times-Journal notes that the rights of these observers or "sidewalk superintendents" as they are called are being recognized by contractors in New York as people-sized vacation heights. To suit long or short or medium-height or young or old "observers" are being cut in the boarding fencing in excavations. In one instance contractors have invited the peepers to "watch us work."

The philosophy lying behind the appeal of being able to peep through a hole in a fence is a fair or a ball game has been noted everywhere and as it seems so natural and prevalent an attitude to take, it is not to be wondered at that men do like to see others work, to watch firemen battling a conflagration and all those forms of curiosity which are in some way bound up in every personality.

PLANNING FOR SPRING

Though traces of snow are left after the mildest winter in some years gardeners are not idle, they have been enjoying themselves reading the pages of catalogues and planning for the year's work. Though their days of activity may now seem far away actually they are not so distant as they appear.

Time moves swiftly once winter's back is broken and almost before it is noticed that time for outdoor work on the garden has come around.

Before this however time is profitably spent in meditating on the work of the season. Though gardens are not what they once were, there are some folk who in this middle of the twentieth century find the work and the results of the attention and labor given to their land and the crops that they intend to grow of supreme attraction for not only is there the exercise, but the sight of the growing harvests and their gathering are a sufficient reward for the man who has co-operated with, learned and applied all about the laws has found that she is a kindly mother to those who help her grow produce for themselves and others.

Since the last war there has not been the same incentive to dig and plant and harvest on the small garden but numbers of people have not forgotten the lessons they learned during the war years and still find one of the greatest pleasures in life in helping the elements to produce something on their own plot of land for the sheer joy of discovering themselves as producers and growers is more than the non-producer can appreciate.

There are become experts as gardeners know the something that comes to them which they would not otherwise know except as a laborer in the garden.

For those others who do not become gardeners, there appears on the horizon the vision of work to be done outdoors in clearing away the remnants left by the parting of the snow. The sight of the lawn where the green grass will be starting to grow and the impulse to get at the spring cleanup to clear away the debris will be understood.

Miss Irwin, military, has returned home after a buying trip to New York City.

The members of the local camp of the Sons of Scotland gave a pleasant concert last evening in honor of Alex. Swanson of Sidney twp. who will leave shortly for Calgary. William McIntosh made a few appropriate remarks expressing regret at the departure of Mr. Swanson after which Cameron Brown was called upon to preside which he did most acceptably. The programme consisted of vocal solos by Geo. E. Fax, J. Watts of Montreal, W. Gordon of Montreal, William Webster and John McIntosh. Allan McFee gave a recitation and John McIntosh gave a selection on the bagpipes. The evening was most enjoyable.

Mr. John Hay of the Front of Sidney left today for Dallas, Texas.

Mr. J. M. Hurley, M.P., left today to attend the opening of Parliament in Ottawa.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GROWN IN ASHES

A man told me recently of a relative of his who grows prize dahlias. He attributes the unusual success he has had in this variety of horticulture to the fact that he grows the dahlias in ashes and then plants them in the soil except one, allowing only that one to come to maturity.

As to whether this procedure has the requisite good properties in all cases, only the dahlia raisers can say. But I was struck by the fact that the really great lives in history have been grown in ashes and have had every bud pinched off except one. Abraham Lincoln was such an example. His life grew in of the ashes of sorrow, discipline, and failure. He became a man with one object in life. The preservation of the Union became for one passion and purpose. No one can deny that St. Paul's life grew out of the ashes of renounced ambition, physical pain and suffering. Our Lord's life also grew out of ashes — out of sorrow, rejection, persecution — and only at last did one flower that might have bloomed on earth to Him own personal glory and advancement was broken off, that the great flower of His fidelity to God might come to full and glorious bloom.

Great lives are grown in ashes. And such lives are great because they have strong purpose: which means that every bud is broken off that only one may come to full maturity and beauty.

Mackenzie's Column:

Rents Largely Own New Premier

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The immediate future of stricken Nationalist China may rest largely on the scarcity and personal influence of her new premier, Gen. Ho Ying-Chin.

Ho has been picked by acting president Li Tsung-Jen to negotiate peace with the communist armies of Mao Tse-tung. He faces the all-but-hopeless task of trying to gain concessions from victors who are demanding unconditional surrender. His job won't be made easier by the fact that he is on the communist list of war criminals.

That's a tough assignment, but Ho is a man of varied experience and had seen tough times before. The 60-year-old general is a former minister of defense and former chief of staff. In 1947 he represented China on the United Nations military staff committee at Lake Success.

Right-hand Man

Ho long was regarded as President Chiang Kai-shek's right hand man, next to the Generalissimo, in all to have more influence with Nationalist China's military leaders than any other individual. Chiang made Ho his appointment, and for three reasons:

First although Chiang "retired" and left his capital Jan. 21, he still is the supreme leader in military affairs and this has split Nationalist China politically. Ho is a member of the party of the army.

A unified military command might put the Nationalists in a better position to negotiate peace.

3. The communists are still in north bank of the Yangtze River are reported to be preparing to transform this into a crossing, to carry the war further south in China. The Nationalists must either be prepared to meet this new offensive or to surrender.

Key Figure

Ho's personal relations with the Nationalist military chiefs is bound to interest the communist leaders, since the red command might rather drive a bargain for control of Southern China than wage a further protracted war.

Chance for Compromise

Naturally the question of what the communists finally will demand is a matter of speculation. However, some close observers believe there is a chance that they might compromise on the formation of a coalition communist-nationalist government for southern China. That is, they might adopt the procedure followed in countries like Czechoslovakia where the coalition shortly became an outright communist government.

Perhaps Ho wouldn't even agree to carry back such a suggestion to his government. However, I had a long talk with him while he was in the United States and he told me he was willing to discuss again an idea. I have come to the very firm conclusion that China's fight at last with an idea."

Of course the general, in making that statement, wasn't contemplating any such situation as now has arisen. I mention it as indicative of the way his mind has been better than bullets. It will be interesting to see whether Ho's mind ever enters into the peace negotiations — if Ho ever gets that far.

London — (CP) — When a passenger on the Bath-Salisbury's north-eastern section complained of the slowness of the trains to the Kings, Essex, a platform official at Liverpool Street station replied solemnly:

"When you're as old as some of these trains you won't feel like rushing about as you do now. You'll be old chaffer over on Plumber Hill or platform — to Queen Victoria wasn't heard of when you were born."

U.K. Government Expects to Retain Yorkshire Seat

By FRASER WIGHTON

London, March 15 (Reuters)— The government expects to complete its success in the present British "miniature general election" by retaining its parliamentary seat in the Sowerby, Yorkshire, by-election tomorrow, last of four parliamentary contests held within the last few weeks.

In three—Bexley, Yorkshire; Hammersmith South, London; and S. Paneras North, London, the government has held the seats with reduced majorities.

The Sowerby election, where the government majority may be considerably reduced, is a special test of the constancy of the Labor vote. The vacancy of was caused by the death of Lt.-Col. Wilfrid Vernon Wentworth-Stanley, Labor member, who was killed in a motor accident.

Says Conscience Had Bothered Him

Toronto, March 15 (CP)—Vernon Lawrence, 23, who told police Monday night his conscience had been troubling him for months, walked into a police office and admitted taking part in the armed robbery of Toronto taxi-driver William Miller on Sept. 9, 1947. He told police he had planned the robbery with two men known to him only as Syd and Bill. Miller was robbed of his watch and $21 by three men who left him trussed up on a suburban Etobicoke sideroad.

Belcher, former parliamentary secretary to the Board of Trade who figured in the proceedings of the tribunal which investigated allegations of corruption in government circles. Belcher was cleared personally of corruption charges but resigned after the inquiry.

CANADA'S

In other words, the government seeks authority to spend or commit itself for more than $325,000,000 for defence, directly and indirectly. However, the commitments must always later be covered off by estimates when the bills come due.

Few specific details were given but the increase was attributed to heavier costs for pay, clothing, accommodation, equipment, stores and to increased recruiting.

Mr. Abbott said special estimates will be tabled to cover the entry of Newfoundland and there would be others later.

For all other departments than defence, costs were down nearly $100,000,000, he said. Still, Caddy of them all was finance with $813,000,000 of which $640,000,000 goes to cover the national debt now about $13,000,000,000.

Second in line was the health department with $296,848,000 of which $276,480,000 goes for family allowances and veterans' indemnity allowance. After that the only other department in the big leagues is veterans affairs with $242,000,000 or $22,000,000 less than this year, chiefly because the rehabilitation program is drawing towards its close.

Mr. Abbott, analyzing his figures, said about $1,217,000,000 of the $2,000,000,000 is "relatively uncontrollable items" — war pensions, contributions to unemployment insurance, obligations under statutes. The rest includes defence, capital, transport and the multitudes of other services.

FIRE DEMOLISHES

Three alarms, sounded at intervals of a few minutes, brought out enough men to surround the rectangular building on every side and prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining Exposition grounds buildings.

Approximately 30 hoses pounded the blaze with tons of water by hooks.

Origin of the fire was not known but it was believed to have started in the roof of the building.

Only half an hour after firemen had battled the blaze in another section of the building, and the roof, crashed amidst the flames.

The Collasum, home of the Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, was reported to be a total loss.

The two fires left the Quebec Fire Department with only three stations to look after any other fires during the night. Eighty firemen rushed to fight the blazes.

The Exposition is located in the St. Francis D'Assise district and is in the Provincial Exposition grounds. It is a big brick building, three storeys high.

DREW DENOUNCES

Mr. Drew's attack aroused a storm of name calling from both the government and opposition benches and speaker Fauteux Fauteux four times called on him to confine his remarks to the legislation under study. The opposition leader contended he was not doing the job of the government's abuse of powers.

He recalled that Hon. St. Laurent had objected two weeks ago to his statement in Montreal that democracy was in danger. In Ottawa and following the Marxist-Leninist pattern all available time was given to name the bureaucrats in Pointing across to the government benches Mr. Drew said:

"Now I have been asked to name the bureaucrats. I will name the No. 1 bureaucrat, and that is the Prime Minister himself.

"And I will name the No. 2 bureaucrat; he is sitting right beside the Prime Minister (Mr. St. Laurent's right.)

The Trade Minister interjected "we can name the No. 1 comedian."

Mr. Drew continued: "And just in case anyone does not know who I like to name bureaucrats, it is the Minister of Trade and Commerce."

Minister Minister Abbott: "Is he the well known Marxist?"

Mr. Drew: "I will deal with that at the proper time in my remarks."

Continuing he suggested that before the government members "bureaucracy," they look it up in the dictionary. They would find that it is one of the definitions was "centralization."

"I think we were a group of centralists in this country," he said, referring to the present government of Canada.

As for Marxism, the basic principle of that doctrine was the control of production and economy by the state — principle which was adhered to "by the socialists, the communists and those who sit in the government ranks at the present time."

Mr. Abbott retorted: "You have been reading Groucho Marx, not Karl Marx."

THE BARK IS WORSE THAN THE BITE

Once or twice a year the newspapers perform a questionable service to public welfare by printing a notice from the health department or the local health officer warning persons who may have been bitten by a dog within the past week to report at once for Pasteur treatment. The local health department laboratory has discovered that the dog had rabies.

I suppose these warnings keep the general public more or less apprehensive and alert for mad dogs. I doubt that such warnings do anybody any good. I am not cynical regarding curable or (quite) about this. When I privately deplored the mad dog scare in one city the local health minimizer told me, in real earnest, that he felt it was his duty to dramatize every mad dog scare for all it might be worth, to frighten the people and get from the city government sufficient funds to carry on public health services.

This statement in the' review for 1936 by the president of the Rockefeller Foundation is significant:

"In 1936 the Foundation began laboratory and field work in hydrophobia or rabies, which has become an increasing menace, particularly in the south and western states. Little has been done in this direction for many years; and it is hoped that a quicker and more positive test for fungus be developed, and perhaps a less cumbrous method of vaccination."

What! No Negri bodies?

Negri bodies or Sorpuscles (corpuscle means a small body or diminutive body) are round or oval bodies found in the cytoplasm of an Italian physician named Negri reported (1903) he had found in the cerebellum in rabies. Negri suggested, that these corpuscles were parasites caused the disease, and although the hypothesis has been established or bacteriologist decides whether the brain tissue under the microscope is from animal or man that mad rabies.

Certain pathologists, bacteriologists, laboratory work, physicians, health officers and politicians, do say nothing about commercial interests, would rather keep rabies, hydrophobia and the whole mad dog business out of this particular column of the paper. For that matter they'd like to dance at my funeral, but, barring another and worse slip on the (the lower now, Brady, the shocking truth) ice on the steps of the study, I expect to continue harping here until a warmer place freezes over.

From the microscope Negri bodies resembly red blood corpuscles. In 1927 the United States Health Department concluded "that it is not hydrophobia but rather rabiphobia (morbid or unreasonable fear or rabies) which is the real menace to the physician and health officer. Dr. Selleri, director of the institute of anti-rabies vaccine (Pasteur treatment) in Buenos Aires, actually examined by animals known or suspectedly rabid a thousand brains without prophylaxis regardless of outcome, for the sake of science. Some are far greater and more serious than any ill effects from the vaccine. Dr. Harry Plotz, international records showed that four persons out of a thousand died from the vaccine—from Pasteur treatment —out of fifty thousand treated for whom the Health Department had furnished Pasteur treatment in the state of New York. On the other hand, Dr. Selleri insisted, the symptoms of rabies from actual bites or scratches, the danger of Pasteur treatment exceeds that of the disease itself. (Copyright 1949, by John F. TODAY'S TALK

BE YOUR AGE — HAPPILY

I have had my youth, so that I have great fun about it. I rejoice in the healthy, happy youth about me. It's a reflection of what I have already experienced. The ways of youth today do not scare me. I know that they are working out all right.

Youth is always inspiring because life's path is always constructive. It's not without its disappointments, its mistakes, its struggles, however. But there is light all around it. Dreams stream from it. It looks out upon the world! It's the undefeatable age. It can't stay the years that speed on, at least ought not to, so they will be welcomed. So, my friends, you are young, live your age and glory in it —happily.

We, who have reached the middle years and beyond, have our memories — which plus all maturity and experience that have resulted in seeking a richer life. We, too, should be our age, without envy or complaint. Ours is the age of the mellowing of judgment and judgment. Years of increased knowledge of the world as day is added to day.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

In war, Lord Montgomery says, the best are taken. This did not hold all wars. In earlier wars of a century or two ago. Lord Wellington noted, in the army you could lose the best officers and men in a small action and employed without seriously reducing the quality of the manpower of the army as a whole.

For the manhood of the nations as a whole certainly did not go to war. Soldiering was a profession like the church or the law; and when a war came along, the professionals took it in their stride. In long-drawn-out war, some proportion of amateurs might have been roped into it. But generally speaking the soldiers and sailors were perfectly free to survive.

Not so now. Modern war can be all and does its best to destroy them. Canada lost 38,000 young men in the recent war; 56,000 in the war before that. We like to console ourselves by comparing that 38,000

$13,000,000 Aid To Gold Mining

Ottawa, March 15 (CP)— Federal estimates for 1949-50 tabled in the Commons Monday showed an appropriation of $13,000,000 to assist gold-mining companies.

The payments, made under the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act passed by parliament last year, are designed to assist companies whose cannot operate economically. A recent government statement placed the total of such payments since inception last July at about $6,000,000, indicating it is expecting payments would continue at approximately the same rate.

and of life. Years with the enlarged horizon. Ripening years. Harvest years.

Time has both its glitter and its gold. Every age has its reward and its joy. Every age has not just handed to us — they have to. Every age has its gifts given us our pride in them. It is possible for each one of us to make every year bring its beauty and a sense of satisfaction, from youth to old age, each year. But we must grow and unweepingly, be our age, at all times and in all ways. It can be. Nature creates no false faces. And it respects no false ages.

There is advance into the more mature years we can put away childish things, as the scripture spoke about, but we can still retain in our heart much of the child. It is this that keeps us gentle, clean and sympathetic, and hopeful. And it keeps enlarging our understanding.

Without it we grow lonely, interests, too, and those interests overlap from age to age, giving a uniform joy to life. Said Karle Wilson Baker, "I am grow lovely, growing old." Why say earth each age's inheritance along with us as day is added to day?

Community singing and contests were enjoyed, after which Marion was seated at a decorated table and asked to unwrap the numerous gifts presented to her. She very graciously thanked every girl for such beautiful gifts.

The joint hostesses, Mrs. David Duffin, Mrs. Davy Ryan and Miss Katharine and Mrs. R. Utman, served dainty refreshments.

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple showed some very interesting slides and gave a talk on "Education" at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Club last Monday evening.

Brighteners

St. Moritz, Switzerland — (AP) —Swiss hotel keepers have learned how to make "snow bombs", but they need a bombsight badly. A hotel owner here who will do almost anything for a guest, decided to provide more for visitors who were stubbing their skills on Alpine rocks.

Three attempts to adopt the American method of making snow by dropping dry ice into a cloud failed because of lack of clouds.

On the fourth try, a big fat cloud came along in time. Hotel men watched with field glasses as the dry ice was thrown out over a wide area above the cloud.

A light snow drifted down. But not over St. Moritz. It fell to the north, over the ski runs of Davos —bitter rivals of St. Moritz.

Peter Smith Displays Rare Talent In Recital of Classical Music

BY EUGENE LANG

For the second time within one week the Collegiate Auditorium was filled to the last seat in the capacity audience gathered there last evening to hear the very gifted and talented young Canadian pianist, Peter Smith, son of Archdeacon and Mrs. Arthur Smith of this city. Peter, who is now only in his early twenties ,started studying music under the tuition of thirteen under the tuitelage of Miss Gladys Barnes of Ottawa. Subsequently he became the renowned virtuoso urged Peter to concentrate exclusively upon the hearing him play and from his sixteenth year onward he has devoted most of his time to musical study. He has given recitals several times both Ottawa and Toronto, also playing with the Montreal Symphony Orchestra in the winning of the Lindsay Open Piano Competition. He now holds a scholarship which he won from the Famed Julliard School of Music in New York in 1946, where he continues to return every year and complete his degree of B. Sc. in Music.

Program of Classical Music

His choice of selections for last evening's program was culled from the standard repertoire of 18th and 19th century European composers, a staple selection of solid classical music which never fails to please musician, scholar and layman alike. The Austrian composer Haydn was the first represented, and two of his more unfamiliar works were given as an introduction to her.

The "Andante apd Variations in F Minor", a work of plaintive and melancholy quality was meticulously revealed in all its sheer loveliness in contrast to the bright gaiety of the "Fantasia in C Major", a composition so exemplary of the 18th century Rococo period, complete with Hunting Horn Fanfares and effervescent passages here displayed with a bucolic buoyancy by the artist.

The second part of the recital was given over to an intellectual inded reading of the Sonata in D Minor, Op. 31, No. 2 of Beethoven, sometimes known as the "Tempest" Sonata. Mr. Smith gave a very definitive version of this second period Sonata by the master of Bonn. The Rondo, a small study in perpetual motion, may have been a slight bit faster than it was, nevertheless, the overall delineation was of clarity and aesthetic solidarity.

Part three of the recital consisted of two compositions of Frederic Chopin, the Nocturne in F Flat Major being given with that romantic lyricism and inner sensitivity that is necessary for an objective discernment of Chopin's music of this type; and the concomitant "Fantasie in F Minor, Op. 49, a work of gargantuan proportions which showed Mr. Smith as a musician of both deep penetration and virtuosic technical delineation. The number was fearlessly intoned and dexterously accomplished.

The only modern composition was the first number following the intermission, this being the "Sonatine" of Maurice Ravel, the modern French Impressionist. An easily comprehensible rendition of this Sonata in miniature form was revealed, and here Mr. Smith again displayed the pedal technique in the smooth blending of tones discussed in his address, the final result being that of intermingled harmonies of varied hues and intensities.

Brahms' Works Featured

The final group of the recital consisted of four piano solos of the immortal Johannes Brahms. In the works of this one composer Mr. Smith brought to his hearers emotions ranging from ghostly rumblings and ponderous surges of swell, as depicted in the Rhapsody in E Minor, Op. 79, No. 2 to ethereal incantations and subtle humorous quirks as so aptly portrayed in the Intermezzo in E Flat Minor, Op. 118, No. 6 and Op. 119, No. 2 respectively. The well-known Theme in A Minor of Paganini was the vehicle for display of Mr. Smith's highly-skilled technique as he traversed the formidable difficulties of the Variations of Brahms on this Theme, Op. 35, Book 1. Two encores were given, first the sombre Intermezzo in B. Flat Minor, Op. 117, No. 3 of Brahms stylistically interpreted, and finally the "Toccata" Op.7 of Schumann's, another composition of exacting demands on the performer, but one which Mr. Smith had no fear of in his commendable playing of it.

Belleville should be well proud of this young artist and wish him every success in the brilliant future which lies open ahead for him in the concert world which he has chosen to make himself a part.

The Seroptimist Club of the city sponsored Peter Smith's recital.

Women's Activities

REDNERSVILLE W.A.

The Rednersville W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Allan Sempert with 23 members present. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Ross Sempert. Duchess of Kent One Of World's Best Dressed Women, And World's Best Shopper

BY MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 13. (CP)—When the Duchess of Kent came here in January, King George's third son in 1934, she became Britain's No. 1 fashion-setter. Today she remains one of the world's best-dressed women.

The 42-year-old Duchess, who had nearly every girl in Britain wearing "Marina green" 14 years ago, has been described as "the world's best shopper". She is always willing to try out new designers, new fabrics, new ideas.

Princess Margaret follows her aunt in clothes sense. The younger Princess was the first of her immediate family to be seen in public in the "new look". With plenty of ideas of her own, she is willing to learn from the Duchess experience and showed this by her instant preference for Molyneux, one of her aunt's designers.

Molyneux makes many of the Duchess' tailored suits, sunrise prints and evening dresses while Bianca Mosca is often her choice for afternoon dresses, coats and soft tailored suits.

Her preference for tie-silks was noted last year and one of her silk suits this year will be a heavy pure silk print, grey with grained surface, worn with a white lingerie blouse.

Fond of furs, she is having one of her mink coats remodelled to three-quarter length with full swing back.

The essentials of her present wardrobe are simplicity of design with detail, unusual colors and accessories ringing the changes. She dislikes fussiness.

Her town clothes are usually tailored suits or a dress and coat in the morning, dress and coat in the afternoon.

Evening Dress

For evening she likes glamorous full-skirted dresses with off-the-shoulder neckline or "grande decollete" in brocades, heavy silks and soft chiffons—often worn with a stole of the same material.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, and son, Ronald, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. R. Fleming, at Crookston.

A number of residents attended the pianoforte recital given by Peter Smith, son of Archdeacon F. A. Smith in Belleville, on Monday night.

Wayne Brown, of St. Catharines, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, at Deloro.

Crisp Blouse

Striped blouse and gabardine skirt

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THE COTTON BLOUSE is a top favorite with girls, especially for general daytime wear, and it makes a nice outfit with a separate skirt. Brown and white striped cotton is used for this neat blouse detailed with a pocket, short sleeves and pearl buttons. With it is worn a classic skirt of beige gabardine with two flaps at the hips covering slit pockets. There is an action pleat in the front of the skirt and the back is gored.

Her hats, adaptations from leading Paris models, are extremely simple, depending purely on line and material for effect.

Her shoes, too, are simple to the point of severity.

Handbags, also simple in design, often are fabulous in material.

Jewels and accessories must suit the ensemble. A piece of jewelry is never worn just because it is new or expensive.

Asking officer how to introduce

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other evening I went to a party given at the home of a very charming woman, a friend of mine who always seems to know just what to do socially. One of the men guests brought with him (apparently by pre-arrangement with the hostess) an officer in the Navy. When she started to introduce the officer, she hesitated for a second and then smiled and asked him, "Please tell me how I shall introduce you." He told her, and she went on with the introductions. I admired her for her delightful and honest directness, but my sister thought this question was discourteous. What do you think?

Alma S.

I agree with you and your friend proved again your pleasant estimate of her that "she knows just what to do socially". She was courteous, and, as you say, honestly direct . . . and for her to ask the officer how to introduce him was vastly better than introducing him improperly.

Husband and wife not seated side by side at dinners.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a bet, will you please answer this question: At a dinner party, either formal or informal, large or small, is it correct for a husband and wife to be seated next to each other? "A" says it is correct. "B" say it isn't. Who wins?

Peter G.

"B" wins. The only exception to the rule that a husband and wife are not seated next to each other at a dinner is sometimes when they attend a public dinner or so-called "banquet". . . . very often on these occasions there are no seating-arrangements, and husband and wife sit side by side.

Today's informal fashion . . . sometimes dessert is omitted

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle a discussion which my sister (who is married and lives in a city in a different part of the country) and I are having: Is it ever considered correct, at an informal luncheon or dinner, to omit dessert entirely and to end the meal with fruit (not a fruit compote, but fruit left as is) or with a salad of some kind?

Ruth B.

Yes. . . . This is today somewhat the fashion. Formerly, of course, there just had to be a dessert, usually ice cream or an ice in some form. But today many informal meals of an interesting simplicity and sophistication, often end with a salad, a simple green salad or a very simple fruit salad, with cheese only, (preferable) or with cheese and broiled or toasted crackers, and coffee. . . . Or sometimes a large dish of fruit is the table center piece, and the fruit is passed to the guests, instead of a more conventional dessert.

Invitation form when bride's mother is not living

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to have a church wedding, to wear a white wedding dress and bridal veil, to have a maid of honor, and the groom to have a best man. It is to be a small wedding, rather informal. My problem is "the invitations. My mother is not living. When I order my invitations should I have in the first line, Mr. and the Mrs. David Norman Smith", or only "Mr. David Norman Smith"?

E. B. S.

"Mr. David Norman Smith" is the correct form for the first line of the formal invitations. (I think you may be confusing the form with the correct form in a newspaper announcement, which would read, "daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark".)

Breathing exercises

Do you know that you can pluck cheek roses out of the air and discard the rouge compact? It is true. You can also get vitality; refreshment of body and spirit. . . . All you need! During this season of the year many women are sick-starved. Their complexions suffer.

Plump women are not keen about exercise

Girls who lack energy, whose complexions are pale, who can't seem to get steamed up about ordinary activities, will find themselves benefitted by deep breathing. Air-washing the lungs should be a daily rite with young women of this type. Whenever they step out of doors they should make it a practice to inhale deeply and slowly. They should inhale through the nostrils and exhale through the lips, forcing out stale air from the inner cells of the lungs.

For the girl with the concave chest, whose lungs are undeveloped, and whose posture is not according to Dorothy Hoyle, circular breathing is helpful. This manner of breathing lifts the shoulders high. The backbone extends Heels! full length. The muscles of the torso expand and contract, spreading up circulation.

She should stand erect and inhale slowly, lifting the arms on a level with the shoulders and coming up on the toes. Exhale, back to first position and repeat.

Costal breathing is recommended to make shelf-like collar bones do a disappearing act, for firming neck tissues that have become saggy, for disciplining a chin that has gone tandem.

Clasp the hands at the back of the waistline. Stretch the feet three inches apart, toes pointing straight ahead, tummy flat, head on the level.

Draw in the air slowly, expanding the chest, drawing up the abdominal muscles. Inhale through the nostrils. Ten minutes of these movements daily will have a tonic effect upon the entire musculature, will make for fine figure lines.

The poet dear whose waist has expanded, whose shape is gradually losing the outlines of the spreading chestnut tree, will find that her reducing efforts will be aided and abetted by diaphragmatic breathing. Results will be specific if she will be mindful of posture—keep herself erect.

Standing tall, she must place her hands on her hips. Taking a deep breath and drawing in the section of her body that is south of the waistline, she must hold her breath while she counts five, then exhale—but she should not permit the abdominal muscles to relax.

Plump women are not keen about exercises. But it doesn't require much exertion to do these easy ones.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Letters and Answers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a married woman 30 years of age and very happy with my husband. I have a six-months-old baby boy, and one month ago I found out I was to have another baby.

Sometimes I want to kill myself, for I remember how I suffered with my first child. All during my pregnancy I couldn't go anywhere, because I was sick all the time, and I feel terrible thinking of going through all that again.

What I want to know is, is there anyway that I could get rid of the baby that is coming without an operation? I love children, and wouldn't mind having more, but not so soon. If you can give me any advice at all I would appreciate it, as I am desperate. My husband knows all about this and feels the same as I do.

"Worried Mother"

Dear "Worried Mother":

I have discussed your problem with an obstetrician who tells me that there is no reason why you cannot be made comfortable during your pregnancy, and that if you will go immediately to your doctor, he should be able to keep you from feeling so sick all the time.

It is too bad that this baby is coming so soon after the first one, but since this is the fact, you will be very much happier if you make up your mind to accept it and co-operate with your doctor in anything he tells you.

Do not, under any circumstances, try anything else. You could ruin your health permanently, and possibly even endanger your life.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 21 years old and would like to know if I am making a mistake by getting married to a girl who has a two-year-old baby and was never married. I love the girl very much and also the baby and want to know for sure if I am doing the right thing.

"Jack"

Dear "Jack":

I would say that all depends upon what kind of a girl she is.

If she is unstable, irresponsible and without standards or ideals, you certainly would be making a mistake to take a chance on her making you a loving and loyal wife.

On the other hand, if she is a girl of good character and sound principles, and made a single regrettable mistake, is sorry for it, and can be trusted not to repeat it, then what happened in the past should be forgotten so far as possible and all that need be considered is what she will make of the future.

British Socialized Medicine

By EDWIN SHANKE

London, March 13 (AP)—Is Britain's new socialized medicine program "just what the doctor ordered?" opinion varies.

The doctor is watching to see whether the plan will stand the test of an epidemic. Also, he thinks he should get a better reward for his services.

A majority of Britons seem to think it is the answer to their prayers. They rushed into it. Among them of course are millions of workers who were enrolled in the old health insurance act. They were merely absorbed into the new plan.

"Nothing has changed," they say. "The standards of care are the same either way."

But you can find as many who say medical care is harder for them to get now.

For Fast Attention

"If I want to get fast attention, outside of an emergency, I still pay the doctor," these say. "Then I don't have to wait."

One thing is certain: More Britons are getting needed medical and dental treatment now that the money bar has dropped.

The British Medical Association is leading a fight to amend some sections of the law, particularly to raise the average fee for each patient on the doctor's list.

A doctor participating in the plan may be paid its fee or two ways: By a capitation fee of 1 (£2.00) a year for each public patient, or by a fixed annual payment of £300 plus a capitation fee at a rate about one-seventh lower than otherwise. In addition, he gets extra fees. A baby delivery, for example, gives him an extra £7 7s. A country doctor receives an automobile mileage fee which recently was raised 50 per cent.

A doctor is permitted to take 4,000 public patients plus any private patients he wishes. Or he may continue to practise privately exclusively.

Gross Basis Income

Under either method of payment, a doctor with 1,000 public patients receives a gross basic income of approximately £1,052 or with 4,000 patients about £3,333 before tax and expense deductions.

"Lancet," an authoritative British medical weekly, contends "4,000 patients implies inadequacy of personal care."

On the other hand, the British Medical Association maintains that to earn a decent living today a doctor must have 4,000 patients because taxes and operating expenses cut his gross income at least in half.

The medical profession won an amendment which eliminates the chances of the state dictating to the doctor as it employes what his patients needs. With that change, the vast majority of general practitioners decided to work in the health program.

There still are a considerable number of holdouts—about seven per cent which corresponds roughly to the percentage of patients who haven't yet signed for public medicines.

On the whole, the "die-hards" can be classified as doctors advanced in age who are well-enough situated financially that they can afford to scorn "new-fangled socialist ideas."

Dream of Broad Union of Europe Being Realized

London, March 13 — (AP) — The dream of a broad European union moves closer to reality today as foreign ministers of Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg went into the second day of a two-day meeting on the problems of the North Atlantic Pact and the European union.

One problem is the conflict between the date previously set for a founding conference for the 10-member Council of Europe and the date for signing the North Atlantic Treaty.

The members of the Western European Union, or Brussels Alliance, have invited Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Eire and Italy to the founding conference March 28 in London. But the foreign ministers of the Brussels powers expect they will then be on shipboard, bound for the Atlantic pact-signing in Washington.

The Western European Union is a defensive, as well as a social and cultural alliance.

The Council of Europe would be strictly social and cultural at the start. It would consist of a committee of ministers with limited powers, corresponding to a cabinet, and a consultative body with merely advisory functions, corresponding to a parliament.

The meeting here has been secret, but a communique will be issued tonight after wind-up of the meeting.

The terms of the North Atlantic Pact, which was known to be before the ministers Monday, are to be published Friday.

Many of the decisions concerned with defence may not be made public immediately, but certain economic problems created by the Atlantic treaty also were to be discussed and these probably will be made public.

Another problem facing the ministers is how to expand the military aspects of the Western European alliance so as to bring in other countries joining the Atlantic powers.

Norway has announced she will join in the Atlantic alliance. The foreign ministers of Denmark and Iceland are discussing their possible adherence. Italy and Portugal also may be invited to take part.

IVANHOE

Jr. Farmers Hear Talk On Conservation

Ivanhoe — The annual meeting of the Hastings Junior Farmer Association was held Saturday in the Huntingdon township hall, Ivanhoe, with 35 young men and young women in attendance.

The chairman for the morning session was Mr. John Huffman, president of the County Junior Farmer Association. In his remarks he reviewed the activities of the county association during 1945.

Miss Edeline McCoy acted as chairman for the afternoon program. The past presidents of the local clubs then reviewed their own club's activities and each one reported that their club had a very successful year.

The highlight of the afternoon meeting was a speech on "Conservation" delivered by Mr. Robert Phillips, B.S.A., agriculture teacher at the Belleville Collegiate.

Short talks were also given by Miss Elsie Irvin, County Home Economist on Girls' Work in the county; Mr. G. W. Montgomery on boys' club work and Junior Farmer work in general in the county, and Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, agriculture representative, who outlined some of the projects that the Juniors should be undertaking in 1945.

The following slate of officers was elected for 1945: President, Miss Edeline McCoy, Madoc R. R. 2; vice president, Douglas Harry, R. R. 5, Trenton; secretary, Carl E. Bateman, R. R. 2, Tweed; Treasurer, A. O. Dalrymple, Stirling; directors, Gerald Eggleton, R. R. 5, Belleville; Norman Lasier, Shannonville R. R. 1; Jean Morris, R. R. 2, Frankford.

400TH ANNIVERSARY

London — (CP) — The Church of England throughout the world will celebrate, during 1945, the 400th anniversary of the publication of the first English Prayer Book. This is now known as The Book of Common Prayer, based on the version first drafted and published during the reign of Edward VI.

Notes of Sidney Jr. Farm Groups' Activities

The monthly meeting of the Sidney Junior Institute and Junior Farmers was held in Canning school house. The girls' meeting was opened by Jean Morris. Miss Elsie Erwin, Home Economist, presented the girls of the Garden Group with teaspoons won last year. It was decided to make handkerchief aprons at the next meeting.

The boys' meeting opened with Orval May in charge. The Sidney Calf Club was organized and Mr. G. W. Montgomery, assistant agricultural representative gave a short talk on various other clubs such as swine club, grain club and reforestation projects.

During the joint meeting under Jean Morris, plans were made for a dance to be held sometime in April. Bruce Holton and Rena Harder gave their reports on the Quinte Folk School. The meeting was then adourned and followed by folk dancing and refreshments.

The Sidney clubs were the guests of the Rawdon Junior Institute and Junior Farmers at their monthly meeting. Everyone enjoyed the dancing and mock wedding afterwards.

The Sidney Juniors held a club skating party in Frankford arena. The girls played some exciting broomball game which was followed by a hockey game between the Sidney boys and the Frankford juveniles. After an hour's skating, everyone journeyed to Ann Herrington's for refreshments and dancing.

Bruce Holton and Rena Harder sponsored the Sidney Junior Farmers and Junior Institute respectively at attended the Quinte Folk School for the past week.

Among the attendants at the annual county reorganization in Ivanhoe were Douglas Harry, Geraldine Harry, Jean Morris, Orval May and Luella Homan. Douglas Harry was elected to the office of vice-president of the Hastings County Junior Farmer Association while Jean Morris holds a director's position.

THERE'S new activity in Ontario's bushland north of Lake Superior. Marathon and Red Rock, Terrace and Heron Bay: they all tell the same story. New towns have arisen, old ones expanded. Only five years ago on the site of Marathon, for example, there was nothing but bush; today a new community beside a new pulp mill is contributing millions to Canada's export trade.

Such spectacular developments in the north are matched by continuing industrial expansion in the older established communities. Throughout Canada today ever-widening avenues of opportunity await the enterprise of young Canadians.

With newsprint production 50% above pre-war levels, Canada today has an output five times that of any other country, and accounts for three out of every five newspaper pages in the world.

"Canada is a land of opportunity..." There is a field for almost anything one can think of, and anyone with a willingness for hard work has a good chance to achieve success", says Donald J. Smith, President of Hornet Industries Limited, Guelph, Ontario.

Hornet Industries Limited, which was founded in 1945, has in this short time achieved remarkable success in the manufacture of chain saws and combustion engines. More than half the production of the plant reaches markets outside Canada. From a staff of only a half dozen men in 1945, Hornet Industries Limited has expanded to three plants in Guelph, employing 256 workers.

Drew And P.C. Members Assail Government For Method Used To Continue Some Controls

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 15 —(CP) — George Drew and his Progressive Conservative followers took the government to task in the Commons yesterday for the method by which it plans to continue some controls. The sessions saw ushered another series of noisy daily demonstrations.

The discussion, carried on almost solely by the Progressive Conservatives, frequently wandered far from the question of controls. It brought spokesmen for each party running to his feet and finally he threatened to use "levers" if members did not speak on matters relevant to the resolution before the House.

The resolution is preliminary to a bill providing for the continuation of controls on such things as domestic rents, certain food prices, timber and steel.

Mr. Drew said that if Parliament had the power to deal with rent controls, price controls and other controls under one bill, it has equal power to deal with them by separate statutes.

"The separate statutes would improperly define the rights of the individuals affected and in the case of rents cases would go to the people of Canada an opportunity to go before the courts of this country and have their rights tested in the proper and traditional way."

"I hope," he said, "that no one will suggest that any member who opposes the continuance of these wartime powers is opposing rent control or any other provision to meet the situation which has arisen very largely as a result of the activities of the government itself."

Besides Mr. Drew speakers in the debate included John T. Hackett (PC-Stanstead), Garfield Case (PC-Grey North), J. A. Ross (PC-Souris), Cecil Merrit (PC-Vancouver Burrard), John R. MacNicol (PC-Toronto Davenport), and Victor Quelch (SC-Acadia).

The debate will be resumed today.

Member's Session Hours

At the House opening a vote was taken on the question of the Thursday sitting hours.

Members, in a "free vote" that split through all party lines, voted 80 to 68 for motion moved by Mr. St. Laurent to extend the experimental sitting hours started a few weeks ago —3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 7.30 p.m.- to 10.30 pm. The previous hours were 3-6 pm. and 8 to 11 p.m.

In the debate, Mr. Drew said the government has no right to ask in 1949 for continuation of emergency powers stemming from a war that ended in 1945.

There was "no question" about the fact the federal government must deal with the housing situation and deal with it "in a more efficient way" than it had in the past. He suggested the government bring down legislation written in "clear and unmistakable terms" which would end the "confusion" now existing between landlords and tenants.

The government had offered to turn over rent controls to the provinces. By this move it had stated emphatically that there is no emergency in the rental field which must necessarily be handled by the federal government.

Mr. Drew quoted from a March Nobe Court of Appeals judgment, delivered last Thursday, which ruled ultra vires of parliament an Order-in-Council passed under the terms of the Transitional Powers Act, a measure similar to the one now up for extension.

The court held that the Canadian Wheat Board could not compel a grain operator to give up stocks of barley under the federal order.

Mr. Drew quoted extensively from the judgment of Mr. Justice J. A. Adamson, who held there was no emergency which warranted an abrogation of provincial rights such as was provided by the Order-in-Council.

Says Liberal Principles Abandoned

The controls gave the governments "extraordinary authority". He asked members to consider the mentality of the government which would exercise the controls in an election year.

He said Reconstruction Minister Winters, Finance Minister Abbott and Health Minister Martin had all made statements declaring they expected voters to recognize the "beneficiences" conferred on them out of the Canadian treasury.

Yet another point, Mr. Drew said that the government has "abandoned Liberal principles".

"The only thing Liberal about this government is the Liberal address of socialism that is trying to give the people of Canada, and that is exactly what the continuation of these wartime powers now constitutes.

"If dictatorship comes to Canada it will not be through those who describe themselves as socialists, it will be through those who describe themselves as Liberals, and in spite of that name defy every principle for which the word 'Liberal' stands."

Mr. Case said that the government accept the suggestion of his leader and bring in separate control bills. Most people would agree that some measure of control was necessary because the government's policies had put the country's economy into a "straitjacket."

The current legislation was "the daddy" of all control bills. It would rob the people of their in-

Interesting Talk On Library Given By Miss Masson

At the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club, Miss Stewart Masson, member of the Belleville Library Board, gave an interesting talk on the functions of the Corby Public Library.

Miss Masson pointed out that in 1876 the library known as the Mechanic's Institute was founded and is the original beginning of the library of today. In 1902 the Belleville Free Library and in 1905 Harry Corby gave $20,000 to be used for buying books and he also donated the library to the city.

Since then the library has owned 20,000 books and last year had a circulation of 80,000. In 1945 the library started a camera club and have been very successful as has the newly-formed Arts and Crafts Club.

Miss Masson said that the library wishes to start a picture record of Belleville in earlier days and asked that anyone having any such pictures donate them to the library to start such a record.

Guests at the luncheon were past-president Alec Nelson of Oshawa, Bert Thorn of Toronto, Gerald Harray of Trenton and Bill Graydon of Picton.

Belleville Rink Gains Bonspiel Semi-Final Draw

An unpractised, unsung rink of Belleville curlers, who haven't used the "broom and stane" since a year ago, are proving something of a sensation in the annual Peterborough Kiwanis Bonspiel now under way in the Liftlock City.

The rink comprised of Messrs. Claude D. Tice, Squadron Leader Bobby Thompson, Don Stanton and Frank Creeggan swept and stoned their way to the semi-finals for the Kiwanis trophy, brushing aside far more experienced rinks in their strides.

They were defeated, however, in the semi-final draw last night by the strong Peterborough rink skipped by Jack Sinclair.

This morning they entered the consolation for the Lord Calvert Trophy and if successful will play in the finals this afternoon.

Peterborough and Oakwood rinks meet for the Kiwanis trophy and championship of the bonspiel.

The performance of the Belleville rink is all the more creditable in view of the fact that they entered the bonspiel with absolutely no practice. They curled their last game in Peterborough at the annual bonspiel held in 1948.

THREE MEN ARRESTED

Montreal, March 15 — (CP) — Three men believed connected with a $25,000 holdup Friday night at the warehouse of a Montreal tobacco wholesaler, were arrested early today and Monday night it was announced by Montreal police.

Police said the three are Jacques Goulin, 23, Jacques Caperal, 25, and George Aird, alias Cole, 26.

Cvila Larose, 28, a fourth suspect in the gang was killed by police Friday night after the hold-up when trapped in a backyard.

No Rush to Buy Clothing in U.K. As Ration Lifted

London, March 15 (AP)— Clothes came off the ration for the first time in eight years today, but there was no rush to buy.

Most British newspapers agreed editorially that lack of money will hold down sales as much as rationing did.

Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade announced the end of clothing rationing Monday. Manufacturers had said supplies were more than adequate.

Reds Smuggle Silk Hose Into W. Germany

Berlin, March 15 (AP)—The newspaper Die Welt says today Communists are smuggling women's silk stockings on a big scale to finance their work in western Germany.

The British-licensed paper says the Communist Social Unity Party politburo in Berlin is the smuggling agent.

Hose produced in east zone Saxony for 75 east pfennings—a fraction of a dollar—bring up to $4.50 on the western German black market, the report says.

Murder Charge Faces Sam Care

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Samuel Care, 58-year-old cleaner at the Toronto Hospital for Tuberculosis in suburban Weston, has been charged with murder in connection with the death of Miss Mamie McLennon, 55, a hospital maid.

Police Chief Robert Alexander of York Township said the charge was laid late Monday. Care, now under 24-hour police guard in hospital, was remanded from his hospital bed for one week.

Miss McLennon was one of three victims attacked by Care when he went berserk March 1 and ran through hospital corridors wielding a knife, a razor and a sawed-off shotgun. She died the following day.

The two other victims, a nurse and a woman patient, are reported recovering from their wounds.

BAKED FISH WITH RIDEAU TOPPING

[illegible] lb. any fish fillet; ½ cup butter, melted; ½ cup chopped onion; ½ cup chopped celery or carrot; 2 cups hot mashed potatoes; ½ tea. salt; dash pepper; 2 eggs, beaten and 2 tbs. shredded Ingersoll Rideau Cheese (Pimiento).

Spread fish with melted butter on both sides, season with salt, pepper. Bake in hot oven at 450 degrees F. for 10 minutes or until fish loosens through. Broil chopped onion and celery (or carrot), in melted butter until tender but not brown. Mix with all remaining ingredients except shredded cheese. Carefully pile dressing on top of hot fish and sprinkle with the shredded Ingersoll Rideau Cheese. Return to oven for 10 to 20 minutes, (according to thickness of fish), to melt fish and melt and brown cheese. Makes 4 servings.

"More of our friends have Telephones— and we all use the Telephone more!"

Day and night, seven days a week the telephone is at your service. Quickly and easily it keeps you in touch with everything and everybody everywhere. There are 400,000 more telephones and two million more calls a day than there were three years ago. And service is getting better all the time.

In three years, however, costs of important raw materials for telephone lines and cables have risen sharply. Copper prices have doubled, zinc and lead prices tripled. Yet, up to now, despite rising costs on all sides, there has been no increase in the basic telephone rates established 22 years ago. Few things give you so much real value at such low cost as your telephone.

We've broken all records but there are still orders we haven't been able to fill. We will keep right on working and building to make your telephone service a bigger bargain than ever — to continue to provide more and better service at the lowest possible cost.

Rollicking Roy Conacher Still Holds 2 Point Lead Over Hawk Hate D. Bentley in NHL Race

Montreal, March 15. (CP) — Rollicking Roy Conacher enters the final week of the National Hockey League campaign still holding a two-point lead over his Chicago linemate, Doug Bentley, official statistics showed today.

Since the Black Hawk big guns announced their intention of dividing equally first and second-place money, each has gone pointless. Their records are the same as a week ago, Conacher 66 points, Bentley 64.

No one else figures to have a chance to overhaul the puck-wizards in the last three games before the playoffs, which indigestibly the Hawks won't be in. A pair of Detroit snipers, Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay, hold down third and fourth spots with 52 and 49 points respectively, while Chicago's Jim Conacher is fifth with 47.

Uhal, having his best year in eight seasons under hockey's big top, tops the goal-getters with 26 markers, while Roy Conacher and Toronto's Harry Watson each have 25. Doug Bentley heads the assists department with 42.

Paul Ronty of Boston was the biggest draw during the week, collecting five points on two goals and three assists, and he took over sixth place behind Jim Conacher.

Bill Durnan, almost a leader in the clinch to capture his fifth Vezina trophy in six years, is in a class by himself among the nets goal-tenders. Big Bill, with 123 goals against, leads Detroit's Harry Lumley by 18 goals in the Vezina race. His goals-against average, 2.16 per game, is tops, and the amazing Montreal backstop leads in shutouts with 10.

Although he has been sidelined for more than a month with a leg injury, Wild Bill Ezinicki holds fair to walk off with backman honors. The Toronto winger has served 134 minutes in penalty time, Chicago's Ben Chisholm is next with 110 minutes.

Former White Sox Shortstop Dies

Chicago, March 15 —(AP) — Clashmers (Bill) Cissell, 43, former shortstop for Chicago White Sox, died today.

Cissell, who lost his job with the Sox to Luke Appling in 1932 and later played with several other major-league clubs, had been confined to hospital since the middle of January.

The White Sox gave Portland, Ore., of the Pacific Coast League $23,000 in cash and players for Cissell in 1927.

New York March 15 (AP)—Lee Boren a California fight manager, has come up with a young featherweight named Bobby Why. Too bad they can't match him with Bobby Whynott of Halifax and let the broadcasters develop another "who's on first" act.... CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE B. CARVER, Sports Editor

'TWAS EVER THUS

Kingston, like any other sports community, apparently loves a winning team. This is plainly evident when the vitamized Nylons Senior "B" squad of that city, after washing the smooth-working Diesels' machine of Belleville right over the group opposition in ten straight victories, rose in indignant protest on the slightest of hints, and tempered their surging power with a new front line hurled the Diesels back on their haunches with two straight defeats in the group finals.

Last Wednesday night the Jack Harty Arena groaned in protest as eager fans poured through the turnstiles and caused the venerable building to nearly burst at the seams. They packed nearly every nook and cranny and even parked in the deep ravines and crevices that separate the sides from the ends. Limestone City fandom seemed in a sensational winning team. They were not wrong. And consequently they are pouring out in droves to-night, their white-clad pockets to what they hope will be a group title over a team that during the schedule was generally conceded to take the mythical basin with not too much opposition from any other team concerned.

This is as it should be. Kingston hockey teams have not, during the past few years, unless it was in important playdowns or playoffs, set the world afire. Even in the days of packing benefits for the Hall of Fame, suffered say burst earnings from the low race of rabid spectators. They have been times, especially in the lower brackets of hockey, when there have been more people on the ice than off it. Hockey sponsors down that way have not retired financially fixed, or have been noticed sporting new automobiles from the proceeds of their ventures in the red ink.

The same situation is apparent in this village on the banks of the Moira. The junior and minor hockey squads have not been embarrassed by overflow crowds. The city league, a complete success, drew less than an average and in the semi-finals and finals the "house was packed." Diesels have drawn consistently good gates when playing, day's bumper crowd cracking the record. Played' time is payed time for nearly every hockey club fortunate to reach the silfied semi-final and playoff time with its added attraction of "foreign" teams from the faraway places generally proves to be even more lucrative.

GRAB THOSE TICKETS NOW!

However to get back to the Kingston recreation to his up-and-coming Nylons team. This all leads up to the fact that the Diesels' management which are sponsoring another special train to convey the faithful to the Tricity fair next Wednesday night, have been advised that only 375 tickets for the Jack Hartz Arena are available. That means that the "joint" is sold out, or something to that effect, and once more the ancient palace de glace will stretch its venerable walls to the bursting point with howling fandom.

And it also means that those guys and gals had better go after the pasteboards right away if you want to get a seat. We understand they are on sale at Cook's Business Emporium and the City Ticket Office, Front Street, where you can also secure the pasteboards necessary for the rail transportation. Better do it now, or at the first opportunity.

Meanwhile, with hope reborn, the Diesels' supporters, after the spectacular performance of the team last Saturday, are looking forward to another victory that will even the series on Wednesday night. They are confident that the two disastrous defeats administered by the firing Nylons were due mainly to a lapse of form of their rallroaders, and now the Diesels have regained their stride, they have an excellent chance of taking the series.

MERCHANTS HAVE TROUBLES, TOO

Even the Mercantile League has its troubles. The Empire Groceterias and Bell Telephone; Quinte Paints and Flats Boys battled through their semi-finals with everything at stake. But now it seems there has been high drama going on in some of the camps. Some of the teams grabbed the services of ineligible players with the result that a protest was lodged. The executive held a special meeting and both games were tossed out on their respective ears, and ordered replayed. Just when the fireworks will get together will not be decided until some order has been gained out of the temporary OHA Dales chaos.

The Rockets sing home their second straight victory in the district Junior "B" group finals here last night defeating the Kingston Bacons by an 8-4 score to cop a two-game lead in the home-and-home series. The third bout is slated for Memorial Arena tomorrow night and Rockets should tuck the group title away in three straight. Rockets had a little breather in turning back the hard-fighting Barons, racking up an eight-goal lead before the visitors hit pay dirt. Barons, however, came back with a spirited and desperate effort and scored four goals in the third period.

Marchildon Will Pitch Against Dodgers Today

(By The Associated Press)

Boston Braves have several players on the bench with minor hurts.

Listed as ailing among the National League's champions are third baseman Bob Elliott with a sore throwing arm, Catcher Bill Salkeld with a stiff back, Lefty Warren Spahn with a veel blister, Nels Potter with a stiff shoulder which he says is "normal in the Spring", and Phil Masi with stiff legs muscles.

New York Giants are boasting of the speed of three of their rookie outfielders, Gail Henley, Bill Miller and Hal Rasmberger.

However, they are confronted with a tough task of beating out Bobby Thomson, Willard Marshall and Whitey Lockman for regular berths.

Brooklyn Manager Barney Shotton is pleased with the showing of pitcher Harry Taylor. Shotton said yesterday that Taylor looks like the major-league pitcher he was before he hurt his arm two years ago.

Manager Eddie Sawyer of Philadelphia Phillies is mighty happy over the way his pitchers are performing.

The Phillies have won their first three exhibition games and already have whipped Detroit Tigers twice. In three games nine Phillies hurlers have given up only 16 hits and permitted six runs.

Grady Hatton, Cincinnati Reds' third-baseman is still iding the bench. He has been mentioned in a trade with Brooklyn.

Oxford-Cantabs Oarsmen Ready For Famous Race

London, March 15 (AP)—Sixteen husky undergraduates of Oxford and Cambridge are approaching the climax in their training for the annual Varsity boat race between two universities.

For the last six months they have pulled racing shells on the wintry waters of the Cam and Isis rivers. Now they are ready for the final phase of preparation on the famed and tricky Thames river at London's suburban Putney.

The race will be held March 26 over a 4 1-4-mile course on the Thames. Cambridge won last year in a record 17 minutes, 50 seconds.

The big race is a free show for Londoners. Half a million of them line the north and south banks of the Thames each year to see about one minute of the race.

It all started in 1829 when "eight young gentlemen of the University of Oxford" challenged "eight young gentlemen of the University of Cambridge" in a rowing race.

This year's Cambridge crew will include three oarsmen who rowed for Britain in the Olympics last summer. They are C. B. M. Lloyd, P. M. O. Massey and R. A. F. Bircher, who became captain when Ian Laing was called for service in the R.A.F.

These three are expected to dominate the Cambridge boat. Oxford's crew is young and lively. Its average age is 21. Oldest man in the Oxford boat will be 26-year-old coxswain, Alistair Falgrave-Brown.

Cards Veterans Make Birds Pennant Threat

By JACK HAND

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 15—(AP) — Old age is creeping up on St. Louis Cardinals, but the Musial - Slaughter - punch, plus Harry Brecheen's pitching, make the Red Birds a pennant threat.

Manager Eddie Dyer has changed his mind about "the team to beat." For the last two years it has been Brooklyn. Now Eddie has switched to Boston. But:

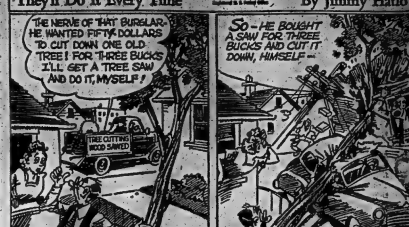
"We can be better. The question is whether that improvement will be enough in a league where almost everybody should be stronger."

A replacement for outfielder Terry Moore, who retired to become a coach, is one of Dyer's most pressing problems. Then he has to be prepared to reshuffle his infield if third baseman Whitey Kurowski's comeback should backfire.

So far Whitey has done everything asked but he has yet to test his arm. Kurowski underwent an operation for removal of 18 bone chips from his right elbow last September, and now is a question mark.

Ron Northey melted several pounds off his waist line to make a strong bid for the right-field job. If Ron can hold it, Stan Musial will play centre and Enos Slaughter, the New Jersey rapidin, will be in left.

The infield probably will be Nippy Jones or Glenn Nelson alternating at first, Red Schoendienst at second, Marty Marion at short and Kurowski at third.



Catching Weak

The catching department is weak. No. 1 is Del Rice, a fine receiver but a weak .197 hitter. The others will be Garagiola, back from Columbus where he batted .356, and 38-year-old Bill Baker.

Brecheen (20-7) of course, tops the pitching staff. Howie Pollet (18-6) and Al Brazle (10-6) give Dyer three southpaw starters. George (Red) Munger (10-11), still a potential 20-game winner, is the other sure of a regular turn.

Summing up the Cards, the pitching is strong, catching weak, infield fair and outfield strong. Given a break in the form of no injuries to key men, they figure to be in the race all the way.

CALVERT 1622
Famous Families
LE GARDEUR 1636

Pierre Le Gardeur came to Canada in 1636. He engaged in the fur trade and organized the Company of Habitants. In 1647 he was granted the Seigneuries of Cournoyer and Repentigny. His brother Charles was made Governor of Three Rivers in 1648 and afterwards a member of the Sovereign Council. Pierre's son, Jean Baptiste, was elected Mayor of Quebec in 1663. He later formed a new fur company to obtain greater returns for the colonists. Truly a distinguished pioneer Canadian family.

Great Families Create Great Nations

EARLY in the 17th Century, Calvert, head of the famous Calvert family, distinguished English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, founded pioneer colonies in Newfoundland and Maryland.

Calvert's descendants encouraged their New World settlers to build and to work in harmony for the common good. They also fostered the principles of democratic freedom and religious tolerance which had previously been denied them.

The family is the corner-stone upon which great nations are built. Let each of us strive to promote within the great Canadian family the same concepts of freedom and tolerance pioneered by the Calvert family, over three hundred years ago.

Rockets Jrs. Rack Up Second Straight Win Over Barons 8-4

By NORM LYNCH

Talk about knights in shining armor. There were lots of them last night when the Junior Rockets racked up an 8-4 victory over the Kingston Barons to make it two straight in the series.

It was a rough, hard - fought game that saw the Belleville squad count all their goals in the first twenty-five minutes of play. The Barons were able to hold them off for the rest of the second period and in the third Baron they tallied four goals to spoil Bill MacKay's near- shutout. MacKay showed himself to be a cool head and collected net custodian when Kingston put on the pressure in that rugged third period. He has a good eye and a knack for making hard shots look easy.

Pete Jones, Hogan and Schrieder were the real pundit line for the winners. Jones played a terrific game scoring two goals and assisting on a third while teammate Schrieder duplicated this same feat. Hogan was able to count for one marker and he also set up two others.

The line of Green, Nolan and Trussell was just as effective with Green scoring while Trussell scored one and assisted on one as did Nolan.

The Kingston team started off weakly and they blew several chances around the board beauments because of very poor shooting. It took Jimmy Anderson's flip shot to start the ball rolling just after the halfway mark of the first chapter. Bill Shepherd came up with two assists while his brother scored one unassisted nine seconds before the final bell. Bob Joyce added a goal to his previous assist when he connected on a three-way passing play from Jim Anderson and Bill Shepherd.

It was another penalty parade with eighteen penalties being handed out to the battlers.

The Rockets are favored to make it three straight when they play host to the Barons here again on Wednesday.

The teams:

Barons: Goal, Anderson; defence, Jamieson, Andress; centre, W. Shepherd; wings, Joyce, Anderson; subs, Godwin, Aikens, White, Gommer, S. Shepherd, McGaughey, Beider, Hartman.

Rockets: Goal, MacKay; defence, Schrieder, Taylor; centre, Trussell; wings, Green, Wright; subs, Hogan, Jones, J. Semark, Nolan, Graham, Creegan, Bone.

Summary

1st period.
1 Rockets, Jones (Hogan)	8.44
2 Rockets, Trussell (Jones)	9.14
3 Rockets, Schrieder	9.47

Golf Pros Beware Bobby Locke Is Back in U.S.

New York, March 15 (AP) — Bobby Locke is back, as the touring golf pros had better beware.

The South African ace arrived last Friday from his homeland and leaves today for Jacksonville, Fla., where, in the Jacksonville Open starting Friday, he hopes to resume the profitable lure of 1948, when he finished fourth among the tournament pros in money winnings.

Locke expects to remain in the United States until October, competing in the major tournaments for which he is eligible. He still has not heard whether he will be permitted to compete in the National P. G. A. from which he was barred last year.

Since he left the United States last September Locke has competed in four South African tournaments, winning three of them. The other was a pro - amateur event.

Montreal, March 15 (CP)—Much of the approach to Conn Smythe's proposal for a 70-game National hockey League schedule, tumbled down at last week's N.H.L. huddle in Toronto, was from the fans' point of view. There is some evidence that it was not popular with the players either.

Andy (Montreal Standard) O'Brien takes it up from the point of view of the man on the ice when he asks, "If you add 500 pounds per season in a 50-game schedule wouldn't, the prospect of a 70-game grind, horrify you, too?"

Andy uses Canadiens' Kenny Reardon to illustrate his point. Reardon told him "after an ordinary game I usually find I've lost seven pounds but after a pressure game the lost avoirdupois ranges up to nine."

Figuring in terms of a 60-game schedule of "average" games, Andy says that Reardon lost weight totals some 420 pounds. Add on the "pressure" games, playoffs, heavy pre-season training and routine practice sessions and the total probably ranges around 500 pounds a season.

"It doesn't take a medical authority to conclude that this strain is utterly severe on the human machinery lanards," concludes Andy. "Not all players lose as much as Reardon but even half the amount per game must entail awesome physical stress in addition to wear and tear on the old nervous system."

"Top it all with the extended playoff pressure and you wonder how there's anything left on team rosters. Certainly, modern hockey must cut years off a man's playing life. And off his life, period."

Sport Shorts From Britain

London, March 15 (CP)—Boxer Stan Rowbotham developed teething trouble soon after he turned professional when he got rid of four — and a glass chin.

The mountaschined pride of North Shields, Stan was an outstanding amateur before he joined the pink ranks. Then came 57 knock-out victories, believed to be a record among British lightweights, that earned him a title bout.

He was hardly up from his corner in a championship tilt against an old rival, Billy Thompson, when he was down and out on the canvas. A feathery clip to the chin had ended the fight. Even Thompson admitted it fly would turn hardly a hair to a fellow blitzer.

Stan was bewildered. The next morning while shaving he playfully tapped the erring chin. He rose dazed from the bathroom floor.

Hawthorne consulted a dentist who guaranteed removal of four teeth would end the trouble.

Now in the welter division, Stan has proved the dentist right. In one fight, Tommy Armour, a puncher of repute, landed a hefty clout on the alleged glass jaw. Nothing happened. Stan went on to win comfortably, as he has done in every succeeding fight.

Back in the championship class as a result, the North Shields lad is down for a March British welterweight title eliminating contest with Merthyr Tydfil's Eddie Thomas who recently beat American Billy Graham.

With the proverbial feminines delicate touch, you'd think maybe women ought to be as good as men at billiards and snooker. Billiard player Joyce Gardner says the reason they're not is partially a natural one. Few women, she says, can stand the strain of 10 hours' daily practice.

Another reason — partly artificial — is that even now girls cannot play in public halls as freely as men, and the woman expert does not have as much match competition as men.

"Joe (Wizard of Pop) Davis once told me," she said, "that if he had no more match opportunities than we get then he would find it difficult to keep up to standard.

Bethel-Zion Combines Win Championship

Frankford — Bethel - Zion Combines tucked the league championship under their belts Friday night in Frankford, as they walloped Foxboro by an 11-3 count. Bethel - Zion had taken the opening game of the best-of-three series by a score of 3-2. From the first drop of the puck, it was obvious that the Combines were going to win the game, although they hardly turned on the heat in the third period, in which they counted six times. Bethel-Zion thus completed the season with only one defeat, a 5-3 loss to Glen Miller, which game was thrown out following Glen Miller's withdrawal from the league.

Barrie Flyers Defeat Marlies In Second Game

(By The Canadian Press)

The red-hot Toronto Marlboros have been cooled down considerably.

Last night the Marlboros suffered their second defeat in as many starts in the best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title when Barrie Flyers defeated them 5-3 at Barrie. The third game will be played tomorrow night.

Flyers' manager Harold Hopper who supervised the icy blast. The flying Barrie centre scored two goals and his clever goading is a crucial third period resulted in a costly penalty to Toronto's Murray Grenke that gave the Flyers their decided edge.

The Dukes matched the Flyers in speed and stamina through two scoreless periods.

They even looked fairly good when the Flyers took a 2-0 lead early in the third. But Hopper's incessant chattering to the third period provoked his opposite centre, Murray Grenke, to slash at him to mark the turning point in the game.

While Grenke was sitting out his two-minute sentence, Flyers drove in two quick goals for a 4-0 margin.

Barrie marksmen, besides Hopper, were Paul Meger, Gordon Pennell and Ted Lindsay. Moe Gilland and Grenke tallied for Toronto.

The Flyers took their early lead when Chevrolls completed a neighborly passout to Rick Nogg to beat netminder Don Lockhart on a hard shot. Then Hopper counted after a brilliant play with Chevrolls and Nogg, before Pennell and Meger got their goals.

The Dukes got one back at the 13-minute mark when Regan outguessed Gil Mayer on a pass from Grenke. Then Hopper got his second goal and Galand followed up with Torgnio's final tally.

The senior A playoffs also continue tomorrow night when Toronto Marlboros meet Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the fifth game of their best-of-7 to leads the series 3-1.

WORLD'S CHEAPEST DAM

New Delhi — ((CP) — Preliminary work has begun on construction of what may be the cheapest and fourth largest dam in the world. The 200-foot dam will be built across the River Chambal. Because the river flows on a basis of hard rock, costs of the dam will be considerably reduced.

Hawks Get Payoff If Not Playoff

(By The Canadian Press)

Professional sportdom's most successful "failures", Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, did it again.

Giving lie to the adage that sport addicts will only pay to see a winner, the fifth-place Hawks completed their 50-game home season Sunday with a paid attendance of 491,494.

That was an amazing average of 16,383 for each Chicago stadium appearance.

The only one-legged man ever to pitch in a regulation major league game says he's coming back to the majors—as a regular.

Anyone casually watching Bert Shephard of Washington in a baseball uniform would think he's a likely looking prospect all right. He's 26 years old, weighs 185 and is five-feet-11.

But Shepard was shot down over Germany, lost part of his right leg just below the knee, and now after five operations, is ready to try again on a new artificial leg. He has just signed to manage the Waterbury, Conn., team in the Class B Colonial League.

At London Monday the Ministry of Labor headed off a threatened player strike in the football league. At a meeting called by the ministry, soccer interests agreed to set up a permanent committee to deal with the problems of players' welfare.

Thirty-eight present-day sports lers, including two Canadians, were named to the newly-founded fishing hall of fame at New York Monday following a poll by Sportsman's Club of America. The Canadians named are Ernest G. Poole of Montreal, and Ernest D. Calvert of Rainy River, Ont. The others include Herbert Hoover, former United States president; Ben Crownshield of Palm Beach, Fla.; Edgar A. Guest of Detroit and Michael Lerner of New York.

A big hand affects different types of players in different ways. It would be interesting to hear the psycho-analysis of these reactions. Very likely the character of a person could be determined thereby.

Some are afraid it will not produce what they have been led to believe. Others reach for a quick climax as if fearful it will stop too short. A few nurse it along like a cat with a mouse.

Good bridge does not mess around with any messes. It is neither hasty nor hesitant. If it has a count of nine or more tricks it opens with a bid of two in a suit. With less it opens with a bid of one.

To count tricks, simply add up the high and short cards at one apiece. A high card is an ace or a king or a queen. A short card is each card short of three in any short suit.

Count the tricks in this hand:

♠ None
♥ A Q 6
♦ A K 10 7 6 4 2
♣ A K J

Two high in hearts, two high in diamonds, two high in clubs, total of nine tricks in this hand.

With nine tricks it is an opening bid of two in a suit Obviously the suit is diamonds. And an opening of two in a suit is a signal that the bidding should continue until a game is reached.

It is true that nine tricks may not make a game. To make game in something it may be necessary to find a trick or two in partner's hand. And this may be the one time when partner has nothing.

Nevertheless a game with such a hand should be tried. Almost anything can happen with it even if partner has no help. And what may happen need not necessarily be unfortunate to you.

You do not know yet whether the game will be in diamonds or in some other suit, if any, it may end at no-trump. But not less than game should you be in. Or you should go back to casino.

Hollywood, March 15 (AP)—John Wayne has snagged profit-sharing rights to releases of his future Warners pictures.

The rugged actor from Winterset, Iowa, just signed a deal for a picture a year at Warner Brothers. A precedent-setting clause gives Wayne additional profits should his films received stiff their first release.

The Wayne deal may set a new pattern for star contracts. The Screen Actors Guild has already attacked release since they fill theatre time that could be used for new pictures—which would provide work for actors.

Notes and Peeves

Claudette Colbert, doing her third comedy in a row "Love is a Racket," says she'd like to alternate with drama, but the only good scripts seem to be the funny ones these days.

Van Johnson plays a Sergeant again in "Battleground." After that comes a comedy with Deborah Kerr. The redhead's career is on an even keel again. He says he has films lined up for two years.

Walter Pidgeon is another busybody. Barely finishing "The Forsyte Saga" he has begun playing a one-armed British colonel in "The Red Danube." He tells me he wins Greer Garson over Bob Young and Errol Flynn in "Forsyte." In fact, that's probably the only reason I'm in the picture he feels.

Eldorado Edges Madoc 1-0 in League Finals

Eldorado—Playing before a good crowd last night in the local arena, Eldorado edged Madoc 1-0 in a close contest in the first game of a best of three finals for the Madoc District Hockey League.

The game was played on slow ice and the winning counter came in the second period after a scramble in front of the Madoc goal. The next game slated for Friday night and the third game if necessary Monday night. As a result of the semi-final games of the Madoc District Hockey League played Friday and Monday nights, those teams are battling it out for the league championship. Eldorado also won the rural cup Monday night when they took their semi- final round 4-1 from Cooper Friday night, result being 2-1 for Eldorado and Monday night's game 2-0 for Eldorado. Mr. John Thompson presented the cup to the Eldorado team. Madoc took both games of their semi-final round by a 7-4 count from Building Products Friday night Madoc defeated Building Products 4-2 and on Monday night they emerged with a 3-2 win. Both games were well attended and the feeling of the fans was at a high pitch. These games and especially the finals between Madoc and Eldorado are well worth attending. Two teams have been displaying a good brand of hockey and have kept the interest of district hockey fans.

Ontario Legislature Session Likely To End On March 31st

Toronto, March 15 (CP)—H. C. Nixon (Liberal-Brant) speaks first today as the Ontario legislature nears the end of its budget debates.

The debate, started March 4 with Provincial Treasurer Frost's budget address, could have been wound up this week with the House in a night sitting. Premier Kennedy, however, is believed to have preferred not to have a division today with many members attending the funeral in Brockville of W. B. Reynolds, Progressive Conservative member for Leeds who died last Saturday.

It is expected opposition leader E. B. Jolliffe and Mr. Frost will end the debate tomorrow. Premier Kennedy now is aiming to end the session March 31.

The House Monday gave second reading to three bills implementing Mr. Frost's plan to replace the one-mill municipal aid with increased assistance in highway expenditures, maintenance and construction of old age homes and support of Children's Aid Societies. Second reading of two other gills to help maintain fire and police departments was postponed pending presentation today of a brief by the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves.

Object of Discriminatory Powers

F. O. Robinson (CCF—Port Arthur) objected to "discriminatory powers," vested in the highways minister under the new legislation.

Highways Minister Doucett denied any such powers were vested in the minister.

J. B. Salsberg (Lab-Prog Toronto St. Andrew) said the minister could take into consideration "special local conditions". This provision might be used to "bribe" voters on the eve of an election.

William Dennison (CCF-Toronto St. David) said the minister had estimated the new grants would require additional expenditure by the government of some $700,000. At the same time he had granted $900,000 alone would receive more than this amount in additional grants.

Mr. Doucett said it was impossible to estimate how much municipalities would spend and how much they would receive in grants. These estimates were based on 1948 expenditures and some figures were not yet available.

The House also gave second reading to a bill increasing government assistance in maintaining old age homes and building new ones.

Agnes Macphail (CCF—York East) said if the government were going to increase aid to old age homes it should insist that the old people were well fed and that they had "something interesting or amusing" to do. Separation of old couples in the homes was urged.

Cottages Eventually For Old Couples

Welfare Minister Goodfellow said that was "exactly what the government had in mind." Eventually cottages would be built to accommodate old couples.

Second reading was also given to a bill relieving municipalities of some of their responsibility for maintaining Children's Aid Societies. Mr. Goodfellow said the bill was aimed at encouraging the societies to raise their own revenue and to be less dependent on municipalities.

DEAN CHRISTIAN DEAD

Dr. John Lord, Texas Christian university graduate school dean is whose beaten and mutilated body was found in his home in Burleson, Tex. The dean had been struck repeatedly in the back of the head with what police say was an axe. His body was discovered by two TCU students sent to find out why he had failed to appear at a morning lecture. Police are seeking Dr. Lord's ward, Arthur Clayton Hester, 18, who was last seen in El Paso, in connection with the murder.—Central Press Canadian.

St. Joseph, Mo. —(AP)— Residents of the recently-flooded areas here read Monday where the Missouri River was expected to rise four feet.

Some called the weather bureau and newspaper office in alarm.

But the anticipated rise which caused their anxiety happened 100 years ago. They had overlooked noting the item appeared under the "100 Years Ago" heading.

Canadian-Born Painter Given Death Sentence

London, March 14 (CP)—Malcolm Rosch, 34, Canadian-born painter who admitted clubbing and strangling his wife to death today was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged.

Rosch, who took his 25-year-old wife, to Canada in 1945 and returned to Britain last year, charged that she repeatedly associated with other men. He pleaded innocent to the charge of murder.

But Lord Goddard, presiding at the trial, said there were no grounds in the case for reduction of the charge to manslaughter as sought by the defence.

The jury deliberated for five minutes before returning a verdict of guilty with a strong recommendation for mercy.

Rosch, who formerly lived at Marvig, Ont., told the court his wife had associated with at least 10 men.

On the morning of her death she had said she was going to meet a man that night. He testified that he remembered afterwards that he had hit her with a dumb-bell and wrapped one of her stockings around her neck. Then he went to a police station and confessed.

Before being sentenced, Rosch said: "I see no reason for having a jury in this court room because the judge had given a verdict before the jury left the court room."

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma and pop were talking about which movie to go to, and ma said, I wonder what the critics say about the new pictures. Look in your paper and see, William, she said.

Which pop started to, saying Yee gods, here's a dilly. These movie writers must get their inspirations from bad dreems. This one's called Out of the Fog. It starts cheerfully and merrily in a masterpiy hospitile during an air raid, and it seems a cuppie of new babies get crossed up in the general excitement, and a rich woman is presented with a boy although her own child was really a geri, he said, and ma said, Oh dear, I can guess what happens. The geri baby is probably presented to a poor woman in the free ward, and the unfortunate child leeds a woe beraggeled life although she is ritefully an heiress and should be playing the lap of luxury, ma said.

By golies you've guessed it, pop said. The poor geri's supposed parents are the scum of the erth, and she's pushed around with nuthing to console her but her good nacher and her fork silver, solid gold, hundred proof virtue. And just to make it harder, in spite of all the advantages of wealth and social position, the boy's heredity comes out on him and he grows up to be a hopeless drink addict. The girl, through her natural talent and radiant bewty, naturally becomes a poor but honest night club singer, and naturally the boy meets her in a dive so low that only snakes can crawl in, pop said, and ma said, That's enough, William, dont tell me another word or you'll spoil the picture for me.

Yee gods, do you meen you actually want to see it? pop said, would you expect, after you've been telling me how wonderful it is?

The result being pop had to take her there against his will.

North Hastings High School Holds Annual Commencement

Bancroft Ont. (Special) — The pupils of North Hastings high school Bancroft, held their annual commencement on Thursday and Friday, March 10th and 11th but their program this year was outstanding in performance due to the excellent coaching by the teachers and also the wonderful opportunity afforded the pupils in their new school which they entered in the September 1948 term. Although the first performance Thursday evening was not so well attended, the second evening was a sell-out with 650 odd admissions. Mr. Ritchie Robinson, the high school principal was in charge of the commencement and after opening the evening with a short address Mr. Charles Mosher, with his Glee Club opened with the singing of "O Canada." Mr. Gregory Anderson acted as chairman for the program which followed which consisted of choral reading directed by Miss Mitchell.

The boys' gym team under the direction of Laurence Davidson gave a splendid exhibition of somersaulting, cartwheels, pyramids and other formations. The teamwork in this effort was splendid. Folk dancing under the supervision of Miss Mitchell was presented with the girls dressed in costume depicting folk dancing by the English, Irish, French and Swedish nationalities. The Glee Club again assembled on stage to render two numbers entitled "Diana" and "Boy."

A number of pupils gave an exhibition of verse speaking which was well rendered.

A break in the program concluded when Mr. Robinson presided over the presentation of awards.

The History and English prize donated by Miss Margaret Mitchell to the student who obtained the highest standing in English and History in grade 13 was won by Miss Carol Laundry, the Latin prizes donated by Miss Mitchell were won by Miss Marion Sprackett for grade X and Miss Patricia Gallagher won. The presentations were made by Miss Eudora Jones.

The Commercial prize donated by Mrs. Gladys Walks to the pupil who obtained the highest standing in general proficiency in the special commercial course was won by Norman Brough. The Town-Reedy Club of L'Amable donated an award to the student who obtained the highest standing in English in grade XI was won by Miss Florence Tryon, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson of Detlor awarded the student who obtained the highest standing in English in grade X was won by Mr. Jack Hutton. These awards were presented to the above pupils by Mr. C. A. Eddy.

Athletic Awards

The athletic awards were presented to the pupils by Mrs. Emerson Laundry and Mr. J. W. C. Hutton and were as follows:

Girls' team: Bessie Davis, Hazel Vance, Ida Armstrong, Joyce Losey, Florence Tryon, Wilma Coe, Minerva Fleguel, Yvonne Kelusky, Janet Cole, Norma Haas.

Gold Medal Award

The Gold Medal as awarded by the county of Hastings to the pupil obtaining the highest mark in the entrance examinations for the county of Hastings, was won by Wilma Labow and the medal was presented by Mr. W. J. Davis, ex-warden for the county of Hastings.

The Rev. C. S. Wright presented the following pupils with certificates and diplomas:

Intermediate certificates were presented to pupils who success fully completed the prescribed courses for grades IX and X: Gayle Barzgar, Eleanor Beecham, Vera Boyle, Edith Brouson, Lorna Brose, Marion Chamberlain, Norma Davis, Muriel Derry, Leola Douglas, Leslie Fargher, Helen Fischer, Marie Hickey, Lois Hines, Gladys Hiuse, Jack Hutton, Keith Jackson, Henry Jan, Eileen Laveque, Phyllis Leveque, Evelyn Linkie, Norman Losey, Phyllis McCormack, Lucbelle McKeown, Wilfred McLean, Jacqueline Maxwell, Marguerite Maxwell, Stanley Metcalfe, John Murphy, Aileen Palmateer, Jean Parks, Joan Peters, Murl Skuce, Dawn Smith, Marion Sprackett, Bernice Strudwick, Phyllis Thomson, Wayne Whyte.

Secondary School graduation diplomas were presented to the pupils who successfully completed the prescribed courses for grades XI and XII. They were as follows: Elwood Brough, Meryl Burlingette, Bessie Davis, Murray Fischer, Dale Gunter, Norma Haas, Joseph Kavanagh, Marie Kuno, Shirley Kuno, Robert Ogilvie, Andrew Raeburn, Floyd Tye.

The Secondary School honor graduation diplomas granted to pupils who obtained standing in at least eight Upper School papers in the departmental papers were as follows: Norine Leveque, Murray Dillon, Norman Brough, Gregory Anderson, William Slater.

The diplomas granted to pupils who have at least Grade XI standing to the commercial course and have successfully completed the course as prescribed for special commercial was awarded to: Reginald Peters, Norman Brough and Eleanor Scott.

The following took the Commercial Special Course, but were not qualify for the diploma: Rosemary Flynn, Frances Hughes and Dorothy Jenkins.

Following the presentation of prizes for academic work William Slater presented a valedictory which was very well rendered.

The girls' gym team under the direction of John Field, kept the audience spell-bound with the most unusual antics which they carried out and were highly applauded for their splendid team work.

City Council and Commission Compromise on Water Service Cost in New Sub-Divisions

Striking a compromise in their difference of opinion as to how the cost of water services in the new sub-divisions of the city should be financed, members of the city council and the Public Utilities Commission have come to an agreement on the matter.

Under the agreement the commission and council agree that water services from the property line to residences in Parkwood Heights will be financed by the owner under the Local Improvement Act, while the commission agrees to retire out of revenue the portion of the debentures which would ordinarily be chargeable as the city's share.

Says City is Saved $46,000

In other words the owner will pay for the water service from the property line, while the commission, out of revenue, will pay for water services laid across street intersections. Mayor Storey stated this agreement would save the city approximately $46,000.

Previously the city had directed that all water debentures be paid out of profits, while the commission asked that they be laid under Local Improvements.

As result of the above agreement the writ submitted to the Supreme Court of Ontario last November questioning the right of council to direct that debentures be retired out of revenue, will be withdrawn from the courts. Judgment on the matter had not yet been given.

City to Issue Debentures

Under the agreement city council agrees to issue debentures for installation of the water services in the Parkwood Heights area under provisions of the Local Improvement Act and the commission agrees to take care of the city's share of the cost.

The commission also agrees that they will retire out of revenue the debentures which will be issued for the supplying of water mains in the Churchill Heights veterans' homes area.

Water mains in the Hastings County Home area, and in other properties that may be annexed, will be installed under local improvements with the commission to pay the share ordinarily chargeable to the city.

In drawing up the agreement it was indicated that both the Utilities Commission and city council agreed that it was in the interest of the public that both parties agree on the matter of financing the proposed extensions and improvements to the water services in the annexed areas.

When the above agreement and the by-law covering the issuing of debentures to provide money for the installation of mains under the Local Improvement Act was read in council, Alderman Hyde noted that the whole thing could have been settled last summer. It was ridiculous that the matter was placed before the court, he said.

Mayor Storey maintained, however, that the city had gained by the point it had been asking and claimed the city had thereby saved $46,000 by the Public Utilities Commission assuming the cost of mains which under the Local Improvement Act would be chargeable to the city.

One-Act Play

A one-act play was then presented entitled "The Perfect Gentleman" under the direction of Miss Verna Conner. The actors were Shirley Kuno, Jacqueline Maxwell, Florence Tryon, Joseph Vance and Elwood Vardy. This play was most original and certainly was well enjoyed by the audience. The Glee Club again came to the stage and rendered two numbers entitled "In the Gloaming" and "Just a Song at Twilight" and with the singing of the National Anthem the commencement was brought to a close but an entertainment which will live long in the memory of those who attended.

GeologyofUngava Iron Ore Deposits Puzzles Experts

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, March 14 — (CP) — The bleak, rugged depths of ore-wealthy Ungava, which today has big steel interests of United States casting hungry eyes Quebecward, are, to geologists claim the least known in North America, apart from Arctic islands.

Discovery of an immense bed of high-grade iron ore, "the Labrador trough," sent five mining companies into this sub-Arctic barrenland during the last seven years. Now U. S. steel interests hope Ungava may be the answer to a thorny problem:

U. S. Ore Problem

Where will America get iron ore when Minnesota's once-great Mesabi range peters out?

U. S. steel interests struck out to find the answer after searching reports by geologist Robert Bell and A. P. Low, both Canadians, who before 1900 surveyed parts of northeastern Quebec for the federal government.

Historically, the Bell and Low surveys were but two of numerous earlier reports, some of which date back almost four centuries, on Labrador and the St. Lawrence north shore.

Apparently the first geologist to reach Ungava. Low could scarcely help finding ore. Its proven 300,000,000 tons are mostly rich, surface ore than can be scooped up with a mechanical shovel. How much more there is, no one knows.

Earliest mention of mineral deposits in Labrador came from the Indians.

Spanish, Dutch, English and French in turn opened settlements on the jagged, rocky outer rim of Ungava — but none appear to have penetrated the forbidding interior.

The idea finally struck N. Y. Hind, a professor at Trinity College, Toronto, in 1862 when he made a voiage by canoe which later became a guide to the discovery of Ungava's wealth.

340-Mile Railway Projected

Hind's contribution to the development of the area is reflected in the fact that a projected 300-mile railway by the Quebec north shore and Labrador Railway at a cost of $100,000,000 will follow approximately the route he mapped out.

DOMESTIC CHANGE

The gold-fish in its natural state is brown in color, but when domesticated it develops a red gold tint, and occasionally becomes white.

HANDS IN TRAINING... FOR ONTARIO

Learning to Make Plastics

IN Ontario the wheels of industry turn for the benefit of every single one of us. Our lathes, dynamos, drill presses, farm combines, tractors, business machines, etc. are producing goods and services which earn dollars. These dollars provide food, clothing, medical care and other necessities which contribute to our security and high standard of living.

Every single one of us, therefore, has a very personal interest in the flow of a steady supply of trained workers to industrial plants. These workers will operate machines which are important to our way of life.

We should appreciate, then, the co-operative efforts of government, industry and labour in the field of employee training. In schools and in factories our workers, young and old, are given the opportunity to develop new and specific skills in every field of business and industrial activity. For instance, as in the pictures shown here, every effort of Ontario's newly-skilled plastics workers will mean better plastic products — will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and work.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)

Our Way of Life Rewards Trained Hands

Ontario workers know they can earn more, have executive responsibility and enjoy a higher standard of living in direct ratio to the skills they acquire and the way they make use of them. That's always true in a free economy — that's why our competitive system will continue to make Canada great and a great place in which to live.

Use it to save time and money when you mow, plow, cultivate, disc, harrow, or haul!

Your banker works For You

AS a depositor or borrower, you value privacy in money matters. Your banker protects that privacy. Your banking transactions are not open to the eyes and ears of your competitor, your neighbor, your community.

In other words, the manager of your branch bank and his whole staff are working for you.

Contrast this Canadian way with conditions in lands where freedom is denied—where every bank is a political tool, every banker a public official working for the State! State monopoly of banking, proposed by Socialists here, would open your banking transactions to political intrusion.

Report Britain Cautions Israel About Aqaba

London, Mar. 15 (AP)—Britain was reported today to have cautioned Israel that British troops will fight if Jewish armed forces attempt to seize the trans-Jordan port of Aqaba.

The information was given Israeli officials "with a view to forestalling the danger of any untoward event" in the Palestine-Trans-Jordan border, across treaty with Trans - Jordan. Recent reports of Israeli military movements near the border have led to a United Nations inquiry into the possibility of truce violations.

Remember That Night

By Margaret Corman Nichols

"Oh, we'll take care of that. How about Sunday?"

She had to ask, "Will Philip be there?"

"I don't know. He's working on his play. Wants to finish it before he goes to London. Is Sunday a date?"

"Why not?" She nodded.

Tommy said, "Swell."

Philip was writing a play. Surely there was a part in it for her — any part, if didn't matter how small. But he had not offered.

Philip left them at his apartment. . . Tommy drove Karen to hers.

Waiting for the elevator, he took her hand and smiled. "I wish I'd met you before, Karen. Sunday afternoon is a date. But I'll see you before then. I'll see you tomorrow night."

He drew her to him but she drew away.

"No. Don't kiss me."

And Tommy went out to his car thinking that she was the first girl who had ever refused to kiss him. And Karen went up to Roxanne's apartment, to which she had moved a few of her belongings, found the door open, and found Roxanne there.

She had only just come in for her bag in the middle of the floor was unopened.

"I know why Bill did it," Roxanne said.

Roxanne was thinner and very pale. Even her golden head seemed to have lost its sheen. She looked as if she had not slept for nights.

"Why did Bill do it?" Karen asked, removing the white satin coat.

Roxanne nodded. "Know who he is? He's somebody did. Rolling in money and as faithless as they come." If she could get to her job, she thought, Karen would lose the opportunity of her life. But to keep the job until your big chance comes. I'll get something. I'm not without experience. Why don't you stay with me? We'll go fifty-fifty until you find work."

"Now," Karen said, "you are making fun of me again."

In the morning she gave up the little room and moved the remainder of her belongings to the apartment. And the same afternoon when she came in with a new wedding dress in a box under her arm, Roxanne pointed to a white envelope on the desk.

"I think they're flowers and I'll bet they're from Tommy Nolting. Watch your step with him. I don't trust him."

Opening the box, Karen took out a large corsage of violets.

"Yes, from Tommy," she said. "He's just bought an estate on Long Island and I'm going swimming there Sunday. But that's not what I want, Roxanne! I don't want to play at love. I want a part in Philip's new play. I won't ask, and he won't offer."

Another day that week flowers came and every night Tommy waited for her in the lobby. They rode through the park. Tommy talked about his farm in Maryland, his stables, how much money he had lost at the races, and the fireworks he was planning to have at his Fourth of July party.

Roxanne had a job singing in a night club. And though she talked about Bill less and less, Karen knew that he was never out of her mind.

Karen went to Tommy's newly acquired Long Island estate on Sunday afternoon. The white house was the largest she had ever seen. A sweeping lawn of velvety green surrounded it. The swimming pool sparkled in the sunlight.

When he stopped the car, she said, "But I thought you were having other guests."

He laughed. "No guests until the Fourth. You'll find the bath house to the left of the pool and I'll meet you in fifteen—no, I'll make it five minutes."

The bath house was modern and luxurious. Quickly she changed from the printed silk dress to the turquoise silk suit she had bought yesterday.

Tommy waited beside the pool.

"Philip told me you came to New York to be an actress."

"He thinks that's a joke — my being an actress. I've been a source of great amusement to him."

"You don't like him? He's a great guy, but he's in love." He smiled at her. "You'd like to put one over on him, wouldn't you? I mean do something so you'd have the last laugh since you think he's been laughing at you. Well, when Bernie Tupper—he's a producer — gets back, I'm going to take you to see him and I'm pretty sure he can do something for you."

Her look of gratitude touched him. But Philip should see that expression. It was Philip who was creating this opportunity for her with Tupper.

"Do you mean it, Tommy? I didn't know playboys and producers had much in common."

His grimace. "Oh, but we do. Beautiful girls."

"I'll be grateful to you for the rest of my life. I've tried. You don't know how I've tried." Philip would see. "It seems," she said thoughtfully, "that the only way to break in is to know somebody."

"Yeah. And if all the little girls with stage ambitions would realize that, they'd stay home."

"That's what Philip thinks I should have done."

They swam. After a while a servant, bringing out cool drinks, said that Tommy was wanted on the telephone. It was a call from Maryland. Later she was to remember the call from Maryand and his hurrying to the house.

She was going to meet a producer! Tantalized dreams became bright again. To fall in love, to be a great actress . . . In Harrison, they had been separate dreams. Now, knowing Philip, loving him, they were one. "I'm a fool," she thought. "He doesn't know I'm alive unless we meet by chance. He is here but his heart is in England with Lilyan Lane."

Tommy came back frowning.

"I hope nothing is wrong," Karen said.

"No. That is, nothing much. How about another dip? Then we will drive back to town for dinner."

It was dark when the car stopped before the apartment house.

Pulling off his hat, Tommy smiled his attractive smile.

"I haven't tried to kiss you since you refused the first night. But I thought by giving you a break with Tupper, I might get one with you."

She lifted her face and kissed his lips tenderly. But there was no magic in it. To be kissed by Philip, she thought suddenly, would be so different from this. To be kissed and held and loved by him . . .

"I wish I'd known you before, Karen."

"Before what? You said that once before."

"You'll know soon enough. And I'm not giving you a line when I say you're different from any girl I ever knew. It's a dumb thing to say but I mean it. I like to look at you. But I haven't a chance. You're not kidding me. You're crazy about Philip."

"Do I show it so plainly?"

"Not when he's around. He thinks you hate him for what happened at Helene Ward's that night."

Philip thought she hated him! But it was better that way — far better than for him to know she loved him.

Tommy said, "I'm going to drop in on Philip now and drag him away from work. He doesn't know it yet but he's bringing you out to my place on the Fourth. I'll have guests and won't be able to leave. He always gets to parties late anyway. I'll hold over the best fireworks until you and he get there."

Geologists Seek Answer to Riddle Of Labrador's Huge Iron Ore Deposits

By RICHARD DARGNAULT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, March 13 (CP)—Before the full potential of iron ore deposits in Ungava and Labrador is determined—a multi-million dollar question today in steel circles of Canada and the United States—geologists must solve the mysteries of that bleak-looking land.

That's a problem comparable to reading a book backwards. But geologists hope that after poring over the layer-by-layer history of mineral-laden stratified rock, they will have proof that in northeastern Quebec and Newfoundland Labrador there is as much ore as in five virgin mountains.

Minnesota's fabulous Mesabi Range on Lake Superior held 2,500,000,000 tons when discovered in 1892. That would make the Canadian deposit one or two, possibly three, of the largest in the world. The others are in Brazil and Russia.

Exceeds the Mesabi Range

The more conservative among many geologists who have probed the Canadian ore-bed estimate that there is at least one Mesabi in Ungava and Labrador. The American Mesabi, they recall, has fed steel industry in North America through an immense period of expansion as well as two world wars.

Some geologists claim that in Ungava and Labrador there are signs of lead, zinc and other base metals in addition to the iron. But these are of secondary importance.

Canada's great undeveloped ore formation is deeply encrusted, sprawling over an area 300 miles long — some say 600 miles—and 50 miles wide compared with Mesabi's 112-mile long single strip. Thus far, geologists have pieced together this story, which goes back millions of years, of the ore find:

Theory of Development

An upheaval of the earth sent layer upon layer of stratified rock bulging into a series of high-ridged mountains which later flattened out in the slow normal process of erosion.

Where Ungava's richest ore is located, the land sank even lower, forming a trough—from which comes the find's name: Labrador Trough.

As the sea continued to recede, the area formerly under water became swampy valleys. The deeper rivers continued to flow northward.

At one stage, oil deposits piled so high at a point about 320 miles north of what now is Seven Islands, Que., that it blocked the river, forcing the water to turn tail.

This split the peninsula into two distinct watersheds, the division of which is the only one has been a disputed boundary line between Quebec and Newfoundland.

The ore deposits were undisturbed through a glacial age, although most of the soil was scraped away. Disappearance of the glacier left the reddish-tinged land with one of its few picturesque touches.

FRANKFORD

Frankford—Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Patrick, and boys, spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Colden and family, in Roslin.

Mr. Bill Patrick of Campbellford, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Patrick and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Patrick over the weekend.

The Frankford United Church will hold their family night in the Rose-Lowery Hall, Friday evening, April 1. This evening has been postponed from March 17.

Frankford Continuation School held their annual skating party Saturday night in the Frankford Arena. Following the period of skating, the pupils went up to the school where an enjoyable time was had, playing table tennis, cards, crokinole and other games. Following this, dancing was enjoyed by all. Refreshments and soft drinks were served.

Mrs. Fred Stuckey has returned to her home in Frankford, after spending a couple of weeks at the home of her son, Mr. Lorne Gewley in Marmora.

The Frankford Troop of the Boy Scouts, held their weekly meeting Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Frankford School. An evening of education, instruction, recreation and games were enjoyed by the boys. Scoutmaster Pavlica is doing a fine job with the boys, and Frankford can well be proud of the local scouts.

Roy Gonter has been off work at Miller Brothers in Glenn Miller, with a broken finger.

Sunday guests of Arnold Cresser in Ivanhoe, were Mr. and Mrs. Preston Chase, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Davis and family, Messrs. Wayne Arbuckle, Bob Arbuckle, Arnold Werklake, Gene Lohnes, Douglas Montgomery and Janet Arbuckle.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warren spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. J. Kelusky in Bancroft.

Mrs. Harold McLeod and son Larry were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Grace Lawrence.

Mrs. Hector Whitton left Saturday for a week's holiday with Mrs. Frank Bailey in Stirling.

DISCOVER GANDHI'S MEDALS

New Delhi — (CP) — Two medals awarded to Mahatma Gandhi during the Zulu and South Africa wars for leading the Indian Field Ambulance Corps, have been rediscovered in New Delhi and turned over to the India defence ministry. Gandhi returned the medals to the government in 1919 before beginning the first non-cop-operation movement.

FEDERATION ASKS 2-YEAR CLOSED SEASON ON MOOSE

Better Training System For Guides Requested

Toronto, March 16 (CP)— The Northern Ontario Associated Boards asked today that all non-resident hunters "where feasible" be attached to licensed outfitters and that they must guides attached to these outfitters.

Kendall Hanson of Nestor Falls, Ont., presented the Association's brief to the Ontario legislature game and fish committee.

The brief also asks that "where feasible" sale of non-resident hunting licenses be restricted on a rationing system to licensed outfitters; that an "improved" system of testing and overseeing guides be instituted. Outfitters would be required to submit a report of hunters handled and game taken.

Instead of declaring an unnecessary province-wide closed season on moose "the province should be zoned with a limited number of licenses, according to the moose population."

The closed season on moose in the Kenora-Rainy River district and on the Canadian National Railways trans-continental line, remains in force.

The hunting and field archers of Ontario asked that the open season on deer of two weeks be provided for, the taking of deer and rutted moose with bow and arrow only.

B. E. Leavens (CCF-Toronto Woodbine) asked what proportion of deer shot were wounded and not recovered.

Oil Executive Predicts Self-Sufficiency in Oil For Canada in 1958

Ottawa, March 16 — (CP)—If current production progress is maintained, a prominent oil executive said today, then it was safe to predict that Canada would be self-sufficient in oil by 1958.

To reach the day when Canada will no longer have to import petroleum products from the United States, will entail construction of a network of pipe lines across the country, J. R. White of Toronto told a Canadian Club audience.

The vice-president of Imperial Oil Limited, in a speech prepared for delivery, said the first of these pipe-lines would be one stretching 450 miles from Edmonton to Regina.

It would be constructed by 1950, at an initial cost of $35,000,000. To build it, would require 70,000 tons of steel, which alone will cost $13,000,000.

As planned, the 450-mile Edmonton – Regina line will start with two main pumping stations, to permit pumping between 50,000 and 60,000 barrels of oil a day from the various producing properties in the Edmonton area. If developments warrant, six more pump stations would be installed later, to enable the line to carry between 100,000 to 120,000 barrels daily.

Mr. White noted that Trade Minister Howe was arranging to import 40,000 tons of steel from England to offset the steel for the Edmonton-Regina pipe line which will come from Canadian mills.

"I think that is something of a milestone for Canadian clubs to remember, because here is a case where the mother country is supplying basic steel, while our own mills are the ones that are turning out the specialized product needed for the pipe line.

There were needs for other pipe lines, that could reach into the Vancouver consumer market and further east than Regina. Alberta oil development required consuming outlets.

Transportation, by means of rail, was putting the skids on production because of prohibitive costs. "If Alberta crude were to be shipped to these markets under present conditions, it would have to bear very high shipping charges and there would be very little left for the producer."

"For this reason," said Mr. White, "while we are at the moment steadily about the line to Regina as a first step, the situation really calls for the freedom to build lines wherever they are needed.

The oil industry has now reached the point where it could estimate possible reserves of 600,000,000 barrels. It has prospects of increasing that reserve "several fold" during the next 10 years.

CONTROL PROCESS BITTERLY OPPOSED BY OPPOSITION

Main Item in Control Bill Respects Rentals

Ottawa, March 16 (CP) — The government is seeking in its new control bill to continue only a dozen of its wartime pyramid of restrictive measures, Justice Minister Garson told the Commons Tuesday night in a defence of control legislation.

These include the general prices board order, domestic rental regulations, steel and timber regulations, orders relating to Japanese on the Pacific coast, priorities for construction supplies and orders dealing with the sugar and prices stability corporations.

Another quite humiliating stream of Progressive Conservative criticism, Mr. Garson charged, the official opposition with trying to create the impression that the government was "asking for a "vast network" of orders and controls when actually great economies were being made towards decontrol.

Mr. Garson was on a motion preliminary to the main bill for the extension of the controls to March 31, 1950.

Many Speakers Heard

Other speakers included Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton), Claude Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South), Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East), F. S. Zaplitny (CCF-Dauphin), Rev. Dan McIvor (L-C Rutland), W. S. White (PC-Haldimand-Norfolk), Lorne Greene (PC-Toronto Trinity), A. L. Smith (PC-Lennox and Addington) and Ellen Church (PC-Toronto Broadview).

General Belief Personal Income Tax to be Sliced

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 16 — (CP) — A fresh stir of taxation speculation blossomed on Parliament Hill today in the wake of an announcement by Finance Minister Abbott that he will bring down the budget the evening of Tuesday, March 22.

That means the Canadian taxpayer will know, in just a week from now, how much of a slice the tax collector is going to take out of his pay envelope over the year.

If the tax winds blow favorably in the direction of the man-on-the-street, the government may chop away some of the war-induced indirect taxes and thus put the skids under the high cost of living.

With Mr. Abbott's announcement that arm-chair experts bleeded out their theories on what the government might or might not do in the way of tax relief, particularly in the light of promises that this is a present election year and that this might be a vote-weaning budget.

May be Sliced Heavily

There was a general belief that personal income taxes would be sliced, and perhaps sliced heavily. This might take the form of a raising of basic exemptions with the tax savings made retroactive to Jan. 1.

But it also was thought that the government, mindful of complaints that income-tax relief doesn't help the little guy who doesn't earn enough to get in those brackets, might knock off some of the indirect levies, such as the eight-per-cent sales tax, which help boost the cost of living.

Charged Government Not Living Up to Promises Made by George Drew

Toronto, March 16. (CP)—The Ontario Budget debate, which has dragged on since March 4, is due to end today. The vote on adoption of the Budget brought down by Provincial Treasurer Frost probably will follow wind-up speeches by Mr. Frost and Opposition Leader Jolliffe.

The House will then turn to several important pieces of legislation, including a government measure on margarine, which have still to be dealt with before prorogation, tentatively set for two weeks from tomorrow.

The Liberal budget debate which was enlivened Tuesday by a Liberal member's charge that the government had failed to live up to pledges made by former Premier George Drew last year to increase provincial grants to separate schools.

Aurele Belanger, member for Ottawa East and Liberal Party whip said:

"You must live up to Drew's promises. No amount of pussyfooting or soothing will suffice."

He said the Royal Commission on education headed by Mr. Justice J. C. Hope should be called "the hopeless commission". The committee had been at it for nearly four years and still had not brought in its report.

Other afternoon speakers were T. D. Thomas (CCF-Ontario), Thomas Pryde (PC-Huron) and Hon. H. C. Nixon (Lib.-Brant). Taking part in the debate at the night sitting were William Denison (CCF-Toronto St. David), Lloyd Fell (CCF-Toronto Parkdale) and J. B. Salsberg (Labor Prog.-Toronto St. Andrew).

850 Canadian Rail Workers Affected by Strike and Coal Stoppage Across the Border

Washington, March 16 (CP)— A stoppage in American coal mines, coupled with a strike of operating employees on the Wabash Railway, today darkened the United States labor picture. The effect was felt among workers in Eastern Canada.

The United Mine Workers are on a two-week work stoppage called by their president, John L. Lewis, as a memorial to miners killed during 1948 and also as a protest against appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the United States Bureau of Mines. The stoppage affects only American mines east of the Mississippi.

The Wabash strike was called Monday over contract negotiations, but not wages. Last night the national mediation board said President Truman has signed an order calling for a fact-finding board and a 60-day delay of the strike.

The effect on Canada of the Wabash strike was felt mostly in Western Ontario. There the Wabash runs trains over the Canadian National Railways lines from Windsor to Buffalo. While the Canadian workers of the Wabash were not affected by the strike, it was expected that curtailed operations of the road would leave many stranded and also a protest against appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the United States Bureau of Mines. The coal stoppage also affected Canadian railway workers. Some 850 are expected to be laid off because of both the Wabash and the coal stoppage.

The New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio Railways announced layoffs in western Ontario shops because of the coal shutdown. March of the freight traffic over these lines in that area is connected with coal hauling.

Main points in the Wabash dispute are working conditions and claims. Both engineers and trainmen are absent from sections on motion to be taken in view of the National Mediation Board's announcement was awaited today.

Meanwhile an official of the U.M.W. said he sees no reason why the stoppage won't end March 28 as scheduled. Coal operators have said they fear the shutdown would continue past the deadline establishing by Lewis.

Another fact in the coal picture is that most mines have been on a curtailed work schedule because of the large backlog. Coal supplies are estimated at 70,000,000 tons above ground—enough for a much longer period than the scheduled two weeks.

POLICE AND FIRE GRANTS LINKED WITH DEFENCE

Both Departments Must be Judged Efficient Before Grants Will be Given

Toronto, March 16. (CP)—The Ontario Government wants to strengthen municipal police and fire services so that they will be ready to meet any emergency in the event of another war.

It seek a standardization of equipment throughout the province and a degree of efficiency in both services satisfactory to provincial police and fire officials.

Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell made this disclosure Tuesday in a deputation from the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves and the Ontario Municipal Association which protested against the provision that the province must be satisfied with the operation of the municipal services before making full grants.

The deputation claimed that the province should let the cities and towns run their own show, that the new arrangement left the way open to increased provincial interference and, despite the grants, a net reduction in the case of municipalities with population of more than 70,000, amount to 10 per cent of the current operating costs of each department.

One-half of the grant will be paid immediately if a police or fire department has its men protected in case of injury, such as provided for under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and has a pension scheme in effect. The other half will be forthcoming once the individual departments have been approved as to efficiency.

Fishing Tourists Dangerous To Our Waters Say Anglers

Toronto, March 16 — (CP) — The increasing number of tourists may be good for Ontario's export trade but fishing tourists are dangerous to our waters, W. E. Smith of Dundas, past-president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, believes.

He told the Conservation Features fish and game committee yesterday that a limit should be placed on the number of alien non-resident angling and hunting licenses issued in Ontario each year.

It should be done "as soon as it could be worked out that all resident anglers and hunters be contributed and directed to various parts of Ontario, especially near to the supply of fish and game in such parts," he said.

He scorns the "so-called panel discussions" which recently decided that tourists were "not a threat to Ontario's natural resources."

The Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity, which set up the panel, "very carefully chose men who for reasons of private interest could very well be depended on to bring in an answer or decision which would suit the department," he charged.

Hasn't Disagreement

However, representatives of the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association disagreed with Premier Bishop of Manitoulin Island said the association was against the establishment of too tourist trade.

"We merely live in this province by taking in each other's wash. We have no export, and the best we can do is to keep our biggest," he said.

V. M. Sutton, president of the Anglers' Federation, charged that the federation's ways and means of preventing pollution, either from sulphur fumes in the air which kills trees, or acid wastes in streams which kill fish."

Mr. Scott said he thought a royal commission should be set up to enforce the ways and means of preventing pollution, either from sulphur fumes in the air which kills trees, or acid wastes in streams which kill fish."

Hitch-Hiking Girl Returns Home

Toronto, March 16 (CP)— Her head and face marked by a deep scarf, Mary Elizabeth Walsh arrived from Winnipeg by plane Tuesday night and was immediately taken to her home by car.

The 15-year-old Toronto resident who ran away March 1st., had been held before Manitoba home for girls since last week.

In a telephone interview Tuesday night, Mr. Walsh said:

"We did not know Mary was coming home until Mrs. V. L. Kennedy of the juvenile court informed us after the plane had left Winnipeg. Although we had retained a lawyer in Winnipeg he was not allowed to speak to Mary, so we knew as much about her running away as we did."

"After all the trouble we've had I think the less said about the whole thing the better," he added.

Mary had hitch-hiked to Gravenhurst from here and had accepted a ride with two men, who were charged in Winnipeg with contributing to juvenile delinquency.

The two men had crossed the Saskatchewan border before they discovered the girl's flight. Then they drove back to Winnipeg where she gave herself up to police.

House Approves Increased Air Budget for U.K.

London, March 16 (CP)— "Revolutionary developments" in the air were foreseen Tuesday night as the Commons approved an increased air budget for Britain.

Great strides in developing a force of jet bombers, and development of a jet fighter which would make present types obsolete, was forecast by Air Secretary Arthur Henderson.

At present Britain's jet bombers are already the best in the world, the air secretary added, and Britain now is preparing a new jet bomber with a speed nearing 500 miles an hour.

For all these developments the Commons approved an air budget of £ 207,500,000 ($830,000,000) £ 18,000,000 higher than last year.

Harold MacMillian, chief Conservative speaker, brought up the question of Commonwealth defence policy, in which Canada played a great part during the war, and asked more information about Dominion and Colonial air forces.

He deplored the government's "excessive secrecy" as a bad thing for the relations between Europe the United States and the Dominions.

The remarks of secrecy came after Henderson said he could not give details of exact performance of the jet bombers or when they would come into squadron service. The reason was security.

During the debate A.V. Harvey (Conservative member and a retired air commodore, drew a rebuke from Defence Minister Alexander when he said "planners in some of the services" had told him that any world flare-up would come either in July of this year, or not for six or seven years.

Two Injured, Five Arrested In Free-For-All

Toronto, March 16 — (CP) — Two persons were injured and five were arrested on Tuesday night as a result of a "free-for-all" in Toronto's east end, involving Italians and Greeks.

Injured were Charles Bell and George Glover, both of Toronto, who were taken to hospital with injuries suffered in the fight.

Charged with assault occasioning bodily harm and obstructing police officers were Tony Glover, 23, Donald Murray, 22, Ernest Howes, 27, Edward Turner, 21, and Charles Bell, 21, all of Toronto.

Police said Towner and Murray assaulted Bell. When Glover went to Bell's aid the other three set upon him and Howes, who filed when police appeared on the scene.

The five arrested were picked up in a nearby cafe where they were treated.

Murray, Howes, Turner and Cloher appeared in court today after being remanded to March 23. Bail for Murray was set at $2,000, and $1,000 each for the others.

FORMER MAYOR DIES

A former Liberal member of the House of Commons for Royal, he was also a former president of the New Brunswick Publishing Company, publishers of the Telegraph-Journal, the Times-Globe and the Maritime Farmer.

He was a former member of the parliamentary press gallery.

Once Respected Country Squire And Philanthropist Imprisoned

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, March 16 (CP) — A man who had associated with royalty, spied for Britain and became a respected, wealthy country squire, today began serving a four-year sentence for an £18,000 ($72,000) fraud.

He is Walter Arthur Charles Dicketts and his fantastic life story was brought out Tuesday in the central criminal court of justice, at the Old Bailey. He was disclosed as a man of 23 aliases whom police had sought for four years while he lived in splendor as Squire Charles Stewart Pollock, lord of a manor in Sussex.

A Scotland Yard detective recently saw Dicketts leaving a telephone booth in Knightsbridge and recognized him as a man who had jumped bail in 1944 while awaiting trial on a charge of swindling. Dicketts was arrested and only then was it learned that he was living as the owner of an 850-acre estate in Sussex, a man known for his generosity to charity and a respected citizen.

He was in the Royal Flying Corps, forerunner of the R.A.F., and was commissioned an officer.

In the early 1930s he entertained the then Prince of Wales and other notables in London's west end.

During the Second World War Dicketts was employed on intelligence work by the War Office. He was landed in Germany by aircraft and was in various parts of Europe on the "most hazardous type of spy work for three years."

After he absconded in 1944 with the money paid him by two men he already owed, defence counsel said his history was "simply astounding."

He went from London to East Grinstead in Sussex, where he bought two estates worth £70,000 and built himself into one of the most respected citizens in the district.

As he left the court Dicketts's pretty young Hungarian wife ran forward to embrace him. But warders hustled him quickly to the cells below the Old Bailey.

General Belief Personal Income Tax to be Sliced

Asks Commons To Sit Early and On Saturday

Ottawa, March 16 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent gave to Commons notice today that he will ask it to start sitting early and on Saturday, beginning the extended sitting Friday and continuing until certain measures, now before the House are passed.

The change would mean that the House meets from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in addition to the regular sittings from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 to 10.30 p.m. The first Saturday sitting would be on March 26.

The Prime Minister explained the reaction of the ignificance of the move except that government measures must be passed through parliament by March 31.

On that date controls exercised under wartime powers legislation are due to lapse.

However, the fact that such rush hours are usually not started until the final stages of a session, coupled with the fact that the budget will come down on Tuesday, promptly started speculation that the government is preparing to call an election, with a view to an early general election.

USING SOVIET GUNS CLAIM

Seoul, Korea, March 16 (AP)— Reds in South Korea's mountains (the south) Korean Republic, charged Tuesday, are using Soviet machine-guns. The guerrillas have been active since the republic separated from Russian-occupied North Korea.

Young Man on Search for Father Seeks Help of Police to Get Name

Toronto, March 16 (CP)— A young man named John is looking for his father.

He wants to become a United States citizen but he hasn't a birth certificate. Tuesday he asked police to help him find out who his parents are.

Police said today they believe he is the son of Mrs. Margaret Twilley, a Port Hope woman whose body was found beside the body of J. R. Phillips here in 1929. Police then attributed the deaths to murder and suicide. Police laid the details of the shooting were similar to the information given John about his mother's death.

The youth told police he had been adopted at the age of four at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and brought up by his foster-parents as their son. Only three years ago he found out through a friend that he had been adopted. The friend was able to give him only meagre details.

The woman told him she had seen a newspaper item sometime between 1929 and 1932 about a Toronto woman who had been murdered by her common-law husband. She thought the dead woman was John's mother.

John returned to his foster-mother, whom he left several years ago, but the woman, now 92, no longer recognized anyone.

John has worked in the United States for several years and wants to live there permanently.

Besides, he told a reporter, "my father may be alive still. I want to see him."

Teachers' Retirement Act Provisions Called Adequate

Toronto, March 16 (CP)—The Ontario Teachers' Federation said Tuesday night in a statement that provisions of the superannuation act for teachers introduced in the legislature this week are adequate and it is neither economically possible nor fair to pay retired teachers more.

The new act, if passed, will set the maximum pension for teachers who retire from service at $3,000 a year. Teachers already retired receive $1,500 as a ceiling.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, March 16 — (CP) — Synopsis: The cool air which covered Ontario the last two days is shifting eastward. Skies are clouding over and tonight's minimum temperatures will range from fifties in Central Ontario to seventy five in the lower Lake regions. Occasional light snow is forecast for Thursday morning followed by partial clearing later in the day.

There is a remarkably intense storm over Eastern Nova Scotia this morning. Sydney airport reported winds of seventy miles per hour with gusts to one hundred miles per hour. The storm is moving northeastward and will cross Newfoundland today.

Railroads Begin To Feel Pinch Of Mine Closures

Pittsburgh, March 16 (AP) — The shutdown of the United States began feeling the pinch of the coal strike Wednesday as transport today, but the remainder of American coal-dependent railroads continued operations.

By the second day of the two-week mine shutdown ordered by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, coal-carrying railroads continued the pooling system of layoffs first used Monday.

By the end of the week some 78,000 railroaders will be idle, joining the 463,000 miners who started home Monday.

The steel industry showed no sign of cutting operations. The American Iron and Steel Institute said this week's output of steel ingots and castings is expected to total 1,580,400 net tons. This compares with the previous week's total of 1,589,100 tons set last week.

However, Bethlehem Steel said it had enough coal on hand for only a few weeks. The national coke stock pile of 70,000,000 tons is expected to be reduced 20,000,000 tons by the end of the day the miners are scheduled to resume digging. If the shutdown continues much longer than two weeks, retrenchment would be inevitable.

City and District News

FIRE CRACKERS THROWN AT CARS, YOUTHS BLAMED

Police Chief Walter Probert today issued a warning to local youths who during the past week have been reported to be tossing firecrackers at passing cars and onto verandahs in the East Hill district. The police chief stated that such practices must stop or offending parties will be severely dealt with.

Late last week several motorists on Victoria Avenue reported that lighted fire crackers had been tossed at their cars by young boys while this week at least one resident in the same area stated fire crackers had been thrown onto his verandah.

MAGISTRATE SUSPENDS LICENCE AND FINES CARELESS MOTORIST

Allen Sinclair, Napanee, it seems, does not like another automobile passing his car while driving the highway. But he found it an expensive eyesore for he was fined fifty dollars and costs, with his licence suspended for one month by Magistrate J. B. Garvin in Kingston the other day for bending in the white.

It seems Valder Bauder, Belleville, while driving east on Highway No. 2, attempted to pass a car driven by Sinclair. Whenever he drew abreast of the Sinclair car, it would speed up. This occurred, according to evidence, three times over a distance of a mile-and-a-half.

Sinclair was hauled into court on charges of careless driving and pleaded not guilty. The call, however, found him guilty on the evidence adduced and sentenced him as above.

DEADLINE FRIDAY FOR PURCHASE OF LICENCES, PERMITS

Better get that license for your truck or automobile right away. If you don't you're liable to run into trouble.

Inspector W. A. Pegg, Ontario Provincial Police, announced today that Friday, March 18 is the deadline. After that date motorists will be liable for prosecution.

And that includes your operator's license.

CALL SOCCER MEETING

Former Resident Presented With Long Service Pass

Many of the older residents of this city will be much interested in reading the following news item of a former well-known and popular resident, Mr. R. A. Acton, who engaged with the Old Grand Trunk Railway here many years ago. The news item is from the Edmonton Bulletin in which city Mr. Acton now resided.

Half century of service means a little bungalow, a leisurely life and the only 50 years' service pass ever issued to R.A. Acton, 10990 125 street, veteran CNR engineer.

The railroad pass was presented to Mr. Acton Monday by A.T. Gray, vandalism foreman.

Call Boy First

Nearly 81 years ago Mr. Acton did his first day's work as 13-year-old call boy. Promotions followed to car dauber, switchman, fireman to locomotive engineer in 1909. Engineer on the transcontinental line from Edmonton to Edson, Mr. Acton boasts an accident free service record.

Born in Belleville, Ont.— "a beautiful town"— 84 years ago, he first worked with the old Grand Trunk Railway from Riviere to Prince Rupert, switched permanently in Edmonton with his bride in 1912.

Ready to Retire

Today, grey-haired and smiling Mr. Acton is also fond of good time for sports, his "favorite hobby" enhances the prospect of early retirement.

Mr. and Mrs. Acton's still intends to include long weekend local visits to their two sons, Dr. W. C. Acton, Ottawa and John B. Acton, San Jose, California.

"Boys run in our family," smiled Mrs. Acton as she told about her four grandsons.

Upon retirement Mr. Acton's 50-year-pass will be exchanged for a completely unrestricted CNR lifetime pass.

Believe Juveniles Responsible For Break-ins

Local juveniles are believed responsible for break-ins during the past two nights at the Swift Canadian Company plant on Station Street and at the Glen Roy Lockers on Pinnacle Street.

A few pounds of butter were stolen from the latter premises and a reported missing at Swifts and a search at the Glen Roy Lockers revealed only a pair of heavy mitts used for working in the locker were missing. It is believed entry in each place was made in an effort to find petty cash left in the offices.

Entry at Swifts was made by forcing the bottom of a large door, and at the Glen Roy Lockers a rear window was broken.

CNR Veterans Defeat Army Navy Vets 6-5 In Service Darts Loop

The CNR Veterans' teams in the Belleville Services Darts League pulled away with a surprise victory at the regular weekly matches of the league, defeating the hitherto league-leading Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans 6-5.

Follwell Supply considered a dangerous contender for league honors turned back the C.N.R. Stores by a 9-2 count. The defeat gives the Stores fourth place of 64 points. They are now on equal terms with the top of the standing with ANAF's. Follwell Supply's victory shot them into 2nd place with 61 points.

The 9th Anti-Tank Regt. defeated their regimental rivals the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment 8-5 in the third series of matches.

C.N.R. Veterans and the Hasty Arms are tied for fourth place with 48 points each with the 9th Anti Tanks bringing up the rear with 45.

All teams swing into regular action next Monday night.

Model Builders Organize Here

The initial meeting of the Belleville Society of Model Engineers was held at the workshop and home of Mr. P. C. Gelsthorpe.

A display of models that were displayed in the Wilkes' Hardware, were strictly railroads, the club members now construct everything from telescopes to model sailing boats. Anyone is eligible for membership to this club and no experience is necessary in model building. The only requirement is an interest in the work of the club.

It was decided at the meeting to use Avery's gas truck with regard to the model railroad section so that members might visit one another with their models as well as use them on a standard layout to be constructed at the club headquarters.

Mr. Bill Dougherty was on hand to inform club members of the materials available for model working as well as the cost of the articles which would be in demand in the course of club operation.

Decision was also made that in due course the club would amalgamate with the larger and older Toronto club.

The election of officers was held and the results are as follows: president and class instructor, P. C. Gelsthorpe; secretary, W. Hembleton; treasurer, Bob Rafaral; librarian, R. B. McCullough, and publicity manager, Dorland Houston.

The next meeting will be held at Mr. Gelsthorpe's home at 2 Lewis Street, March 25.

Kiwanis Hears Talk on Black Hills Passion Play

Residents of Belleville and district may be interested to know that the Black Hills Passion Play will be presented in Kingston the first week of May. This was announced at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. John Brewer of Spearfish, South Dakota, was on hand at the meeting to give a short history and outline of the Passion Play. He pointed out that the Passion Play is 1950 years old and was first played in Germany. In 1650 the play was given its first presentation in the United States in 1932 the play left Germany for world tour and opened its first American showing in Pittsburgh and in 1937 it located itself in Black Hills, Dakota. That is how it derived the name of the Black Hills Passion Play. This will be the only Ontario showing and the only other Canadian showing will be in Montreal.

The play itself is the re-enactment of the last seven days of Christ's life on earth. There are twenty-two scenes in the play and the cast consists of 32 actors. The costumes and scenery are set to represent the life 2,000 years ago and to make it more authentic they carry two camels and a donkey as they were the chief animals and means of transportation in Palestine. Joseph Meek of who plays the leading role, has acted in the role some 1,000 times and will play it for sixty million people.

The Kiwanis Club gave their whole-hearted support to it and anyone wanting tickets may get the play and obtain them from the Kiwanis Club.

Along with Mr. Brewer the other guests were, Bob McIntosh of Kingston, Don Wright of Oshawa, John Baker of Madoc and Harold Gordon and Mac Hill both of Barrie. Mr. Brewer's presentations of the attendance awards were also made at the meeting.

BCI Basketball Juniors Defeat OSD Team 58-25

(By J. F.)

Still smarting from their close defeat by the Royal Military College, B.C.I. & V.S. Juniors travelled to O.S.D., where they jumped back on the victory trail again with a decisive 58-25 win over the O.S.D. Juniors. The Red Shirts had no trouble in rushing up a large score against the inexperienced O.S.D. boys. The Collegians outplayed their opponents in every department, and had convincing score was a good indication of the play. B.C.I. grasped a commanding 19-8 lead before quarter time, and from that point on it was just a question of how many points Belleville could register.

Big Ed McCluskey was the top scorer of the day with 15 points. Gravelle of O.S.D. who notched 12 points gave the visitors some trouble with his aggressive play. Keith Cameron of the Redmen was the only other player to score in the double figures with 11 points. B.C.I. needs only two more victories to clinch the district title and the coveted trip to Toronto.

The team:

O.S.D. Juniors: Gravelle (12), Beaton (2), MacKendrie (4), Willson (1), Cayer, Dennomme, Lamothe (2), Perrault, Spiker (2), Russell (2), Leslie, Total 25.

B.C.I. Juniors: Faulkner (8), Morris (4), Cameron (15), Dowsett (6), Muirhead (4), Scrymgeour (2), Ewald (4), Berry, Cameron (11), Lazenby (2), Hembleton, Kane (2). Total 58.

Score by quarters:

B.C.I. & V.S.	19	15	13	11—58
O.S.D.	8	7	2	8—25

Toronto, March 16 (CP)—John Snyder ,Tuesday lost his appeal against a prison term imposed for stealing an automobile at Brockville in December. He must serve one year definite and three months indefinite.

Front Street Main Develops Leak

Employees of the Canada Dredge and Dock Company of Toronto, the firm which reconstructed the 18-inch water main across the Moira River and also the extension of the main across Front Street, were in the city today and commenced operations to locate a leak in the main which has developed.

The leak in the new main is believed to be at the point where it crosses Front Street opposite the Bank of Nova Scotia. Employees of the firm are operating a dredge line driven Jack hammer to break up the pavement in an effort to locate the leak.

This part of the new water main has been under water pressure for some time and according to Utilities Manager F. A. Scott, developed a leak within the past two weeks.

Lindsay Juniors Oust Trenton By 7-0 Score

Lindsay's smart little O.H.A. Junior "C" squad eliminated the Trenton Juniors from further competition in Memorial Arena last night, defeating them 7-0 to take the second straight game in their two-of-three series. Lindsay turned back the Trenton kids 12-3 in their first meeting.

It was scrambly hockey in the first period with neither side being able to score. Both goalkeepers stood out in fine performances with the Trenton goalie Udell doing the trick, two of the goals scored against him were kicked in by himself.

Better coaching paid off in the second and third period when the Lindsay players started to click. The Scugog kids fired home three goals in the second, Dysart getting a pair and Jenkins scoring the other.

Twelve penalties, all minor affairs, were handed out by Referee Jim Cromble, Howmanville, being going to the visiting team. Vern. Goyer was the linesman.

OBITUARY

MRS. SARAH A. KERR

Mrs. Sarah Almira Kerr, widow of Jacob Kerr, 204 Bleecker Ave., died at the Cain Nursing Home, Foxboro, early Wednesday morning after an illness of three years' duration.

Born at Petworth, near Kingston, the late Mrs. Kerr was in her 85th year and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Asselstine. For some years she lived at Yarker and for the past thirty-five years she made her home in Belleville. Mrs. Kerr was a member of the Tabernacle United Church and when age and health permitted she took an active part in church work. She bought Dorcas School and served as president of the Ladies' Aid and presided at the Wednesday meetings.

Surviving her are two sons, James Ernest Kerr and Eugene Kerr, both of Belleville; one sister, Mrs. David Bleecker, Belleville, and one brother, Howard Smith, Tweed.

Resting at the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street at Victoria Avenue; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

(Kingston and Napanee papers please copy.)

LATE MRS. EMMA McGIE

The funeral of Mrs. Emma (Minnie) McGie, wife of Mr. Arthur McGie, was held Tuesday afternoon from the family residence, 202 Bridge Street east. The service there and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. J. G. Hornsby minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The bearers were Fred Chamberlain, Bert Bryant, Lloyd Deacon, Chester Smith, John A. McFee and James Miller.

LATE WILLIAM R. WALKER

On Tuesday afternoon the funeral of William B. Walker, late residence, Shannonville, and formerly of Belleville, was held from the Belleville Burial Company's Chapel, Church Street. The service in the chapel and at Belleville cemetery was conducted by the Rev. A. W. Loudhead, minister of the Shannonville United Church.

During the service a vocal solo, "Rock of Ages," was rendered by Mrs. J. F. Vesterfelt.

The bearers were R. C. Andrews, W. A. Ayer, Orville Ade, Dawkins, A. W. Seymour and D. E. Fraser, all of whom are members of the Masonic Order.

On Monday evening the last rites of the late deceased were conducted in the chapel by Wor. Bro. R. C. Andrews, Master of Lodge assisted by Chaplain C. E. Myers. Wor. Bro. E. C. Wood, Wor. Bro. R. J. Wor. Bro. D Moxem and Wor. Bro. Rev. A. W Loughead.

LATE MRS. MARY EMMA MCWILLIAMS

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Emma McWilliams was held from the late residence at Shannonville to St. Charles' Church at Read, where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. F. Brideland, who also said the committal rites, interment taking in St. Charles' cemetery. There was a large attendance and the spiritual and floral offerings testified to the esteem of the deceased.

The bearers were all grandsons of the deceased were Joseph J. McWilliams, Joseph Jr. McWilliams, Joseph Hall, Frank Sparks, Jack Trumpour and Lou Roderick.

HUGH MALONEY (Marmora)

Marmora — A prominent and highly esteemed resident of Marmora community passed away at his home early on Monday morning in the person of Hugh Maloney. Deceased who was in his seventy-ninth year, was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Maloney and his wife, the former Mary Donaghue, were residents of Marmora township. Mr. Maloney had always resided on the farm where he was born and which was one of the best farms in the district, situated about eight miles north of Marmora village, near Deloro.

The late Mr. Maloney took a deep interest in all community projects and for eight years was a member of Marmora and Lake Council following which for a time he became reeve for five successive years. He was also president of Cooks Cheese Factory for forty-seven years until it ceased operations about six years ago. He was also at one time president of the Liberal Association of West Hastings. He was a devout member of Sacred Heart Church and in connection with that church was a member of the Holy Name Society and the League of the Sacred Heart.

He is survived by his widow, the former Annie McAvoy, and one daughter, Geraldine Agnes Anna, at home. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ernest Mary Maurice, and Mrs. Richard Dunlop (Margaret) both of Kingston.

The funeral was held from his late residence this Wednesday morning at 9.30 a.m. to Sacred Heart Church, Rosedale. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. H. J. Farrell. Interment was made in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

Proposal Criticized

Mr. Thomas criticized the proposal to substitute for a present one - mill subsidy a new system of provincial grants to municipal police and fire departments.

"Who will benefit from the grants on police and fire protections?" he asked. "Certainly not the rural areas, for most of the municipalities have voluntary fire brigades and low-cost police protection. They gravely fear that for these services will be much less than the amount they receive from the one-mill subsidy this year."

Mr. Pryde came out in favor of a monthly $10 provincial bonus for all old age pensioners. Most pensioners now receive $40 a month, with an extra $10 from the province in cases of special need.

Mr. Nixon reviewed the recent hydro rate cut. He said responsibility for it lay with the Progressive Conservative administration headed by former Premier Drew and by Premier Kennedy. Wants Rent Ceiling

Rents in Toronto's Regent Park housing project were dealt with by Mr. Dennison. He said residents believed rents should be based on the "take-home" pay that there should be a $50-a-month ceiling.

Mr. Hall said a recent newspaper article described a Toronto mental hospital as cheerful. He said he visited the institution and found it drab and depressing.

Mr. Salsberg criticized government policy on housing.

"If the government's promises could shelter people and keep them warm, there would be no housing problem."

With about 15 members, including five cabinet ministers, in Brockville for the funeral of W. B. Reynolds, Progressive Conservative member for Leeds who died Saturday, the house was poorly attended. At one point only 25 members, counting 5 government members or supporters, were in their seats.

Relations Discussed

In the Nova Scotia legislature, relations between the C. C. F. and Labor unions were discussed in the throne speech debate.

Hon. L. D. Currie, Attorney - General, said that district 26 of the United Mine Workers (C.C.L.) forced the C. C. F. "down the throats" of the miners, Liberals and Tories alike." He added that at a U. M. W. convention a few years ago "200 delegates sat down and forced 12,000 miners, without a vote, politically or anything to contribute to the (C.C.F.) party fund."

Police Blotter

Window peepers are active in the North Front Street district according to a report received at the police station from a worried resident of that area.

The woman was unable to give police a description of the party prowling and when police answered the call they were unable to find any suspicious character in the area.

A Wooler resident today is lamenting the fact that he left his shiny new auto parked on the parking lot at the rear of one of Front Street stores. Returning to his car after doing business he found the windshield of his car broken. Nothing was reported missing from the car.

A Shannonville resident also reported a radiator cap and hub cap from wheels missing from his car while it was parked in the downtown section of the city.

Volume for the first three hours was 455,000 shares, about 103,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

The decline started Tuesday following news of a reduction in the price of lead by a United States producer. This was the second cut within a week and base metal stocks reached here. Declines appeared slowly at today's opening and tendered to broaden out as the session progressed with volume increasing. A wide list of industrials showed losses ranging from fractions to about two points.

Ireland's Saint Picked Shamrock To Prove Sermon

(By The Canadian Press)

Many are the legends surrounding the hallowed name of St. Patrick that come to mind as Irishmen the world around pay tribute to him tomorrow.

But beloved and revered as he is by all the people and descendents of the Emerald Isle, he was not himself born in Ireland. And his day, so firmly fixed as March 17, is by tradition a compromise that settled a lengthy Irish argument.

When it came to fixing upon a day to honor the saint, one tradition is that the Irishmen he had died on March 8, and another claimed March 20. The two were finally added together and the date was set for the rest of time.

Tradition sets his birthplace in Wales about 389. He came to Ireland as a prisoner, carried off at the age of 16 by a band of Irish marauders, who raided Britain under one Irish king, Niall Noigiallach.

For six years he was a swineherd in Antrim before he escaped to France in a vessel carrying Irish wolf-dogs for export. It was in France that prepared for his life in the church. He was consecrated in 432 and sent by Pope Celestine to combat heresy in Ireland.

Christian Leader

Here he came into opposition with the son of the king who had kidnapped him, and fought the paganism of the Druids. He is said to have overthrown a famous idol in the plains of County Cavan.

It was St. Patrick who made the shamrock Ireland's emblem. Challenged during a speech at Tara as to the mystery of the Trinity, he stooped to the earth and picked a shamrock, holding it up to prove the possibility of three in one, and one in three.

There are no snakes in Ireland because according to legend St. Patrick drove them out. Today Ireland has none, though reptiles are found in Scotland and England.

He is credited with having founded 365 churches and baptized with his own hand some 12,000 people in Ireland. He was buried in Abbey Saul in County Down, in 461.

Whatever the truth may be, it is certain that St. Patrick was both intensely spiritual and strong in action. The enthusiasm that carried him through all difficulties as a missionary priest and bishop has been so infectious that after centuries his memory is as green as the shamrock that all good Irishmen will wear on the 1,488th celebration of his day.

'Love Child' Kept Captive to Hide Mother's Shame

By FRED BRADY

Boston, March 16 — (AP) — Illness today prevented Mrs. Anna Sullivan, 45, from telling a court the strange story of the son she kept for most of his lifetime as her "secret sin" prisoner.

The neglect charge against the mother was continued to Monday.

When Mrs. Sullivan does appear for hearing, she may be spared a courtroom meeting with the boy.

Court officials said Massachusetts law did not require his appearance. They explained that the mother had already pleaded guilty to the charge in her court appearance Monday.

In the courtroom today, women who saw the boy were waiting to hear the Sullivan case expressed divided opinions concerning the mother's course.

Several said they believed she should be punished. Others said: "She has suffered enough."

Pleads for Boy's Return

The distraught mother has tearfully pleaded for return of the "love child" she is accused of keeping captive a dozen years in a dungeon-like room.

"You God in my judge, I love my boy," she cried. "I don't want to be punished."

Police said 14-year-old, bright-eyed Gerald Sullivan was held in a barren room, furnished only with a cot, until he escaped into the street in an unlocked basement Sunday night.

Mrs. Sullivan, suffering from what physicians described as a "terrible" emotional upset, declared in her interview that she kept the child locked up in the room.

She explained that she kept him in the house to "hide my shame" and to "protect the good name" of two older legitimate sons and a younger daughter.

Weeping bitterly and burying her head occasionally in pillows, she sobbed:

"I didn't mean to do any harm to the little boy. I wasn't unkind to him. I felt that it was our cross —mine and Gerald's — and we had to bear it together.

Answering police reports that the boy couldn't distinguish the things common to every child — even an orange — because he had never seen them before, Mrs. Sullivan said:

"Every day he had fruit and the best of food we could afford. He liked to eat and I let him lack for nothing.

Meant No Harm

"It was only that he couldn't go out among the neighbors. I didn't let the story that his father wasn't my husband might get around. I knew, I meant no harm.

The story of the child's life unfolded quickly after he was found playing in the street alone — his face bare and tattered girl's clothing hanging from his weakened body.

The mother, pleaded guilty to district court to a charge of neglect. She told of the boy's conception and birth during a separation from her husband.

The child's father died several years later and then that Mrs. Sullivan determined, investigators reported, to hide the boy from the world.

Gerald transformed from a long-haired, ragged urchin now is in a temporary home.

Social welfare workers reached out across the country in hopes of finding him, but authorities said it will be some time before his future is determined.

Marmora Midgets Meet Fergus For Provincial Title

Marmora—Marmora Midgets by virtue of their win over Sandridge by the score of 6-4 on the home rink on Tuesday evening thereby acquiring a lead of five goals on the two-game series, pass into the finals to meet Fergus. Seven hundred fans were on hand to witness a keen game between the semi-finalists. The result of the game was left in doubt until the last ten minutes.

For Sandridge McCreary who got two goals stood out for consistent all round play. Ibbotson, Steele, Black and Snippe also brought off interesting plays for a team that was unfortunate in not getting more goals. Darrah and Trumble on the Marmora defence and Brown, Nicholson and Jones stood out for the winners. Penalties were frequent during the game particularly in the third period for minor infringements. The game was interesting throughout, being played on fast ice and the staying qualities of the Sand ridge players despite their long trip was admirable.

Teams:

Sandridge—Goal Smith, defence Mancella, Purdon; centre, McCreary; wings, Stack, Christie; alternates, Ibbotson, Steele, Campbell, McPherson, McCrae, Hughes, Percival.

Marmora—Goal, Brown; defence, Darrah, Trumble; centre, Brooks; wings Brown, Nicholson; alternates, Mantle, Mumby, Jones, Parsnuik, Hickey, Meehan, Walker, McNally.

Referee, P. Everett, Belleville. Linesman, W. Holway, Belleville

Summary:

1st Period

Marmora—Meehan (Jones, Nicholson)	5.40

Dafoe and Senos staged a thrilling battle two years ago and the fireworks are expected to fly when the two tangle tonight. Eight other outstanding bouts round out an attractive card with boxers from Kingston, Trenton, Belleville, Picton, Ottawa and the station.

Ireland's Saint Picked Shamrock To Prove Sermon

(By The Canadian Press)

Many are the legends surrounding the hallowed name of St. Patrick that come to mind as Irishmen the world around pay tribute to him tomorrow.

But beloved and revered as he is by all the people and descendents of the Emerald Isle, he was not himself born in Ireland. And his day, so firmly fixed as March 17, is by tradition a compromise that settled a lengthy Irish argument.

When it came to fixing upon a day to honor the saint, one tradition is that the Irishmen he had died on March 8, and another claimed March 20. The two were finally added together and the date was set for the rest of time.

Tradition sets his birthplace in Wales about 389. He came to Ireland as a prisoner, carried off at the age of 16 by a band of Irish marauders, who raided Britain under one Irish king, Niall Noigiallach.

For six years he was a swineherd in Antrim before he escaped to France in a vessel carrying Irish wolf-dogs for export. It was in France that prepared for his life in the church. He was consecrated in 432 and sent by Pope Celestine to combat heresy in Ireland.

Christian Leader

Here he came into opposition with the son of the king who had kidnapped him, and fought the paganism of the Druids. He is said to have overthrown a famous idol in the plains of County Cavan.

It was St. Patrick who made the shamrock Ireland's emblem. Challenged during a speech at Tara as to the mystery of the Trinity, he stooped to the earth and picked a shamrock, holding it up to prove the possibility of three in one, and one in three.

There are no snakes in Ireland because according to legend St. Patrick drove them out. Today Ireland has none, though reptiles are found in Scotland and England.

He is credited with having founded 365 churches and baptized with his own hand some 12,000 people in Ireland. He was buried in Abbey Saul in County Down, in 461.

Whatever the truth may be, it is certain that St. Patrick was both intensely spiritual and strong in action. The enthusiasm that carried him through all difficulties as a missionary priest and bishop has been so infectious that after centuries his memory is as green as the shamrock that all good Irishmen will wear on the 1,488th celebration of his day.

CONGRATULATIONS MR. LESLIE

Anyone who can mark a fiftieth anniversary, whether it is in business or marriage, is an exceedingly fortunate individual. The survivors of the former are so rare in these days of quick change, and fast pace of living, that it is an event when a man in the community counts this day as his own. It is a record to be proud of and this newspaper is privileged to participate in the observance of the day by issuing a special section devoted to the occasion.

It was fifty years ago today that Will Leslie chose to go into the shoe business. Coming from the farm where he was handicapped by a permanent leg injury, he decided that his chosen life work should be in business. While Mr. Leslie chose the shoe business, through a fortunate combination of circumstances, we have no doubt he would have succeeded in any vocation. He was that kind of young man — not afraid of work and always with an eye to looking after his early employer's interests — with the result he was eventually given added responsibilities. He learned his work well, and when the opportunity opened for him to buy his own business he was ready, both with the cash and the courage.

Besides his natural business acumen, perhaps Mr. Leslie's greatest asset was his love for people, rich or poor, it made no difference. He remembered names and his friendly and interested manner acted as a magnet to thousands of people in the city and Hastings county. This, plus a desire to always give satisfaction, contributed to his splendid success of his chosen work. Nothing was ever too much trouble, and he was ever willing to lend a helping hand to anyone in need of his counsel and personal resources.

No account of a tribute to Will Leslie's career would be complete without mention of his love for his church. No matter how busy he was during the week he always attended Sunday services and has done so until recent months when ill health forced him to remain away. His generous contributions and willingness to share the burden of the duties in the life of the church have always been in keeping with his great-hearted nature. Sincerity and a deep sense of humility have always marked his associations with religious matters, and reflect his ingrained love for the worth-while matters of this life.

And so today Will Leslie, in the quietness of his home circle, can reflect with pride and satisfaction on his success in life. His family always comes first with him and they return the full measure the love that he has bestowed on them. His friendship is treasured by his intimate friends and business associates whom he has always treated with the greatest consideration. This newspaper joins with a host of friends on this Golden Anniversary of his entry into business life in wishing him improved health that he may enjoy for many years the fruits of his labors, and love for the good things in life. This city is the richer for Will Leslie having lived here, and practised that admirable Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would have them do to you."

DISTURBING SOUNDS ON RADIO

Nothing can be more annoying and distracting than noises on the radio especially when there is a program in progress which one desires to hear. The writer of a letter in today's issue makes complaint of an incessant disturbance in East Belleville in the evenings, but not in the daytime, according to his statement. What the cause is, has not been determined, but it is only to be expected that his complaint should be aired in the hope that someone will find the cause and steps be taken to prevent recurrence.

The complaint having been brought to public notice it is likely that someone will succeed in tracking down the unwanted sounds. The sooner this is effected and the remedy applied the better for a great number of radio listeners.

NAMELESS WINTER

When we have a winter like this one — and it may be due to the kind of atomic shenanigans that are reportedly causing hens to lay non-egg-shaped eggs — there is a sudden and disturbing inarticulation among people.

We have never realized before what an appalling feeling it is not to be able to say something intelligible about the weather.

It is not only our main topic of news, but it is about the only thing that can open a conversation in North America without being construed as an insult.—Hamilton Spectator.

BECAUSE

Why are the Jones invited for tea?
"Because."
Why must the lady be seated by me?
"Because."
Why must I dress just to go to a show?
Others in business suits merely will go.
Why the tuxedo? I'm asking to know.
"Because."

Why are you leaving the baby to cry?
"Because."
Why not give Willie a "second" of pie?
"Because."

Why, when on something we fail to agree
And I merely ask what your reason can be,
Can I safely wager your answer will be:
"Because."

Why with the boys did I stay out so late?
"Because."
To pick up my things why for you do I wait?
"Because."
Why so untidy and thoughtless am I?
To be as are other men why don't I try?
As you answer me, I can only reply:
"Because."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 14th., 1929.

The village of Stirling is considering installing a waterworks system.

The late Misses L. Y. and R. B. Hall, who resided on Charles Street, each left the sum of $500 to the local branch of the Y.M.C.A., making a total of $1,000.

The Rev. Dr. MacTavish went to Toronto today to attend a meeting of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Orill, St. Agnes Manor apartments, spent the weekend in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh, Alexander Street, will take here shortly to reside in Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

March 16th., 1919.

An "up-to-the-minute" has been placed at the intersection of Bridge and Front streets to control the particularly vehicular traffic at that corner. Keep to the right and cut out corners cutting is now the order of the day. Another dangerous spot is at the corner of Front Street and Victoria Avenue; a traffic post could be used there to advantage.

The annual meeting of Prince Edward County Liberal Association, Mr. Nelson Parliament, the present member of the Legislature, was unanimously nominated as the candidate to contest the riding at the next election.

Mr. Eugene Wheeler went to Toronto today.

40 YEARS AGO

March 16th., 1909.

A meeting of the Police Commissioners was held this afternoon for the purpose of considering applications for appointments on the police force, made vacant by the resignations of officers Robinson and Kennedy. The result of the meeting was that George Reynolds and David Finley Gillespie were appointed. There were a large number of applications.

At the bowling alley yesterday afternoon, J. Connolly and Wesley Weymark played seven games for the single competition championship. The result was victory for Connolly who scored 1,053 points to his opponent's 973, thus winning by 80 points. Many spectators witnessed the contest.

The Lehigh Portland Cement Company is having erected upon their premises a warehouse 200 feet by 70 feet in which to store cement.

50 YEARS AGO

March 16th., 1899.

Mr. Donald Ferguson who has been the popular and efficient station master for the G.T.R. here for the past 34 years has retired from active service and will be succeeded by Mr. T. Parsley. Mr. Gunn entered the service of the railway in 1858 and was promoted from Berlin, Ontario, to Belleville, in 1870.

Mrs. James Fleming left today to visit friends in Toronto, Hamilton and Rochester.

Mr. R. Brown, Foster Avenue, was treated with a surprise party last evening by thirty of his friends. An enjoyable time was passed.

Mr. A. E. Fish left today on a business trip to Western Canada.

Mr. George Nolan of Trenton is spending a few days in town.

Mr. Daniel Collins has received his annual supply of Shamrocks from Ireland and will wear them tomorrow, St. Patrick's Day.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THORNS AND ACHIEVEMENTS

Practically all wild birds cast their young out of the nest at a certain time. If they did not do this, the fledglings would luxuriate in the soft nest and perhaps never learn to face the storm and seek their own food.

The eagle has the best scheme of all. Mr. and Mrs. Eagle make their nests out of thorns, which they cover with soft down. When the elders think that the youngsters have had enough feeding and coddling, they do not cast them out the nest as other birds do; they simply scratch out the down and the thorns do the rest.

It is amazing how we have to be goaded into doing most of the things which in later life we recognize to have been most advantageous for us. It takes the sharp spur of necessity to make us diligent, prompt, ambitious. It may very well be that the thorns and thorns which our Lord wore had a symbolic meaning. It may have been designed to show the fact that most achievement comes as the result of our being goaded and goaded by thorns of necessity. And so when our Lord stood forth, the perfection of humanity, He wore a crown of thorns upon His brow to remind mankind forever that in the sinful and imperfect old world in which we live, thorns and achievement bear to each other the relationship of cause and effect.

CONTROL PROCESS

In the opening stages, Finance Minister Abbott announced he will bring down the budget next Tuesday, March 22 at 7:30 p.m. EST.

Trade Minister Howe announced the government will maintain the existing floor prices for western oats and barley in the 1949-50 crop year, but will withdraw price support for oilseed crops.

Veterans Affairs Gregg announced a special distribution of money grants to help families of veterans receiving the maximum war veterans allowance.

External Affairs Minister Pearson said he has hopes for early draft of the North Atlantic security pact next Friday.

Mr. Fleming spearheaded the main opposition attack on the control legislation. He charged the government's policies had resulted in a "merry botch" and failure in housing.

Situation Changes Rapidly

But the opposition to the control legislation, he held, should not be interpreted as opposition to the continuation of wage controls. The government was asking for the delegation of "very great and sweeping powers" and that was "blindingly wrong."

Mr. Garson said the government was proposing extension of the controls because existing legislation is-council because it hoped they would be beneficial.

The situation was changing rapidly and the government would not have the "necessary flexibility" action to reduce and modify controls if they were in an act which required amendment by parliament.

An emergency did exist and Progressive Conservative members themselves had admitted as much when they referred to the housing situation and suggested that control of rents was needed. Emergencies followed every war.

Mr. Fleming stated while Progressive Conservatives say definitely whether or not they wanted controls continued. They said there was no emergency, but this should be apparent in his increase in defence estimates and the drafting of an Atlantic pact.

Quoted From Legislation

Mr. White quoted extensively from regulations giving powers to those administering controls. These regulations gave the price board power to pass regulations or to delegate its powers to pass regulations. No matter what the officials of the board did no one could be sued or be taken against them.

He believed many members would not be anxious to continue such "broad, sweeping autocratic powers."

He told of several court cases which showed that the judiciary had interpreted the law in the strict meaning of control regulations.

"If the law is so ambiguous that it is administered, one merchant was prosecuted while another went free although guilty of the same offense.

"The sooner we get away from controls and from a paternal state, which feels that it should spoon feed the public, the better it will be for all of us," said Mr. White.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a solution should be found which would give landlords control of their own properties and thus create an opportunity to find alternated accommodation at a reasonable rental.

Mr. Zaplitny felt there was no fundamental differences between the parties. The government and the Liberal parties because they were believed in ensuring to private enterprise its right to make all the profit it could. The government was making only a pretence of control.

Mr. Gillis said his only objection to the legislation was that it did not go far enough. But the Progressive Conservatives, he charged, believed that "90 per cent of the people should be exploited by the other 10 per cent."

Termed Necessary Evil

Mr. Green urged the introduction of a clear - cut rental policy based on a permanent statute. The housing shortage was growing yearly and the lifting of rent controls would bring great sufferings.

Mr. Merritt termed rent control a "necessary evil" and predicted its elimination would have its amend its control to eliminate injustices. Control was necessary to prevent evictions of rental housing and distorting the situation in favor of landlords.

Mr. McIver said he wanted controls to stay until the supply position in housing was adequate.

Mr. Adamson called for a Dominion-provincial-municipal conference to discuss housing and argued that the existing legislation did nothing to relieve the situation.

Mr. Church suggested the housing situation could be solved in Toronto by providing steam subsidies services to nearby communities.

POLICE AND FIRE

Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer will pass on efficiency of police forces under Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott with the use of the fire departments. Their decisions can be appealed to the municipal board.

Mr. Blackwell will bring the legislation affecting the municipal groups before the cabinet today.

A member of the deputation said:

Mr. Blackwell was friendly and frank. But he left the impression that he had small room in the Cabinet a fair interpretation of our representations he personally wouldn't deviate from the policy as set down in the bill."

The deputation went to try to carry their representations to the Cabinet as a whole.

Mr. Blackwell postponed second reading of the pertinent bills until he had heard the delegation. The fire and police bills will be part of the government plan to replace the present: one-mill subsidy.

15 PARACHUTISTS, CREW DIE AT INDO-CHINA

Saigon, Indo-China, March 16—(AP)—The military spokesman said 15 parachutists and an unspecified number of crew members believed aboard a French Junkers transport plane crashed and burned in Tonkin. He did not give the date of the accident.

UCED COLLECTIONS FOR GAMBLING

Toronto, March 16 — (CP) — Rosa L. Robertson, 28, an income tax collector, admitted she had frittered away in gambling and drinking $745 she collected for the government. He obtained the money from five business firms. In magistrate's court, he stated remanded to March 22 for sentence.

Letter to the Editor

Radio Static Irks Listener

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Would you please direct this complaint to someone, somewhere. It's about the noise we of the East Hill district get on our radios from 7 p.m. until midnight. It may be the fault of some of the street lighting for which, I shall suppose, the Hydro Commission is, it is very discouraging to finish work, all ready to enjoy the few hours of static and noise. How can a man hear the hockey or any of his favorite programs and the ladies tell me they hear their favorite soap operas without any noise at all. There is something wrong somewhere and as Mark Twain said "Nobody does anything about it—except me."

So would you please print this to let people know we want this noise cleared up somehow.

A Discouraged Listener

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnoses or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. In reply to the many queries not conforming to instructions, Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper)

BUT THERE ARE THE POLITICIANS

In response to an increasing number of requests from readers, I shall try to present here from week to week the poor fellas' side as well as the family doctor's side of the question of state or social medicine, universal health care or whatever name the agitators prefer to give their various plans.

Aside from the fact that many readers have learned to rely on the truth of what I tell them about health, perhaps I am in a better position to talk to laymen about this problem than the average medicos are. You know what I mean.

Physicians, I mean real practitioners, the great silent body of men and women who take care of the sick and all that, seldom confess how desperately hard-up they are, even to a colleague. One colleague might be desperate, too, and make use of the chance to lord it over an advantage over his competitor. Sometimes they tell me, when they realize I cannot use it against them. From this source I gather that the doctor's lot, even though it be at the lowest level at which honest service can be given, is a real deterrent in the protection of health. After all, the important factor in maintaining public health is the quality of service rendered to the family physician. Even the most brazen public health executives in the country realize the futility of this when they undertake to invade the practice of medicine by offering treatment for this and that, or diagnosis, or other purely private services which is a comfortably the field of the legally qualified practitioner. Even in countries where public health departments that provide such free diagnosis and treatment for various ailments defend the strange use of public funds on the ground that the diagnosis and proper treatment of certain communicable diseases is part of the "control" of such diseases and hence a legitimate function of the public health administration. However, I believe that the best answer to bind this aberrant course of sanitation is political patronage and graft.

Precise determination of the nature of the trouble in any case of tuberculosis, it avowedly an important step in the prevention of the spread of the disease. Even in the pre-tuberculosis or "latent" stage, before any illness is evident and long before any tubercle bacilli are given off, it may be argued that a diagnosis of so called "precliniccal or latent" tuberculosis is necessary for public health matter. This is based on the theory that, unless carefully watched and treated, children with this latent or preclinical tuberculosis are likely to develop the actual disease in youth or early adult life. However, many physicians doubt that we can draw such conclusions from a positive reaction to tuberculin and a so-called Mium shadow in the X-ray pictures. This bilina shadow is a vague sign interpreted by the X-ray expert as evidence of a smouldering colony of tubercle bacolli in the deep lymph nodes behind the lungs.

As it looks to me—and I'm no blooming specialist, just a plain harry-right-over-doc-the-pains-are-coming-fast variety of practitioner, it looks to me all this costly monkeying with tuberculin tests and X-ray pictures of the chests of school children is a questionable practice from any point of view. The evidence obtained is of rather less weight than the opinion of a good doctor who knows the child, the family history.

FEDERAL BUDGET

In somewhat the same category as the much-criticized family recent luxury tax and others which serve to prop up the prices of such things as soft drinks, chocolate bars, cigarettes and candy. Along with the tax speculation there came inevitable conjecture as to the size of the government's revenue.

Suggestions were heard that it was being brought down early — last year the budget was presented March 15 — when the government favors an election in June. These circles said a budget presentation now would give Liberal candidates a chance to gauge the temper of the people during the Easter recess, with the off-chance that parliament itself might be dissolved and an election called after the Easter recess—if the time then seemed ripe.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

A J-M TID-BIT FROM HOLLYWOOD

Recently Hollywood was making an underwater picture. The scenes were to be shot in a huge glass tank filled with water, which, to get the best results, had to be crystal clear. The studio sent in a Johns-Manville filtration engineer. He recommended Celite as a filter powder that industry uses for countless filtration jobs.

In a few hours, the tank was filled with sparkling clear water. Every last suspended impurity had been removed—leaving the tank for purpose particles of Celite. In the same way Celite clarifies our fruit juices, syrups, beverages, even our medicines. In fact there's scarcely a liquid that can't be filtered with the help of Celite.

For complete details on how Celite can be used in your industry, write on your company letterhead to Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

No acoustic sound-proofing for the walls and ceilings of restaurants and hotels has been found to defeat the noise made by those unfortunates born with bumble-bee voices.

In fact sound-proofing only seems to intensify the penetrating quality of their vocal vibrations. The average voices are dulled and almost stilled. The bumble-bee voice penetrates the room and irritates all within hearing. A good lunch can be ruined by it.

The owner of a bumble-bee voice is generally a continuous talker. His table conversation is usually narrative. And mostly on a business nature, having to do with thousands of dollars and he said this and I said that. The luncheon companion of a bumble-bee as a rule just nods and goes on chewing.

People with bumble-bee voices appear mostly to be short-sighted. They interpret the irritated side-glances of the people at neighboring tables to be appreciative and interested. The more head-turning, the more loud-in bumble-bee buzzes. Gosh, what a relief when the bumble-bee tosses aside his table napkin and pats the waitress good-bye!

Next to the bumble-bee, the worst voice is the blatting or trombone noise. No reasonable suspicion may be entertained that the trombone voice blatter is a restaurant belongs to a naturally shy man who has taken those courses in public speaking and salesmanship. For if you listen to them you will hear the reciting platitudes and slogans. A shy man who learns not to give a damn is a terrible problem. The more people stare, the happier he is in his sense of liberation from shyness. So he blats.

Personally, my voice is like cloders sliding down a rusty galvanized chute. Box lunches eaten in the office solve the problem both of taking and giving offence.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DETRACTORS

Just the moment that there are those who rise in the world and take prominent places, there are sure to be those who will follow them as critics and detractors. The big figures smother them in their acts or totally ignore them.

You get the measure of a man when he starts calling those who do not agree with him mean and uncomplimentary names. That's only "eggs" the detractor on, causing him temporarily to have a little book on my desk of the various names Baltasar Gracian, a Spanish writer, who was born at the inception of the seventeenth century. Here is a statement of his: "One cannot praise a man too much who speaks well of them who speak ill of him."

Now rarely in public life, however, are we attracted to anyone who makes such a statement the rule of his public career. Such a one becomes immediately unique, and the more unique he becomes the more numerous are his or her detractors. America has had many of its great who suffered from these evil ones, but whose greatness overcame them out. In fact, all history has such shining lights as examples of those who had detractors but who paid no attention to them.

Who today can give the names of those detractors of Lincoln, Cleveland, or even of Wilson? To quote again from Gracian: "The malice of the envious consumes itself in its own venom, and the more it tries to destroy the greater it makes the object of its envy."

It is the favored job of us all to give attention to objectors and to take advantage of all our opportunities to serve, but not the results to be less conscientious.

When the late Elbert Hubbard was alive I used to go to his Roycroft Inn, at East Aurora, New York, and spend a week or so just relaxing, reading, and meeting interesting people. There were signs hung all over the place, and this one that I cannot forget. It was: "They will talk, anyway!" They sure will — but let them talk!

Remember That Night

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

"Perhaps He won't like ."

"I'm not asking him. I'm telling him."

As I reworks, he thought, as he left her! He had heard fireworks over the phone that afternoon from an outraged mother in Maryland.

"You asked Marion to marry you, Tommy! You gave her her ring! Don't deny it! You said I know you are reckless but we believed you really loved Marion. You've known her all your life. We have not formally announced your engagement because you've been waiting for you to come back. And now we are told you are be ing seen everywhere with a girl who sings in a night club!

"And so we are taking it upon ourselves to announce your engagement whether you are here or not."

But Karen and Roxanne slept the morning that the engagement of Tommy and Marion Leland was announced. And Philip was so busy with his play that he saw neither friends nor newspapers.

On the afternoon of the Fourth he called Karen. "Tommy dropped in several nights ago and told me I was to have the pleasure of taking you out to his party, Karen. I'll wait for you in the lobby tonight. It will be good to see you. I haven't seen anybody. Not even Brenda. For what Tommy said, it is going to be quite a party."

Karen was wearing the pale blue chiffon dress and the white satin coat and silver slippers when she stepped off the elevator and saw Philip, waiting. Her heart rose.

Why of all the men in the world did it have to be Philip Harriston with his bronzed head and lean brown face and amused brown eyes! Why did it have to be a man whose love Lilyan Kane had taken to England with her? Alone with him, riding out to Tommy's party, she must guard her heart and dear love. But all through that day before and after his orchids came with the card, she had anticipated tonight with joy and with pain. It was nothing to him. He was merely doing Tommy a favor by waiting until late to bring her back to Karen it meant a little time alone with him and dancing with him again. When you were in love you snatched at moments even when they were bitter-sweet.

"I hope I haven't kept you waiting, Philip."

He smiled. "No. I only just came."

"The flowers are lovely. Thank you."

"I was afraid Tommy might forget."

"He did."

"Forgive him. He's been running around like mad and getting things for this party. But he has to use his energy some way. Shall we go?"

The night was pleasantly warm. Over Manhattan's tallest buildings there was a mellow summer moon.

"People in Harriston are coming home from parties at this time," Karen said.

Philip turned his head. "That's the first time you have told me where you came from. You would not tell me the first night I met you. Is there a secret you wish to leave in Harriston — didn't bring with you?"

"There's a secret in Harriston."

They rode for quite some time without speaking. Of what or of whom was he thinking, she wondered. Of Lilyan, whom he would see soon? Of his play in which Brenda would again be the star?

But Philip was thinking of Karen, thinking her lovely, wondering if Tommy had mentioned Tappen to her, wondering if Tommy had kissed her, and of a secret that was not a secret in Harriston.

"It's odd how we ran into each other," he said at last. "But some of the nicest things that ever happen to us come about through coincidence. Most romances begin that way."

Philip was handed to steered the car and with the other lighted a cigarette. And in the light of the match she turned her head and looked at him the same instant he looked at her. Then he extended the cigarette lighter and they were in the dark again.

"You're young and very beautiful, Karen," Philip said. So beautiful that in an unguarded moment he had wanted terribly to kiss her. "What does love mean to you?"

After a while she said, looking ahead at the road, "Everything. It means more than being famous as an actress. I know that now." Thoughts never spoken before were said to Philip now because she loved him. "People in love make so many mistakes blindly. They don't mean to. They kill the very thing they're trying to keep alive. Sometimes you love a person -your imagination creates. Then some people let their love become commonplace. But love is like a flower that has taken years to cultivate. If you give it fresh earth and sunshine and water and let dandelion weeds choke it, it will live. But it needs attention." She did not dare look at him. "I suppose you are laughing at me again. A small town girl selling a famous playwright...."

"If you'll look at me, you'll see I'm not laughing." Philip said soberly. "You have nice thoughts, Karen. Keep them. Hold onto them."

"What does love mean to you?"

"I can't add anything to what you said. You made the words and the music."

You made the words and music . . . The tears sprang to her eyes, tears that he must not see . . .

Tommy's sumptuous house on Long Island was ablaze with lights. Cars were parged lights. Cars were parked in long lines in the driveway. More than a hundred guests sat around white tables on the grass terrace, glasses in hand, watching two servants light the fireworks behind the swimming pool. Inside in the hall a room an orchestra played softly.

Tommy, seeing Philip's green car, signaled to the men to stop the fireworks and hurried down the terrace to the car. Then his guests turned their attentions from the pool to the car and the two occupants.

"I thought you'd never come," Tommy said, thrusting his blond head inside the car.

He waited, Philip said, "You wouldn't know about that."

"Now we'll shoot off the works." He grinned at Karen. "Your nose does not need any powder but if you have to, it's in the right place in the right upstairs."

Between them she walked to the house and went inside, wondering why every one looked at her curiously, not realizing that to be seen with Tommy once was that traveled fast, and not knowing that Tommy's name had good reason to be curious about her.

She wished that she had not and that she out Philip might have ridden side by side in the car, on a little bench before a dressing table upon which many kinds of powder had been spilled, she felt an exquisite wave of happiness. Philip . . . For an instant, in the brief flame of a cigarette lighter, he had been conscious of her. For an instant his eyes had desired her. But he had put out the flame and they had been in darkness again.

Coming out, her lovely dress billowing in the breeze, she was conscious of the sudden hush of voices. Philip, conscious of it, too, went to her. There was something in the air he didn't like.

Tommy joined them and signaled to the men to start the fireworks display. Karen had never seen such a magnificent show. There was a roar and then yellow and red and blue lights burst into the sky and scattered, leaving an artificial star to descend slowly. In the pool the vivid colors were reflected. One after another was set off.

Standing beside Philip, Karen suddenly remembered Harriston with a smile. She remembered he had said that Uncle John had given her money and that she had hurried to the store for fireworks. She remembered how he and Aunt Hetty had laughed at her insistence on lighting her own sparklers and that once she had painfully burned her fingers. And now at twenty on a Long Island estate she was standing beside the man Aunt John had told her she would some day meet and love, and she was seeing a display that had cost more than all Harriston had spent tonight.

The orchestra played the national anthem and every one arose. Some one murmured, "Tommy's been saving this until last." Then the fuse was lighted and pictures of George Washington and the flag blazed into a broad canvas of red, white and blue lights. Every one applauded and stood until the last light died.

Thinks German Revival No Way To Meet Communist Menace

Dr. DAVE McINTOSH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax — (CP) — Where does a man like Otto Strasser fit in the east-west cold war?

Strasser, the former Nazi living in exile in Nova Scotia for five years, broke with Hitler in the early '30s and fled Germany. Now he wants to go back to lead a party that he calls "the last hope for Germany's Revival."

What kind of a revival? Perhaps this is a clue.

In a recent speech in the Annapolis Valley town of Kentville Strasser urged establishment of a German defence force of 100 divisions — nearly 2,000,000 men —to protect the western zones of Germany against what he termed an imminent Russian onslaught. He said Russia would attack western Europe in three months. (In July, 1947, Strasser told The Canadian Press Russia would attack Europe in seven months.)

A man who knows Europe well, Dr. George Adamkiewicz, was quick to take issue with Strasser. Dr. Adamkiewicz is a Pole, worked for five years for the Polish government in London and now is professor of political science at St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, N.S.

Time Well Chosen

In a letter to the editor of the weekly Antigonish Casket, he said:

The psychological moment for this (Strasser's) address was well chosen; we are all aware of the serious threat to world peace implicit in Russian expansionism, both in the west and the east.

"But the question to be asked at present is whether the remedy proposed by the speaker does not come desperately near what we mean when we speak of 'casting out the devil with the aid of Beelzebub.'

"The Strasser's suggestion for a defence force) would call for a military alliance with a rearmed Germany; that is to say, it would involve recognition, by the Western powers, of an independent, remilitarized and intrinsically nationalistic German State.

"The stage would thus be set for the reinstatement of that unholy union of nationalism, militarism and dictatorial government so symptomatic of Germany's power politics, whenever she felt herself in the saddle."

Dr. Adamkiewicz scoffs at Strasser's suggestion that the west could sit back and feel itself safe from Russian aggression behind the protecting wall of a strong German army. The story of modern Germany, the professor adds, "speaks quite a different language."

Dr. Adamkiewicz hints stronly that Strasser is using the east-west split to drive in the wedge of a remilitarized Germany. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor in Germany, has branded Strasser's league as "infamous."

But does the real danger lie in Strasser and his followers?

Older Nazis

Others believe Strasser is on the fringe, a talker who possesses no real authority but serves as a useful cover for Germans who would like to see Germany re-established on its 1940 pinnacle of power.

The infidential British magazine New Statesman and Nation, for instance, recently recalled that as late as 1930 Lord d'Abernon, British ambassador in Berlin, said the French attempt to have militarist formations in Germany disbanded was "almost insane." The New Statesman says it was from those militarist formations that the army sprang which almost conquered almost all of Europe.

The New Statesman, arguing that a remilitarized Germany is not the way to meet the Russian threat, says there are two causes for such alarm:

1. Nationalist groups organized in "clubs" and the like. Strasser and his like are fighting "the anti-nazism flares of neo-Nazism."

2. The unchanged pattern of

Jas. Musgrove Speaks to Assoc. At Q.V. School

The March meeting of the Queen Victoria Home and School Association was held on Thursday last, at the school, from 8 until 9.30. The parents visited the classroom where the teachers met them and showed the work of the pupils. The room mothers were also present to receive the visitors and assist the teachers.

At 8.30 the meeting was called to order in the auditorium with the President, Mrs. J. Layton, in charge, and she thanked the members for the splendid help in planning and carrying through the Valentine Party to such a successful conclusion.

Mrs. W. L. Langlois, who was responsible for the organization of the Fair, reviewed the events leading up to it, and thanked the teachers for their help and the conveners of the booths for their work. She also reviewed the work of each booth and the proceeds from them.

During the business part of the meeting, minutes were read and a motion passed that the Association proceed with the kitchen plans for the school.

Miss Walbridge introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. J. Musgrove, director of Vocational Guidance who gave very interesting talk, told his audience some of the aims and work of Vocational Guidance in the schools today. He told how the setting up of records for each child, which would follow his advance through school, and would be a great help in planning the pupil's future. "With the changing world it is necessary to bring new techniques into education. Train-Vocational Guidance directors should be able to do a great deal to assist the boys and girls to face the different conditions as they start out in their life work as well as straightening out difficulties through their school years," stated the speaker.

Mrs. Martin and her social committee with the Classroom Mothers acting as hostesses, served refreshments and a pleasant evening together was brought to a close.

MELROSE

26th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

Melrose — Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren entertained on Friday evening in honor of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren, who celebrated their 26th wedding anniversary on March 10th. Much regret was felt that Mr. McLaren, due to illness, was unable to be present.

Euchre was enjoyed for a part of the evening, prizes for which were won by Messrs. Arthur Eggleton, Leslie Carter, and Chetwerick, Mrs. Carman Milligan, Misses Marjorie Dryden, and Marion Blatherwick.

Following the distribution of prizes, Mrs. McLaren was given a central seat and an address was read by Mrs. Arthur English, and the presentation of a toothere lamp was made. The bride briefly thanked their friends and family for this expression of goodwill, and assured them the gift would be treasured, as would also the memory of the pleasant social evening spent together.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Carman Milligan, Mrs. Ed. Lasier and Miss Jean McLaren. A beautifully decorated anniversary cake was cut by the bride and served to the guests.

Miss Marion Blatherwick with Mrs. Chas. Bates as accompanist, rendered several vocal numbers and a jolly sing-song concluding with "Auld Lang Syne", brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

RAWDON

Ivanhoe Presents Three-Act Play At Carmel Ch.

Rawdon—On Friday evening last, Carmel United Church was filled to capacity when Ivanhoe presented "Aunt Tillie Goes to Town". This was a three act comedy with a hilarious setting and with a cast of eleven characters as follows—Tillie Frost, (Aunt Tillie), Mary Kerby; Twinda Talbot, (the maid), Helen Kerby; Francis Marsh, (her niece), Rita McAvoy; Lizzie Parsons, (novelist), Jean Haggerty; Ellen Neilist), Jean Haggerty; Ellen Neilist, (another Tillie), Shirley Douglas; Ronald Howland, (who always explains everything), James Donnan; Luther Lorimor, (wealthy secretary), Harry Lovejoy; Merwin Tucker, (who is in a pack of trouble), Donald Runnalls; Charlie One Lung (a Chinese cook), Carl Rollins; Mrs. Tillie Tucker, (Merwin's aunt), Agnes McAvoy; Dr. Hattie Bing, (a chiropractor), Mrs. Jos. Kerby.

Between acts Mrs. Reg. Haggerty contributed piano music and the Misses Agnes McAvoy, Reta McAvoy and Jean Haggerty sang a trio.

The Carmel ladies served an abundance of pie and sandwiches.

Opportunity Shop Operated By W.A. of Hospital Handles Clothing of all Decriptions

It is commonly said that, "opportunity knocks but once" but when it keeps on knocking, three times per week, twelve times per month, and one hundred and forty-four times per year, that is something yet again! Tucked away in the southwest corner of the inner market, is large, light, airy room known as "The Opportunity Shop", which is operated by voluntary labor of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

In this shop is to be found clothing for children, men and women; consisting of suits, dresses, blouses, skirts, fur jackets, top coats, hats, gloves, shoes, rubbers, goloshes, and mitts. All articles are spotlessly clean, many of them are new, donated by the local merchants, and are sold at a mere fraction of their original cost. Some goods are sent in on consignment at a 25 per cent profit for the consignee, but the preference is for the donated articles.

Exceptionally Good Garments

Among the children's splendid assortment of dresses, slips, separate skirts, and blouses were some exceptionally nice garments; one in particular being a dress which would fit a little girl about 13 years or younger. This dress was crocheted in dark, navy-blue, having a yellow silk under slip, with gloves to match, also crocheted. Two or three checked, silk-taffeta blouses drew the attention, one in particular, dark red, tiny check, with simulated pockets, in a vestee effect, buttoned down the front, and one in navy-blue check in the same design and pattern. These blouses were new, and priced around one dollar more or less.

Besides these there were other, not so new, but all desirable, and in many styles, fabrics and colors, which would fill a need without straining the already overstrained purse of some distracted mother when fall and winter days need new clothes at the same time. Another eye-catching bargain was a suit in black and white check for a girl around twelve years. This suit was of a fine, nice material, and in the prevailing style, and looking real 'chic'. There were teen-age coats in several styles, some full backed, some form-fitting, and some with fur collars, in different sizes, and all nice looking, having much wear in them, and selling at a surprisingly low figure.

Gloves of all Colors

Along the wall, upon the shevies are many gloves of many shades, wine, yellow, lime, brown, and all new, costume jewellery, earrings, brooches, and artificial flowers, and in glass case, near at hand, were some pieces of jewellery consisting of jewelled floral sprays suitable for coat lapels, rhinestone clips and earrings, imitation amber beds, and some pretty dress ornaments.

Higher up on top shelves were electric bouclet lamps with shettie shades, edged in mauve rushing with ornamental standards, some in glass and others in plastic. Here, too, were bric-a-brac in brass, copper and silver. A nickel-plated chaffing-dish with its spirit heating lamp; a group of three mixing bowls in flower-edged water glasses and colored vases.

A group of books came next, among whose titles were read: "Nancy Pembroke's Vacation in Canada", by Margaret Van Epps; "The Bible for Boys", by George Borrow, and one on "Ethics" by Dewey and Tufts; as well as children's toys and games and jig-saw puzzles and colored prints for framing.

In the private sitting-room some of the merchandise had over run the main shop and was neatly displayed on hangers. Here were mens summer suits and overcoats in various sizes, ranging from small to size 42, and priced from $4 to $13. Also a fine assortment of mens windbreakers and ladies top-coats in nice materials and good looking most of which were new; a rare opportunity for anyone desiring an inexpensive coat either for man or woman, for hard and rough wear.

Used-A-Purchase Equipment

The proceeds derived from the sale of this merchandise is devoted to the purchase of equipment and the refurnishing of rooms at the hospital, or for anything needed that will assist in bringing back to health those, who, of necessity, must become hospital patients. So far, the proceeds have been instrumental in the purchasing of three steam food tables, at a total cost of $1,200.

During the interview with the ladies on duty, it was particularly stressed that the clothing on sale at the "Opportunity Shop" was definitely not the rummage sale type, and goods of that type are not acceptable; but only those goods that are clean, not showing signs of wear, of good materials, and new, are preferable at the shop where "Opportunity" knocks every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 2.30 a.m. to 11; and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the southwest corner of the inner market.

Women's Institute

CHATTERTON WI.

The March meeting of the Chatterton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. B. Mills, with ten members and three visitors present.

The president opened the meeting. The topic for the month was "Canadian Industries" and the guest speaker, Mr. Montgomery, agricultural representative, of Bürling, who spoke on "How to Make Poultry Pay in Winter". Everyone benefited a great deal from the helpful information he gave.

"Another guest speaker was Mr. Wm. Detlor, who gave an interesting talk on his recent trip through the United States. This brought the meeting to the business part.

It was decided that $1.00 be paid for the life history book of the Women's Institute; also that five baby vests be bought to add to the baby layette which is ready to be sent to Europe; and that $10 be donated to the Red Cross drive.

Mrs. Mills received an interesting letter, from a pen pal in Germany.

The meeting was brought to a close and the hostess served refreshments.

Girl, 10, Gives Birth to Baby

Wilmington, Del., March 16—(AP) — A 10-year-old girl has given birth to a daughter at Wilmington Memorial Hospital, it was disclosed yesterday.

The child, born Sunday, weighed seven pounds and five ounces. Both mother and baby are doing well, the hospital said.

The hospital would not release the name of the mother, the doctor who attended her or any other details.

The girl was brought to the hospital from a state correctional institution for Negro girls. Records show that she was sent to the school last September.

The American Medical Association's records show the world's youngest mother to be Linda Medina, of Lima Peru, who had a boy by caesarean section in 1939 at the age of five years, seven months.

Youngest mother listed in the United States is the 11-year-old Mexican girl who had a boy by caesarean at Carson City, Mich., in 1941.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

When beauty sits alone and weeps

Timid, colorless little girls are not the only ones who are bypassed by the boys, never get a telephone call, never have dates. There are good-looking lassies who wear smart clothes, are debonair to the eye in every way, who are yet desperately lonely. Romance doesn't touch their lives. They wonder why. They don't know what to do about it.

There are numerous reasons why these girls do not attract the attention of the male humanoid—quality is there that creates an atmosphere of aloofness. The poor dear who sits on the side lines must ask herself questions and answer truthfully. Perhaps she will find out why she isn't good company, will be able to change her ideas, manners and behavior.

Is she cursed with self-consciousness for social fear? It is a dreadful drawback, often an inheritance from childhood days. It can be overcome by forgetting oneself, thinking of the other fellow. It is no trick to start a conversation with a man. All you have to say is "What have you been doing lately?" He will respond happily and willingly, to such an extent that you won't have to say anything other than "really, both . . . 'on cleven'!"

Man is never happier than when he is telling a girl what other fellow he is.

Some fellows are afraid of girls, or won't do to be too smarty with them. If a girl has a line of bright chatter, a boy may get that if is just too much effort to keep up with her. A sharp tongue puts a girl out of the social running. She must be amiable and responsive. Everyone loves the gay spirit. It's no fun being with a serious person when you are out for a good time. The girl who is critical is handicapped socially.

Woman likes to tell a girl what a swell fellow he is

It often happens that the lonely girl harbors the old-fashioned idea that man is, somehow or other, a superior creature. Nothing could be further. A lot of them never grow up, as many married women have found out to their surprise and astonishment. No reason why the female of the species should be awed by a member of the other sex! All of them are flattered and pleased by the attentions of a charming, good looking girl.

Never nag a man if he forgets to phone or is late for a date. That practice is fatal. You can't make a man like you by finding fault with him; that's a sure cause.

Friendliness, together with a natural, easy manner, is the factor that attracts friends of both sexes. You must be nice to people: you can't be nice unless you have the thoughts about them.

Inexpensive Cotton Frock

By ALICE ALDEN

VISITORS from abroad, especially on the dirndl side, just can't get over our exquisite American fashions, clothes sold at bargain-basement prices, but made with super finish and detail and line. Just take this trim Tallortown cotton, nice enough for any town or resort daytime wear, and yet priced so low. It is a one-piece woven bordered chambray with a wrinkle-resisting vertex. The dress is partly buttoned down the front, and has loose off-the-shoulder sleeves, and is available in delightful colors.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Self-consciousness can be overcome

There is nothing more painful with which to have to deal than with extreme self-consciousness.

The person who is afflicted with it is usually perfectly convinced that he or she is the only one who suffers in that particular way. Everywhere such people go, they imagine that everyone about them is happy and gay and having a good time, while they alone are miserably uncomfortable and unhappy.

To the girl who has just written me a long and despairing letter about what she calls her "abnormality"—meaning her self-consciousness—the first thing that I would like to say is that she is far from alone in her misery. A large part of my mail comes from men and women, girls and boys who have this same handicap to contend with, and who, as a result of it, are desperately lonely. "Everybody has friends but me" is the substance of what they tell me. "Why can't I make friends too?"

The answer to that, of course, is that anybody can make friends, and nobody need to be lonely, and that self-consciousness can be overcome at least to the extent of not being made continuously miserable by it.

The particular girl I have in mind at this moment, like everybody else who has her social difficulty, is completely unaware that she is only one among many. She says, "I envy everyone about me because they don't have this worry." If she could realize that it's not at all unlikely that some of the very people she sees every day at work have just as much trouble as she does trying to be friendly and at ease, it might be a start toward helping her overcome the difficulty.

Another thing she needs to realize is that self-consciousness, in its real meaning, is merely pre-occupation with one's self, putting one's self at the centre of all one's thinking. If she could get really interested in the people she sees, she would find all one's thinking. If she could get really interested in the people she sees, she would find the time what they were thinking, to get her and how she was appearing to them.

The chances are that this girl has always been too shy to find out what the people about her are interested in. Perhaps, too, she doesn't have enough interests and hobbies to be an interesting person herself. This is something that she can definitely remedy if she will make up her mind to take the trouble to do so.

Before I could make very specific suggestions on how she could overcome this extreme self-consciousness of hers I would have to know a lot more things about her. What does she like to do? How does she spend her leisure time? What sort of people does she feel at home with? What are her favorite sports and what sort of books does she like to read? Has she ever thought of taking up some sort of activity which would be helpful to other people who are perhaps even less happy than she is? One of the best ways in the world to forget yourself is to do something for somebody else.

I should like to send this girl a list of books from some of which she might be able to get a few good practical ideas on how to make herself an attractive person. She said she didn't want to put her name and address in her letter because she was afraid some one might see it. I can assure her that if she will let me know where and how I can send her a letter, her name and address will be kept in strictest confidence.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

When divorced mother sends birth announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been divorced for two months and next month I am going to have a baby. If I send out birth announcements, how should they be signed . . . with my name alone, or with my ex-husband's name also?

C. K.

Sign the birth announcements with your name only, your informal name, which is your signature: for example, Clara Brown Keeneman. However, under the circumstances, it might be better taste for you to write notes to your relatives and friends telling them of your baby's birth, the birthdate, and the name.

Greet Hostess First

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one arrives at a formal tea, given for a guest of honor, should one greet the guest of honor first, or the hostess first?

S. J.

Greet the hostess first (she will probably be standing first in the line anyway), and then the guest of honor.

Type of attire for groom's parents

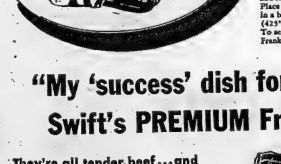
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our only son is to be married at an informal church wedding at four o'clock in the afternoon. (1) What should my husband and I wear? (2) What is the proper thing for me to say to the other guests?

R. L.

(1) You and your husband, the groom's parents, will be the guests of honor at the wedding. Therefore it is important that you wear the type of costume of your hostess, the bride's mother, wears; and that your husband should wear the type of attire the host, the bride's father, wears. So please get in touch with the bride's mother, by telephone or note, and ask her what she and her husband are to wear. Since it is to be an informal afternoon wedding, I imagine attire will be informal: for you, perhaps a street-length afternoon dress or three-piece ensemble, with harmonizing hat; and for your husband, perhaps, a dark (preferably dark-blue) business suit.

Signature — "Mrs. Mary Jones" never correct



Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When, if ever, is it correct for a wife, while her husband is living, to sign her name "Mrs. Mary Jones"; that is, to use her first name with "Mrs." before it? I maintain that it is never correct. But my friend says that this is the correct signature to legal papers or any similar occasion. Who is right?

W. E. M.

You are right. Socially, under no circumstances is it correct for a married woman (or a widow or a divorced) to use her first name after the title "Mrs." That is, socially a married woman should not use "Mrs. Mary Jones" either as a signature to any kind of letter or note or card, or as a form of name on her visiting-cards, for her charge accounts, or similar occasions.

There is only one exception: If she is a business or profession-

Fashion Flashes

ALL TYPES of pretty notions are available in the scarf and neckwear field. White nylon net is used for a pretty little scarf that has wide ends beautifully appliqued with flowers of white nylon sheer.

THE FLURRY of pleats marks many of this year's suits. A pretty suit of navy blue wool has its slim skirt flare-pleated all the way around, and the jacket has a pleated peplum that is slightly stiffened.

THE INTEREST this year is in fabrics that are new and practical as well as pretty. From California comes a white line of coats, sports classics such as shirtwaist dresses, street dresses, dinner suits and hostess gowns all fashioned of a new nylon crinkled taffeta which doesn't wrinkle and which washes and dries in less than an hour.

THE KANGAROO gives its name to an interesting new handbag idea. The bag is of black patent leather with an outside purse of red calf in an open pouch design attached to the bag by a chain.

TRIM AND TRIG little hats appear in virtually every important collection. Snugly fitted to the head and very deep to one side is a little cape made entirely of taupe satin leaves studded with tip pearl "dewdr ops".

A GOOD CHOICE for wear under a coat now, and on its own by with furs later, is a handsome suit of silk bengaline cut on softly tailored lines. The slim jacket, with wide, notched revers, has a triangular double-breasted closing and long flapped pockets at the hipline. Skirt is slim with side tucks.

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

Both Belleville hockey teams, the Diesels and the Rockets swing into important action on different fronts tonight. The Diesels, supported by a trainload of hometown fans go to Kingston via rail to battle the surprising Nylons of that city in their fourth game of the Senior B group finals while the rampaging Rockets confident after turning back the Kingston Barons two straight, will clash with that team in Memorial Arena here in an effort to sweep the series in three straight games.

And they should do just that. They turned back the Kingston threat in a brawling battle in Kingston in the first game and handed them a decisive 5-4 licking here on Monday and smashed them a decisive 9-4 licking here on Monday and smashed them a decisive 9-4 licking here on Monday and smashed them a decisive 9

Pirates Purchase Murry Dickson For $125,000

San Bernardino, Calif., March 16 (AP)—The strangest baseball deal of the winter might well prove to have been the one which could give Pittsburgh Pirates their first National League flag in 23 years.

The deal, a straight cash transaction now believed to have involved at least $125,000, brought Murry Dickson, a trim, little right-handed pitcher, to the Pirates from St. Louis Cardinals.

He will be strictly a starter for Billy Meyer and rounds out what could easily prove the best balanced staff in the league.

Three years ago, when he won 18 and lost six, Dickson had the best percentage of the circuit. Last year, carrying a relief burden, he slumped to 12-16. But there he stumped to 12-16. But there he is a better hurler than that record indicates.

With what he had last year, Meyer coaxed the Pirates from seventh up into fourth place at the finish of a hot race and was voted "manager of the year" in a poll of sports writers. This time with stronger pitching and catching and better outfield reserve strength, there is no real telling what Pittsburgh's wonder man might do.

The rest of the pitching staff is something to watch. Kirby Higbe and Hugh Casey are top-liners as Heffner and Meyer also has regulars Bob Chesnes, Vic Lombardi, Elmer Riddle, Rip Sewell, and Ernie Bonham. Bob Muncrief, obtained from Cleveland, may regain some of his old-time brilliance.

Obtained in Winter

Clyde McCullough, obtained in a winter deal which sent third-baseman Frankie Gustine to Chicago Cubs, bolsters the pitching. He and Ed Fitzgerald, second-year man from the Coast League, leave Meyer with no worries in that department.

The addition of Walt Judnich fro mCleveland lends depth to a capable corps of fielders which includes Ralph Kiner, hopper of 51 and 40 homers, respectively, in the last two seasons; Dixie Walker, Wally Westlake and Johnny Hopp.

Ted Roick and Danny Murtaugh, each a .290 clubber last year and sure-handed afield, are fixtures at short and second. Meyer hopes that Joe Bonham, who was with the club last season, can handle the third base job, but that is the club's sore spot right now.

Lee Fleming, the veteran Cleveland Indian, has come back from the minors again to battle Ed Stevens for the first-base post. He was a ball of fire last year with Indianapolis, hitting .321 and leading the American Association in runs batted-in. If both Stevens and Fleming should prove inadequate, there always is Johnny Hopp. Meyer is complacent about first.

"Heat" Applied To Couple World Boxing Champions

New York, March 16 (AP)—The "heat" was being applied to a couple of world boxing champions Tuesday —but in different fashions.

Lightweight king Ike Williams was taking regular heat treatments to help heal a strained muscle in his right shoulder. The ache was suffered Tuesday and forced a postponement of Williams' fight with Kid Gavilan this Friday to April 1.

The welterweight title holder, Ray (Sugar) Robinson, had the "heat" put on him by Commissioner Abe J. Greene of the National Boxing Association. Greene warned Sugar Ray to defend his 147-pound crown quickly or give it up.

The commissioner said the welter division is "stagnating" because of Robinson's inactivity in his own class. Robinson has been engaging in non-title clashes with middleweights and has another over-the weight contest scheduled for Chicago March 25, against Bobby Lee.

"If he's going to fight as a middleweight, he may as well resign the welterweight title," Greene declared.

Two-Year-Old Burns to Death 14 Homeless

Aylmer, Que., March 16 (CP)—Two-year-old Dennis Renaud died to death here in a fire which destroyed a two-storey frame house, leaving 14 persons homeless.

Cause of the fire is not yet known, but fire chief Fred Leon said he believes it may have started from an electric range in the kitchen.

At the time of the blaze Denna and his sisters, Beverley, three, and Colina, seven months, were in the kitchen of the dwelling. Their mother, Mrs. Gerard Renaud had gone next door to phone a grocery order. A fourth child, Geraldine, four, was playing outside.

Mrs. Renaud managed to get two of her children out of the blaze, but she was unable to find her two-year-old boy.

Firemen later found the body of the Renaud child at the head of the stairs. They said he had suffered only superficial burns and had apparently died of suffocation.

Chandler Must Make Appearance In Court Cases

New York, March 16 (AP) — Organized baseball argued Tuesday that injunctions restoring players now under suspension could not be ordered without the appearance in court of A. B. Chandler, commissioner of baseball.

Chandler is an "indispensable party" in the case, Mark F. Hughes, lawyer representing major league baseball clubs said but he has not been served.

John L. Flynn, New York lawyer representing two former St Louis Cardinal pitchers in their $2,500,000 suits against baseball for damages growing out of five-year suspensions, observed that the defence making the plaintiffs "must engage in a national hare and hound chase for Chandler."

These arguments came out in a two-hour hearing before Judge Edward A. Conger on a show-cause order seeking reinstatement of Max Lanier and Fred Martin, former St. Louis pitchers, pending settlement of their suits.

A similar hearing on behalf of Danny Gardella, former New York Giants outfielder also suing baseball for $300,000, was adjourned until March 23.

St. Louis Flyers Increase Chances Of Winning Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Louis Flyers increased their chances of winning the championship of the Western Division of the American Hockey League Tuesday night when they downed Hershey Bears 4-1 before 6,196 fans at St. Louis.

Their victory enabled the Flyers to increase their lead to three points over the idle Cleveland Barons and Indianapolis Capitals.

Arnie Kullman scored for the Bears late in the first period for the game's first tally, but Ernie Trigg of the Flyers put things back on an even keel with a goal a minute and a half later.

Gladu, Bill Gadsby and Hec Pozzo completed the Flyers' scoring. Gladu notched his goal in the second frame and the others in the final period.

In the other game of the night, New Haven Ramblers put on a five-goal scoring spree in the third period to defeat the luckless Washington Lions 8-4 in their final game of the season before 720 fans at Washington. The Lions finished last in the Eastern Division.

Sheldon Bloomer, Steve Hyrnak, Hugh Campbell, Fred Brown, Jean Paul Denis and Gino Rossini were the other marksmen for New Haven.

Harvey Fox, George Robertson, Paul Mundrick and Gino Rozzini tallied for Washington.

Cache of Bills Found In Ruins of Building

Hinton, W.Va., March 16 — Dr. J. A. Fox, 90-year-old retired physician, may have the last laugh on the city council.

The council was afraid he would let the charred ruins stand, marring the appearance of the business district, so it passed an ordinance directing him to clear the property.

The wrecking process turned up a glass jar. A $100 bill and a $50 bill showed through. Dr. Fox figures there may be as much as $3,000 inside but he is keeping the jar sealed until he can consult a lawyer.

The correct answer to any question may be absolutely wrong in reply to another. So is it in responding to opening bids. Words in response to one bids mean something different in reply to bids.

There was this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH	NORTH
♠ None	♠ A 9 7 4
♥ A Q 6	♥ 8 4 3 2
♦ A J 10 7 6 4 3	♦ 9 8
♣ A K J	♣ 7 5 4
NORTH
♠ A K 9 7 4
♥ 8 4 3 2
♦ 9 8
♣ 7 5 4

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 D	2 S
3 D	3 NT
4 NT	5 H
6 D	Pass

In reply to an opening of two in a suit, the first response is a special signal. Two no-trump shows lack of a sure trick. Anything else in immediate answer admits holding a sure trick.

Therefore, besides showing a biddable spade suit, north said he had a sure trick. Having noticing more that he could show, three no-trump by north was the way to say so.

In answer to four no-trump five hearts is conventional signal for showing an ace and one king. Having decided that their best trump suit would be diamonds, south went to slam in that suit.

When a 4-player bids four no-trump he makes three promises. He says (1) he has tricks enough to try for a slam, (2) knows what will be the trump suit, and (3) holds two aces and a king or better.

North has not admitted holding support for diamonds. But south does not need much help in his suit. And by denying another biddable suit, north admits that he must have one or more diamonds.

West led something other than a spade. Declarer has seven losers. He must keep the dummy ace and king of spades from drying up where they are. Is it worth the effort?

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 16 (AP)—Midweek medley: Some sidelights on the movie news:

The movie moguls are in a title tiff but. They seem to be running out of new and different names for their pictures, with the result that titles are beginning to sound the same. Greatest trend seems to be the use of "Story," as in "The Jolson Story." The following story titles have been announced:

The Western, Associated Press, Washington, Miami, Miami Beach, East Side, Fare East, Broadway, Ball Bond, Denver Mint, O'Dwyer Wool Polish, Big Stone and San Francisco.

Maybe someone can film the life of William Wetmore Story, United States poet and sculptor. Call it "The Story, Story," natch.

Notes and Stuff

The town is talking about the talent quest of Warner Brothers. In the last two weeks the studio has signed John Wayne, Randolph Scott, Kirk Douglas, John Garfield and Jimmy Cagney and is reportedly angling Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Burt Lancaster.

Hollywood is going square dance crazy. Film famous are do-si-do-ing all over town....

Paul Henried was moaning about the travails of being a producer in these pinched-money times. I suggested why sit be seeking backing, write a script and skip producing. "A good question" he answered. "But what about an actor finds a really worthwhile picture he wants to do only to find he can't get backing. I thought being a producer might help me find it." I'm still looking for another "Now Voyager."

Mayor McCallum 'The Candy Kid' Of Calgary Fans

Toronto, March 16 — (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto is "The Candy Kid" of Calgary, he was told Tuesday as he collected more of the cowboy outfit he'll wear to the Calgary Stampede this fall.

He was presented with a pair of fancy-tooled cowboy boots and a pair of spurs. He had previously been given a 10-gallon hat and cowboy shirt.

Mayor McCallum is the Candy Kid as far as the people of Calgary are concerned," said Horace Kilgour, president of the Canadian Restaurant Association, who made the presentation.

Mayor McCallum and Calgary started their friendship when the Calgary Stampeders came here last fall to win the Canadian football championship from Ottawa Rough Riders.

London Letter:
More 'People on Run' in London Than Ever Within Memory But Ways to Track Them Used

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 16 — (CP) — More men and women are "on the run" in London today than at any time within living memory. But their chances of remaining at large for more than a year are about 50 to 1, Scotland Yard officials say.

New techniques of tracking down wanted persons in thickly-populated areas are constantly being developed.

Operating all over London are "undercover" squads of plain-clothes men whose work is unknown even to the policeman on his beat, and who claim to be able to follow the man on the run wherever he goes.

Spectacular Captures

To prove it they have a long list of spectacular captures to their credit during the last six months.

An area in which the efforts of plain clothes men are particularly concentrated is the west central district with its numerous night clubs and foreign colonies.

Despite modern methods, the capture of criminal fugitives has been made more difficult of late because social conditions after a world war have made for a large increase in crime with a corresponding increase in violence.

But, say the plain clothes men, human nature changes little. The wanted man of 1949 reacts to his surroundings as does the wanted man of pre-war times. The same despair sets away his courage; the same frustration tears his nerves to shreds and drives him finally to that fatal step of confession when he has to "get it off his chest."

Finer Dragnet

Since the war the mesh of the police dragnet has been made finer and the chance of eventual escape from the hunters has been pared until it is almost non-existent. Two-way radio, telephotography, microphotography, high-speed planes and supercharged cars have all contributed to this result.

Police declare however long a fugitive may evade capture there comes a time when, his senses dulled by fear and inaction, he makes a false move.

REPULSIVE FISH

One of the smallest members of the cuttlefish genus, the squid's round, torpedo-like body ends in a bulbous head, with tentacles protruding from its neck similar to the octopus.

Curlers Awakening to Advantages Of Having Cash For You Guess What!

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

What price amateurism?

The Dominion Curling Association has a membership of about 65,000, including 200 from Newfoundland, and a bank balance of less than $1,000.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has a registration of slightly more than 60,000 and it's bank account (general account and trust fund) is—hold your bonnet—more than $117,000.

But the broom and ice boys are catching on to the money angle. They've upped the ante for membership 2½ times — from two bits to five cents a head per season. This inflationary trend has hit the clubs — the minimum affiliation fee (one man membership) has been raised from $10 to $25 and the maximum from $150 to $375.

Getting There

The curling big-wigs have taken another step. They noted the swing to commercialism in the game a couple of years ago — what with automobiles and computer spiels springing up in western Canada— and promptly framed a resolution "frowning" on such goings-on.

The D. C. A. men again during the Canadian championships in Vancouver next March and the recalcitrants who toss stones for cars and cash should watch out for another "Tch, tch, mustn't do it."

Tell Wats Dor

Curling has done it's bit for hockey. The payoff occurred this year when a community in Saskatchewan wanted a hockey arena and $11,000 of the necessary cash came from — you guessed it—a bonspiel. Not only that, it was a spiel for cash.

Silly, Isn't It?

That was a good move the National Hockey League governors made in Toronto last week by deciding the proposed schedule increase from 60 to 70 games.

Sports-page readers have a hectic time as it is there days trying to keep pace with the baseball boys dragging flies in Florida and the hockey fellows banging those low, whistling drives down the ice.

Then, of course, there's another thing: Folks who follow the hockey standings can tell the two weakest clubs in the six-team N. H. L. — that's what it amounts to in the final analysis — much earlier over a 60-game route. And this prompts the question:

Why is it that the first four teams bash each other's brains out for the Stanley Cup in best-of-seven series (the first and 3rd place clubs and the second and fourth tangle and the winners engaged in another four-of-seven bout for the cup) when there would be much less wear and tear if only the first two decided the issue?

Just a Rumor

Ken Yost of Winnipeg, track coach of Canada's 1948 Olympic track team, will get the same job with the Dominion's 1950 British Empire Games contingent in Auckland, N. Z. The "Yost for coach" lobbying started during the 1948 Olympics and, as an executive member of the Amateur Athletic Union's good running, it certainly didn't harm his chances.

Didn't Like Haircut So Shot the Barber

Glasgow, Ky., March 16 — (AP) — A barbershop customer who didn't like his haircut yesterday shot and seriously wounded Floyd Cook, 55, Glasgow barber, Sheriff B. Y. Spillman reported.

Spillman identified the accused man as J. M. Taylor, 30. The sheriff said Cook was shot three times, one shot penetrating a lung and grazing his body below the waist. At hospital, Cook's condition was termed serious.

Spillman said Taylor told officers he was dissatisfied with the haircut Cook gave him Monday afternoon. Taylor told the officials he brooded all night about the matter and finally decided to shoot Cook.

AT THE McCARTHY — "How egotistical can you be?" is the question in playwright John Payne's mind when he confronts producer Matt Saxon (Robert Montgomery) who has nearly succeeded in wrecking Payne's career and home life, in a scene from Universal-International's sophisticated film story "The Saxon Charm," co-starring Susan Hayward, and Audrey Totter, now at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL

Gene Stratton-Porter's "Michael O'Halleran"

Every now and then Hollywood finds in the great field of American literature some novel tailor-made for cinema telling.

Hollywood has done it again, this time bringing Gene Stratton-Porter's famed "Michael O'Halloran" to the screen, with Scotty Beckett and Allene Roberts in the starring roles, it opens Thursday at the Capitol theatre.

This Monogram drama combines all the elements of good motion picture entertainment — a heart-gripping story, pathos, comedy, suspense and tenderness. Director John Hawkins, alive to the rich possibilities for good screen fare which Mrs. Stratton-Porter injected into her book a generation ago, has brought in a picture heavy in popular appeal.

In the title role, Beckett contributes an outstanding performance; his portrayal of the news vendor is forceful, and he has a deep-rooted faculty of being able to draw laughs as well as tears from his audience.

Miss Roberts, a relative newcomer to pictures, splendidly justifies her selection as the young star to portray the crippled daughter of an habitually drunken mother.

The supporting players, including Tommy Cook, Isabel Jewell, Charles Arai and Jonathan Hale, are expertly cast, and each contributes importantly to the picture's entertaining qualities.

On the same program an action packed western "Flashing Guns"

Famous Cricket Great Now Sir

Melbourne, March 16 (CP)— "The Don" is now Sir Donald Bradman.

The famous cricket great, who was a terror of bowlers for more than 20 years, Tuesday received the knighthood from Governor-General William J. McKell in the Victoria State Parliament Building.

The little man who was cheered by thousands avid cricket fans in Sydney last December at a testimonial game for him following announcement of his retirement was knighted in the King's New Year's honors list.

During his years with the Australian eleven, Sir Donald broke almost every cricket record there was.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning at breakfast I said to ma, G, ma, do you realize how long it's been since you haven't made a demmon merrang pie? It's been a heck of a while, I said, and pop said, By dear, the boy has quite a brilliant idea there. It's practically an inspiration, he said.

It's all very easy for you 2 to trip the werds off your tongues like butterfly's wings, but I have a hizzy day staring me in the face, and there's a lot of werk connected with a demmon merrang pie, ma said. Do you realize how long it would take me, staring with mixing the dough, and finishing with whipping up the merrang? I simply haven't the time, she said.

My dear, when you speak of time, do you realize what a relative term it is? pop said; and ma said, I realize I awt to be on my way down town at this very second.

I can tell you a few facts that will make you feel you have pleanty of time, p. dear. I just read a very intristing article on the subject. Do you know how long ago this universe first started to form? he said, and ma said, I know all the clocks in the house are slow, which makes it werse.

About 3 billion years, that's the answer, pop said. Three billion years ago there was nuthing anywhere except radiation, although naturally there was plenty of that, he said, and ma said, Now William dont start off an an endless brook about nuthing.

It took ten million years for the elements alone to form from hydrogen to uranium, pop said, and ma said, All rite, all rite, now stop before my head is a pakas of wheels. I'll make the pie, she said.

Sure, ma, G, think of all the time you've got, compared to 3 billion years, it's a cinich, I said, and ma said, Now I warn you, I'll change my mind again if either one of you says another werd about time.

Scramble for Health Services In U.K. Develops as Expected, Ministry Says it is Exaggerated

By EDWIN SHANKE

London, March 18 — (AP) — Britons refer to the start of their sweeping experiment in socialized medicine as "the appointed day."

That was July 5, 1946. What has happened since? How is the program working?

The anticipated rush of patients developed. Waiting rooms were crowded. Hospitals were even more pressed for beds. Demands for free glasses, free dentures, free hearing-aids and even free wigs swamped medical men — and the manufacturers.

For the patient the golden day was at hand. The Ministry of Health underestimated the demand by millions of pounds.

Much Due to Hangover

Much of the scramble, a Health Ministry spokesman says, is a hangover from the pre-July 5 days — a lack of facilities which still will take years to overcome and an accumulation of medical needs which many people could not afford before.

After July 5 every man, woman and child had the right to ask a doctor for free treatment and free medicine — provided the doctor had contracted to work in the program. Anyone who insisted on private care had to pay for his medicines.

When a patient went to a doctor for the first time, he took a little white card from the post office. He was entered on the doctor's list as a public patient.

The card was sent to the local health executive council. One part of the card goes into the doctor's file for accounting purposes. The other portion goes into the patient's file and formed part of his "case history." In London, he became one of 3,049,000 registrees.

Call on the Doctor

Once registered, the patient just calls on the doctor whenever he feels he needs medical attention.

He doesn't have to worry how high the doctor's bill will be. He doesn't have to save for the coming baby. The doctor gets his 18 shillings annually for each patient on his list, no matter how often the patient calls.

The state does the bookkeeping. The doctor doesn't have to worry about bad risks. But his work — both professional and clerical — has mounted.

The ministry feels the present rush is exaggerated.

"Knowing that the scheme was coming into operation, many patients delayed going to the doctors and dentists until they could get free care," a spokesman says.

Trustees Ask For Compensation

Toronto, March 18 — (CP) — Hearing of a claim for compensation by five surviving trustees of the estate of the late John Ross Robertson, founder of the Toronto Evening Telegram, was resumed Tuesday by Mr. Justice G. A. Gale. The hearing had been adjourned Dec. 11.

The trustees — A. T. Chadwick, C. H. J. Snider, C. J. Knowles, D. S. Robertson and F. McTague — claim compensation for their work during the term of their trusteeship. A motion asking the court to decide the amount of compensation has been withdrawn temporarily.

L. L. Dewart, counsel for the trustees, said that of all nine men who had served as trustees since 1918, only Mr. Chadwick had received compensation, $500 a year as provided in the will.

He contended all five have been "extraordinarily successful" in their duties. Net probate value of the estate in 1918 was "just under $1,750,000," and when the newspaper was sold last year, it grossed the estate "approximately $3,750,000" or "more than double the 1918 value."

Sea Lamprey Creates Lake Huron Problem

Washington — (CP) — Sea lamprey attacks have contributed to the virtual "disappearance" of lake trout from the commercial catch in Lake Huron.

Dr. John Van Oosten, Ann Arbor, Mich., said in a report to Congress that the average annual United States yield in Lake Huron dropped from a pre-war average of 1,800,000 pounds to 12,300 in 1947 and 5,000 last year.

Dr. Van Oosten is chairman of the Great Lakes Sea Lamprey Committee, established in 1946 to co-ordinate the investigations of lake states, the province of Ontario and the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

The Lake Michigan catch of trout — the species preferred by sea lampreys — has "just begun to show a sharp progressive decline," he said. It averaged 5,000,000 pounds a year for 65 years, dropped to 4,000,000 in 1946, to 2,500,000 in 1947 and to 1,100,000 in 1948.

"The lamprey problem apparently is not acute in the United States waters of Lakes Ontario and Erie . . . No definite information is available for the Canadian waters. Lampreys invaded Lake Superior too recently to have created a problem there."

Inspection of United States catches showed three percent of fish scarred by lampreys in 1947;

Manitoba House Taking Own Time On Oleo Situation

(By The Canadian Press)

The Manitoba legislature intends to wait and see what happens in the margarine-versus-butter situation before expressing an opinion.

Margarine now is produced and sold in the province and the House has been considering whether it should take action to regulate its sale. Tuesday the question came to a vote.

The decision, with members divided 24 to 20, was that it would be premature to take a stand until the margarine situation across Canada had clarified.

A Saskatchewan proposal to seek amendment of the Veterans' Land Act brought an opposition opinion that the system of co-operative farming practised in some parts of the province will fail. Walter Tucker, leader of the Liberal opposition, said no groups in Canada had made a success of farming on that basis except Hutterite colonies in Manitoba and Alberta.

The proposed amendment would permit large agricultural holdings to be brought as units and resold to groups of veterans incorporated as co-operative farming associations.

The Alberta legislature passed a resolution condemning "those irresponsible" for charging maladministration in the province's welfare plan that already is underway with the charges for political purposes.

Ontario's budget debate, which started March 4, is expected to end today. With adoption of the budget, the way will be cleared for consideration of bills still remaining to be dealt with when the premier was asked about prorogation, said "considerable" legislation still had to be considered.

One government bill concerning municipal bonds was introduced in the New Brunswick house and petitions for 18 private bills were presented Tuesday. The house at Fredericton is in the second week of its current session.

BIGGEST OIL REFINERY

VIEW DIFFERENT

Halifax — (CP) — Two days before the 1917 Halifax explosion Nils Jonson sailed out of Halifax harbor. He was then a 15-year-old able seaman. Recently he returned, as captain of the freighter Ryvholm, for his first visit in 32 years.

GOOD HUNTING

Halifax — (CP) — Nova Scotia trappers received more than $189,000 from the sale of beaver pelts taken during the two-week open season last November, Forests Minister A. A. MacKenzie announced here.

SERVICE RECOGNIZED

Peterborough, Ont. — (CP) — A diploma of meritorious service in agriculture was presented to Tom Brown by the Exhibition Board here recently. Mr. Brown has been actively associated with the exhibition for 35 years.

OCEAN BLUE declares: "Once you've had a vacation, you're always on an ocean liner! Although I have a genuine love of the sea, I'm not going back to a primitive shower!" Tamblyn's agrees!

CANADIAN PACIFIC says: "Ocean liners, Montreal, Canadian National Steamships Lines, Montreal, and Cunard White Star Limited, Montreal, all operate on ocean liners. Although officials say plenty are built, it would pay you to put in your application."

SANATORIUM PER DIEM: "Three of us have been allocated one of the finest rooms in the sanatorium for the fashionable Bradley Season. What luxuries of towels, linens and other things would be made comfortable for 200 days?"

TAMBLYN'S: "Your room would be given each day a complete change of linens, towels, etc., and in the course of twelve and 10 rounds of round of golf, you would be given a bath towel, face towel and wash cloth. Your room would be made up with fresh linens."

FALSE ACCORD: "A three for any car takes the cake. Three wheels are all right for a tricycle. Three automobiles are not all right. Although I have a perfect right to own three cars, I have only two. Three automobiles are not only unnecessary, but they are unsafe. Three cars are a menace to the public safety and are not to be tolerated. Three cars are a menace to the public safety and are not to be tolerated. Three cars are a menace to the public safety and are not to be tolerated."

PLASTIC CONTROLLING: "Once and I drank a cup of tea. I had a cup of tea. I had a cup of tea. I had a cup of tea. I had a cup of tea. I had a cup of tea."

STEEL ELASTIC: "Is it true that Miss Jones is going to have a baby? I'm sure I don't know. I'm not a doctor."

VALUABLE BULL KILLED

Cortland, N.Y., March 18 (AP) —"MacDonald's High-Time," a seven-year-old Guernsey bull valued at $50,000, was killed in a fight with another bull on James MacDonald's farm here, MacDonald said Tuesday. The valuable bull's head apparently became entangled in a fence and another bull proceeded to gore the helpless animal to death.

MARKS FIVE SPIRIT

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 18—(AP)—Organization of a "Quintessence Club" at the University of Michigan was marked Tuesday night by a display of inter-racial cordiality. The social club of southern students was started by a group of white students, and now about half the membership is made up of Negro students from the southern states.

LOW INCOMES

It is estimated that before the war, one-third of the U. S. families had incomes under $1,000 a year.

HEAD HUNTING ABOUNDS

London, March 18 (Reuter)—Head hunting, once prevalent among natives of Borneo but later suppressed by British authorities, was aroused again at the outbreak of the war and several hundred Japanese lost their lives, the annual report of the colony of Sarawak, Borneo says. At the end of the Japanese occupation the custom subsided again, the report added.

Patient Search Continues for Airmen Who Vanished During the War

By DOUGLAS HOW

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 16 — (CP) — Nearly four years after the end of the Second World War, the bodies of roughly 4,000 have been recovered, from single graves all over Europe and parts of Asia and Africa, from the sea, from a rugged mountainside in the Pyrenees.

Of the other 6,000, says Wing Cmdr. W. R. Gunn, R.C.A.F. head of the casualty branch at R.C.A.F. headquarters, it has been estimated that between 2,500 and 4,000 were lost at sea — including most of the 225 reported missing in Canada — and will never be found. For the others the search will go on for years.

R.A.F. Now Has Task

The R.C.A.F., which once had as many as 100 men on this work, now has left the task to the R.A.F. teams which still roam Europe. There are Canadians at the Air Ministry in London to act as liaison with Ottawa.

The search has been an endless, patient, sometimes incredible task. Literally hundreds of the men have been identified by their dental records. Fingerprints have proved of little value.

Men are often found in village graves, tenderly cared for. Others are found simply covered with earth in a rough German grave. Some, the people tell the searchers, were betrayed or caught as they tried to make their way back to Britain through Germany or occupied Europe.

Others were washed ashore months or years after their deaths. In numerous cases, salvage crews have brought planes to the surface from the waters of bordering Europe.

Bodies Being Removed

Currently, the major task is that of removing the bodies to British and Canadian cemeteries. In the Allied Western European countries, the bodies are left in the local graves as long as the Imperial War Graves Commission guarantees they will get perpetual care.

Otherwise, like others all over Europe, they are moved to the official cemeteries.

In Europe, for once, the iron curtain does not prevail. The Russians allow the teams to search in the countries behind it. But there is in all this a rather profound commentary on the differing East-West views about the inherent values of the human individual.

The Russians have no equivalent of the endless British and American search.

The Actual Science of Prayer

The kind of prayer to which the Founder of Christianity referred when he said unequivocally: "Ask; and ye shall receive"—which accounts for his own great work and the overwhelming healing and liberating work of Christian Science today—is explained scientifically in the first chapter of the Christian Science textbook,

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures"

by Mary Baker Eddy

In eighteen chapters, this single volume gives the complete explanation of Christian Science. . . . . Price, $3.50

Mackenzie's Column: Blakeslee Says Russian Swing Farther to Right

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

One of the most logical minds I know is possessed by my colleague, Howard Blakeslee, science editor for the Associated Press.

Every once in a while he breaks away from his atomic theories and takes a critical view of world affairs, applying the same cold reasoning he devotes to his science. Frequently I get the gist of his analyses, generally in the form of a note or letter, delivered by messenger although Blakeslee's quarters are only a few steps from my desk. The latest is the following:

"Dear Sir:

"May I suggest that your column take time out to state the right and left of things?

"The Russians, for example, are farther to the right—politically and socially speaking—than any other great nation, and probably than any small country, even those with absolute potentates for governors.

"Russia is governed by a small aristocracy, the Communists. By the largest estimates these Russian Communists are not more than four per cent of the Russian people.

"They form a tight democracy —tighter than the traditional aristocracies that were based on inheritance.

"Their government is despotic. It is despotic as that of the traditional despots. Possibly the extreme rightists of the Russians is not surprising. For generations they were governed despotically by Czars. They haven't changed. They still have the same sort of extreme right government.

"By comparison, the United States, Britain, France, any great nation you can name, are far to the left."

Does it give you a shock to be told that what you have been calling "left" is really "right?"

The terms "left" and "right," as used politically, originated long ago in Europe. In many parliaments the designation of "right" was applied to the Conservatives and monarchists, the so-called Liberals, at on the other side of the officer, and so were termed the "left."

On this basis we see, as Blakeslee indicates, that the further we go to the right, the closer we come to despotism. The further we swing to the left the nearer we approach "democracy," which is rule by the majority. Bolshevism, which is the modern Russian version of Communism, which is rule by a small minority, although the term "Dictatorism" actually means majority.

Thus we arrive at the conclusion that the greater the restrictions placed upon the individual by government, the further we swing to the right and the further away we get from democracy. The greater our democracy the more we swing to the left.

And the moral of all this? Well, I should say it is to exercise care in employing the terms "left" and "right." The safest way is to be specific and say "democracy" or "absolutism."

CANADIAN HOMES RECOVERING QUICKLY

Home Owners Avail Themselves of Bank's Instalment Loan Plan

Buying for cash usually offers substantial savings. Many housewives are now consulting with their husbands and buying long-awaited and much-needed furniture, slip covers, curtains, drapes and labor-saving household appliances.

The Bank of Montreal's Personal Loan financing plan makes buying for cash quite simple. At a cost of only 2½ a month you can obtain a $100 loan, repayable over twelve months. This permits a very substantial saving. You can borrow less or more for shorter or longer periods; the cost is proportionately the same.

See Mr. Becker, manager, or Mr. Stanmers, accountant, of the Bank of Montreal. If you are in a position to repay, the B. of M. is glad to provide the necessary cash for brightening up your home or for a score of other useful purposes.—(Advt.)

Wm. Leslie Celebrates 50th Anniversary in Shoe Business

Popular Belleville Merchant Built Successful Career, Won Thousands Of Friends by Business Integrity

Early Part of His Career Was Spent as Shoe Clerk

A local shoemaker, repairman and retailer, John McKeown, operated a business across the street from Vermilyea and Son Shoe Store and he did shoe alterations and repairs for the latter store.

One day, in June, 1918, Mr. Wm. Leslie took a pair of shoes to Mr. McKeown to have the leather heels changed to rubber. When he went back for the shoes, he found the job not done and Mr. McKeown sitting beside his bench not feeling well. These men were great friends.

Bought Shoe Business

Mr. Leslie put one shoe on the last and began to change the heels himself when the shoemaker said, "Will, how about buying me out?"

The younger man was surprised but asked, "how much do you want?"

Mr. McKeown's immediate reply was so much for stock and fixtures. William Leslie thought for a minute and then the two men shook hands meaning "It's a deal."

The two men made the deal in almost as short a time as it takes to read this account. It should be mentioned here that throughout his life, all of Mr. Leslie's major decisions have been snap decisions.

Gave Notice

Mr. Leslie gave his notice to Mr. Vermilyea with a feeling of regret in leaving him after such a long and friendly relationship but he also had wanted to own his own business.

He and Mr. McKeown took stock recording every pair of shoes in the store in a five-cent scribbler which Mr. Leslie still has in his possession and prizes very highly. They closed the deal and the young shoe store proprietor took over without either one engaging the services of a legal adviser. Each man had great faith and confidence in the other's word and they made the deal which certainly is a model business transaction—rarely in business is such honesty and confidence displayed.

Re-arranged Stock

William Leslie worked hard cleaning and re-arranging the stock to his liking and filling in shelf after shelf with empty boxes in the small store to make it look greater.

When he opened his own business the whole store consisted of no more than two thirds of the present main store alone and his stock less than one tenth its present size.

His original staff consisted of Miss Annie Fargey (now Mrs. Geo. Watkin), Arthur Hall who for the past many years has operated his own general store at Latta and Allan Lennox, then a young student who worked after school and Saturdays. Mr. Lennox remained with Mr. Leslie for many years and is now manager of the local Neill's Shoe Store.

Business Kept Increasing

From his opening day, Mr. Leslie was successful and his business kept increasing in volume and his friends in numbers. He was always eager to make his customers feel at home, invited them to rest and meet their friends at the store and opened a rest room for women and children upstairs. He still enjoys nothing more than to see the public making themselves at home in his store.

In 1921, Arthur Hill joined the staff of Leslie's Shoe Store as salesman and bookkeeper and he has been Mr. Leslie's right hand man for these many years.

Mr. Hill is not only a first class bookkeeper but he is recognized as an authority in shoe fitting. He has been a most faithful employee and Mr. Leslie never hesitates to give Art a great deal of credit for his success.

Joined Masonic Lodge

On December 1st, 1921, Mr. Leslie joined the local Masonic Order, No. 123 A.F. and A.M. and since that time has been an active faithful brother in this great organization. He is in his element whenever he has the opportunity to attend lodge meetings and his keen interest has been felt as a great spark and inspiration to the Masons.

In 1923 when he had his new business fairly well established he built his own home on Hillcrest Avenue. He and Mrs. Leslie drew the plans and Mr. Leslie did much of the labor after business hours.

Manufacturers' Representative

When he opened his own store, he was keen to continue his business relationship with his wholesale customers and he was fortunate in being chosen as representative for a couple of reputable firms. He still represents them in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties and he has worked up a good business in this field. He enjoyed this work immensely not only because it is a change to get out on the road, but it is another opportunity to meet more friends.

Until he bought his own car which was later in life than when most men possess one, he hired his good friend Frank Herity of Moira and Milton Fargey of Roslin (both general store merchants) to drive him alternately spring and fall.

Were Great Friends

These three men were like brothers and their friendship unbreakable. When Mr. Herity (Frank as he was known to everyone) passed away a few years ago it was a severe shock to Mr. Leslie in losing such a long and close friend. His experiences travelling for these past many years make humorous and interesting stories—ones which he loves to relate and his friends love to hear.

WILLIAM MALCOLM LESLIE

Mishap in Barber Shop Gave Mr. Leslie Chance To Work in Shoe Store

William Malcolm Leslie, the youngest of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Leslie's eight children was born on the 26th day of March, 1900. He had to walk some two miles to school and every day he would eat his lunch while going to school and would have none left by noon.

This did not mean, however, that he had nothing to eat because his school friends, having sympathy for him sitting just watching them eat, would give him an apple or a sandwich so he certainly came out all right.

Injured in Accident

Unfortunately his school career was cut short at the age of seven and one half years when he was seriously injured in an accident which resulted in him being lame from that day onward.

Nursed by his mother under the supervision of the family doctor, he was an invalid for a long time. This period was not wasted, however, as his mother taught him reading, writing and arithmetic—the last came naturally to him and he has always been exceptionally good at mathematics. As soon as he was able he went back to school covering the two miles each way on crutches, but his condition could not stand this strain. He was forced to leave school when he passed from second book to junior third.

Worked on Farm

The following years were spent at home where he managed to do considerable work on the farm even on crutches. He enjoyed the life but he was well aware that he could not make a career of farming so he gave serious thought to his future. He decided he first and foremost wanted to work in a store and he hoped that one day his wishes would come true.

When he was about nineteen his oldest surviving sister (today) Edith, came home from the west a widow and she was keenly interested in Will's career. He mentioned something about business college and she immediately offered to go to Belleville, rent a home, keep house and pay Will's expenses if he wished to take a business course.

Came to City

He was—and to this day is very grateful to her (now Mrs. Donaldson) if they came to Belleville and rented a house on Church Street.

From the time of his accident until now William Leslie had been walking on crutches. When his sister Edith and he were moving to the city, they drove off in the buggy without his crutches and he has never used them since.

While he was attending Ontario Business College, Mr. Johnson was the principal and I. L. Moore, the present principal was there too.

He looks back on those days, the beginning of his career, with many a fond memory and he successfully completed the course ahead of schedule.

Took Up Bartering

On completing the O. B. C. course, Will could not find suitable employment. One day he asked his good friend Jim Skinner, the barber, if he knew of anyone who wanted a young salesman or bookkeeper. Mr. Skinner suggested he try the barber business and if he wished to learn it he could do so for thirty dollars—and in six weeks Mr. Skinner agreed to pay him one dollar a day. Will agreed to start the following Monday morning.

Although he found it hard standing all day, he was determined to become a good barber and did very well. Mr. Skinner supplied the "customers" who were given free hair cuts) and Will learned the trade at their expense.

Nearly Had Accident

One day when the young barber had not served long in his apprenticeship, Mr. Sid Vermilyea came in for his morning shave and it was Will's job to get him lathered up ready for Mr. Skinner. Will had difficulty in lowering the back of the chair and his superior, noticing it, being anxious to help his young apprentice and being anxious to Separate Children's Dept. And X-ray Machine Added

In keeping with the expansion of his business and in order to give better service to his customers while improving the display of his merchandise, Mr. Leslie has been re-modelling the interior of his store.

New fluorescent lighting has been installed throughout, which gives the store a much brighter appearance.

The main alteration is his new luggage department just inside the front door with a separate section on each side of the store for women's and men's baggage. This department displays the quality luggage Mr. Leslie carries and it affords the sales staff better facilities to demonstrate it. A good variety of trunks is displayed upstairs.

Seating Capacity for 45

With new birch chairs in walnut finish, and by re-arranging the seating plan, Mr. Leslie now has a good looking store with seating capacity for forty-five customers. At the same time he still has room for people to sit and wait while shopping—a service which he is proud to offer to his friends and customers. It is his sincere hope that they will continue to leave their parcels and make themselves at home.

The new store plan has a separate children's department at the back of the front store where the younger customers can be properly served. The "smoker" or men's room behind this where mostly rubber footwear and heavy staples are served is made larger to give more room and to accommodate the office.

X-ray Checks Fitting

To ensure that every pair of shoes is properly fitted, Mr. Leslie has the most modern and up-to-date X-ray machine he can buy. This machine's use is available to any one at anytime for the asking and he particularly requests mothers to have their children's feet checked regularly to make sure their shoes fit their growing feet properly.

William Leslie has clearly stated many times that he had no idea whatsoever of desiring an ultra-modern store because he wants his place of business to be homelike but he made these changes to give better service and to give the store an appearance in keeping with the merchandise it so proudly sells.

Illness Forces Cancellation Of 'At Home' Plans

It was originally planned to celebrate the special occasion of Mr. Leslie's Golden Anniversary in the shoe business by having an "At Home" tomorrow at the store. No merchandise would have been sold and Mr. Leslie's friends from far and near would have been invited to come and congratulate him personally at the store.

Preparations were made for the serving of refreshments and other details which would have made tomorrow perhaps the biggest day of Mr. Leslie's career but these plans had to be cancelled.

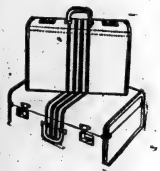
However, it is Mr. Leslie's sincerest hope, that in the near future, he will have the opportunity of meeting his friends at the store in an occasion such as that planned because he is so very much aware that his friends have made his career so successful in every way.

Exceptional Display Of Rare Old Footwear On View at Leslie's

Tomorrow or the next time you are down street be sure to see the exceptional exhibit of old-time shoes in Leslie's windows. If you have forgotten what the styles were like in 1845, Leslie's have thirty shoes dating from 1920 back over a century. This display, borrowed from the Museum of the United Shoe Machinery Company in Boston is the best one of its kind in America and there is no exhibit like it anywhere in Canada.

These shoes, which will be on display for anniversary week only are priceless in that they cannot be replaced. They are legitimate shoes and among the lot are styles of men's, women's and boys' and girls' footwear featuring pointed toes, Louis heels and high-laced and button boots. There is certainly a variety of leathers and colors as well as styles.

When one sees this display one will readily notice the similarity of today's styles compared with the ones of the "Good Old Days" and it is quite obvious that the style designers of this year have seen this display for their ideas.



Featured in the windows with the old shoes are the pieces of luggage which Leslie's will be giving to three lucky people. These three sets are of the newest and best in Canadian luggage made by the Big Three in Luggage today. Carsons, Langmuir and McBrine. You don't have to make a purchase to get a ticket on them—just make a call. To those who do buy something one ticket will be given for each dollar and portion of a dollar purchase in addition to the one free ticket. You might be lucky!

THE OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
BELLEVILLE

Mr. William C. Leslie,
Belleville, Ont.
Dear Sir:—

It is with genuine pleasure and sincere admiration that I note you are marking your fiftieth anniversary of business in Belleville.

A half-century of courteous dealings with a discerning public made, possible by outstanding business ability and a "square deal" policy, have marked your dealings with the public.

Your splendid business record was made easier to attain through a warm personality and a sincere desire to please your clientele at all times.

I offer you my sincere congratulations on your "Golden Birthday" in the shoe business, with the added hope that you long continue to enjoy the well-merited confidence placed in you, not only by the public at large, but your many business associates, and personal friends as a whole.

(Signed) D. L. STOREY, Mayor.

Pastor of Bridge St. Church Offers Congratulations on Behalf of Members

BRIDGE STREET CHURCH
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO
The Minister: Rev. Donald C. Amos, B.A., 100 Bridge Street East

Dear Mr. Leslie:—

With joy the members of Bridge Street United Church acknowledge the 50th anniversary of your participation in the shoe business, and offer their sincere congratulations.

Your qualities of Christian character are readily recognized by your business associates, employees and fellow citizens. Your hearty interest in people and your worthy support of many good causes continue to be a source of inspiration through the years. And we have experienced your faithfulness and good fellowship in the church week after week and year after year.

We gladly join the thousands in this city and district in paying tribute to you on the occasion, delighting to know that as a fellow-member and Elder of our congregation you merit the high esteem of your fellow citizens. We rejoice that Mrs. Leslie and your family are able to share in this happy Golden Anniversary.

With every good wish, I am

Yours cordially,

Donald Amos

President of Canadian Shoe Retailers Offers Congratulations

Saint John, N.B., March 16—William Leslie of Belleville is envied by every footwear merchant in Canada according to Joseph K. Kennedy, national president of the Canadian Shoe Retailers' Association.

"To complete fifty years of merchandising experience in any town or city with the marvellous standing which Mr. Leslie enjoys is a wonderful thing indeed," Mr. Kennedy said in a statement released today. "The shoe retailer does something more than exchange a product for money when he deals with his customers. His main concern is for the comfort, health and pleasure of those who rely on his judgment in proper and stylish footwear. Mr. Leslie and his store have been doing a fine job for the people of Belleville and district for two generations. The shoe trade recognizes him as a sound businessman, a fair dealer and therefore a good citizen of this great country."

The independent shoe retailer has a special place in the nation's business, Mr. Kennedy continued, one which the big city operator does not fill.

"In the metropolitan areas, the constantly changing public makes it increasingly difficult for the merchant to get to know his customers well," he said, "as an independent myself, I cherish the opportunity to know those I serve well enough to call them friends. Mr. Leslie has many friends. His shoe store has become as essential to his city's welfare as any of its public utilities. He has been a leader in that personalized merchandising which helps to keep us all more human, and which makes commerce as pleasant as it is vital."

Mr. Kennedy pointed out that Mr. Leslie had been one of the earliest supporters of his own national trade association which includes close to 1,500 shoe stores in every province and in Newfoundland.

Development of Rubber Footwear Has Shown Great Changes in Past 50 Years

Manufacturers Began to Improve Styles in 1910 to Create Demand

Some years previous to the birth of the Shoe & Leather Journal the Rubber Footwear Industry supplied the requirements of the Canadian trade, and was able to give the public fairly adequate foot protection, which was certainly a very vital necessity in those days when even in the larger urban areas dirt roads and side paths were practically the only foot travel for pedestrians.

Rubber footwear was originally manufactured in Canada by the Canadian Rubber Co., Montreal, Que., predecessors of the Dominion Rubber Co., Ltd., followed later by the Grandy Rubber Co., operated by the late F. H. S. Miner, an uncle of W. H. Miner, Miner Rubber Co., Ltd., and shortly afterwards the Gutta Percha and Rubber Co., Ltd., Toronto, and for several years these three companies serviced the trade.

Looking back and studying a catalogue dated 1898 one finds that men's and women's lasts were all along the line of needle or pointed toes and if the ladies wanted a stylish overshoe they had one choice only, a high cut, eight-button jersey cloth line, which apparently satisfied the feminine demands of that day.

Development of Style

It was not until the year 1910 that the industry began to branch out and attempt to dress up their line in order to appeal to the increasing demand for style, and from then on with more competitive conditions due to a number of new manufacturers entering the field, a continuous development of style innovation was preached to suit the demands of the buyers.

In the course of the industry's history some rather dramatic changes have occurred as a result of the style influence. Before 1921 nobody regarded the old buckle overshoe as having any style interest whatever, but in that year the flappers (as teenagers then were called) suddenly began asking for them and almost overnight they became a nation-wide craze. The girls wore them for the most part unbuckled, and that perhaps for the first time in history it was stylish to be down-right sloppy.

It was another seven years before anything as sensational happened again. In 1928 the carriage boot, which had been a long time an item of luxury, produced in a relatively small way by light footwear manufacturers, made its appearance in the line of one of the rubber factories and was an immediate hit. The demand far exceeded the supply at the outset and carried on in a big way for many years. Even today, of course, variations of the carriage boot are of prime importance in the women's lines.

Many Style Features

There have been many other style features of note. Rubber boots for women and girls have been in the limelight from time to time, sometimes when they were hard to get. Today many varieties of the winter boots, lined and unlined, including the casual type are popular with the younger set.

Another feature worth notice is the development of feather weight rubber footwear. This disappeared during the war when the output had to be limited to essential items, but is now revived and in this category is to be found some very smart merchandise which exemplifies, as well as any, the progress in manufacturing techniques and designing skill by the rubber industry. Much might be said, also, about the advances made in the rubber-soled canvas footwear department, where the style element, though it suffered a severe set-back, during the war has become more important than ever before. This, however, is too long a story to deal with in detail at this time.

Style has not always been an unmixed blessing. For a number of years the demands made on the industry for different styles and color combinations on standard lines, showed a tendency to get out of line, and many manufacturers found themselves with lines which had been added to their range that did not produce a volume sufficient to be attractive and furthermore unprofitable.

This method of merchandising caused in many instances a flood of obsoletes which not only caused a loss to the manufacturer, but also embarrassed the retailer and there seemed to be no end to what was considered a necessary demand.

In Wartime

At the outbreak of the last war a mild restrictive program was made effective, but when the Japanese entered the conflict, crude rubber supplies were cut off from all the rubber producing countries in the East except Ceylon, and the stock pile of rubber on this continent was all the U.S.A. and Canadian industry had to rely on. Fortunately for Canada, Mr. J. A. Martin was appointed rubber controller, and he saw the necessity of providing the public with rubber footwear, which was considered as an essential article to maintain health.

Under his wise guidance a very restricted program was adopted, and with a very minimum supply of crude rubber, footwear was made, in a large part, of reclaim and later when made available synthetic rubber. The program placed the industry in a difficult position and created problems which seemed insurmountable, but these problems to a large degree were overcome through co-operative effort of the industry's chemists, and rubber footwear manufacturers can look back with pride to the job they did in providing essential footwear practically 100 per cent of the country's requirements.

Since the end of the war due to the shortages of materials and chemical ingredients, the range of rubber footwear and canvas shoes is still limited to some extent, but this condition is rapidly changing, and there is no question in the industry will continue in the future to maintain the position it held before the war as leaders in style and design in competition with world manufacturers.

On the technical side of the picture, during the past fifty years there have been many improvements which cannot be explained in detail but the basic principle of making rubber shoes has not changed. They are still a hand made proposition, but simplification of cutting and fitting room practices in preparation for conveyor has made great strides and enables manufacturers to keep costs at a minimum.

Fifty years ago the curing or vulcanizing of a product was all done in open box heaters and was more or less uncertain, and it was not until the early twenties with the invention of pressure vulcanization that a uniform product could be assured. This new idea of vulcanization together with improved methods has greatly added to the wearing qualities of the rubber footwear.

"Smoker" Room For Men Added Store Service

Mr. Leslie gets a great pleasure from having his men customers and friends come out to the "Smoker" room, light up and discuss current events. He certainly enjoys this type of fellowship. He is pleased to hear that many a pound of tobacco has been smoked in this room during his recent illness when he hasn't been present to personally welcome his friends and hopes that he will soon be back to join with them in his favorite room.

Women's, Children's Rest Room Popular

One of the first things that Mr. Leslie did when he started in business was to open a rest room for women and children. He has always taken a great pride in keeping it neat and tidy. It has always been a great satisfaction for him to have so many of his customers and friends make use of this service. Mr. Leslie has made many changes in the store since his coming to it many years ago, but has never, nor will he ever do away with this rest room as he loves to have his old and new friends feel free to come and make themselves at home at his store.

Try-Out at Home Suggested For Proper Fitting

When you buy a pair of shoes it is a good idea to carry the new ones home and walk in them on the bare floor with the soles covered with a duster or socks. This is suggested because there is a big difference in the feeling of shoes between walking on a carpet, like in the shoe store, and on a hard surface. If when at home you are not entirely satisfied that your shoes are and will be comfortable, be sure to return them. Leslie's don't want you wearing uncomfortable shoes any more than you want to wear them.

PERTH SHOE CO.: From Perth come the famous ANSLEY WELT ties, the TANGO pump, FEATHER FLEX and DELDERS dress shoes. Each of these is tops in style, fit and quality.

PARIS MAID FOOTWEAR: Slippers for the whole family.

FOR TIRED FEET

When the feet are tired and it is necessary to keep going, put them under the bathtub tap and splash them with hot and cold water alternately for a few minutes. This will stimulate the circulation and give the feet temporary relief.

X-RAY AIDS FITTING

To be assured that new shoes fit properly, have the fitting checked by X-ray. This method is fool-proof and the buyer can see for himself.

SHOE TREES GOOD INVESTMENT

Shoe trees are a good investment. They are as necessary to shoes as a coat hanger to clothes and they both do precisely the same thing—keep the shoes and clothes in shape.

NO EARLY RIGHTS AND LEFTS

It wasn't until near the middle of the nineteenth century that shoes were made in right and lefts—both shoes were made the same until that time.

SIGNS FOR ATTENTION

Everyone wears shoes differently, some run them over, others club the toes, but the most obvious danger sign of foot trouble is wearing the soles or heels more on the inside—if this is so, the feet need expert attention at once.

PRESSURE CAUSES CORNS

The corn pad gives relief while being worn but to do away with the corn, eliminate the cause — pressure.

Manufacturing Methods Have Changed in Recent Years

The progress of the shoe industry in recent years has been marked by radical changes in manufacturing methods and noticeable improvements in machinery and working conditions.

The greatest change occurred in women's footwear where the cement, introduced in 1928, now accounts for about two-thirds of women's shoes, with a corresponding decrease in Turns and McKay-sewed shoes.

A recent development in the cement-shoe field is the "slip-lasted" or "California process" for making platform type shoes without the use of conventional lasting methods or equipment. This process is now familiar to all and is apparently here to stay. Its rapid growth from 1942 was stimulated by the popularity of open-toe and open-heel styles and its desirable economy in upper material and labor during a period of wartime shortages. Its efficient use is limited to platform styles and to open-toe and open-heel or other "skeletonized" upper patterns.

Quick-Setting Cement

The latest developments in the cement process are in the direction of stronger quicker-setting cements activated by heat or heated water vapor. These represent an improvement over the use of Pyroxlin cement and activation of the sole cement by application of solvent, since an adequate bond is sole cement by application of solvent, since an adequate bond is not yet ready for commercial use.

In the Goodyear Welt field, the outstanding event has been the introduction of the automatic toe-lasting machine. This machine, after many years of development and trial, will now, with the heel-seat lasting machine, make obsolete the "bed lasting" with its laborious operation and dependance on the skill and care of the operator for the production of good work. Similar machines for the lasting of toes with cement and with tacks for the use on cement, McKay and Lockstitch processes are in the development stage but not yet ready for commercial use.

Many improvements have also been made in the manufacture of all other shoe processes.

Style which has been the dominant factor in the sale of women's shoes, is becoming of increasing importance in men's shoes. This past year has seen more effort being spent on research to develop improved materials, methods and equipments.

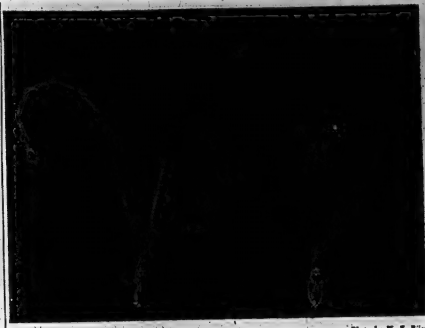
No discussion of the progress achieved in the shoe industry in recent years would be complete without a glance at the developments in style. The 25-year period from war to war produced the greatest activity in style creation that the trade has ever seen, but it was during the late thirties and early forties (before control) that it reached the peak of its intensity. Depression, like war, was a stimulant ingenuity and resourcefulness. The industry greatly needed increased pairage and to this end the utmost use was made of the style factor. Never, perhaps, was there such strenuous effort to promote sales by the development of things new and different.



Golden Anniversary Section, Gifts Will Be Presented Today

This special section is published as a complete surprise to Mr. Leslie and he will know nothing about it until this afternoon when his staff will visit him at home. They will present the letter and gifts, pictures of which may be seen on this page, to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie in a private and informal manner at his residence.

The gifts are a pair of golden shoes custom made for the occasion. Both shoes are identical—with the exception of the engraving on the soles —Mr. Leslie's being on a gold watch chain and Mrs. Leslie's on a gold necklace. Each has a small diamond on the front.

The letter being presented with the gold shoes was composed by the staff and beautifully written by the hand of Mr. Leslie's life-long friend, Frederick A. Ashley of Everett, Mass., who is well known in this district. Mr. Ashley is superintendent of public schools in Everett. The letter is mounted in a suitable gold frame.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hill had planned a staff dinner party at their home in honor of Mr. Leslie's golden anniversary and the presentation was to have been made there. However, as Mr. Leslie is confined to his home, the plans were of necessity changed.

Some of the innovations were more readily accepted than others.

It was in the women's branch of the industry, of course, that most of this activity took place. While the men's department had many features of interest, it is the women's fashions (and latterly, the teen-age girls') that reflect most vividly the changing trends in this historic quarter century.

GIVE SHOES A REST

It is a proven fact that for everyday shoes, two pairs worn alternately will outwear three pairs of the same shoe when each is worn steadily until worn out.

Corrective Shoes May Be Answer To Foot Comfort

If you are not enjoying the utmost in shoe comfort, you may not necessarily need corrective shoes or foot appliances. It is quite probable that the insertion of the proper metatarsal pad or other orthopedic supplies in the correct place will remedy your discomfort. Leslie's staff are highly trained in this science and they will be pleased to render this service at any time without charge. Please remember this service is free whether you buy shoes some from Leslie's or another store.

Leslie's Carry Wide Variety of Luggage

Buying a piece of luggage is a purchase which a person does not make very often but when it is done it is desirable to be able to chose from a wide variety. Leslie's carry in their new luggage departments the newest styles and and a wide variety of qualities made by Canada's three leading manufacturers: McKinlay, Langmuir and Hugh Carson. Leslie's are proud that they carry the largest and best stock of better luggage in this district.

Dear Mr. Leslie:
